The University

History and Goals

The names “Loyola” and “Marymount” have long been associated with Catholic higher education in countries around the globe. Saint Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus, the Jesuits, sanctioned the foundation of his order’s first school in 1548. The Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary have conducted educational institutions since their establishment in France by Father Jean Gailhac. These two traditions of education have come together in Los Angeles as Loyola Marymount University.

The present institution is the successor to the pioneer Catholic college and first institution of higher learning in Southern California. In 1865 the Vincentian Fathers inaugurated St. Vincent’s College for Boys in Los Angeles. When this school closed in 1911, members of the Society of Jesus opened the high school division in their newly founded Los Angeles College.

Rapid growth prompted the Jesuits to commence the collegiate department that same year, seek a new campus in 1917, and incorporate as Loyola College of Los Angeles in 1918. Relocating to the present Westchester campus in 1929, the school achieved university status one year later.

Graduate instruction began in 1920 with the foundation of a separate law school. The formation of the Graduate Division occurred in June 1950, though graduate work had formed an integral part of the Teacher Education Program during the preceding two years.

The Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary began teaching local young women in 1923. Ten years later they opened Marymount Junior College in Westwood which first granted the baccalaureate degree in 1948. The school later transferred classes to a new campus on the Palos Verdes Peninsula in 1960. Eight years later, Marymount College moved again, this time to the Westchester campus of Loyola University as an autonomous college. At this juncture, the Sisters of St. Joseph of Orange joined the Marymount Sisters as partners.

After five years of sharing faculties and facilities, Loyola University and Marymount College merged and formed Loyola Marymount University in July 1973. Through this union, the expanded school maintained the century-old mission of Catholic higher education in Los Angeles.

In articulating a vision for this unique collegiate enterprise, the Board of Trustees turned to the history of the four-century-old Jesuit educational philosophy as well as to the history and traditions of the Marymount and St. Joseph’s Sisters. They also recognized the riches of a variety of religious traditions represented among the dedicated faculty and staff that complemented and enhanced the school’s heritage of Catholic values.

The University pursues quality in:

- Participates Actively in the Life of the Larger Community
- Lives an Institutional Commitment to Roman Catholicism and the Judeo-Christian Tradition

University Mission Statement

Loyola Marymount University is dedicated to the education and development of the whole person, the pursuit of academic excellence, advancement of scholarship, the service of faith, and the promotion of justice. As a Catholic institution, the University takes its fundamental inspiration from the Jesuit and Marymount traditions of its founding religious orders. Loyola Marymount University seeks to foster in each member of its community respect for the dignity of the individual, a devotion to intellectual and spiritual life, an appreciation for diversity, and a thirst for justice in all endeavors. Loyola Marymount University strives to send forth “men and women for others,” to lead and to serve.

Therefore, the University pursues quality in:

Curricula of All Academic Programs

Instruction in all disciplines and courses is to be challenging, intellectually stimulating, and current, including discussion, conducted in an atmosphere of academic freedom, of the important moral and other value questions of contemporary society; students are to acquire skills, knowledge, and the ability to use their skills and knowledge creatively now and in the future.

The undergraduate core curriculum is to be structured, integrated, and centered on the humanities, especially philosophy and Catholic theology; students are to acquire the arts of precise and elegant expression, a sound and critical grasp of ideas, a familiarity with the modern world’s ways of knowing itself, a personal understanding of this nation’s history and multicultural heritage, and an appreciation of other cultures around the globe.

Concentrations in the liberal arts and sciences as well as in carefully selected pre-professional programs are to give students not only technical knowledge and expertise but also awareness of the larger human context which calls them to use their competencies for personal growth and service to others; similarly, the University’s commitment to graduate and professional education is aimed at the formation of men and women of competence and conscience.

Co-curricular Programs and Support Services

Other campus activities—resident life, clubs and organizations, recreational and sports programs, social events, counseling and health services—are to complement academic pursuits; students are to have opportunities, experiences, and responsibilities that will assist and guide their struggle to become fully human.

University life as a whole is to be open to the subtle presence and activity of God, God’s Word and Spirit; students are to find a campus environment, reinforced by specific programs, that nourishes faith and contemplation, seeks the integration of reason and faith, the religious and secular, and recognizes the implications of faith for right conduct and service.

All offices of the University—academic, student life, business, university relations, facilities management, campus ministry—are to be supportive of the University’s efforts to graduate intelligent, faith-filled men and women for others.

Faculty, Administration, and Staff

The University is to recruit faculty who are supportive of its mission and goals, well-educated, well-trained in their fields, diverse, and committed to excellence in the classroom, significant scholarship and contributions to their disciplines; the University is to assist individual faculty members with the challenge of combining in one life dedicated teaching, close relationships with students, collegiality, and scholarly activity and achievement.

The University is to recruit and develop administrators and staff, of diverse backgrounds, who are supportive of its missions and goals, skilled, dedicated to their work, and collegial.

Students are to find in all who labor on behalf of the University examples of generosity, service, and personal integrity.

Students

The University is to recruit and attract literate, capable students, as academically prepared as possible, who are comfortable with its mission and goals, eager to study and to participate in campus life, searching to discover and follow a worthwhile direction for their own lives; the mix of the student body—interests, special talents, geographic origin, socioeconomic class, and, particularly, ethnicity—is to be as varied as reasonable and possible, manifesting always the biblical option for the poor.

From admission to commencement, inside and outside the classroom, the University is to encourage and challenge students as individuals to liberate their own minds and hearts and to develop their God-given abilities for service to others and God’s greater glory.

The University is always to measure and judge its success with students by their lives as alumni—the quality of their personal lives, of their careers, of their influence and leadership, of their accomplishments.

Campus Life, Hospitality, and Service

All on campus—faculty, administration and staff, students—are to collaborate and share responsibility for the formation of an academic community based on mutual respect, friendship, and a shared commitment to the University's mission and goals; all are to expect from one another good work, disciplined behavior, and courtesy.

The University community is to be open and welcoming to others from off-campus who visit for intellectual stimulation and reflection, artistic events and programs, worship, or relaxation and recreation; those invited are to include, especially, alumni, parents and families, benefactors and friends, professional colleagues, neighbors, and church members, but also others whom the University can appropriately serve with its facilities, buildings, and grounds.

The University is to be known not only as an intellectual and cultural center which others can visit but also as one which sends its members—faculty, administration and staff, students—into the community to learn, to teach, to minister, to labor, to participate in and lead efforts to create a more rational, faith-filled, just society.

A complex of four buildings, the Burns Fine Arts Center was opened in 1984. In Hogan Hall and Lemon Hall are housed the primary studios of the Dance Program, studios, and classrooms utilized by the Department of Art and Art History, the Department of Music rehearsal rooms and classrooms, as well as the offices of faculty dedicated to the various Fine Arts disciplines. The two additional buildings located here are the Laband Art Gallery and Murphy Recital Hall.

The Jerome and Elvira Doolan Building, built in 1985, houses Computer Science and Engineering faculty, classrooms, and laboratories.

Foley Building, constructed in 1962, houses the Charles H. Strub Memorial Theatre, faculty offices, seminar rooms, and computer labs.

The Hilton Center for Business opened in the Fall of 1995. It houses classrooms, meeting rooms, lecture halls, faculty offices, Information Services, and a 350-seat auditorium in a spacious, technologically advanced facility.

The Frank R. Seaver Hall of Science, erected in 1962, houses the departments of Biology, Chemistry and Biochemistry and Physics and Engineering Physics. In addition to 22 undergraduate and research laboratories, the building contains faculty offices, seminar rooms, classrooms, and a computer lab.

St. Robert's Hall, erected in 1929, houses classrooms, the offices of the Dean of Communication and Fine Arts, the Office of the Registrar, and the Student Housing Office.

The Charles Von der Ahe Library, named for its principal donor, was constructed in 1959 and doubled in size in 1977.

Wil and Mary Jane Von der Ahe Communication Arts Building, completed in 1971, houses the Louis B. Mayer Motion Picture Theatre, faculty offices, film classrooms, conference room, color television studios, and motion picture sound stage.

North Hall and South Hall, located on the east side of the campus, house the Del Rey Theatre, the Natural Science program, classrooms, Science and Engineering labs, and faculty offices.

Pereira Hall, erected in 1955, houses the College of Science and Engineering Dean's offices, classrooms, faculty offices, computer labs, and engineering labs.

Research Annex, erected in 1970, houses faculty offices and labs for the College of Science and Engineering.

West Hall was erected in 1968 at the time of the Loyola Marymount affiliation. This structure houses classrooms and offices, including Environmental Health and Safety and Conference and Event Services.

Administrative

The Harry & Kathleen Daum Hall, on the east side of campus, was erected in 1998 and houses Facilities Planning, Emergency Medical Technicians, and Public Safety on the first floor. The Learning Resource Center is located on the second floor. The Tower and the Loyolan are on the second floor.

East Hall, the former Mail Distribution Center building, houses the Human Performance Lab, the Scene Shop, Event Operations, and storage for Operations and Maintenance.

Gracian Hall accommodates the Sinatra Opera Workshop, the PRESS program, the REU/RET program, and faculty offices for the Colleges of Communication and Fine Arts and Science and Engineering.

Malone Memorial Student Center, named in honor of the late Fr. Lorenzo M. Malone, S.J., former Vice President of the University, was completed in August 1958. Renovation and expansion of the Center was completed in August 1996. Located in the Center are the Vice President for Student Affairs, Department of Student Life, Associated Student offices, Campus Ministry Center, student dining, bookstore, Center for Service and Action, Student Development Services, and conference rooms.

Pereira Annex, located behind Pereira Hall, includes the Industrial Assessment Center and faculty offices for the College of Science and Engineering as its residents.

University Hall, opened in 2000, houses University Administration, classrooms, faculty administration, an auditorium, dining facilities, Campus Graphics, and the following staff departments: University Relations, Human Resources, LMU Extension, Career Development Services, Distribution Center, Information Services administrative offices, Controller's Office, Graduate Admissions, Center for the Study of Los Angeles, Marymount Center, the Doctoral Program for the School of Education, and Academic Grants Office.

West Hall Annex houses the Asian Business Center, the Irvine Grants office, Classroom Management, and faculty offices for the College of Communication and Fine Arts.

Xavier Hall, one of the first buildings constructed on this campus in the 1920s, is home to the Office of Financial Aid, Undergraduate Admissions, and the Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Residence Halls

Built in 2002, two apartment buildings, Leavey 4 and Leavey 5, house men and women.

Desmond Hall, erected in 1958, was named in honor of the Desmond family of Los Angeles, generous benefactors of the University. This residence hall accommodates women.

Doheny Hall was completed in 1986 and houses 120 women.

Hannon Apartments, erected in 1978, were named in honor of Eugenie B. Hannon. They house 282 upperclass students, and include the Hannon Recreation Center.

Huesman, erected in 1947, houses men and has a chapel.

The Jesuit Community Residence, built in 1999, accommodates the members of the Society of Jesus.

The Dorothy and Thomas E. Leavey Center, erected in 1968, is a women's residence hall and houses the Ignatian Center for Spirituality, a chapel, and the faculty/staff club.

McCarthy Hall, erected 1996, was the first residence hall built on the Leavey Campus. It accommodates 247 men and women. Named in honor of J. Thomas McCarthy, philanthropist and generous benefactor of the University.

McKay Hall, erected in 1968, accommodates men and women and contains a snack bar and recreational area. It has been named for Sr. M. Raymunde McKay, R.S.H.M., former President of Marymount College.

O'Malley Student Apartments, completed in Summer 2000, accommodates 164 men and women. It has been named in honor of former LMU president Fr. Thomas P. O'Malley, S.J.

Rains Hall, on the Leavey Campus, was built in 1997. Named in honor of Lilore Green Rains, a philanthropist and generous benefactor of the University, this building houses 300 men and women.

Rosecrans Hall, erected in 1962, was named in honor of William S. Rosecrans, for many years Chairman of the Board of Regents and a generous benefactor of the University. This residence hall accommodates men and women.

Sullivan, erected in 1947, houses women.

Tenderich Apartments, completed January 1971, accommodates 143 men and women in 39 units on campus.

Whelan Hall was completed in the Summer of 1965. It has been named for the Rev. Edward J. Whelan, S.J., President of Loyola University from 1942 to 1949. Whelan Hall accommodates men and women.

The Chapel

The Chapel of the Sacred Heart was completed in 1953. It has a seating capacity of 1,000. The tower of the Chapel, donated by the Board of Regents, has become a landmark of the campus.

Athletic Facilities

The Burns Recreation Center, completed in August 2000, holds a fitness center, multipurpose center, concession stand, two gyms and the recreation offices, plus the Student Health Center and Student Psychological Services.

The Albert Gersten Athletic Pavilion, dedicated in early 1982, expands the University's existing facilities to accommodate the intercollegiate athletic program, support facilities, Founder's Room, and Weight Room.

On Sullivan Field, adjacent to the Pavilion, are located other athletic facilities of the University. These include the swimming pool, tennis courts, Page Baseball Stadium, and soccer facilities.

Student-Managed Social and Recreation Facilities

The Bird Nest, adjacent to Loyola Apartments, offers a beautiful view of Marina del Rey, Santa Monica, and the Pacific Ocean. The Bird Nest sponsors and hosts a wide variety of events for the entertainment pleasure of the student body.

Hannon Loft, located in the heart of the Hannon Apartments, Tenderich Apartments, and McKay residence hall, provides the southern campus with an informal, comfortable location to host a variety of events. Hannon Loft was built in 1978 and renovated in 1994.

The McKay Snack Shop has much to offer the students of LMU. The snack bar has a great menu of snacks and drinks and a comfortable lounge in which to study, relax, and socialize.

Adjacent to St. Robert's Hall is St. Robert's Auditorium which plays host to hundreds of events and programs from educational conferences and panel discussions to dances, speakers, and concerts. The auditorium can accommodate up to 350 people.

The School of Law

Established in 1920, the School of Law is one of the oldest law schools in Southern California. The Law School campus is located in the Pico-Union district near downtown Los Angeles. Expansion of the Law School facilities began in 1980 under the direction of internationally acclaimed architect, Frank O. Gehry. The completed campus includes the William M. Rains Library, the Fritz B. Burns Academic Center, three lecture buildings, the Chapel of the Advocate, the Rev. Charles S. Casassa Building, the Albert H. Girardi Advocacy Center, and the Student Services Center.

University Services

University Services

Campus Ministry

Director: Fernando Moreno

Sacred Heart Chapel, which can easily be seen from any vantage point on campus, provides a strong symbol of the University's commitment to Christianity and the Catholic tradition. The Campus Ministry Center, situated in the most active and readily accessible part of the campus, is the location for many encounters with students, chaplains, faculty, staff, and all who choose to participate in the faith life of the University community.

In addition to the large number and variety of daily and weekend Eucharistic Liturgies, Campus Ministry provides a number of weekend retreats off campus, personal and religious counseling or spiritual guidance, and a wide variety of community service programs. Faculty and students serve as music ministers, lectors, Eucharistic ministers, and liturgy planners; there are also groups which meet regularly for theological reflection. The community service and justice ministry programs provide learning and practical experiences as well as career opportunities. These experiences are coordinated with the appropriate academic and student affairs departments as well as parishes and organizations off campus. Pastoral services for Jewish, Muslim, and students of all Christian faiths are also coordinated through Campus Ministry.

The Campus Ministry programs are all voluntary and yet are an integral part of the University's life. The chaplains have a visible and explicit responsibility for leadership, but the faith life and ministry on this campus is accomplished by many groups and individuals.

Center for Ignatian Spirituality

Director: Rev. Randy Roche, S.J.

The Center for Ignatian Spirituality exists to promote the integration of Ignatian spirituality with the life of the University. It serves as a resource for those seeking to develop a personal spirituality, one rooted in an ever-deepening commitment to the service of faith and the promotion of justice. For more than four-and-a-half centuries, Ignatian spirituality has stood radically open to the diverse ways in which God enters the history of individuals and groups.

The Center has four main goals:

- To develop programs that enable the faculty and staff to grow in knowledge and experience of Ignatian education and spirituality;
- To assist those members of the faculty and staff who desire to integrate Ignatian values more deeply into their professional and personal lives;
- To encourage and support faculty and staff members to assume leadership roles in these spiritual endeavors within their college, department, and division; and
- To serve as a resource for all members of the University community interested in Ignatian values.

The Center can be reached at (310) 258-8695.

Conference and Event Services

Director: TBA

The Department of Conference and Event Services consists of three offices located in two areas:

The Conferences component oversees all aspects related to on- and off-campus use of bookable space at LMU. This includes the Summer Conference program which accommodates thousands of off-campus guests during the summer months at LMU as well as all other non-class uses of space on campus. This office is located behind Doolan Hall and can be reached directly at (310) 338-2975.

LMU Event Services is comprised of the Event Operations and Event Scheduling offices.

Event Operations is responsible for the delivery, set-up, maintenance, and resetting of event equipment including tables, chairs, audio visual components, and podiums. Event Operations is located behind Doolan Hall and can be reached directly at (310) 338-7512. The Event Scheduling Office is responsible for managing space allocation and confirming event meeting space locations throughout most of the campus as well as the related meeting or special event equipment. Event Scheduling is located on the first floor of University Hall, Suite 1768 and can be reached directly at (310) 338-2878.

Marymount Institute for Faith, Culture, and the Arts

Director: Renée Harrangue

The Marymount Institute for Faith, Culture, and the Arts preserves the transformative educational tradition of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary and promotes a dialogue between faith and culture as expressed in fine, performing, literary, and communication arts.

The Institute strengthens the contributions of the Marymount tradition and legacy to the Loyola Marymount University community and the larger society. It does this by encouraging interdisciplinary and intercultural scholarly and artistic activity in the form of research and publication, exhibits, performances, conferences, seminars, and lectures.

The Marymount Center is located on the third floor of University Hall and may be reached at (310) 338-4570.

Food Services

Sodexo, the dining service of the LMU community, provides a program that strives to meet the nutritional needs of its student population. There are several dining areas on campus that offer flexible hours, in settings that complement and enhance the dining experience.

Call (310) 338-2977 for more information.

The Lair Marketplace

This dining location in Malone Student Center provides menu selections such as fresh fruits, soups, salad bar, made-to-order sandwiches, pastas, vegan-only items, hot meals, foods to go, and ice creams. Also available is a variety of fresh baked pastries for breakfast and dessert items throughout the day.

Students may receive free nutrition counseling by appointment.

This full-service coffee bar, located on Alumni Mall, offers cappuccino and blended mochas.

Hours of operation:
 Monday-Thursday: 7:30 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
 Friday: 7:30 a.m.-4:00 p.m.

Lion's Corner Café

This café offers an array of organic coffee drinks, as well as sandwiches and soups to go. The Lion's Corner Café is located on the first floor of University Hall.

Hours of operation:
 Monday-Thursday: 7:30 a.m.-9:00 p.m.
 Friday: 7:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

The Lion's Den

Located adjacent to the LMU Bookstore, the Lion's Den serves espresso, café latte, or coffee in a café-style setting. This facility is run by students.

Information Technology Services

LMU Information Technology Services (ITS) maintains the campus' voice and data communications network.

LMU-Net

Network (Ethernet) data connections are available in all residence halls and apartments on campus. LMU-Net provides students on campus with a broadband Internet (web browser) connection and access to LION student e-mail.

Student E-Mail

All registered students receive an LMU e-mail account. LMU student e-mail addresses follow the convention: loginname@lion.lmu.edu.

LMU student e-mail is accessible via any web browser. Visit the LMU website at <http://www.lmu.edu>. Click the link for "Student E-Mail" on the lower section of the page. Student e-mail can also be accessed at <http://lion.lmu.edu>. First-time users may look up their e-mail addresses by following the "First Time Users" link.

The LION e-mail account is used for official University communications, and thus it is very important that students check for messages.

Students who use an alternate e-mail account (i.e., Hotmail, Yahoo!, etc.) may choose to forward their LION messages there. Forwarded options may be accessed by logging into the LION system. E-mail forwarding instructions are available at the "E-Mail Instructions" link on <http://lion.lmu.edu>.

On-Campus Telephone Service

A telephone jack and active service is provided for each residence room. For additional information, please see the Resident In-Room Guide or visit <http://its.lmu.edu>.

Computer Labs

The St. Robert's Computing Lab, located in the St. Robert's basement, is a "hybrid" facility, equipped with both Mac and PC workstations.

The Von der Ahe Computing lab, located in the library basement, contains PC workstations. Students may contact the Lab Coordinator at (310) 338-4489 for more information.

Other computing labs on campus are designed to meet specific departmental academic functions. Students may contact the Director of Academic Computing and Instructional Technology at (310) 338-7537 for more information about these specialty labs.

Help Desk

The ITS Help Desk, located on the basement level of the Hilton Business Center, provides computing, network, and telecommunication support for LMU students. This office serves as a single point of contact for students requiring assistance on technology-related issues including network connectivity, e-mail, telephone, and voicemail.

The Help Desk is open Monday-Thursday from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. and Fridays, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Telephone: (310) 338-7777

E-mail: HelpDesk@lmu.edu.

Loyola Marymount University Children's Center

Director: Anita Velasquez

The Loyola Marymount University Children's Center was established to address the child care needs of the University community. The LMUCC is an on-site, employer-sponsored organization dedicated to quality care for children of all those who make up the LMU and greater Westchester communities. Care is made available for children of the faculty, staff, and students, with a limited number of spaces available to alumni, qualified on-campus employees of University service contractors, and neighborhood residents. In keeping with the Jesuit and Marymount traditions, we strive to meet the needs of the community of which we are a part by incorporating diversity into a values-centered curriculum.

The Center's early childhood professionals are committed to educating the whole child—socially, emotionally, physically, and intellectually—to set the stage for life-long learning. Based on developmentally appropriate practice, the curriculum focuses on play, creativity, and hands-on discovery learning for children 6 weeks to 11 years of age. Our intention is to be a model of quality Early Childhood Education programs for the communities we serve.

The LMUCC is open year-round, providing full- and part-time enrollment for infants through preschoolers. Our School-Age program provides after-school care for K-5th grades and a full-day Summer Camp.

Contact (310) 258-8900 for more information.

Public Safety

Director: Ray Hilyar

The Public Safety Office is located in Daum Hall and is open seven days a week, 24 hours a day. Lost and found is located here.

Public Safety may be contacted by phone at (310) 338-2893. In case of emergency, dial 222 from any on-campus phone.

University Bookstore

Books, sundry items, school spirit clothing, and gifts are available through the University Bookstore. The operating hours during the academic year are: Monday-Thursday, 7:45 a.m.-7:00 p.m.; Friday, 7:45 a.m.-5:00 p.m.; Saturday, 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.; and closed on Sundays.

The main campus store is located on the ground floor of the Malone Student Center. There is also an annex, selling snacks and gift items, located on the first floor of University Hall.

Shop 24 hours a day at <http://www.efollett.com>.

University Media

L.A. Miscellany

The University literary magazine is known as L.A. Miscellany. It affords a medium of literary expression for all departments and divisions of the University. It primarily features fiction and verse and is illustrated by student artists.

President's Report

This annual report highlights activities and accomplishments of the past year.

Vistas

Vistas magazine is one of the many ways Loyola Marymount University serves its alumni, current parents, friends, faculty, and staff. Published three times a year by the Department of Communications and Public Affairs Vistas features news and articles of interest to the LMU community.

University Organizations

LionsFund

Focused on providing a well-rounded educational experience, LionsFund supports our student-athletes' quest for excellence through scholarships and team support. Gifts to the LionsFund assist to provide the resources needed for LMU student-athletes to achieve the highest possible level of success both athletically and academically. Supporting each of LMU's 17 intercollegiate athletic teams, LionsFund is a vital part of the University's ability to compete at the NCAA Division I level.

The LionsFund Council is a volunteer council, helping to support LMU Athletics and student-athletes through annual advancement, fundraising, and direct outreach to increase support for the LionsFund. Donor benefits include special events, personal contact, and the opportunity to purchase priority seating for home Lions games. For additional information, please contact the Annual Support Office for Athletic Giving at (310) 338-2908 or by e-mailing golions@lmu.edu.

Loyola Marymount University Parents Association

The LMU Parents Association is an informal organization of all LMU parents. Under the leadership of the Parent Ambassador Council, the Association seeks to broaden the understanding of the educational philosophy and goals of the University, act as a liaison between the administration and parents to ensure the exchange of ideas and mutual concerns, and respond to the needs of the University. For additional information or to become a Parent Ambassador, please contact the Office of Parent Relations at (310) 338-7037.

Alumni Association

The Loyola Marymount Alumni Association is composed of more than 50,000 former students. The mission of the Association is to be the nucleus for sustaining lifelong relationships among and between students, alumni, and the University. By delivering quality programs and services, the Association challenges alumni to continue the LMU journey in their intellectual, social, professional, and spiritual lives. Programs which promote this mission include: Alumni for Others—LMU's signature alumni service program, President's Day—where alumni come back annually to take classes, the Grand Reunion, the annual Alumni BBQ, and regional events, all of which recapture the LMU experience for our alumni. Guiding our programs are dedicated volunteers comprising the Alumni Association Board of Directors, regional leaders, and student leaders.

Student Affairs

Student Affairs

The Division of Student Affairs is committed to providing those services and experiences which complement and enhance the educational mission and foster the total development of the student. The Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs is the central administrative office for the departments within the Division and is responsible for coordination and supervision within the Division. In addition, the Vice President assures that the student affairs program is supportive of the academic mission and goals of the University.

The Division of Student Affairs holds students as central to the Division's mission and values, which are consistent with the mission, goals, and objectives of the University. The goals of the Division of Student Affairs are:

- To promote innovative programs and events which develop an enlivened and engaged campus community.
- To instill in students the value of service and the promotion of justice.
- To guide students through a process of reflection, self-discovery, and character development.
- To promote the balanced development of body, mind, and spirit.
- To foster students' respect for each other in an intercultural community.
- To advance the University's recruitment and retention efforts.

These goals are implemented through services and programs which are provided by the following areas:

Athletics
 Campus Recreation
 Career Development Services
 Ethnic and Intercultural Services
 Judicial Affairs
 Office of the Vice President
 Student Affairs Deans' Office
 Student Health Services
 Student Housing
 Student Media
 Student Programs and Leadership
 Student Psychological Services

Student Programs and Services

Athletics

Loyola Marymount University participates in eight intercollegiate sports for men—basketball, baseball, crew, cross country, golf, soccer, tennis, and water polo—and nine intercollegiate sports for women—basketball, crew, cross country, soccer, softball, swimming, tennis, water polo, and volleyball. LMU is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I and competes in the West Coast Conference.

Career Development Services

Career Development Services provides students and alumni with the opportunity to develop and enhance essential transferable skills necessary for major and career exploration. Its purpose is to provide guidance and resources that allow exploration of self, foster critical decision-making skills, encourage service to others, provide experience for the development of lifetime goals, and ease the transition from school to the working world. These skills are developed through the following services:

Career and Graduate School Fairs
 Career Counseling
 Career Exploration Course (LIBA 250/251)
 Career Resource Library
 Educational Placement File
 Federal Work Study Jobs and Other Work Awards
 Internships
 Interest Inventories
 Job Search Assistance
 Mentoring Program
 Mock Interviews
 On-Campus Recruiting
 Part-Time, Seasonal Jobs, and Tutoring Network
 Personality Preference Assessment
 Resume Guidance

Medical Insurance

The University requires that all full-time undergraduate students who are not covered by personal medical insurance MUST BE covered by the University's Sickness Insurance Plan. If the student has adequate private sickness insurance, a waiver must be returned to the Controller's Office within the specified time. All students taking seven or more units are automatically covered for accident insurance. Forms for filling insurance claims for the University's Accident and Sickness Insurance Plan may be obtained from the Controller's Office. Claims must be filed within thirty days of disability. Students should be aware of the name of their insurance company and provider numbers. Coverage by the University's Insurance Plan is not a prerequisite for use of the Student Health Center.

Student Health Services

The Student Health Service (SHS) assists students in staying healthy by promoting healthy lifestyles and by providing medical care for common health problems. The staff includes a full-time physician, nurse practitioner, registered nurse, and x-ray technician.

The University may require immunizations and/or TB testing of incoming students. Students will be notified of the requirements by mail. Failure to fulfill the requirements may result in a hold applied to the student's registration and not being able to register.

Services offered by the Student Health Service include: treatment for minor illnesses and injuries, Pap smears and pelvics, dermatological care, pregnancy tests, lab work, X-rays, immunizations, and prescriptions. An orthopedic clinic is held weekly.

The service is free. There are charges for medication, lab work, X-rays, and some medical supplies. You do not need health insurance to use Student Health Services. The Student Health Service does not bill private insurance companies. This is the responsibility of the student. Copies of all charges are available for the SHS.

Occasionally, a student may need to see a specialist. In this case, the student may be referred to a specialist by the SHS or may select her/his own specialist. The student is responsible for transportation and medical costs.

All medical records are covered by the laws of confidentiality of the State of California.

Student Housing

LMU Student Housing provides a unique opportunity for participation in community living. Knowing that the physical and social environment affects the intellectual and social development of students, every effort is made to create communities which reflect the University's educational mission.

A Resident Director (RD) and Resident Advisors (RAs), under the supervision of an Area Coordinator for Residence Life (AC), are responsible for overseeing the living environment and developing programs in each housing facility. The staff is responsible for creating an atmosphere conducive to building community and promoting scholarship. They provide opportunities for students to become acquainted with one other and involved in campus activities. They also encourage students to take full advantage of cultural and intellectual opportunities within the University and in Los Angeles.

LMU is proud of its Resident Chaplain program. Resident Chaplains (RCs) are priests, sisters, and lay ministers who live in the residence halls and apartments with the students. They assist in creating a vibrant Christian community marked by mutual respect and social responsibility. Their primary role is to provide guidance on social, moral, and spiritual issues which students face daily.

Student Psychological Services

University life provides opportunities for students' growth and development as well as challenges to their well-being. Student Psychological Services (SPS), staffed by professional psychologists and counselors, provides confidential personal counseling to facilitate students' personal, social, intellectual, spiritual, and emotional development. SPS offers individual, couple, and group counseling plus workshops and educational programs on topics of interest to students. Services are available free of charge to regularly enrolled students.

Ethnic and Intercultural Services

Ethnic and Intercultural Services (EIS) assists the University in its commitment to support a diverse student body and enhance greater intercultural understanding. Through its five units—Asian Pacific Student Services, Chicano Latino Student Services, Office of Black Student Services, Academic Persistence Program, and Intercultural Affairs—EIS provides a variety of culturally sensitive services and programs. EIS also serves as a resource for the LMU community on issues of racial and ethnic diversity.

Academic Persistence Program

The Academic Persistence Program (APP) is a student-based outreach program that provides peer counseling and academic support for students of color. APP is designed to enhance student achievement through academic, interpersonal, social, and cultural experiences.

APP is committed to helping students of color excel in their first year of college. This commitment is actualized through programs and services that promote growth and development of the "whole person." Trained APP peer mentors, coordinators, and professional staff collaborate with the LMU community to provide educational, personal, and spiritual support. APP students develop clear academic and career goals, become leaders within LMU and their home communities, gain enhanced self-awareness, and acquire an enriched knowledge of their own culture as well as the cultures of others.

Asian Pacific Student Services

Asian Pacific Student Services (APSS) serves the needs of Asian Pacific American (APA) students. It strives to educate the campus about APA issues and the ethnic diversity represented within its community. APSS programs and services include an annual Cultural Welcome, a monthly Third Tuesday Series, Asian Pacific American Leadership Retreat, speakers, support for student groups, educational conferences, and community projects. APSS works closely with the Asian Pacific American community both on and off campus as well as the greater LMU community.

Chicano Latino Student Services

Chicano Latino Student Services (CLSS) provides culturally sensitive programs that foster and promote the academic and personal success of Latino/a students. In addition, it strives to educate the campus about Latino/a issues and the ethnic diversity represented within the community (i.e., Central and South America, Caribbean, and Mexico).

CLSS programs include Bienvenida Latina—the Latino Fall Welcome, Leadership Roundtable Meetings, Latino Leadership Retreat, Latin America’s Independences Days Celebration—Day of Pride!, Latino Spiritual Retreat, Middle/High School Visit to LMU, Latino Leadership Legacy Week, POWER TRIPS (i.e., museums, community resource centers, entertainment/theatre, restaurants, speakers, etc.), Dia de Reconocimiento (Latino graduation ceremonies), Latino Resource Handbook, and Weekly E-CLSS Newsletter, among others. CLSS also offers student advocacy, personal support, assistance for Latino/a student groups, and transitional/beyond LMU programming. CLSS programs and services also consider gender, class, religion/spirituality, bi-monolingual, generational, sexual orientation, and bi-racial/ethnic identities, among other factors.

Intercultural Affairs

Intercultural Affairs works with students and staff to create a learning environment that encourages greater awareness, understanding, and interaction among diverse groups. Its mission is to empower all members of the campus community as agents of social change committed to a vision of justice.

Intercultural Affairs sponsors/offers programs that include Spring Festival, an intercultural retreat, intercultural leadership training, speakers, educational forums, and intercultural conversations.

Office of Black Student Services

The Office of Black Student Services (OBSS) works to promote a positive campus environment that supports the academic and personal success of African American students. OBSS programs and services include an annual Fall Welcome, Student Retreat, Kente Graduation, Black History Month events, speakers, cultural enrichment programs, community activities, support for student groups, student advocacy, and personal support. OBSS also strives to build close ties with the local African American community.

Campus Recreation

The state-of-the-art Fritz B. Burns Recreation Center houses the Department of Campus Recreation. The department continually strives to meet the recreational needs of the LMU community.

The award-winning Burns Recreation Center is comprised of a 7,000 square foot weight room containing free weights, individual weight machines, treadmills, Lifecycles, StairMasters, and elliptical machines. The Main Gym accommodates two courts of basketball or volleyball, while the upstairs gym is a single court used for recreation or special events. Two multipurpose rooms are located upstairs and provide space for aerobics, kickboxing, yoga, spinning, and more. A new outdoor 50-meter pool is located steps from the men’s and women’s locker rooms. A games area is available for table tennis, pool, foosball, and video games. A variety of sports equipment, energy bars, and beverages are available for purchase at the conveniently located pro shop.

Intramural Sports provides a wide range of structured sports and activities such as flag football, volleyball, soccer, basketball, and more. The Intramural Sports philosophy is “play for fun,” and everyone is welcome to participate regardless of ability.

Fitness and Wellness Classes are available throughout the year. These programs allow individuals to drop in for an aerobics class, learn self defense in a kickboxing class, or stretch and relax with a yoga session. Nutritional seminars, weight training clinics, and advice from personal trainers are also available.

The Aquatics program provides a variety of opportunities including swimming laps, water aerobics and exercise, and a learn-to-swim program. Whether looking to improve your technique or just to swim some laps, the new 50-meter pool is the place to be.

The Club Sports program offers LMU students the chance to compete against club teams from other universities. Competitive Club Sport opportunities currently exist for Rugby, Men's Lacrosse, Women's Lacrosse, Men's Volleyball, Women's Volleyball, and Men's Soccer.

Campus Recreation is the place to come for all of your recreational needs.

The Center for Service and Action

The Center for Service and Action (CSA) seeks to educate and form men and women for others, especially with and for the disadvantaged and the oppressed. Through direct personal contact between students and the marginalized in service-learning experiences, CSA fosters a solidarity with the poor that will lead to intellectual inquiry, moral reflection, and social action.

CSA is directly responsible for the Service and Action House, the Service Organization Program, Special Games, El Espejo, Habitat for Humanity, Amnesty International, Alternative Break Programs, and the Community Relations Task Force.

The Center works with students and faculty to encourage and facilitate community-based learning integration into course curriculum.

Each year CSA recognizes the six most outstanding LMU undergraduate students who have excelled in their community service. These students each receive a $1,000 Riordan Community Service Award.

Through the generosity of the Marymount Institute, CSA also recognizes outstanding graduating seniors for their commitment to community service. These students receive the Arete Award.

Office for International Students and Scholars

The Office for International Students and Scholars (OISS) promotes the general interest of international education, mutual understanding, and cultural exchange through the administration of international programs and services designed to promote greater collaboration among the international and domestic communities.

The OISS provides vital immigration assistance to international students and faculty, both at the Westchester Campus and Loyola Law School. OISS provides assistance in matters related to maintaining non-immigrant status under LMU's international programs and complying with the regulations of the U.S. Department of Justice/Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) and the U.S. Department of State.

Moreover, the OISS acts as a resource for the international concerns of the University community through its contacts with embassies, consulates, and other international and U.S. government agencies.

Student Programs and Leadership

Student Programs and Leadership strives to enrich the learning environment for students seeking growth outside the classroom. The staff works with ASLMU, all co-curricular clubs and organizations, Commuter Students, the Greek Community, and Special Programs such as the Student Managers and Student Workers. Student Programs and Leadership offers assistance with programming and planning of events and special projects, as well as assistance and support in the formation of new organizations. The department also provides advocacy and support to students throughout their academic career.

Associated Students of Loyola Marymount University (ASLMU)

All regularly enrolled full-time undergraduate students are automatically members of the Associated Students of Loyola Marymount University. ASLMU, through the Student Senate, Executive Cabinet, and Judiciary, is the voice of the student body, speaking for students on issues such as allocation of funds for clubs and organizations, academic concerns, personnel matters, and other areas affecting student life. In addition to planning on-campus activities, such as speakers, concerts, movies, and dances, ASLMU also initiates service programs in the community. Services offered by ASLMU are supported by the student fee.

Magis Leadership Program

This leadership program encourages students to work toward mutual goals involving awareness and empowerment of the needs of individuals, groups and society. Each year, the program centers on a theme to guide the participants and encourage students to face a pressing social issue.

Student Organizations

As a student-centered, Catholic university, Loyola Marymount University recognizes the importance of clubs, programs, and services in fostering the educational mission of the University and offers a wide variety of each appealing to the needs of the student body. There are academic and professional clubs. Their primary objective is to further interest in professional development. In addition, LMU registers a number of honorary and social clubs. Membership in the honorary societies is by invitation and is based upon scholastic achievement and requirements of individual societies. Social clubs provide the student body with a variety of activities designed to complement the academic mission of the University. Some of these activities include philanthropic, cultural, social, and educational programs.

The following is a list of registered student clubs on campus. Note: The views or positions of a registered club does not necessarily reflect the position of Loyola Marymount University.

Student Campus Media

The Los Angeles Loyolan

The Los Angeles Loyolan, written and edited by students, is the official weekly newspaper of LMU. The Loyolan provides a forum for discussion of higher education and serves as an information source for the campus community. It affords students an opportunity for gaining practical journalism experience and provides them with a method for improving campus awareness. The Loyolan is a member of the American Collegiate Press Association and the National Collegiate Press Association.

KXLU/KLMU

KXLU Radio serves the Loyola Marymount campus and a large portion of the Los Angeles area with alternative, contemporary, classical, and fine arts programming.

KXLU-FM operates at a frequency of 88.9 MHz. The station, broadcasting in stereo, operates 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. KXLU-FM serves the varied needs of the community through a combination of musical programming. At the same time, the station strives to present informative and meaningful discussions and interviews.

KLMU-AM operates at a frequency of 840 KHz. The station, exclusively serving the LMU community, operates from 7:00 a.m. until 1:00 a.m.

The Tower

The Tower, a student-run publication, is the official yearbook for the University. Students are responsible for all aspects of production. The Tower strives to include all dimensions of the University community: faculty, staff, students, graduating seniors, sports, clubs and organizations, and activities. The Tower is a member of the American Collegiate Press Association and the National Collegiate Press Association.

Policies and Procedures

Standards of Conduct

Loyola Marymount University endeavors to facilitate each student's personal development and to foster self-awareness. LMU endeavors to provide experiences which will increase students' knowledge of both their potential and responsibilities, allow students the qualitative satisfaction which results from working with others in a cooperative manner, and facilitate an understanding that the implications of their actions are the essence of intelligent, moral decision making. This approach is in harmony with our goals as a Christian and Catholic institution.

These concepts are basic in the development of a student conduct code that aims to assist students in becoming aware of their responsibilities, rights, and obligations. It is understood that members of the University community will conduct themselves in a manner compatible with the educational and Catholic nature of the University. This demands not only demonstrating respect for the teaching, research, and administrative functions of the University but also exhibiting a respect and genuine concern for the health, safety, and rights of members of the University community and our visitors.

In the event that respect is lacking or obligations toward the University community are not met, the Code outlines procedures for hearings as well as appeals. These procedures ensure student rights are acknowledged and equity is maintained.

All LMU students are members of both the academic community of scholars and the social community of their fellow students. The Dean and faculty of a particular college have authority regarding all academic disciplinary matters. The Vice President for Student Affairs and designated administrators and judicial boards have full authority in all non-academic disciplinary matters.

The Student Code of Conduct is published in the LMU Student Handbook. All students are responsible for the contents of the Student Handbook, which is available in the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs.

Use of University Property

No person may use University property in a manner, or for a purpose, or under circumstances forbidden by any applicable public law, ordinance, regulation, or order, or tending to interfere materially with the efficient and orderly conduct of any University business or function.

In line with this directive, any person or persons, whether students or non-students, registered student organization or other student groups, shall be required to obtain a permit from the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs prior to any proposed march, demonstration, public meeting, etc.

Motor Vehicles

All motor vehicles used on campus must be registered. Registration is established during University registration at the opening of each term. The registered owner is responsible for displaying the University parking decal, affixed at the time of vehicle registration.

Legal Responsibility of the University

The University endeavors to safeguard students in the use of physical facilities, laboratories, athletic fields, and gymnasium, and to this end regulations concerning the use of such facilities have been established, but it is clearly understood that students who use the same do so entirely at their own risk. The University has no legal responsibility for injuries or other damages suffered by students on or off the campus, or in travel to and from school-related activities, or for any expense in connection therewith.

Admission

Financial Aid

Tuition and Fees

Admission

Loyola Marymount University welcomes applications from students who subscribe to the goals of the University and who are qualified to undertake its programs. The University makes selective and individual decisions, and the academic record is the primary consideration. Writing ability; accomplishments in academic, artistic, athletic, co-curricular, or work- or service-related endeavors; recommendations; national test scores; and relationship to the University are also given significant consideration. Each application is individually evaluated.

Candidates are considered for admission to either the Fall or Spring semester, provided ALL required documents have been received before the priority dates. The Fall priority date for freshmen applicants is February 1; transfer applications are due June 1; the Spring priority date for all applicants is December 1. Full consideration cannot be assured to applicants failing to meet these priority dates. A personal interview is not required, but individual Admissions counseling appointments are encouraged. Personal appointments and campus tours can be arranged through the Office of Admissions. Please call (310) 338-2750. The fax number is (310) 338-2797.

High School Subjects Recommended for Admission

The following high school course of study is recommended for admission into the University.

English	4 years
Foreign Language	3 years
Mathematics	3 years
Laboratory Science	2 years
Social Sciences	3 years
Academic Electives	1 year

Business students must complete a unit in each of the following: elementary algebra, geometry, and intermediate algebra/trigonometry. Engineering, computer science, mathematics, and science majors should complete four units of mathematics and one unit each of biology, chemistry, and physics.

Admission Procedure

The following procedures apply to all candidates. Transfer and international applicants should be sure to note specific additional requirements as stated below. Candidates seeking admission to Loyola Marymount University should:

1. File an application and submit a $45 non-refundable application fee or an appropriate fee waiver. Forms are available from the University's Admissions Office.
2. Request official transcripts to be sent from the last high school attended and from each college attended. Students currently enrolled in college should submit work in progress. Advanced Placement students must submit official AP test score results in order to receive college credit.
3. Arrange for SAT I or ACT scores to be sent to the Director of Admissions. Information about SAT I may be obtained from the College Board/Box 6200, Princeton, New Jersey 08541-6200. Information about ACT may be obtained from the American College Testing Program/ACT Records, P.O. Box 451, Iowa City, IA 52243.
4. Before school begins, entering freshmen are required to submit an official final high school transcript certifying the completion of secondary requirements and showing the high school graduation date. Transfer students are required to submit official transcripts for any courses completed since the application for admission was filed. Students failing to submit required transcripts will be prevented from registering for subsequent semesters until this requirement is satisfied.

Notification of Acceptance

Candidates will be evaluated for admission as soon as all of the required steps in the admission procedure have been completed. Notification of the candidate's eligibility for admission will be sent on a rolling basis. A final transcript is required as verification that all work in progress has been completed with a GPA equal to or greater than the student's overall grade point average at the time of acceptance. In the event that the final semester of work does not meet required criteria, acceptance may be rescinded.

Honors at Entrance

Honors at Entrance is awarded to first-time freshmen who show academic excellence as determined by their secondary school record, national test scores, letters of recommendation, and personal involvement in responsible positions of leadership. Special application is not required; all admitted applicants are considered. Students are notified in their acceptance letter. A certificate is sent to the student, and public acknowledgment is made at the student's high school graduation exercises.

Academic Scholars

Each year the Scholarship Committee carefully selects from among the Honors at Entrance candidates a small number of first-time freshmen whose achievement deserves additional recognition. These candidates are designated Academic Scholars and are awarded significant scholarships that are renewable and are not necessarily based upon financial need. Selection is based on outstanding GPA and SAT I/ACT scores, leadership potential, and school or community involvement. Academic Scholars are invited to apply to the University's Honors Program. In addition, those students awarded Academic Scholarships will be invited to participate in the Presidential Preview Weekend which offers a special opportunity to see the campus and to interview for the Presidential and Trustee Scholarships. (See the Financial Aid section for more information on these scholarships.)

Commitment Deposit

Accepted students intending to enroll are required to submit a $250 commitment deposit to secure their seat in the class.

The commitment deposit is held by the University but refunded to the student approximately one month after leaving the University either by withdrawal, dismissal, or graduation. The commitment may also be applied at the discretion of the University against any delinquent and unpaid debts. This deposit is payable from the student's own resources. It will neither be deducted from any financial aid awards nor billed as part of tuition and fees.

If the commitment deposit is not received within the stated time, the acceptance for admission may be canceled. Refund of the $250 commitment deposit will not be made to those who fail to register and attend classes.

Housing

First-time freshmen entering in the Fall term are guaranteed University housing provided their commitment deposit and housing request are received postmarked no later than May 1 for Fall admission.

Fall term transfer students and any student entering in the Spring term are not guaranteed housing. Instead, they are offered accommodations on a space-available basis. Their housing requests will be processed on a first-come, first-served basis as they make their commitment deposits and return all requested Housing information.

Admission of Transfer Students

Each semester the University considers students for transfer, provided they are in good standing and not under academic or disciplinary probation or suspension from the last school attended. Please see the paragraph on Admission Procedure for general admission requirements above. The priority date for transfer applications is June 1 for Fall semester and December 1 for Spring semester. Transfer students are considered for admission as follows:

Students who would have been acceptable for admission as freshmen to Loyola Marymount University at the time of their graduation from high school will be considered for transfer standing if they have at least a 2.75 cumulative average for all previous college work and at least a 2.75 average for the most recent college work attempted prior to admission.

Students who, for academic reasons, were not acceptable for admission as freshmen at the time of their graduation from high school will be considered for transfer standing if they have completed at least the equivalent of 30 semester hours of transferable college work with at least a 2.75 cumulative average and at least a 2.75 average for the most recent college work attempted prior to admission.

Admission of transfer students is selective and subject to available space and enrollment limitations. The minimum transfer GPA of 2.75 may not always be sufficient to secure admission. Likewise, certain majors require that some prerequisites be completed prior to transferring (see Business Administration, Transfer Credit).

Credit for work completed at institutions accredited by one of the six regional associations of the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities, other than course work identified by such institutions as remedial or in other ways as being nontransferable, will be accepted toward the satisfaction of baccalaureate degree and credential requirements at the University within limitations of residence requirements. Courses with grades below C (2.0) do not transfer. A maximum of 60 semester hours from two-year colleges are transferable to the degree program of the University.

Policies regarding transfer credit for a particular degree may vary slightly among the individual colleges, depending upon degree requirements. In general, courses having comparable content and class level with those in the LMU curriculum will transfer.

Admission of International Students

International students should follow the same admission procedures and priority dates outlined above.

Further, international students are cautioned to comply with the following additional guidelines to ensure compliance with immigration authorities and avoid delay in the processing of the applications:

1. Take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) given by the Educational Testing Service and arrange for scores to be sent to the Director of Admissions. Information about this test may be obtained by writing to: Test of English as a Foreign Language, P.O. Box 6151, Princeton, NJ 08541-6151. The University's minimum standard for undergraduate admission is 550, or 213 for the computer-based exam.
2. Submit a statement of financial responsibility for all obligations covering the full period of time for which the student is making application.
3. Submit official transcripts of previous academic training. Documents must be sent from the originating sources directly to the Admissions Office and must cover all secondary schools attended and, if college study was attempted, all colleges and universities attended. Documents should include results of standard examinations administered by government or certifying agencies.
4. Transcripts from non-U.S. institutions must be submitted to an LMU-approved credential evaluation agency for translation into English and/or for evaluation of U.S. equivalent course work and corresponding grade.

It is the responsibility of the student to submit all foreign transcripts to an evaluating agency. Information on such agencies may be obtained by calling the Office of Admissions.

Foreign transcripts submitted without the appropriate evaluations will not be considered eligible for transfer credit to LMU.

5. International Students attending a high school, college, or university in the United States must submit a Transfer Verification Form that will be sent to them by the Office of Admissions.

6. The United States Department of Justice Immigration and Naturalization Form (I-20) will be sent after the $250 non-refundable Commitment Deposit has been received by the Office of Admissions.

Photostatic copies are acceptable only if they are notarized as true copies and bear the original seal of the notarizing authority. All documents submitted for admission become property of the University and will not be returned.

Medical Examination and Insurance

All students entering the University for the first time or re-entering the University after an absence of one year are required to return a completed Student Health Immunization Form to the Student Health Service. Immunizations must be current and documented. Students with incomplete forms will have their registration withheld for the following semester until immunization information is provided.

The Student Health Service does not fill out private insurance forms. However, copies of charges will be given to the students upon written request.

The University requires that all full-time undergraduate students who are not covered by personal medical insurance MUST BE covered by the University's Sickness Insurance Plan. If the student has adequate private sickness insurance, a waiver must be returned to the Controller's Office within the specified time. All students taking seven or more units are automatically covered for accident insurance. Information about filing insurance claims for the University's Accident and Sickness Insurance Plan may be obtained in the Student Health Service Office. Claims must be filed within thirty days of disability. Students should be aware of the name of their insurance company and provider numbers. Coverage by the University's Insurance Plan is not a prerequisite for the use of the Health Center.

Medical Examination for Intercollegiate Student-Athletes

New and returning students planning to participate in intercollegiate sports are required to submit a completed LMU Athletics Department Medical Clearance Form, signed by their private physician, to the Assistant to the Athletics Director prior to their participation in conditioning, practice, and/or competition.

Non-Degree Students

Students wishing to take courses at the University on a non-degree basis must file an application with the Office of Admissions in accordance with regularly stated deadlines. Proof of eligibility to study at the University will be required, including transcripts or other appropriate documents.

Non-degree students will be allowed to study for a period of no more than three semesters or a total of 18 semester hours, whichever occurs first.

Accelerated Degree Options

Advanced Credit

The University offers high school students opportunities to earn advanced credit by enrolling in courses at LMU. For these on-campus courses, high school students must have completed the 11th grade; must rank in the top 10% of their class and carry a B (3.0) or greater average in all academic subjects; and must have earned a B+ (3.3) or better in the subject area of the Advanced Credit course. The special Advanced Credit application is available from the Office of Admissions. This form must be signed by the student's counselor and be supported with an official high school transcript, including PSAT, PACT, SAT I, or ACT scores. Advanced Credit courses carry a special tuition of $50 per semester hour. Students are limited to two Advanced Credit courses per semester.

Advanced Placement

LMU participates in the Advanced Placement Program of the College Board. Students may be granted credit at the time of entrance into the University for subjects in which they have completed the AP examinations with scores of 5 or 4. When official scores have been received from the College Board, applicants will be notified of the advanced placement and course credit in accordance with the following table. Note that an essay is required for all examinations offering optional essays.

Financial Aid

The Financial Aid Office assists those students who require financial aid to pursue their higher education at Loyola Marymount University. Financial Aid is awarded in the form of grants, scholarships and loans. To be eligible for federal, state, or LMU financial aid programs awarded by this office, students must be citizens or eligible non-citizens enrolled in at least 6 semester hours in an eligible program. Qualified students must not be in default or owe a refund to any federal program.

Some financial aid programs are available for certain study abroad programs. Students should contact the Financial Aid Office to determine if their financial aid can be used to study abroad.

Counseling and information are available to students, prospective students, and parents on a walk-in or appointment basis. Information and application forms are available in the Financial Aid Office.

Office Hours

Monday through Friday
 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Rights and Responsibilities

Financial Aid and Enrollment: All financial aid programs assume the student will enroll full-time in coursework at LMU and will maintain satisfactory academic progress. Student aid applicants who will enroll in fewer than 12 semester hours should notify the Financial Aid Office. Undergraduates are eligible for aid from federal funds if they are enrolled in at least 6 semester hours. Students who will enroll in fewer than 6 semester hours are not eligible for most types of financial aid.

Refund Calculations: When students receiving financial aid are eligible for a refund or a cancellation of LMU charges, their financial aid funding will also be adjusted. The financial aid officer will calculate the adjustment and notify the Controller's Office/Student Accounts. Any resulting refund, due to a federal financial aid program, will be made by LMU for the student. Any resulting charge will be added to the student's account. Specific information is available from the Financial Aid Office.

Satisfactory Progress Standards and Financial Aid

Probation: Financial Aid probation is more rigorous than academic probation, which is described later in the section on "Academic Policies."

Undergraduate Students receiving financial aid must:

Complete the required number of units as outlined below.

Minimum Units that Must Be Completed If:

Term	Full-Time	3/4 Time	1/2 Time
Fall Semester	12	9	6
Spring Semester	12	9	6
Summer Sessions (Combined)	6	4	3

For financial aid purposes, the grades of F, NC, AU, and W will not be counted toward meeting the minimum term hours requirement. Grades of A, B, C, D, and CR will be counted. Grades of I or NR temporarily will not be counted until the final grade is posted. Hours for repeat coursework do not count towards the minimum semester hours required for satisfactory progress.

NOTE: All LMU-funded sources of financial aid as well as California state grants are available for a maximum of eight semesters if all other eligibility requirements are met. Please refer to the Academic Degree Requirements and Policies section of this Bulletin for information on the recommended course load required to complete degree requirements in eight semesters (4 years).

All undergraduate students must also maintain a semester and cumulative grade point average of 2.0.

If a student repeats a course, the course is counted only once, both in the computation of total hours completed and in the cumulative GPA. In this case, the most recent grade received is the one used to determine the student's status. In determining the cumulative grade point average, only courses completed at Loyola Marymount will be considered.

Students failing to meet the above conditions (completion of minimum term hours and minimum term and cumulative grade point average) are placed on Financial Aid Probation and given two terms from the beginning of the subsequent semester to rectify the deficiency. Students failing to do so are not eligible to receive financial aid.

Appeals Procedure: The University has established an appeals procedure to insure equitable treatment of all financial aid applicants and recipients. Appeals forms are available in the Financial Aid Office.

Any fraudulent use of financial aid funds is cause for immediate suspension or dismissal, as well as discontinuance of future financial aid. This includes, but is not limited to, fraudulent statements on Financial Aid Forms, inaccurate tax returns, and Student Time Cards for both hours worked and signatures obtained.

Applying for Financial Assistance

Consideration for financial aid begins when the student is admitted to the University. Thus, a student applying for financial aid should also apply for admission and financial aid at the same time.

To apply for financial assistance, it is necessary to file the following forms and information:

New freshmen, transfer students, and continuing LMU students applying for financial aid for the first time:

1. A Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) must be filed by all students. The FAFSA form is available from high schools or from financial aid offices around the country, or you can apply online at <http://www.fafsa.ed.gov>.

New applicants should file the FAFSA by February 15.

2. The CSS PROFILE, which requires a fee, must be filed by all new applicants, which includes students new to LMU and continuing LMU students applying for financial aid for the first time. The CSS PROFILE registration form is available from high schools or from financial aid offices around the country, or you can apply online at <http://www.collegeboard.org/profile>.

New applicants should file the CSS PROFILE by February 15.

3. CALIFORNIA RESIDENTS ONLY: To apply for a new Cal Grant A or B (see Grants), students must complete the FAFSA and GPA Verification form no later than March 2. GPA Verification forms are available at California high schools and at the LMU Financial Aid Office.
4. All new applicants must submit signed copies of student and parents' federal tax forms, all schedules and W-2s to the Financial Aid Office by April 16.

Renewal Applicants:

1. A Renewal Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) must be filed by all students. The Renewal FAFSA is available in January online at <http://www.fafsa.ed.gov> for those students who completed a FAFSA in the prior year using their federal PIN. Other students will have their renewal FAFSA mailed to them in January.

Renewal applicants are advised to complete the Renewal FAFSA as early as possible and no later than March 2. LMU must have received a valid FAFSA record by April 16 in order for the student to be considered to have filed the FAFSA on time.

2. The Undergraduate Renewal Application for Financial Aid must be filed by all renewal applicants and is available from the Financial Aid office or for download at <http://www.lmu.edu/financialaid>.

The Undergraduate Renewal Application must be received by the Financial Aid Office by April 16 or be postmarked April 16.

3. All renewal applicants must submit signed copies of their student federal tax forms, all schedules, and W-2s to the Financial Aid Office by April 16. If the student does not need to file, he or she submits an LMU non-filer form by the stated deadline.
4. Renewal applicants must submit their parents' federal tax returns, including all schedules and W-2s, to the Financial Aid Office by April 16 if:
 - Requested by the Financial Aid Office
 - Selected for federal verification
 - Student received the LMU grant in the prior year
 - The student is submitted an appeal or requesting that the Financial Aid Office consider special circumstances

If the student must submit parents' tax forms and the parents do not need to file a federal tax return, they must submit the LMU parent non-filer form.

Programs of Assistance

Academic Scholars

Each year the Scholarship Committee recommends to the President of the University a number of students whose achievements merit exceptional recognition. Recommendations are based upon the potential for academic accomplishment and leadership which is demonstrated in outstanding academic records, GPA and SAT/ACT scores, and in demonstrated leadership in school or community. Academic Scholars receive grants worth $5,000, renewable with a 3.0 cumulative GPA for a total of 8 semesters. These awards are made possible by annual contributions as well as by eight endowment funds:

- Bernard and Catherine Bannan Presidential Scholarship Fund
- Loretta Clougherty Dodd '61 Memorial Presidential Scholarship Fund
- Cyril and Edith Nigg Presidential Scholarship Fund
- Rains Presidential Scholarship Fund
- Seaver Institute Presidential Scholarship Fund
- Joseph M. Sexton Presidential Scholarship Fund
- John A. Teske Presidential Scholarship Fund
- Yerkes/Exxon Presidential Scholarship Fund

Trustee and Presidential Scholars

From among the Academic Scholars, the President will select a very limited number of entering freshmen each year for LMU's top academic scholarship, the Trustee Scholarship, and an additional number to receive the Presidential Scholarship. In addition to the academic and leadership criteria used to select the Academic Scholars, Trustee and Presidential candidates will interview with the Scholarship Committee at LMU. Trustee Scholars receive grants equal to full tuition, room, and board, renewable with a 3.0 cumulative GPA for four years. Presidential Scholars receive $12,500 per year, renewable with a 3.0 cumulative GPA for four years.

Thomas P. O'Malley, S.J., Jesuit High School Scholarships

The University will select one graduate from each Jesuit high school each year for special recognition, based upon superior academic achievement, demonstration of community leadership, and commitment to the ideals of Jesuit education. Scholarship winners will receive renewable grants of $12,500 per year for eight semesters, provided the student maintains a 3.2 grade point average.

Marymount High School Scholarships

The University will select one graduate from each Marymount secondary school each year for special recognition, based upon superior academic achievement, demonstration of community leadership, and commitment to the ideals of Marymount education. Scholarship winners will receive renewable grants of $12,500 per year for eight semesters, provided the student maintains a 3.2 grade point average.

Jesuit Community Scholarships

The Jesuit Community at LMU supports a scholarship fund designed to assist students from Jesuit high schools or other Catholic high schools. Criteria for selection include scholarship, leadership, and Christian service.

Scholarship winners receive grants worth $5,000, renewable with a 3.0 cumulative GPA for a total of 8 semesters.

Leadership Scholars

The Scholarship Committee recommends to the Academic Vice President each year an additional number of students characterized by notable contributions to their school or community. While these recommendations presume an excellent academic record, special consideration is given to students who demonstrate exceptional promise as campus or community leaders. The Committee also gives special consideration to students from economically-disadvantaged circumstances.

Recommendations are based upon excellent academic records, active involvement in school and community, and demonstrated potential for leadership on campus and in the community. Leadership scholars receive grants worth $11,500, renewable with a 3.0 cumulative GPA for a total of 8 semesters.

Los Angeles County Scholarships

Instituted in 2001, the Los Angeles County Scholarship is awarded to selected entering freshmen from Los Angeles County who demonstrate distinguished academic achievement and determination to excel in the face of educational and economic disadvantage. Awards range to full tuition and may be combined with federal and state grants.

California Scholastic Federation

Loyola Marymount sponsors four scholarships for CSF Sealbearers. To apply, students must send a copy of their CSF Certificate to the Financial Aid Office by March 1.

Grants

University Grants

Loyola Marymount University funds and administers grants of its own. They include academic scholarships and Loyola Marymount University (LMU) grants. LMU grant eligibility is based on financial need and limited to eight semesters. Transfer students are evaluated individually to determine the equivalent number of semesters completed prior to enrollment at LMU. All coursework completed elsewhere is counted when determining semesters of eligibility for University Grants.

Transfer students who have completed more than 100 units prior to enrolling at LMU are not eligible for University grants.

The Pell Grant program is a federal aid program designed to provide financial assistance to eligible students for postsecondary studies. The amount of the Pell Grant is determined based on the financial resources of the student and parents. Grants range from $200 to $4,050.

The Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant program is designed to assist those students who would not otherwise be financially able to pursue an undergraduate course of study. The amount of the grant is determined by reviewing the student's financial resources and also the resources of the parents. The amount of the award varies based on the student's Pell Grant and, like other grants, does not have to be repaid.

Cal Grant A is a method by which many students finance their education at the University. This grant is awarded to residents of the State of California and may be used at many approved institutions within the State of California. Normally, the grant is awarded to freshmen students; however, many transfer students and upperclassmen who apply also receive this grant. The grant is normally renewable each year once it has been obtained. Information concerning this grant may be obtained from either the high school counselor's office or the Financial Aid Office.

Cal Grant B, which is funded through the State of California, is another way students may finance their education at Loyola Marymount University. This program in many cases allows for payment of tuition, books and supplies, and other educational expenses.

Student Employment

The Student Employment Service provides employment assistance to the students of Loyola Marymount University including part-time jobs ranging from 10 to 20 hours a week, part-time/full-time seasonal work during the Christmas and summer vacations, temporary jobs on an hourly basis, and tutoring positions within the student's major field of study. These services are for all students regardless of their financial need. They are primarily off-campus positions.

The Federal College Work Study program is another source of employment for students who qualify based on financial need. This program is funded jointly by the Federal Government and the University. It is designed to create jobs for students at the University, such as library researchers, teaching assistants, laboratory technicians, intramural referees, team managers, etc. Under the Work Study Program, most students will be awarded funds to average 12-15 hours per week during the term. Students are hired for part-time positions for the entire academic year, and they may earn up to the amount listed on their current financial aid award letter.

The Student Worker program is another employment program designed to give resident students an opportunity to earn an education by working on campus. The Student Worker Organization is an autonomous group that is primarily student-directed and -operated. Jobs include maintenance, recycling, and clerical and miscellaneous tasks for departments on campus. To apply, students should contact the Student Worker office at (310) 338-5013.

Loans

Many types of financing options are open to students and parents.

The following loans require the student to apply for financial aid (see the Applying for Financial Aid section) to determine eligibility:

Perkins Loan is a low-interest loan available to students who qualify for the Federal Pell Grant. Students may borrow a sum normally not to exceed $4,000 per year. After students leave school, they have a 9-month grace period before interest begins to accrue. The loan must be repaid on a quarterly basis at a rate of usually not less than $120 per quarter. If a student defaults and the school is unable to collect, the Federal Government may take action to recover the loan. Under certain conditions there are loan deferment and/or cancellation provisions for borrowers. The Office of Financial Aid provides information about such provisions.

The Stafford Student Loan is a low-interest federal loan made by a bank, credit union, or savings and loan. First-year students can borrow $2,625; second-year $3,500; and third-, fourth-, and fifth-year students can borrow up to $5,500. Students who qualify will not be charged interest on their loans while they are enrolled at least 1/2 time (6 semester hours) in an eligible program. Students who do not qualify to have their interest paid by the federal program may still borrow an unsubsidized Stafford loan. They will pay the interest on their loan during the periods of enrollment.

The Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) is a low-interest federal loan made by lending institutions to parents who have good credit. Parents may borrow up to the total cost of their dependent student's education, minus any other financial aid. The PLUS interest rate is variable up to 9%. A loan origination fee and an insurance premium is charged. Parents must begin repayment within 60 days of final disbursement. Contact the Financial Aid Office for the current interest rate.

Fritz B. Burns Loan Fund

This loan is available for freshmen who are not from California and have been awarded one of the LMU's merit scholarships. This loan is renewable for 4 years. Interest is 3% while the student is in school and 8% during repayment. A parent signature is required as a co-borrower. Parents may not borrow from both this program and the federal PLUS program.

LMU California Student Loan Fund

A loan offered to freshmen who graduated from a California high school, are U.S. citizens, and have been awarded one of LMU's merit scholarships. This loan is renewable for 4 years and is interest-free. A creditworthy parent co-borrower is required and credit check is required annually to renew. All proceeds must be used for direct LMU charges including tuition, fees, campus housing, and meal plans.

K. Miyawaki Loan Fund

A revolving loan fund established by Dr. and Mrs. Edison H. Miyawaki to help financially needy students with good academic records, with preference given to students from Hawaii.

Scholarships

Loyola Marymount University acknowledges its gratitude to the generous donors who have contributed scholarship funds to the University.

Most scholarships are awarded by the Financial Aid Office and do not require that students complete a special application. However, to be considered for a scholarship, students must apply for financial aid as stated on page 35 of this Bulletin.

Scholarships that require a separate application will be advertised either on the Financial Aid website or by a direct mailing to eligible students throughout the school year.

The following scholarships require a separate application:

AFROTC College Scholarship Program

Four-year scholarships are available to highly qualified high school senior students interested in becoming Air Force officers. Scholarships are awarded based on needs of the Air Force, not necessarily the financial need of the applicant.

The Air Force ROTC also offers three-year scholarship opportunities to college freshmen. Two-year scholarships are available to all college students with two years of academic work remaining, either undergraduate or graduate. One-year scholarships are available to students majoring in career fields in which the Air Force has a shortage, such as engineering. Scholarships pay all or a portion of tuition, books, fees, and a stipend of $250-400 per month.

Boeing Space Systems Scholarship

For students from Westchester High School who are engineering or computer science majors. This award is renewable for four years and covers tuition and books. In addition, Boeing offers a summer job and job offer upon student's graduation.

Coca-Cola First Generation Scholarship

This scholarship is awarded every other year (even-numbered years) to incoming freshmen who demonstrate involvement and leadership in community and campus activities. High school seniors need to apply through their high school and the official Coke brochure.

Communication and Fine Arts Scholarship Fund

Selection is based on talent and experience.

Richard A. Hollow, Jr., Memorial Scholarship

Named in memory of a former LMU student, this scholarship will be awarded to students who demonstrate merit and need and who are involved in church and community activities. This scholarship is awarded annually on the anniversary of Richard's passing.

Lewis A. Kingsley Foundation Scholarship

Applicants must be employed. Available only to continuing students with minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0.

Mexican American Alumni Association Scholarship

Scholarship assistance for current students of Hispanic descent, up to $2,000 each. Apply to Chicano/Latino Supportive Services.

Ralph M. Parsons Memorial Scholarship

Applicants must be related to an employee of the Ralph M. Parsons Company.

Los Angeles Philanthropic Foundation Scholarship

Provides financial assistance for continuing students who maintain a 3.0 GPA and participate in community or University organizations.

Pike/Christopher Scholarship Fund

Awarded to students who exemplify the qualities of high moral integrity, love of one's fellow man, truthfulness, a strong commitment to religious and moral principles, devotion to duty and to the service of others, courage of conviction, and leadership. Donated by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Pike. Application deadline is approximately April 30 each year.

Mabel Wilson Richards Scholarship

Applicants must be needy female Los Angeles County residents with at least a 3.0 GPA. Forms available in the Financial Aid Office during the Fall semester of each year.

Donald A. Strauss Public Service Scholarship

$10,000 scholarship for senior year students interested in public service. Application procedure includes a proposal on a public service project.

TELACU Scholarship

Provides scholarship assistance to freshmen Hispanic/Latino students who graduated from specified East Los Angeles area high schools or continuing and transferring students from selected colleges or universities. See application for further requirements.

Margaret Tritle Rome Scholarship

Awards are based on merit and need. Applications must be directed to the director of the Rome program.

Sharon Walter Memorial Scholarship Fund

Awarded to students majoring in art and art history who have demonstrated superior academic achievement. Financial need is not a consideration. Forms available in the Financial Aid Office.

John F. Warwar Scholarship Program

Scholarship assistance to seniors from high schools in the harbor area majoring in engineering, science, or business.

Scholarships that do not require a separate application are listed according to the specifications made by their donors.

The following scholarships are to provide assistance to students in all majors, regardless of financial need, and are administered by the Financial Aid Office:

Rev. Vincent Chiappa Fund
Catherine Connell Fund
Fr. John F. Connolly, S.J., Fund

Certain courses may also require mandatory laboratory fees. Check with departments.

Any unpaid fines or charges (such as parking, library, delinquent telephone charges, property damage) or any miscellaneous charges incurred by a student while in attendance at the University will be charged to the student's account. Certain fees deemed optional are required to obtain that good or service.

The tuition, fees, and other charges described above are good faith projections for the academic year. They are, however, subject to change from one academic term to the next as deemed necessary by the University in order to meet its financial commitments and to fulfill its role and mission.

There are other fees and charges unique to certain programs that are dependent upon a student's matriculation at the University. These fees or charges may be determined by contacting the University offices that administer those programs or activities in which the student intends to enroll or engage.

Estimate of Charges

Since each student may elect various services with associated charges, it is not possible to determine precisely all student charges before registration. However, the following schedule estimates the charges for one academic year for a typical freshman undergraduate resident exclusive of entertainment, transportation, sickness insurance, or other personal costs:

Estimated	Residence Hall	Apartment
Tuition (12-18 units)	$25,266	$25,266
Mandatory Fees	675	675
Room	5,716	6,640
Meals	2,700*	1,000
Books, Supplies	1,000	1,000
Total Estimate	$35,357	$34,581

* Assumes Lion Dollar Plan I.
  Assumes Lion Dollars S Plan only.
  Financial Aid Budget may vary due to individual circumstances.

Payment of Student Charges

Tuition, fees, and board charges are payable by the semester. Financial clearance is necessary prior to registration and subject to Late Financial Clearance/Deferment Fee after the deadline. Clearance may be obtained from the Controller's Office at the time of payment or by making arrangements for the payment plan described below.

Registration for classes may be canceled for any student whose payment check for tuition or fees is returned unpaid from the bank or who has defaulted on payment arrangements.

Financial clearance cannot be granted, and pre-registration will not be permitted, if a student's account is delinquent.

Failure to pay tuition and other outstanding debts will result in the withholding of the academic transcript. The student diploma will not be released until all debts are satisfied in full. Students are prohibited from future registrations due to delinquent accounts.

Sickness Insurance

The annual Sickness Insurance fee of $315 (estimated) is mandatory for students who are U.S. citizens taking 7 or more units. Domestic students may waive coverage by submitting the appropriate form to the Controller's Office by September 1, 2004. Students entering for the first time or returning to the University during the Spring 2005 semester and taking 7 or more units will be charged a prorated amount for the Spring semester unless a waiver form is submitted to the Controller's Office by February 1, 2005.

International (Visa) students, regardless of the number of units in which they are enrolled, must purchase the Mandatory International Student Sickness Insurance. The International Sickness Insurance may not be waived, and the cost is $390 (estimated) for single coverage. Higher premiums may be charged depending upon marital status and number of dependents.

(Accident Insurance is mandatory for all students registered for 7 or more units and may not be waived.)

Monthly Payment Plan

Parents who prefer to meet educational expenses out of monthly income rather than in a single payment at the beginning of each semester may apply for the University's annual 10-month or 12-month payment plan. The 10-month payment plan requires the first two months' payments to start the plan. The plan requires a $90.00 fee for enrollment; however, interest is 0% on the outstanding balances. The 10- or 12-month Debit Checking Plan requires a $45.00 enrollment fee and is a 0% interest plan. The 12-month plan is for Automatic Checking Deduction only. A monthly late fee is assessed on students who fail to make their payment by the end of each month. Students may take advantage of the Automatic ACH Debit Checking feature that allows a one-time authorization followed by regular monthly charges and deductions. Debit cards are accepted.

Certificate of Eligibility for Veterans

All expenses incurred by a veteran that have not been properly authorized by the Veterans Administration must be paid by the veteran. Therefore, it is the responsibility of every veteran to see that papers are in proper order at the time of the first and each subsequent registration. Also, all veterans who are receiving benefits for educational expenses are required to contact the Student Financial Aid Office.

The University is required by the Veterans Administration to report failure on the part of the student to complete 75% of the semester hours attempted in any given term. Benefits to a veteran who fails to complete 75% of the semester hours originally enrolled in may be suspended. Counseling by the Veterans Administration will be required before the student enrolls for another term with benefits. The Veterans Administration's Advisement and Counseling Service is a free service provided under Federal Law. Failures, withdrawals, and NCs are not recognized as making satisfactory progress.

Refunds/Cancellation

Refunds for tuition and/or housing are made only after a complete withdrawal or leave of absence from the University (dropping all courses) has been processed by the Office of the Registrar and, in the case of a resident student, also by the Housing Office. For resident students, if the official withdrawal dates from the Registrar and Housing Offices are different, the respective dates will be used for tuition or housing refunding purposes. See the accompanying table for the allowable refund percentage.

Meal plans are non-refundable. A student should complete the Withdrawal/Leave of Absence form in the Office of the Registrar and, if a resident student, the withdrawal form in the Housing Office.

The University strives to meet the expectations of its students and tries to act compassionately in a time of crisis that interrupts a student's semester studies so that she/he cannot or should not finish the semester. In an attempt to ease the cost of tuition, the refund policy is in place to allow for a sliding refund for those who withdraw from all courses in a given semester according to the following schedule. This policy applies to, but is not limited to, the following leave or withdrawal reasons: hospitalization, illness, moving out of the area, employment changes/relocation, and family-related emergencies.

No refund may be given for registered courses which a student did not attend and did not withdraw from within the full refund period. No refund or cancellation is granted to a student who withdraws from a portion of his/her program after the end of the 100% Drop/Add period. Consult the following refund schedule for the academic category corresponding to your enrollment and type of program.

Fall 2004

Withdrawal Percentage	All Students
100% through	Sept. 03, 2004
90% through	Sept. 09, 2004
70% through	Sept. 17, 2004

50% through	Feb. 01, 2005
25% through	Mar. 03, 2005
0% on or after	Mar. 04, 2005

The University's Federal Aid refund policy complies with the Higher Education Amendments Act.

Refund Payments

Refund credits are applied to the student's account. Refunds of credit balances will be made in accordance with Federal guidelines. Refunding of credit balances is subject to a holding period until verification that funds received have cleared the University's bank. Refund payments are issued in the name of the student unless written authorization from the student is received to the contrary.

Security Interest in Student Records

A student may not receive a diploma, certificate, or transcript until all accounts, current or otherwise, have been settled in accordance with University and Agency requirements. Students with delinquent accounts will be prohibited from future registration until all balances are resolved to the University's satisfaction. Such documents and services will be retained by Loyola Marymount University as security for such obligations until they are satisfied.

If a student defaults on payment of a Federal Perkins Student Loan, a Federal Family Educational Loan, or an Institutional Loan, or if a student fails to satisfy exit interview requirements, a security interest in records and services will remain in effect until debts and requirements are satisfied. Unpaid accounts are reported to the three major credit reporting agencies. Exit interviews are administered through the Student Loan Office and the Financial Aid Office.

University Core Curriculum

University Core Curriculum

Goals and Objectives of the Core Curriculum

Consistent with the goals of the University and with the desire to provide undergraduate students with an education founded strongly in human values, Loyola Marymount University has adopted the following goals and objectives.

Goals:

- To provide a strong undergraduate humanistic education within the traditions of the Society of Jesus and the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary.
- To foster the desire for knowledge and to provide the skills necessary for a lifetime of intellectual growth in a global society.
- To prepare students to play active roles in addressing the problems and challenges they will face in attempting to create a just world.

Objectives:

- To develop an understanding of religious experience and beliefs, with particular attention to theological questions as addressed by Catholic Christianity.
- To develop a habit of philosophical reflection.
- To develop an understanding and appreciation of the history of humankind in the arts, literature, and philosophy.
- To develop a knowledge of the structures, values, and practices of contemporary societies.
- To develop the arts of precise and elegant expression in speaking and writing.
- To develop the skills of critical thinking.
- To develop quantitative skills and an understanding of the history and principles of mathematics and science and technology.
- To cultivate and engage the creative imagination.
- To explore ways to live more fully and to act more responsibly within a culturally diverse world.

The following core curriculum encourages intellectual breadth. No matter the student's major, all students should be acquainted with the nature of discourse and practice in the major areas of knowledge that will prepare students for life after Loyola Marymount University.

Students should consult the College or School sections of this Bulletin for core curriculum requirements specific to each College or School.

American Cultures

American Cultures courses will examine and compare the American experience of at least three of the following groups: African American, American Indian, Asian American, Chicana/o-Latino/a, and European American. The objective of these courses is to explore the contributions of these groups to human knowledge and development. Classes will also explore the varieties of cultural expression, behavior, and interaction.

First- and second-year students choose from any lower division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. Third- and fourth-year students choose from any upper division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS.

A single course will generally not fulfill two core requirements. The only exception is a course that satisfies another core requirement which is also cross-listed as AMCS.

College Writing

Proficiency in Writing

All entering first-year students will demonstrate writing proficiency by completing an essay administered in all English 110 sections during the first week of classes. Based on performance in this essay, students will remain in ENGL 110 or be placed in ENGL 100 (English as a Second Language) and ENGL 101 (Required Writing Lab—ESL). Some students will be recommended to enroll in English 111 (College Writing Lab).

College Writing Courses

The required course in college writing teaches students how to produce clear and logical, thoughtful and persuasive expository prose suitable to a variety of academic disciplines. To do this effectively, students must learn to be critical readers and thinkers. A critical analysis of both reading and writing enables students to create more meaningful and effective prose. ENGL 110 will fulfill the college writing requirement. ENGL 100 will not fulfill the college writing requirement but is required of certain students based on their performance in the essay administered in all ENGL 110 sections during the first week of classes. A minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in ENGL 110. All students who receive a grade of C- (1.7) or lower must retake ENGL 110 at LMU and receive a grade of C (2.0) or higher.

English 100: English as a Second Language

Students enroll in English 100 based on their performance in an essay administered in all ENGL 110 sections during the first week of classes. This course is designed to give students essential skills in writing and reading English. Students must earn a grade of C (2.0) or better in order to pass this course.

English 110: College Writing

The art of clear and effective college writing. This course will teach students how to generate clear and persuasive expository prose suitable to a variety of academic disciplines. Students must earn a grade of C (2.0) or better in order to fulfill the college writing requirement. Students who receive a C- (1.7) or lower in ENGL 110 must enroll in ENGL 110 the next semester.

Communication or Critical Thinking

Communication

The communication offerings develop students' abilities to analyze issues and problems more logically. Students will prepare arguments, presentations, and speeches. They will also learn to listen more critically and speak more effectively in a variety of settings.

Critical Thinking

The course in critical thinking helps students to improve their reasoning skills through a study of logic and its application to several types of argumentation, both oral and written. The students are taught both the technical skills of argument evaluation and the other skills needed to construct sound arguments and debates.

Critical and Creative Arts

Critical Arts

Critical Arts courses are those courses in the history and theory of the arts which analyze artistic works in their social contexts as well as the aesthetic expectations and conventions which inform them.

Creative Arts

The objective of courses in the Creative Arts is to develop individual expression through exploration, analysis, and creation of artistic works.

History

This category of courses analyzes the major concepts, ideologies, and movements that have dominated the course of civilization in order to develop in students the historical perspective necessary to better understand the global society in which they live.

Literature

Prerequisite: Successful completion of college writing requirement.

Core literature courses enhance students' understanding and appreciation of literary works. A study of fiction, poetry, or drama familiarizes the students with both the strategies available to the fiction writer, poet, or playwright in creating the literary work and the variety of critical approaches for analyzing and evaluating literature.

Mathematics, Science and Technology

Proficiency in Mathematics

All students must demonstrate proficiency in mathematics. The mathematics course(s) required for a student to demonstrate mathematics proficiency teaches the student the quantitative and analytic skills needed to function as an informed citizen in an increasingly technological world.

Any student with a grade of 4 or 5 on at least one of the Calculus A/B, Calculus B/C, or the Statistics Advanced Placement Examinations has already demonstrated proficiency in mathematics.

Students in the College of Communication and Fine Arts and students in the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts who are NOT required to take a mathematics course as part of their major requirements normally demonstrate proficiency in mathematics by receiving credit in Quantitative Skills for the Modern World (MATH 102). The Mathematics Placement Examination is not necessary for enrollment in this course.

Students in the College of Business Administration, the Frank R. Seaver College of Science and Engineering, and the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts majoring in economics or liberal studies demonstrate mathematics proficiency by receiving credit in the mathematics courses required by their particular majors. These students must take the Mathematics Placement Examination to determine placement in appropriate classes. If the results of this placement examination indicate, students are required to enroll in and pass Algebra (MATH 101) before they qualify to enter the mathematics course required by their major. In all cases, mathematics proficiency is met only after receiving credit in the mathematics coursework required by the major.

Psychology majors demonstrate mathematics proficiency by passing Elementary Statistics (MATH 104) with a grade of C (2.0) or better. These students do not take the Mathematics Placement Examination but enroll directly into Elementary Statistics (MATH 104).

Special Circumstances

- Students desiring to take MATH 106, 111, 112, 120, 122, or 131 in order to fulfill the mathematics proficiency requirement should see their advisor for appropriate action. The Mathematics Placement Examination is required before taking any of these courses.
- Transfer students should see the Dean of their College or School for specific information.

All students should see their individual College or School section in the Bulletin and their major requirements described in the Bulletin for further specific information.

Mathematics, Science and Technology Courses

Prerequisite: Credit in MATH 101, 102, 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

These courses introduce the student to the methodology and mathematics used in a field of mathematics, science, or engineering as well as provide a more in-depth study in a specific area. These courses include laboratories and/or demonstrations providing the student with hands-on experience.

Philosophy

The lower division core course is designed to introduce students to the nature of philosophy as a discipline and to address selected central metaphysical and epistemological issues surrounding the question of human nature.

Upper division courses examine questions that a person asks in order to form an intelligent philosophy of moral choice, with particular attention to those moral concepts that have been most important in shaping Christian culture. The approach may emphasize either the major moral theories or selected contemporary moral problems.

Social Sciences

These courses will introduce students to systematic, empirically grounded investigations of individuals and the structures, values, and practices of contemporary societies. Students develop conceptual and analytical skills necessary to understand the economic, political, psychological, cultural, and/or social conditions that influence our lives.

Theological Studies

A general objective of Theological Studies courses is for students to face the issues of religious beliefs and their consequences in their lives.

The objectives of the lower division core courses are to examine the nature of religion, the nature of Christian faith, and the methods for understanding scripture.

The objectives of the upper division core courses are to deepen the students' knowledge of at least one of the three areas covered in the lower division course under one of the following categories: biblical theology, historical theology, systematic theology, moral and practical theology, and world religions.

Note: International/Global Studies

The current core curriculum includes many courses dealing with international and global studies. All students are required to complete History 100 or 101, which deal with European culture. In addition, it is recommended that students take additional core courses which include the study of European cultures.

To further augment the understanding of world cultures, it is recommended that students also choose at least one core course that includes the study of Africa, Asia, the Pacific, or Latin/Indigenous America.

Recommendations

Students are encouraged to enrich their program of study with selected electives from the following areas. Consult the Bulletin for specific offerings.

Business

Students are encouraged to take a course in the issues of business. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Computer Skills

Students are expected to become proficient in computer skills. Courses or workshops may be taken to help students develop existing skills.

Foreign Language

Students are encouraged to study foreign languages to the intermediate level. LMU offers Chinese, Filipino, French, German, Greek (Modern and Classical), Italian, Japanese, Latin, and Spanish on a regular basis.

International/Global Studies

Students are encouraged to select elective courses that deal with international and/or global issues. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Study Abroad

A semester of international study abroad is also recommended. Consult the Study Abroad office.

Credential Programs

Under the jurisdiction of the State of California and the approval of the Commission on Teacher Credentialing, Loyola Marymount's School of Education offers courses leading to several state-granted credentials. Programs that may be completed concurrently with an undergraduate degree program are:

- Bilingual Education (BCLAD Spanish—Multiple and Single Subject)
- Elementary Education (Multiple Subject)
- Secondary Education (Single Subject)
- Special Education (Mild/Moderate Disabilities)

Credential and certificate programs are also offered at the graduate level. Please see the Graduate Bulletin for further details.

Certificate Programs

Loyola Marymount University offers courses leading to the following certificate programs:

- Business Administration (Graduate)
 - International M.B.A.
- Education (Graduate)
 - Bilingual, Crosscultural, Language, and Academic Development (BCLAD)
 - Catholic School Administration
 - Crosscultural, Language, and Academic Development (CLAD)
 - Reading

Engineering and Production Management (Graduate)

- Total Quality Engineering

Mechanical Engineering (Graduate)

- Finite Element Methods
- Manufacturing
- Materials Engineering
- Mechanical Design
- Structural Dynamics
- Systems Engineering
- Thermal Engineering

Additional certificate programs are available through the Continuing Education Division.

Law Degree

Loyola Law School offers courses leading to the degree of Juris Doctor. The Graduate Division and the Law School offer a dual program in Juris Doctor and Master of Business Administration.

Academic Degree Requirements and Policies

All regulations and rules or procedures contained in this official Bulletin apply to undergraduate programs. Questions in individual cases should be presented through written petition to the appropriate dean.

Students are held individually responsible for information contained in these pages. Failure to read and understand these regulations will not excuse a student from their observance.

Academic Calendar

The University offers two fifteen-week semesters and two six-week summer sessions.

Degree Requirements

All candidates for the baccalaureate degree at LMU must fulfill the following requirements:

1. All candidates in the undergraduate colleges must complete a minimum of 120 semester hours, including core and program requirements and 45 semester hours of upper-division course work. Certain programs require more than 120 semester hours. These are noted under the appropriate department listings.
2. All work done at LMU must have a cumulative grade point average of C (2.0). All courses taken in the major, minor, or area of concentration must have a cumulative grade point average of C (2.0).
3. At least 30 of the last 36 semester hours for the bachelor's degree must be taken in residence at LMU. At least two-thirds of the upper division semester hours of the major must be taken in residence at LMU unless, for programmatic purposes, the dean and the director of the major deem an exception appropriate.
4. A student is held responsible for academic regulations in effect at the time of entrance or for those in effect in the senior year provided the student maintains continuous enrollment. Similarly, a student who declares or changes a major after being admitted to the University is held responsible for the academic regulations in effect at the time the major is declared or changed. A student who interrupts LMU enrollment is subject to the academic regulations in effect in the University Bulletin at the time enrollment is resumed.

5. Degrees are awarded at the end of the Spring term, August 31, and December 31. The date of the degree posted on a student's diploma is the one by which all graduation requirements are completed or documents are submitted. These include:
 - A. A submission of transcripts from other institutions prior to the degree date;
 - B. The completion of all incomplete work prior to the degree date;
 - C. File application for degree by the deadline date for the term in which all of the above conditions will be met. If a student has been canceled for graduation in a given term, it is the responsibility of the student to again file for graduation for a later term.

Second Baccalaureate Degree

A student who possesses an earned bachelor's degree from an institution accredited by one of the six regional associations of the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities may earn a second undergraduate degree with a different major field of study by meeting all of the following requirements:

1. Completion of at least 30 semester hours at LMU beyond those required for the first degree; these must include at least 24 semester hours of upper division work and at least 20 semester hours of upper division work in the major field of study;
2. Fulfillment of the core requirements of the College in which the major is offered;
3. Satisfaction of all the requirements for the major;
4. Completion of the application for degree process (c.f., #5 above).

Academic Advising

Students are assigned academic advisors within their college. As part of the registration process, students consult their advisors in preparation of their academic programs and prior to registering for classes. Advisors are not authorized to change established policy of the University. The student is solely responsible for assuring that his/her academic program complies with the policy of the University. Any advice at variance with established policy, i.e., a degree audit exception, must be confirmed in writing by the chairperson of the department or director of the program and then by the Dean's Office.

Academic Probation

Academic probation carries a serious warning to the student that the scholastic record is unsatisfactory and continued failure to improve this record may result in being declared ineligible to attend the University. Students on probation may also have restrictions imposed by the dean regarding their program of studies and their participation in extracurricular activities. The following classes of students will be placed on probation:

1. A student who in any term fails to earn a C (2.0) average,
2. A student whose cumulative grade point average falls below a C (2.0),
3. An upper division student who in any one term fails to earn a C (2.0) average in the major requirements, or
4. A student whose cumulative grade point average in the major requirements is below a C (2.0).

Academic Disqualification

Disqualification terminates a student's relationship with the University. A disqualified student may not register in any division or session of the University and is denied all privileges of the University and of all organizations or activities in any way connected with it.

The following classes of students will be subject to disqualification:

1. A student who while on probation fails to earn a C (2.0) average during the next semester, or who has not attained an accumulated grade point average of C (2.0) within two semesters after having been placed on probation;
2. A student who does not make satisfactory progress in the coursework associated with the declared major.
3. A student who has had special academic requirements imposed by the dean or the Committee on Academic Standing and Degrees and does not meet the requirements within the time prescribed.

Readmission after Disqualification

Disqualified students are not eligible for readmission until the lapse of one calendar year.

1. A disqualified student who wishes to be considered for readmission to the University must file a formal application with the Admissions Office.

2. A formal interview must take place with the Dean's Office prior to formal readmission.
3. A disqualified student who is readmitted will be on strict probation which requires that the student must satisfactorily complete all requirements set by the dean in the initial semester after readmission.
4. A student who has been disqualified a second time may not apply for readmission.

LMU Honor Code and Process

Loyola Marymount University is a community dedicated to academic excellence, student-centered education, and the Jesuit and Marymount traditions. As such, the University expects all members of its community to act with honesty and integrity at all times, especially in their academic work. Academic honesty respects the intellectual and creative work of others, flows from dedication to and pride in performing one's own best work, and is essential if true learning is to take place.

Examples of academic dishonesty include, but are not limited to, the following: all acts of cheating on assignments or examinations, or facilitating other students' cheating; plagiarism; fabrication of data, including the use of false citations; improper use of non-print media; unauthorized access to computer accounts or files or other privileged information; and improper use of internet sites and resources.

Definitions of Academic Dishonesty:

The following are examples of academic dishonesty which may be interpreted as intentional or unintentional. This list is not meant to be exhaustive. It is the student's responsibility to make sure that his/her work meets the standards of academic honesty set forth in the Honor Code. If the student is unclear about how these definitions and standards apply to his/her work, it is the student's responsibility to contact the instructor to clarify the ambiguity.

A. Cheating and Facilitating Cheating

1. Possession, distribution, and/or use of unauthorized materials or technology before or during an examination or during the process of preparing a class assignment.
2. Collaboration on class assignments, including in-class and take home examinations, without the permission of the instructor.
3. Provision of assistance to another student attempting to use unauthorized resources or collaboration on class assignments or examinations.

B. Plagiarism

1. Presentation of someone else's ideas or work, either in written form or non-print media, as one's own.
2. Omission or improper use of citations in written work.
3. Omission or improper use of credits and attributions in non-print media.

C. Falsification of Data

1. Presentation of altered or fabricated data, such as lab reports, with the intention of misleading the reader.
2. Presentation of forged signatures as authentic.
3. Use of false citations, either incorrect or fabricated, including sources found on the Internet.

D. Unauthorized Access to Computers or Privileged Information

1. Use of University network and/or computer hardware to gain unauthorized access to files, and alteration or other use of those files.

E. Improper Use of Internet Sites and Resources

1. Inappropriate use of an Internet source, including, but not limited to, submission of a paper, in part or in its entirety, purchased or otherwise obtained via the Internet, and failure to provide proper citation for sources found on the Internet.

F. Improper Use of Non-Print Media

1. All above standards apply to non-print media.

G. Other Academic Dishonesty

1. Any other means of violating the standards of academic honesty set out above.

Honor Code Process

This section sets out the process to be followed when an Instructor suspects a violation of the Honor Code. The recommended sanctions are not mandatory, but are intended to guide the Instructor's discretion. Instructors are encouraged to consult with their colleagues and chairs in making these decisions. This section also outlines the student appeal process for Honor Code violations.

I. Intentional and Unintentional Academic Dishonesty

- A. Notification: Instructors will notify the Student of the suspected act of academic dishonesty. The Student will be given the opportunity to admit, deny, or explain the situation. If the suspected violation of the Honor Code occurs with respect to an assignment that the Instructor has not reviewed until after the class has stopped meeting, the Instructor will send a letter to the permanent address of the Student and keep a copy of the letter. Failure to notify will result in a reasonable extension of the Student's time to appeal, but is not in and of itself a defense to the violation of the Honor Code.

- B. Determination: If the Instructor determines that a violation has occurred, he/she will next determine whether or not the violation was intentional or unintentional. The distinction between intentional and unintentional violations of academic honesty is not based upon the purely subjective intentions of the Student. The question is whether a Student who has carefully read the Honor Code should have understood that his/her action violated the Honor Code and standards of academic honesty.

- C. Unintentional Violation: If the Instructor believes the violation was unintentional, he/she may take any of the following actions:

1. Warn Student
2. Require assignment or exam to be resubmitted
3. Reduce the grade on the assignment, project, or exam

The Instructor shall inform the Student of his/her decision and also inform the Student of the right to appeal the Instructor's decision.

- D. Intentional Violation: If the Instructor believes the violation is intentional, he/she may take any of the following actions:

1. Fail the Student on the assignment or exam
2. Fail the Student in the course

The Instructor shall inform the Student of his/her decision in writing and also inform the Student of the right to appeal the Instructor's decision.

The Instructor may consult with the Chair, Program Director, or equivalent and refer the matter directly to the Dean of the Instructor's college or school with a recommendation that the Student be suspended or expelled. Upon such a referral, the Dean shall appoint an Academic Honesty Panel consisting of two Faculty members and one Student from the ASLMU Judiciary.

II. Departmental Appeal

- A. The Student may appeal the Instructor's decision under section I(C) or (D) to the Department Chair, Program Director, or equivalent. In accordance with the grade appeal policy in the Undergraduate Bulletin and Graduate Division Bulletin, the Student will be required to make his/her appeal in writing no later than three weeks into the semester following the decision.
- B. If either the Student or Instructor wishes, he/she may appeal the decision of the Department Chair, Program Director, or equivalent to the Dean of the Instructor's college or school, who will refer the matter to the Academic Honesty Panel. Appeals must be made within 30 days of receipt of the chair's decision.
 - b. whether the violation is an isolated instance, or part of a pattern of two or more violations; and
 - c. other mitigating or extenuating circumstances.
- D. The recommendation of the Academic Honesty Panel, along with an explanation of the reason for the recommendation, will be reported in writing to the Dean of the Instructor's college or school. The Dean will normally follow the recommendation of the Panel. However, the Dean's decision is final.
- E. The Dean will inform the Student and Instructor, in writing, of his/her decision. The Dean will also report his/her decision to the AVP. The Office of the AVP will keep a permanent, confidential record of all proceedings of the Academic Honesty Panel.

III. Academic Honesty Panel Appeal

- A. The Academic Honesty Panel is an ad hoc recommending body of the Instructor's college/school. The Panel consists of two Faculty members and one Student appointed by the Dean. The Dean will appoint one of the Faculty members as Chair of the Academic Honesty Panel.
- B. Responsibilities of the Panel
 - 1. The Panel will hear appeals by the Student or Instructor of the Chair's decision for any penalty short of expulsion or suspension.
 - 2. The Panel will make the initial recommendation as to whether the Student should be suspended or expelled.
- C. In fulfilling these responsibilities, the Panel will make two determinations:
 - 1. It will determine whether there is clear and convincing evidence that the Student has violated the Honor Code. The Student is entitled to the presumption of innocence and the right to review and respond to all evidence and information relevant to the Panel's decision.
 - 2. Upon the finding of clear and convincing evidence of a violation, the Panel is to determine the appropriate penalty. With regard to the appropriateness of serious recommendations such as suspension and expulsion, the Panel shall take into account the following factors:
 - a. the severity of the violation;

Attendance

The policy on class attendance is within the discretion of the individual faculty member and shall be announced by the faculty member at the first class meeting of the semester or listed on the class syllabus.

Concurrent Enrollment

Enrollment by degree-seeking students at another institution at the same time they are enrolled at LMU is not permitted.

Auditing a Course

Enrolled LMU students may not enroll as auditors in a regularly scheduled LMU course through the Continuing Education Division.

Students will be permitted to register as auditors only for exceptional reasons and with the authorization of the Dean of the college or school in which the course is offered. Not all courses are open to auditors. Auditors are not held responsible for the work expected of regular students and receive no grade or credit for the course. Regular attendance at class is expected.

A student who has previously enrolled as an auditor may not take the course for credit in the subsequent term except by special permission of the Dean of the college or school in which the course is offered.

Part-time students and students enrolled in an overload seeking to change from credit to audit status will be eligible for tuition adjustment only if the change is made within the period for late registration.

Change of Address

All students must notify the Office of the Registrar immediately of any change in their addresses or those of their parents or guardians. The University assumes no responsibility for materials sent through the mail not received.

Classification of Matriculated Students

Students are classified according to the following norms:

Freshman:	Satisfaction of entrance requirements.
Sophomore:	Completion of 30 semester hours.
Junior:	Completion of 60 semester hours.
Senior:	Completion of 90 semester hours.

Course Explanations

Classification of Courses

This section contains a list of symbols for all courses offered at the University, excluding the courses offered at the School of Law.

000-099	Courses offered in this number range do not carry degree-granting credit.
100-299	Lower division courses—degree-granting credit.
300-499	Upper division courses—degree-granting credit.
500-599	Upper division undergraduate courses in which graduate students may enroll and receive graduate credit.
600-699	Graduate courses—degree-granting credit.
800-999	Continuing Education courses. Courses offered in this number range do not carry degree-granting credit.
6000-6999	School of Education graduate courses—degree-granting credit.
7000-7999	School of Education Doctor of Education courses—degree-granting credit.

In exceptional circumstances, seniors may take courses in the 600 series with the written permission of the Chairperson of their major department and the Dean of the Graduate Division. In such cases, they register for “599—Independent Studies.” In this instance, the course is calculated in the undergraduate career. No undergraduate student may register for a course in the 600 series. Only students accepted into the Graduate Division may register for 600-, 6000-, and 7000-numbered courses.

Special Studies (98)

Courses whose numbers have as the last two digits “98” are Special Studies. These courses have a special syllabus and description not listed in the Bulletin. They can be held in a lecture, discussion, or seminar format at a specified or arranged time and place for a group of students.

Independent Studies (99)

Courses whose numbers have as the last two digits “99” are Independent Studies. This is an individualized study arranged by a student with a faculty member and approved by the Chairperson of the Department and the Dean.

These courses are for the educational enrichment of the student particularly qualified for the kind of experiences that are beyond the scope of a regular course. Under the supervision of a faculty member, the work will be of research or similarly creative nature and will normally culminate in a project or examination. Only full-time matriculated students are eligible, and approval will be given for only one Independent Studies course per semester. Freshmen and first-semester transfer students are not eligible.

Arrangements to undertake an Independent Studies course must be completed during the semester prior to the one in which the student expects to enroll in the course. An Independent Studies course is considered part of the student’s semester program. Registration for such courses takes place only during the regular registration periods.

Course Load

In Fall or Spring semesters, students in good standing from the previous semester may register for 18 units; 19 units or more constitutes an academic overload, for which academic advisor or Dean approval is required. Extra tuition is charged to any student who registers in 19 units or more.

Credit by Challenge Examination

A student may obtain credit by examination for undergraduate courses in the Loyola Marymount Bulletin in selected undergraduate courses as approved by the Chairperson and Dean of the respective departments and colleges or schools.

To challenge a Loyola Marymount undergraduate course by examination, a student must be regularly enrolled and a full-time student. A course may be challenged only once and only during the Fall and Spring semesters, not during the Summer session. Students may not challenge a course that is at a level more elementary than one in which they are currently enrolled or for which they have already received credit. Moreover, a student may not challenge a course which has been audited. Nor may students challenge a course for which they have received a W, I, NC, or F until a period of one year has elapsed from the time of their original registration in the course. A challenge examination once failed may not be repeated. 100- and 200-level courses in the Department of Modern Languages and Literatures may not be challenged.

A petition for receiving course credit by examination must be obtained from the Office of the Registrar. The examination carries a fee of $50, payable in advance and non-refundable.

Credit/No Credit Grading

Students may not be graded on a Credit/No Credit basis in courses which are part of a major, minor, or core curriculum program. Credit courses count toward the fulfillment of graduation requirements. Neither credit (CR) nor no credit (NC) grades affect the student's grade point average. Once the petition for either grade or credit/no credit basis has been filed in the Registrar's Office, it may not be rescinded or changed after the last day of registration.

Students may be graded on this basis for not more than 20% of their total semester hours at Loyola Marymount. Students wishing to be graded on this basis must file the appropriate petition in the Office of the Registrar by the published date in the Schedule of Classes.

In the case of courses that are graded on a Credit/No Credit basis, the student may petition the instructor for a letter grade with the approval of the Dean, before the end of the third week of the semester.

In order for a student to receive a grade of Credit, the work must be of C (2.0) or better.

Cross-Listed Courses

A cross-listed course is one that carries credit in more than one department or program.

Diploma

Diplomas are granted to students who have completed all graduation requirements and who have no outstanding financial obligations to the University. Diplomas left unclaimed are destroyed after three years. Students must re-order destroyed diplomas.

Double Credit

A student may not count the same course to meet the requirements for both an undergraduate and graduate degree.

Final Examinations

Students are required to take all scheduled examinations. Final examinations are to be held at the time published by the Registrar's Office. No student is allowed to take a final examination before the scheduled time.

Full-Time Standing

Any undergraduate student carrying 12 or more semester hours is considered a full-time student. Students carrying less than 12 semester hours are classified as part-time students. This applies to the academic standing. Please refer to the Financial Aid full-time/part-time standing.

Grades

Final grades are submitted by the student's instructors and are issued to the student by the Registrar at the end of each term.

Grade Appeals

It is understood that, except in rare instances, only the instructor, with the Department Chairperson's, Program Directors, or equivalent to the Dean of the instructor's college or school (hereafter called Department Chairperson) and Dean's approval, may change the final grade through the Registrar's Office. The Dean may, however, change the grade if all of the following processes of appeal have been followed. The Dean must notify the instructor, in writing, of the change in final grade.

1. No later than three weeks into the semester following the issuance of a disputed grade, the student must meet with the instructor to review the reasons for the grade.
2. If the instructor is not available for discussion or if discussion fails to resolve the problem, the student may ask the appropriate Department Chairperson to meet with both the instructor and the student. If the chairperson and the instructor are in agreement about the validity of the grade, the student may appeal to the appropriate Dean. If the chairperson cannot agree with the instructor, he will automatically refer the student to the Dean.
3. The student who appeals beyond the department level must file a written appeal to the appropriate Dean.

The Dean, upon receipt of the written appeal, will bring all parties together in an attempt to resolve the matter by mutual agreement. If agreement cannot be reached at this meeting, the Dean may appoint a committee of three impartial persons to investigate the matter and make a recommendation to the Dean. The Dean will normally follow the recommendation of the committee; however, the decision of the Dean is final.

Grading System

The work of all students at LMU is reported in terms of grades. Instructors are required to assign a final grade for each student registered in a course.

Undergraduate Grades

The following grades are used to report the quality of undergraduate student work at LMU:

A	Superior
B	Good
C	Satisfactory
D	Poor
F	Failure
CR	Credit—Equivalent to grade of C or higher
NC	No Credit—Equivalent to grade of C- or lower
NG	Non-graded course
NR	Not reported by instructor
AU	Audit
I	Work incomplete
W	Official withdrawal from course

A grade of A may be modified by a minus (-) suffix, and grades B and C may be modified by a plus (+) or minus (-) suffix. Grades A, B, C, and CR denote satisfactory progress toward the degree, but a D grade must be offset by higher grades in the same term for students to remain in good academic standing. Note that a "C-" grade is not a passing grade in courses requiring a minimum grade of "C." An F or NC grade yields no unit or course credit.

The withdrawal must be submitted to the Registrar's Office by the published withdrawal date. Failure to withdraw officially from a course will result in a grade of F (see Withdrawal).

Graduate Grades

The following grades are used to report the quality of graduate student work at LMU:

A	Superior
B	Satisfactorily demonstrated potential for professional achievement in field of study

C	Passed the course but did not do work indicative of potential for professional achievement in field of study
F	Failure
CR	Credit—Equivalent to grade of B or higher
NC	No Credit—Equivalent to grade of B- or lower
NG	Non-graded course
NR	Not reported by instructor
AU	Audit
I	Work incomplete
IP	Work in progress (for courses requiring more than one semester to complete)
W	Official withdrawal from course

A grade of A may be modified by a minus (-) suffix, and grades B and C may be modified by a plus (+) or minus (-) suffix. Grades A, B, and CR denote satisfactory progress toward the degree, but a B- grade must be offset by higher grades in the same term for students to remain in good academic standing. Courses in which a grade of B- through C- is received may be applied toward graduate degrees unless otherwise prohibited by the program requirements. A student must maintain a 3.0 GPA in order to remain in good academic standing. See the Graduate Bulletin for specific information. An F or NC grade yields no unit or course credit.

The withdrawal must be submitted to the Registrar's Office by the published withdrawal date. Failure to withdraw officially from a course will result in a grade of F (see Withdrawal).

Grade Point Average

Grade points are a measure of the quality of the academic work completed, just as semester hours are a measure of the quantity of this work. The University uses a letter grade to indicate the level of individual student achievement. Each letter grade has a point value assigned for the grade achieved. The point value assigned to each letter grade is as follows:

A	4.0 grade points	C+	2.3 grade points
A-	3.7 grade points	C	2.0 grade points
B+	3.3 grade points	C-	1.7 grade points
B	3.0 grade points	D	1.0 grade points
B-	2.7 grade points	F	0.0 grade points

The grades of AU, CR, NC, I, IP, and W have no point value and are not used in calculating the grade point average.

The LMU grade point average is determined by dividing the total number of LMU grade points by the number of LMU semester hours completed with a letter grade.

Change of Grades

Grades, once submitted to the Office of the Registrar, will be changed only in case of error. An instructor desiring a change of grade must present a written explanation to the Chairperson and the Dean. No grade changes will be made after the fourth week of instruction of the next full term.

A student's permanent record reflects the one upon which the University awarded the degree or recommended a credential. Therefore, no grade or other changes are permitted either after awarding the degree or recommending the credential.

Mid-Term Deficiencies

The Registrar's Office mails mid-term deficiency notices to students informing them of unsatisfactory work as submitted by instructors. The notices, advisory in nature and issued prior to the last day to withdraw in a term, are not part of the student's permanent academic record.

Graduation Rate

The completion or graduation rate by August 2003 for students who entered Loyola Marymount University in Fall 1997 on a full-time basis was 73%.

Incomplete Course Work

An incomplete grade may be assigned by the professor only if a student has completed at least 80% of the coursework.

Normally the student obtains from the Office of the Registrar a "Petition to Receive a Grade of Incomplete" form. The form is filled out by the student and given to the instructor who then completes the form by assigning a default grade which will be entered on the student's record if the student does not complete the coursework by the deadline.

An incomplete grade not removed by the deadline, which is three weeks after the first scheduled class day of the next semester, will result in the assignment of the default grade as submitted by the instructor. If no default form or grade was submitted, the incomplete grade will be converted to an F by the Registrar's Office.

If a student requires an extension to the deadline, the student must petition to obtain an extension to the deadline for removal of the incomplete grade. The petition, approved by the instructor, must be submitted to the Registrar's Office.

A degree will not be granted while a grade of Incomplete remains on a student's record.

Leave of Absence

A leave of absence may be granted to a student upon written request to the Office of the Registrar. A leave of absence may be granted for no more than two years.

For a student enrolled in a current term, application for the leave must be made before the stated deadline for withdrawal from classes. This date may be found in the academic calendar in the University Bulletin or the Schedule of Classes for the given term. A leave of absence may be granted only if the student withdraws from all courses in the term. If completed by the deadline, a student will receive grades of W for all courses in that given semester. A student may not take a leave of absence from the term if application is made after the stated deadline for withdrawal from classes. Any student who stops attendance after the deadline to withdraw from classes will receive a grade of F for each course in progress.

A student who is accepted to the University but not yet enrolled may defer admission through the Admissions Office. A student with prior enrollment may apply for a leave through the Registrar's Office. A leave of absence is canceled if the student registers in another college or university without prior written permission of the student's Dean. In this case, the student has de facto withdrawn (see Withdrawal) from LMU and must reapply through the Admissions Office. The student may enroll again at LMU if accepted through the Admissions Office. Similarly, a student is considered to have withdrawn from LMU if the leave of absence is extended unofficially beyond two years.

Major

A major indicates a particular curriculum within a degree program offered by one of the four undergraduate Colleges and one undergraduate School. The major is usually declared by the student at the time of acceptance to the University. If a student is unsure about a particular program of study within a degree program, some Colleges will allow for an undeclared major within that college. This option is at the discretion of the College or School. A student must, under normal circumstances, declare a major within a degree program prior to earning sixty semester hours of credit.

A student must have a cumulative grade point average of C (2.0) in all courses required by the major. Please note that certain majors have more stringent requirements. The particular requirements are listed under the department listings in this Bulletin.

Change of Major

A student wishing to change from one major to another in the same College or School must present to the Registrar's Office a Change of Major petition approved and signed by the Chairpersons of the involved major departments and the Dean of the College. If the change involves another College or School, approval of the accepting College or School must be secured first. A student is subject to the major and degree requirements of the new program and responsible for making up any deficiencies under direction of the Dean. Changes of major should be processed prior to registration for the subsequent term.

Double Major

A student may earn a Bachelor's degree with a double (secondary) major by successfully completing the following requirements for the second major prior to, or in the same term as, the first (primary) major:

1. Completion of the requirements of the primary major; and
2. Completion of the requirements of the secondary major; and
3. Completion of requirements for the primary Bachelor's degree.

No more than eight semester hours of upper division work in the primary major can be used to satisfy the requirements of the secondary major. The two majors will be printed on the student's transcript of record and University diploma.

Minor

Students who choose to complete a minor must meet the following general requirements:

1. A minor program consists of 18 or more semester hours. At least half of the upper division semester hours of the minor program must be completed in residence at Loyola Marymount.
2. Specific semester hour requirements are listed by each department offering a minor program. A student who declares a minor is held responsible for the academic regulations in effect at the time the minor is declared. A student who interrupts LMU enrollment is subject to the academic regulations in effect in the University Bulletin at the time enrollment is resumed.
3. A student must have a cumulative grade point average of C (2.0) for courses taken in the minor program.

4. The minor may not be in the same program as the student's major.
5. Courses may not count as fulfilling both a major and minor program, unless a specific course is required by both programs.
6. A minor may be earned only while the student is concurrently completing the requirements for a baccalaureate degree. The minor must be cleared by the Dean's office at the same time that the baccalaureate degree is cleared.
7. Students are advised to consult department regulations in the Bulletin for further information.

Privacy Rights of Students in Education Records

The Federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (20 U.S.C. 1232g) and regulations adopted thereunder (34 C.F.R. 99) and California Education Code Section 67100 et seq., set out requirements designed to protect the privacy of students concerning their education records maintained by LMU.

Specifically, the statute and regulations govern access to student records maintained by the campus and the release of such records. In brief, the law dictates that LMU provide students access to records directly related to the student and an opportunity for a hearing to challenge such records on the grounds that they are inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise inappropriate. The right to a hearing under the law does not include any right to challenge the appropriateness of a grade as determined by the instructor. The law generally requires that written consent of the student be received before releasing personally identifiable data about the student from records to other than a specified list of exceptions.

Among the types of information included in the campus statement of policies and procedures are: 1) the types of student records and the information contained therein, 2) the official responsible for the maintenance of each type of record, 3) the location of access lists that indicate persons requesting or receiving information from the record, 4) policies for reviewing and expunging records, 5) the access rights of students, 6) the procedures for challenging the content of student records, 7) the cost that is charged for reproducing copies of records, and 8) the right of the student to file a complaint with the Department of Education.

An office and review board have been established by the department to investigate and adjudicate violations and complaints. The office designated for this purpose is the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act Office (FERPA), U.S. Department of Education, 330 C Street, Room 4511, Washington, D.C. 20202.

LMU is authorized under the Act to release public “directory information” concerning students. “Directory information” includes the student’s name, address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended by the student.

The above designated information is subject to release by LMU at any time unless it has received prior written objection from the student. Written objections should be sent to the Office of the Registrar.

LMU is authorized to provide access to student records to campus officials and employees who have legitimate educational interests in such access. These persons have responsibilities in connection with the campus’ academic, administrative, or service functions and who have reason for using student records connected with their campus or other related academic responsibilities.

Registration

The days of registration are listed in the University Calendar. All students must follow the registration procedures as established by the Registrar’s Office. A student is not considered registered until official clearance has been obtained from the Controller’s Office and successful registration has been processed by the Registrar’s Office. The official academic program consists of the courses in which the student is enrolled at the close of official registration. Students may not attend a course for which they are not registered.

Repeating Courses

Students may repeat a course previously taken at LMU in a subsequent term at LMU up to two additional times, including any withdrawals; the prior occurrence is excluded from the cumulative grade point average but remains on the transcript. All units attempted are used to determine the student’s grade point average and graduation eligibility. The grade of the latest occurrence of the repeated course will be the one calculated into the cumulative average. Please note that although the term GPA will change accordingly, the academic status of the term will not change. Courses taken on a credit/no credit basis may not be used as a repeat course to exclude from the cumulative average a grade of a prior occurrence taken on a letter grade basis. Students may not register for any course in the College of Business Administration for a third time without the written permission of the Department Chairperson of the course and the Dean. Questions concerning this policy should be directed to the Office of the Registrar.

Undergraduate students may not repeat an elementary or intermediate foreign language course after successful completion of a more advanced course in the same language.

For graduate students, repetition of a course more than once requires the approval of the Graduate Program Director and is granted only under extraordinary circumstances.

Transcripts

Official transcripts of courses taken at the University are issued only with the written permission of the student concerned. Partial transcripts are not issued.

Transcripts show all Loyola Marymount University work completed as of the date of application for the transcript. Work in progress accompanies the transcript. Requests for transcripts to show end of current semester’s work are held until all grades are recorded.

Transcript requests are processed in accordance with the date of filing. Transcripts will not be issued when a student has outstanding financial obligations to the University. In this case, the student will be notified by the Controller’s Office.

Transcripts from other institutions which have been presented for admission or evaluation become a part of the student’s permanent academic file and are not returned or copied for distribution. Students desiring transcripts covering work attempted elsewhere should request them from the appropriate institutions.

Transfer Credit

Credit for work completed at institutions accredited by one of the six regional associations of the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities, other than course work identified by such institutions as remedial or in other ways as being nontransferable, may be accepted toward the satisfaction of baccalaureate degree and credential requirements at the University within limitations of residence requirements and community college transfer maximums. Courses with grades below C (2.0) do not transfer. A maximum of 60 semester hours from a community college and 90 hours from a four-year institution is transferable to the degree program of the University. In order for work from foreign institutions to be considered for transfer credit, that institution must be recognized by the Ministry of Education of that country.

Any student regularly enrolled as a degree candidate who elects to take courses at a college or university other than Loyola Marymount University must obtain written approval of the Chairperson of the major department and the Dean prior to enrollment in such courses. Courses taken without this approval may not be counted toward the degree. Approved courses must be passed with a grade of C (2.0) or higher in order to transfer. Semester hour value is granted to transfer courses; grades or GPA information on transfer work is neither listed on nor calculated in LMU work printed on the academic record.

Transfer work taken at a foreign college or university may be used toward degree work if the institution is recognized by the Ministry of Education in the country where the institution is located.

It is the responsibility of the student to submit all foreign transcripts to an LMU-approved credentials-evaluating agency for translation into English and/or for evaluation of U.S. equivalent course work and corresponding grade. Information on such agencies may be obtained by contacting the Office of the Registrar.

Foreign transcripts submitted without appropriate evaluations will not be considered for eligible transfer work to LMU.

Tutorials

Only regularly offered courses described in this Bulletin may be taken as tutorial courses. Students may individually arrange with a faculty member to take the course as a tutorial. A tutorial course is considered part of a student's semester program. Registration for it takes place during the regular registration periods. Only full-time students are eligible, and approval will be given for only one tutorial course per semester. Freshmen and first-semester transfer students are not eligible.

Withdrawal

Withdrawal from Courses

A student may withdraw from any or all courses prior to the last day to withdraw in a term as published in the University Bulletin and Schedule of Classes. A currently enrolled student may withdraw from a course(s) by using the drop function in the computer registration system (PROWL) or the telephone registration system (ROAR).

Prior to the deadline, an undergraduate student is allowed to drop all but one course using PROWL or ROAR. In order to completely withdraw from a term or the University, this student must contact the Office of the Registrar.

Prior to the deadline, a student may drop all courses using PROWL or ROAR and withdraw either from the term or the University. When successfully completed, the student will receive grades of W in each of the courses and will be considered to be on a leave of absence for up to two years unless the student gives written notice to the Registrar's Office that he/she is withdrawing from the University. After the deadline, students may withdraw from courses only for medical or psychological reasons. A written petition with accompanying documentation from a licensed professional should be submitted to the Registrar with the signature of the Dean of the student's major college or school. The documentation from the licensed professional must certify that the student is not able to complete the semester for medical or psychological reasons. If approved, the student will be withdrawn for all courses and not a portion of the course schedule. Students are eligible for tuition and fee refunds according to the University's published policy. Additional documentation from a licensed professional is required indicating that the student is able to resume study at the University.

Withdrawal from the University

A withdrawal from the University is the termination of the academic program and course of study and the rights and privileges offered to currently enrolled students. (See above.)

Academic Programs and Services

Programs

University Honors

Director: Kelly Younger

As a means of creatively challenging the potential of the outstanding student and thereby contributing to the intellectual life of the entire academic community, the University adopted the Honors Program in 1958. By constant experimentation and periodic revision, the program attempts to keep true to its original intent of providing intellectual adventure.

The program is interdepartmental and does not involve a separate faculty. It relies on the interest and generosity of the entire University faculty and on the enthusiasm of the truly exceptional students to become mutually involved in an intellectual experience. Not being a separate unit apart from the rest of the University community, the University Honors faculty and students thus share with the rest of the school the stimulation of their special academic experience.

Taking advantage of its freedom from some of the restrictions involved in the structure of regular courses, the University Honors Program attempts to challenge as well as to inform, to ask hard questions as well as to examine tested solutions. Its goal is to provide a carefully integrated and demanding curriculum for the exceptional student.

The University Honors Program is open to students from all the undergraduate Colleges and the undergraduate School of Loyola Marymount. The Program is administered by the Honors Director with the assistance of the Assistant Director and the Honors Advisory Council. Faculty members from all disciplines at Loyola Marymount are invited to participate.

The University Honors core curriculum begins with an intensive undergraduate experience combining four interdisciplinary courses in the humanities and sciences with an individualized sequence in writing, critical thinking, and cultural studies. A second-year sequence in historiography, theology, and natural philosophy prepares the Honors student for the third-year seminars in ethics, interdisciplinary study, and thesis preparation. The fourth year results in the publication of the capstone thesis project: the culmination of independent research under the individual guidance of a professor and the participation in the Senior Thesis Forum.

University Honors students must maintain an average

GPA of 3.50 and display proficiency in a foreign language. Successful completion of the University Honors Program is announced at the annual Commencement ceremonies and noted on the student's permanent transcript. This recognition is of lasting personal, professional, and academic value.

The University Honors Program is open to incoming and current first year students. First semester sophomores and transfer students may also apply. More is expected of students in the Honors Program; not everyone is qualified to join. We are interested in: a sense of academic adventure, highly motivated individuals, rigorous educational experience, social awareness, personal responsibility, interesting personal background, a first-rate cumulative GPA (4.0 scale), highly competitive test scores (SAT and/or ACT), the constant pursuit of excellence. Interested students should complete an application; schedule an interview with the Director, Assistant Director, or member of the Honors Advisory Council; provide a critical writing sample; and submit a letter of reference.

Each Fall, the University Honors Program carefully selects a limited number of incoming students to join the Program. Application materials are available at <http://www.lmu.edu/honors>.

Further details on requirements and course descriptions are continued under University Honors Program in the Bulletin.

Individualized Study Program

Director: College or School Dean

The Individualized Study Program involves a select number of creative and highly motivated students within all colleges and schools of the University whose educational needs and goals cannot fully be met by individual departments or majors. The program is thus designed to offer each participant greater responsibility in determining the content of his or her major program, based upon the goals to which that major is directed. Students may wish to construct their programs or areas of concentration from interdisciplinary, independent study, field work alternatives, or a combination thereof.

The program is open to freshmen and sophomores who have completed at least one semester in the participating colleges or schools. Once accepted into the program by the Dean of the student's college or school, the student selects a counselor who assists in designing the specific content of the major in line with the student's objectives.

The student's program is then formalized into a contract signed by the student, advisor, and Dean. Upon completion of the contracted course of studies, the student is issued a degree in the major or area of concentration.

Naval ROTC

Eligible Loyola Marymount University students who wish to participate in the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps may do so through a program established with the UCLA University Extension. The program, in conjunction with an LMU baccalaureate degree, leads to a commission in the United States Navy or Marine Corps. Appropriate academic credit for courses accredited by the University of California is given in accordance with the policies governing LMU's Aerospace Studies program. Further information may be obtained from the Chairperson of the Department of Naval Science, University of California, Los Angeles.

Preparation for a Career in Law

Director: Evan Gerstmann

The University offers several curricula that are appropriate for students who plan to enter law school upon the completion of their undergraduate degree. The prelaw student should select a course of study that insures the development of the skills essential to the successful study of law: 1) the ability to use language and communicate effectively and 2) the ability to think critically and creatively. In addition, the prelaw curriculum must provide a broad understanding of basic human institutions and values.

To insure they follow an appropriate course of study, prelaw students are advised to select their classes in consultation with the University Prelaw Advisor. The Prelaw Advisor also serves as a resource person for students during the law school application process.

Preparation for the Health Professions

Director: Stephen Scheck

The Health Professions Information Program provides the student with regular informational meetings. The Director of the Program serves as a resource person and is available for individual consultation. The Director's Office distributes relevant materials to prospective applicants and maintains their files for the Health Professions Advisory Committee. The Committee assists students in completing the application process to health professional schools.

The University offers pre-health professional curricula for those students who plan to apply for admission to the following programs: Medicine, Dentistry, Optometry, Pediatric Medicine, Veterinary Medicine, Pharmacy, Medical Technology, Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, and Public Health. These curricula are not degree programs, and students who wish to complete the requirements for a Bachelor's degree before admission to a professional school should select a major within the University. Students usually select a biology, biochemistry, or other science major. Students in other majors should consult with the director early in their college career about blending pre-health profession courses with their chosen major. In addition to fulfilling the requirements of the chosen major, specific requirements of the professional programs should be satisfied. The following lower division courses are usually required: BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112, 201, 202; CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113, 220, 221, 222, 223; English (6 semester hours); MATH 122, 123; PHYS 253, 254, 255, 256; and PSYC 100. In addition, other specified upper division biology courses and electives from Liberal Arts, Fine Arts, and the Sciences may be required.

Students should be aware that many health professional schools do not recognize some AP credits and that alternative coursework may need to be completed to meet admission requirements. Please discuss with the Director.

ROTC Programs

Director: TBA

Loyola Marymount offers its own program of instruction designed to prepare students for commissioning as second lieutenants in the United States Air Force. Additional information can be found under Aerospace Studies in this Bulletin.

Services

LMU Extension

Center for Religion and Spirituality

Director: TBA

The Center for Religion and Spirituality makes a vital contribution to the mission of Loyola Marymount University by expanding LMU's religious and educational outreach to a wider range of constituencies in Southern California and beyond. As part of LMU Extension, the Center embodies LMU's commitment to serve the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Los Angeles, other local churches, religious groups, and the general public through the development of diverse programs related to religion, spirituality, faith, and justice.

In collaboration with the Department of Theological

Studies and other departments and divisions of the University, the Center sponsors a variety of continuing education courses, certificate programs, lecture series, weekend workshops, summer institutes, and special events. It also provides online courses and other non-traditional venues for religious education, faith formation, and spiritual development, thus linking the University and its mission to the greater Los Angeles community and beyond.

Continuing Education

Directors: Madge Claybion and Ben Hayes

LMU Extension offers certificates, courses, programs, institutes, conferences, and lectures which provide a variety of educational experiences to members of the community. There are three types of classifications of such offerings.

The first of these is Professional Development courses in a certificate or professional development program with identifiable subject areas or in particular disciplines, e.g., teacher education. These are offered under a departmental rubric and carry University semester hours of continuing education/professional development credit. The second type are those courses with academic content falling outside the normal undergraduate or graduate offerings. Such courses and programs are offered under the rubric CNTX. Credit is recorded in semester hours; 1.0 semester hour represents 10 continuing education contact hours. The third type is personal enrichment programs covering a variety of activities that might include dance, martial arts, or yoga, to name but a few.

Regular Loyola Marymount undergraduate students may enroll in "For Credit" Continuing Education courses with permission of their College Dean, at the fees quoted for such courses, above and beyond regular full-time tuition. Enrollment in other Continuing Education offerings is unrestricted unless otherwise specified, also at the fees quoted.

Encore Program

Director: Susan Pentz

Encore is designed to assist non-traditional students (those over 25 years old) who are just beginning college or are resuming an interrupted college education after at least five years absence from an organized degree program. Students must have a high school diploma or have passed the GED.

Encore provides the opportunity, guidance, and support (academic, administrative, and social) for non-traditional students, on a full- or part-time basis, to work towards their academic goals. Encore students enroll in regular

LMU courses and participate in two special one-unit seminar courses that focus on weaving the non-traditional student into the fabric of academic life at LMU.

Study Abroad

Director: Patricia Masters

LMU sponsors several study abroad programs for summer, semester, and full-year.

New Europe Program

Important economic and political changes are taking place in Europe. LMU's New Europe Program, in Bonn, Germany, is conveniently located near vital European centers such as Brussels and the Hague.

In affiliation with the Academy for International Education, the New Europe Program offers both semester and full-year opportunities.

A range of courses is available in business administration, liberal arts (including German and other European languages), and communication, giving participants an opportunity to work toward their degrees in an academically diverse environment without losing a semester. Faculty come from LMU, German universities, and AIB. Enrollment in a German language course is mandatory for all students who participate in the Program.

Students with a minimum GPA of 2.8, who are in good standing at any college or university, are invited to apply for the Fall, Spring, or full academic year. Applications to the New Europe Program are available through the Study Abroad Office. Students may register for 12 to 17 semester hours of credit during the Fall or Spring semester. Students receive semester hour credit on the LMU transcripts for courses taken.

The program costs (comparable to the cost of a full-time student in residence at LMU) include tuition, housing, breakfast and dinner, public transportation in Bonn, several cultural activities, and excursions and site visits to metropolitan centers such as Paris, Brussels, Bruges, Berlin, Prague, and Dresden. For those students staying the entire academic year on the New Europe Program, an additional excursion to Spain is offered during the Spring semester. The cost does not include round-trip airfare, textbooks, and other personal expenses.

All LMU financial packages can be applied to the New Europe Program; LMU tuition payment plans are applicable. For complete information, consult the Study Abroad Office in University Hall 1840.

Film and Television Program in Germany

This program is located in Dusseldorf, Germany, and focuses on film in the European context—the Avante Garde, independent film making, and other experimental media. This is designed as a semester program with Fall semester offerings focusing on Film and TVPD majors, and with the Spring semester focusing on Media Studies for all students. Taught by LMU faculty and European film and television experts in the Loyola Marymount University tradition, the courses are offered in the form of master workshops, providing students with an exclusive learning experience. The close interaction with faculty that is afforded by this format makes the program unique. Students receive 15 units of credit by taking workshops and a German language and culture course.

The semester in Dusseldorf includes excursions and educational field trips to give students a deeper insight into film and TV production in Europe. Depending on the semester and opportunity, students will attend film festivals, visit production sites, go to film museums, and meet and talk with directors, producers, and others in the media field. A week excursion to Berlin and Prague, two centers of film production, will bring to life the theories learned in the classroom and will help to inform and stimulate students in their own artistic productions. Each student will produce a 10-15 minute video documentary. Staff and teaching assistants in film will assist with the technical and creative needs, if necessary.

Students with a minimum GPA of 2.8, who are in good standing at any university or college and, for the Fall semester, have completed the FILM and TVPD prerequisites, are invited to apply. The program cost is comparable to full-time residency at LMU and includes tuition, housing, breakfast and dinner, excursions, and public transportation within Dusseldorf. Applications are available through the Study Abroad Office in University Hall, Suite 1840.

Ahmedabad Semester in India Program

The Ahmedabad Semester in India Program offers a unique opportunity for students to learn about India, one of the world's oldest civilizations. The primary focus of the program is on Indian religions, arts, languages, and cultures. There will also be components that will involve the study of environmental sciences in India and an opportunity to engage in service learning.

The program will be located at Gujarat University, which has a spacious campus setting and a large and growing library collection. Adjacent to the campus is the L.D. Institute of Indology and St. Xavier's College, a Jesuit institution of higher learning. The L.D. Institute features a superb library, museum, study space, and a staff adept at assisting American students and scholars. St. Xavier's

College, part of a world-wide network of Jesuit colleges and universities, offers logistical support. The nearby Gandhi Labor Institute will help facilitate field placement for service learning, and the Somalalitha Institute of Business Management (SIBM) offers air-conditioned classrooms. SIBM has up-to-date computer facilities and instructors holding American doctorates in Business Management. The Nehru Center for Environmental Education is also located nearby with a working outdoor laboratory and will allow students interested in environmental science to intern at the Center in such areas such as forestation, technological innovations appropriate to the Indian context, research into issues such as the Narmada Dam controversy, and educational outreach. Mahatma Gandhi's central ashram is also located in Ahmedabad and will serve as an important site for field research and service learning.

Jesuit China Study Abroad Program

The Beijing Center for Language and Culture (TBC) is a study abroad program for undergraduate students interested in other cultures, languages, peoples, philosophies, religions, and economies. The program offers a unique mix of study and first-hand experience in China through intensive language classes, cultural seminars, and contemporary business and political science courses brought to life by extensive academic adventure travel.

TBC offers a comprehensive set of seminar-style courses on Chinese culture, history, literature, philosophy, religions, sociology, communication, art, political science, and business. Students do not need to know Chinese prior to participating in the program. All courses are taught in English by Beijing's top scholars, and many of the courses' lectures incorporate discussion with some of the business and political leaders in Beijing. In particular, courses in mass communications, cinema, international relations, and economics are noted for meeting Chinese leaders. Please see the TBC course catalog or website for course descriptions, professor biographies, and additional academic information.

If you are interested in having an extraordinary semester and want to find out more, please come to the Study Abroad Office at UH 1842, or visit the program website, <http://www.TheBeijingCenter.org>.

Summer Abroad

Summer programs are offered in Africa, China, France, Germany, Greece, Honduras, Ireland, Italy, Mexico, and the United Kingdom. The Washington Center in Washington, D.C. also offers summer internship opportunities for students. These programs offer courses in language, culture, business administration, science, the arts, and humanities.

Affiliate Programs

LMU is affiliated with programs in the following countries: Australia, Austria, China, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Korea, Spain, the United Kingdom, Venezuela, and many other countries throughout Europe, South America, and Asia. The University has both formal and informal affiliations with programs sponsored by institutions or organizations around the world. LMU has formal student exchange programs with Sophia University in Tokyo, Japan; Sogang University in Seoul, Korea; Universidad de Deusto in San Sebastian, Spain; Ateneo de Manila; and Iberoamericana Universidad in Mexico.

It is also possible for students to plan with their advisors individually tailored programs with non-affiliated institutions abroad.

Credit Transfer

All Study Abroad work done at an American institution must be done at an institution accredited as a degree-granting institution by one of the accrediting bodies recognized by the Commission on Recognition of Postsecondary Accreditation (CORPA). Foreign institutions must be recognized by that country's Ministry of Education. (See Transfer Credit on page 67.)

Summer Session

Director: Susan Pentz

The Summer Session is open to Loyola Marymount students and to prospective students admitted to the University, to students from other colleges or universities, and to members of the community. Academic standards and requirements that apply during the Fall and Spring terms are likewise maintained in the Summer Session. Summer enrollment does not constitute admission to the University.

Summer offerings generally are of two types:

1. Courses in the principal academic and professional preparation areas for all categories of undergraduate and graduate students.
2. Innovative and experimental courses in which students and professors explore new and unusual methods of study and content over a short term. Such courses carry credit and maintain the usual academic standards of the University.

Further information may be obtained by consulting the current Summer Session Bulletin, on the web at <http://summer.lmu.edu>, or by writing to the Summer Session Office.

Other University Services

Basil P. Caloyeras Center for Modern Greek Studies

Director: Demetrios Liappas

The Caloyeras Center for Modern Greek Studies provides students with an opportunity to study the culture of contemporary Greece. By means of courses in the language, literature, and the arts of the Greece of today, a doorway is opened to the past, which is thus given a fresh and compelling reality.

The Center has the following goals:

- To offer courses in modern Greek language, post-classical and modern literature and history, the Greek Orthodox tradition, theatre, cinema, dance, music, and the fine arts.
- To encourage students to pursue a minor in Modern Greek Studies.
- To sponsor lectures on subjects pertaining to Greece which are of interest to the academic community and to the public at large.
- To encourage students and faculty to pursue studies and research projects in Greece.

The Center supports the courses that lead to a minor in Modern Greek. (See "Classics and Archaeology" in this Bulletin.)

Thomas and Dorothy Leavey Center for the Study of Los Angeles

Director: Fernando Guerra

Overview

The Thomas and Dorothy Leavey Center for the Study of Los Angeles was established in 1994 to assist students, the University, and the community at large to become agents for change that leads to social justice. Using Los Angeles as a laboratory for understanding the urban experience, the center has become a university leader in developing multidisciplinary courses, producing highly regarded applied research, and promoting civic involvement.

Programs

Southern Californians and Their Leaders is one of the only systematic analyses of how our leaders view contemporary Los Angeles, the opportunities and constraints they face, and the conditions that facilitate leadership. Current activities include leadership roundtables, public opinion polls and leadership surveys, leadership internships, and a leadership lecture series.

These activities enable students to apply their classroom knowledge in a real-world setting and aim to empower them to serve their community with skill and compassion.

The Community Studies Program gives students the opportunity to examine patterns and trends reshaping Los Angeles from the perspective of individual neighborhoods. Through in-depth neighborhood analyses, this program gives residents a voice on issues facing their communities. Community studies have focused on communities with a strong Jesuit presence: Hollywood, Pico Union, East Los Angeles, Watts, Lennox, Westchester, and Playa Vista.

In a short span of time, the center has established one of the best undergraduate archives in the nation, the Research Collection. The research collection promotes preservation and analysis of historical documents of public officials, post-World War II developers, late-twentieth-century Los Angeles reformers and reform movements, and prominent Catholic families. Holdings include a decade's worth of the original program tapes of KCRW 89.9 FM's Which Way, L.A.? as well as the papers of Rebuild L.A., Los Angeles Educational Alliance for Restructuring Now (LEARN), Los Angeles Annenberg Metropolitan Project (LAAMP), Fritz B. Burns, and Mike Roos, to name just a few. A complete index to the research collection and the contents of individual collections is available online at <http://lib.lmu.edu/special/csla/csla.htm>.

Disability Support Services

The Disability Support Services (DSS) Office, which is located on the second floor of Daum Hall, provides specialized assistance and resources that enable students with documented physical, learning, and/or psychological disabilities to achieve maximum independence while they pursue their educational goals. Students with a disability that substantially impacts their ability to learn and perform to the best of their capacity may be eligible for a variety of services. To be eligible, documentation of the disability must be provided from an appropriate licensed/certified professional. To request a form assisting you with providing the complete documentation and/or if you require further information, you may locate more information from our website: <http://www.lmu.edu/dss/>, or contact the DSS office at (310) 338-4535.

Learning Resource Center

Director: Marcia L. Albert

The Learning Resource Center, which is located on the second floor of Daum Hall, is a place where LMU students can enlist the help of specialists and tutors to enhance the learning process. Every LMU student is invited to make use of the LRC's free services and workshops. The Center's full-time specialists in writing, mathematics, and learning skills, as well as its peer tutoring staff, are ready to work with students to encourage those essential learning skills which bring greater academic and personal success. In addition, the Center offers one hour, appointment-based tutoring in a variety of LMU courses. For additional information on LRC services, please call (310) 338-2847 or visit <http://www.lmu.edu/lrc>.

Orientation

Director: Page Streb

The Orientation Program welcomes new students to the Loyola Marymount community. During Orientation, students are introduced to the academic programs of the University, meet with faculty for individual academic advisement, and are assisted in registering for courses. Students also become familiar with all of the services, activities, and resources available to them. Throughout the Orientation Program, students interact in small "O" groups, led by students who attend LMU. Since Orientation provides a useful introduction to the people, programs, and opportunities LMU offers, all new students are required to participate in the program. For additional information, please contact the Director of Orientation at (310) 338-7429.

University Libraries

Associate Academic Vice President for Library and Information Services: G. Edward Evans

The Charles Von der Ahe Library, named for its principal donor, was constructed in 1959 and doubled in size in 1977. It contains the collections of the University's Westchester campus, which totals approximately 398,000 books and bound periodicals, 12,000 various media titles, 140,000 microforms, 3,000 current periodical subscriptions in paper format, and over 13,000 electronic periodical subscriptions. In addition to the Library's online catalog, LINUS, network access is also available to online index databases such as FirstSearch™, EBSCOhost™, and PROquest Research Library™. For a complete listing of available databases, please go to the Library home page: <http://www.lmu.edu/library>. In addition, the Library is a member of the LINK+ Consortium, an organization created to allow patrons to borrow books from member libraries. LINK+ includes over 4.5 million titles available by patron request from LINUS, the online catalog. The Library's Instruction Program offers classroom instruction in information literacy and database searching.

The Department of Archives and Special Collections houses collections of art, rare books, manuscripts, and the University Archives. Notable holdings include the St. Thomas More, Oliver Goldsmith, and Helena and John Weadock Collection of rare English and American first editions. Other important collections are the papers of the motion picture producer Arthur P. Jacobs, best known for the Planet of the Apes series, and the Werner Von Boltensern postcard collection which contains one million cards. The department also houses the Research Collection of the Center for the Study of Los Angeles which collects research materials relating to local public officials, post-World War II developers, late twentieth-century reformers, and prominent Catholic families.

The Library's Media and Reserve Services Department provides reserve materials for student classwork as well as equipment and materials in various multi-media formats. Study carrels are equipped so that students can listen to audiocassettes, compact discs, and LPs, and view videocassettes, laserdiscs, slides, filmstrips, and CD-ROMs. More information about the Library may be found at <http://www.lmu.edu/library>.

Academic Awards and Commencement Honors

Honors at Commencement

To be eligible for scholastic honors at commencement, a student must have completed at least 60 semester hours toward the baccalaureate degree on a graded basis (Credit/No Credit grades do not apply) at Loyola Marymount. Honors at commencement are determined by the cumulative grade point average on LMU work only. The following grade point averages are required for the honors indicated:

3.9	Summa Cum Laude
3.7	Magna Cum Laude
3.5	Cum Laude

These honors are entered on the transcript and are inscribed on the diploma.

Dean's List

A Dean's List, comprised of full-time matriculated undergraduate students, is published at the end of the Fall and Spring semesters. To be eligible for the Dean's list, students must have completed 15 semester hours at LMU and received letter grades in at least 12 semester hours with a cumulative term grade point average of 3.50 or better. To qualify for the Dean's List, one must have completed all courses and not received a grade of F in any course.

Jesuit Honor Society

Alpha Sigma Nu is a national honor society for men and women. The society was organized to honor students from Jesuit colleges and universities who have distinguished themselves in scholarship, loyalty, and service to the University. A limited number of juniors and seniors are selected for membership each year. The society offers its services to the University, particularly in an effort to stimulate intellectual interest and accomplishment.

Presented to the outstanding graduating senior in good academic standing who, through his/her leadership, activities, and involvement with the community beyond the campus and throughout his or her years at Loyola Marymount University, has improved relations between the community and the University and has created a positive view of Loyola Marymount University. The recipient has exemplified Jesuit and Marymount ideals of hard work and generosity, has had a significant impact in off-campus service, and has given promise of selfless and effective leadership in the years ahead.

Sr. Raymunde McKay, R.S.H.M., Service and Leadership Award for Seniors

Presented to ten graduating seniors in good academic standing who, during their years at Loyola Marymount, have excelled as leaders and servants. The recipients of the McKay Award have: been instrumental in initiating change; taken on leadership roles that have motivated their peers to challenge themselves and others; enriched the quality of University life by building school spirit and by creating a positive and respectful community; and given selflessly of their time and energy in an attempt to make the world—that of the University, local community, and nation—a better place.

University Honors Program

University Honors Program

All University Colleges

Director:

Kelly Younger

Objectives:

The University Honors core curriculum is an intensive undergraduate experience beginning with four interdisciplinary courses in the humanities and sciences with an individualized sequence in writing, critical thinking, and cultural studies. A second-year sequence in historiography, theology, and natural philosophy prepares the Honors student for the third-year seminars in ethics, interdisciplinary studies, and thesis preparation. The fourth year results in the publication of the capstone thesis project: the culmination of independent research under the individual guidance of a professor and the participation in the Senior Thesis Forum.

University Honors students must maintain an average GPA of 3.50 and display proficiency in a foreign language. Successful completion of the University Honors Program is announced at the annual commencement ceremonies and noted on the student's permanent transcript. This recognition is of lasting personal, professional, and academic value.

The University Honors Program is open to incoming and current first year students. First semester sophomores and transfer students may also apply. More is expected of students in the Honors Program; not everyone is qualified to join. We are interested in: a sense of academic adventure, highly motivated individuals, rigorous educational experience, social awareness, personal responsibility, interesting personal background, a first-rate cumulative GPA (4.0 scale), highly competitive test scores (SAT and/or ACT), the constant pursuit of excellence. Interested students should complete an application; schedule an interview with the Director, Assistant Director, or member of the Honors Advisory Council; provide a critical writing sample; and submit a letter of reference.

Each Fall the University Honors Program carefully selects a limited number of incoming students to join the Program. Application materials are available at <http://www.lmu.edu/honors>.

Bellarmino College of Liberal Arts

Bellarmino College of Liberal Arts

Administration

Dean: Michael E. Engh, S.J.
Associate Dean: John R. Popiden

Mission of the College

The Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts (BCLA) embodies the wider University goals of liberal education and commitment to Roman Catholicism and the Judaeo-Christian tradition. The curriculum in the College liberates the mind, nourishes the spirit, and cultivates creativity for the challenges of today and tomorrow. Its courses, therefore, are at the heart of the University's core curriculum for all undergraduates.

BCLA Student Learning Outcomes

By virtue of their liberal arts courses, LMU students should understand:

- The various ways in which knowledge is established and integrated
- The broad outlines of human history and the interconnectedness of the world
- The philosophical and theological dimensions of our intellectual traditions.

By virtue of their liberal arts courses, LMU students should be able to:

- Demonstrate written and oral competencies
- Synthesize and apply knowledge to solve problems, personal and social
- Interact cross-culturally and pursue justice, locally and globally.

By virtue of their liberal arts courses, LMU students should value:

- The life of the mind, enhanced self-awareness and social awareness
- Critical reflection that leads to thoughtful action
- Diversity, responsibility, justice, and globally sound human practice.

Similarly, BCLA students attain the learning outcomes of their majors and minors, found in the following program descriptions.

Organization of the College

The College offers undergraduate majors and/or minors in the following fields of learning:

Application of General University Requirements

The University requirements for admission, graduation, and all general rules and regulations of the University as set forth in this Bulletin are applicable to and binding upon all students enrolled in the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts.

Degree Requirements for a Baccalaureate Degree in the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts

The degree program has three components: core, major, and electives. The core curriculum, which is taken throughout the four-year program, provides educational breadth and embodies Loyola Marymount's educational mission and vision. The major provides a field of concentration that develops a depth of understanding in the humanities or social sciences. Finally, up to one-third of the program is made up of electives. This provides the opportunity for exploring fields of study complementary to the major or for developing expertise in a second major or minor.

Total Program

120 semester hours are required for graduation with the following distribution: a) at least 45 semester hours of upper division, and b) a maximum of 30 upper division semester hours in any one department will be accepted toward graduation requirements.

No more than 9 semester hours in any of the following programs will be accepted toward degree requirements: ART, DANC (studio technique/performance), MUSC (applied music, studio, or performance), THEA (technical or performance).

Liberal Arts students with a double major or minor in one of the above departments are allowed to exceed the 9 semester hour limit in order to complete their programs. Only those units that are applicable to the double major or minor will be accepted toward graduation requirements.

Enrollment by degree-seeking students at another institution at the same time they are enrolled at LMU is not permitted.

The Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts accepts a maximum of two units of physical education only upon entrance for a new transfer student. Other physical education hours do not count toward degree requirements.

A maximum of 10 units of Aerospace credit will be accepted. This credit is limited to:

- AERO 100: 1 unit
- AERO 101: 1 unit
- AERO 200: 1 unit
- AERO 201: 1 unit
- AERO 300/400: 3 units
- AERO 301/401: 3 units

Students should consult the Dean's Office for specific policies applicable to the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts.

Core Curriculum for the Baccalaureate Degree in the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts

American Cultures

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection:

First- and second-year students choose from any lower division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. Third- and fourth-year students choose from any upper division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. A single course will generally not fulfill two core requirements. The only exception is a course that satisfies another core requirement which is also cross-listed as AMCS.

College Writing

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection:

ENGL 110 will fulfill the college writing requirement. ENGL 100 will not fulfill the college writing requirement but is required of certain students based on their performance in the essay written in all ENGL 110 sections during the first week of classes. A minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in ENGL 110. All students who receive a grade of C- (1.7) or lower must retake ENGL 110 as soon as possible.

Choose: ENGL 110.

Communication or Critical Thinking*3 Semester Hours*

Course Selection:

Communication: Choose from CMST 100, 110, 130, or 140

or

Critical Thinking: Choose from CMST 206 or PHIL 220.

Critical and Creative Arts*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection:

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Critical Arts and one course from Creative Arts.

Critical Arts: Choose from ANIM 100; ARHS 200, 201, 202, 321, 340, 345; DANC 281, 381; FILM 210, 314, 315; INDA 100; MUSC 102, 104, 303, 365; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, 430.

Creative Arts: Choose from ANIM 120; ART 150, 151, 153, 278, 280, 350; DANC 163; ENGL 205, 311 (Prerequisite 201), 312 (Prerequisite 202); FILM 260; MUSC 105, 106, 107; SCWR 220; THEA 110, 400.

History*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection:

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Western Civilization and one course from Contemporary Societies.

Western Civilization: Choose from HIST 100 or 101.

Contemporary Societies: Choose from HIST 152, 162, 172, 182, or 192.

Literature*3 Semester Hours*

Course Selection:

Prerequisite: Successful completion of college writing requirement.

Choose from CLAS 200, 210, 220, 230; ENGL 130, 140, 150, 170; FNLT 180; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, or 430. Or choose any upper division literature course in a modern or classical language, e.g., CHIN, FLPN, FREN, GREK, GRMN, ITAL, JAPN, LATN, MDGK, or SPAN.

Mathematics*3 Semester Hours*

Course Selection:

Choose MATH 102 or higher. Some majors require a specific mathematics course, which also fulfills this requirement.

Science and Technology*3 Semester Hours*

Course Selection:

Choose one course from a department other than Mathematics. Courses numbered 260-279 in each department of the College of Science and Engineering are specifically designed for non-science majors. Choose from BIOL, CHEM, CMSI, ELEC, MECH, NTLN, or PHYS.

Philosophy*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection:

Lower Division:

Choose PHIL 160. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempted from the lower division requirement.

Upper Division:

Choose one PHIL course numbered 320 through 330.

Social Sciences*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection:

1. Select two courses from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105. Courses must be from different departments.
 2. Select one course from: AFAM 115, APAM 117, CHST 116, or WNST 100, and one course from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105.
 3. Select two courses from the same department. The first is selected from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105. The second course in the same department is selected from upper division courses that the student is qualified to take.

Theological Studies

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection:

Lower Division:

Choose from the 100-level series of THST courses. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempted from the lower division requirement.

Upper Division:

Choose from the 300-level series of THST courses only.

Major Requirements

Students must have a major. Please see the following pages for the requirements for specific programs. Students ordinarily enter the University with a major, but may enter undeclared. Undeclared students must declare a major prior to enrolling in classes for their junior year.

Minor Requirements

Students may, if they so desire, dedicate some of their electives in pursuit of a minor. Please see the following pages for the requirements for specific programs.

Recommendations:

Students are encouraged to enrich their program of study with courses from the following areas.

Business

Students are encouraged to take a course in the issues of business. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Computer Skills

Students are expected to become proficient in computer skills. Courses or workshops may be taken to help students develop existing skills.

Foreign Language

Students are encouraged to study foreign languages to the intermediate level. LMU offers Chinese, Filipino, French, German, Greek (Modern and Classical), Italian, Japanese, Latin, and Spanish on a regular basis.

International/Global Studies

Students are encouraged to select courses that deal with international and/or global issues. Such courses are offered throughout the University and are available as electives or as options within the core or major. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Internships

Students are encouraged to link academics and career exploration through internships. Internships may be arranged through the Career Development Office. Also, internship courses are offered through various academic departments.

Study Abroad

A semester of international study abroad is also recommended for the junior year. Consult the Study Abroad Office.

First Year Institute

Director: Barbara Roche Rico

The First Year Institute (FYI) is a program for entering first-year students, offering thematically linked core courses. The FYI professors work closely together and coordinate readings, guest speakers, and field trips to complement the classroom experience. Smaller class size allows for a higher level of interaction and engagement.

Students Interested in Teaching in California Public Schools

Students wishing to teach grades K-5 in California public schools are required to obtain a Multiple Subjects Subject Matter Teaching Credential and demonstrate "subject matter competence" to teach the many subjects commonly taught in elementary school. Subject matter competence can be demonstrated by either passing a national exam or by successfully completing the requirements of the Liberal Studies Bachelor's of Arts degree in the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts. Students interested in the Liberal Studies degree program should consult a Liberal Studies advisor.

Students wishing to teach in grades 6-12 in California public schools are required to obtain a Single Subject Credential and demonstrate "subject matter competence" to teach a particular subject (e.g., English, Social Studies, Foreign Language, Math, or Science). Subject matter competence can be demonstrated by either passing a national exam or by successfully completing an approved subject matter preparation program in English. Students interested in teaching English at the 6-12 grades levels should consult the English Subject Matter advisor in the English Department. The College of Science and Engineering offers an approved single subject preparation program in math. Students interested in teaching math should consult an advisor in the Math Department. Subject matter preparation programs in science, the social sciences, French, and Spanish are pending.

A Multiple Subjects Subject Matter or Single Subject Matter teaching credential can be earned concurrently with a Bachelor's degree. Except for Liberal Studies majors, students may declare a minor in Education and begin taking Education courses after completion of 30 semester hours (first semester Sophomore standing). In order to maximize the full potential of taking Education courses with the undergraduate program, students are strongly encouraged to declare the Education minor early in their career. Credential programs are also available in Special Education (K-12) and Bilingual Education (Spanish, K-12). For more information on Education programs, see the School of Education section in this Bulletin.

African American Studies

Faculty:

Chairperson: John A. Davis
Associate Professor: John A. Davis
Assistant Professors: Dionne Bennett, Dianne D. Glave

Objectives:

African American Studies is an interdisciplinary department with a worldview grounded in the perspective of Africa and the Diaspora. This worldview forms the basis of our intellectual, theoretical, and methodological approaches. The objective of African American Studies is to understand the forces that impact the lives of people of African descent in America as well as the influences of African descent on America and beyond. The Department's curriculum challenges students to integrate knowledge and analytical skills from disciplines such as sociology, history, literature, political science, philosophy, and economics so that a more holistic understanding emerges.

By examining the lived experiences of Africans in America and throughout the Diaspora from the perspective of various disciplines, students develop a deeper understanding of themselves and their interactions within a diverse society. Thus, African American Studies provides students with an excellent preparation for graduate study, professional schools, and numerous employment opportunities that require a Bachelor of Arts degree.

African American Studies Student Learning Outcomes

By virtue of exposure to African American Studies courses,

African American Studies students should know:

- The general history of African American people in the U.S. and the Diaspora
- The significance of the concept of an African world-view and its significance to African American-centered scholarship
- How to conduct social science research and to interpret scientific data
- The basic research questions posed by the various disciplines contributing to a better understanding of the African American experience
- The value of embracing the concept of diversity in the modern and complex world in which we live

- The pathways to graduate schools and professional careers provided to a major or minor in African American Studies
- The scope and content of African-centered knowledge systems;

African American Studies students should be able to:

- Effectively employ social science methodologies in the analysis of issues related to African Americans
- Demonstrate written and oral competencies in the analysis of theories and practices
- Identify and utilize appropriate primary data, including census and demographic data
- Apply their understanding of social issues to the development and critical analysis of programs and policies that impact residents in rural and urban areas
- Develop a basic knowledge and appreciation of the Black Aesthetic
- Develop an understanding of the forces that negatively impact the Black family and other institutions in the Black community;

African American Studies students should value:

- The contributions of Black people to America and to world civilization
- The importance of diversity in a complex world
- Critical thinking as an important problem solving skill
- Community service and service learning as meaningful activities
- The dignity of all human cultures.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours, including AFAM 115, 150 or 155, and 335 and nine (9) semester hours in upper division courses. An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in the courses included in the minor.

African American Studies Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as AFAM major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

1-3 Semester Hours

AFAM 301
Black Family Life
3 Semester Hours

This course examines relevant issues about life within the Black Family and the impact that these issues have on the individual, the community, and the society at large. Emphasis is placed on myths, gender roles, socialization, parenting styles, and male/female relationships. The course gives students an opportunity to select an aspect of Black life and do an in-depth critical analysis of it with a focus on the current research, competing views, and implications for the future.

AFAM 335
Sociology of the Black Community
3 Semester Hours

A survey of the effects of long-standing discrimination and deprivation upon family structure, occupational patterns, health and educational conditions, motivation, and personal as well as group identity. An analysis of the Black power concept and its influence upon the growing community control of the ghetto.

AFAM 337
Black Arts Movement

American Cultures Studies

Coordinator:

Edward Park

Mission of American Cultures Studies

Courses in American Cultures Studies will enhance students' familiarity with and appreciation of several of the diverse cultural groups that comprise the multi-ethnic society of the United States. The in-depth, comparative, and interdisciplinary study of the cultures, behaviors, experiences, and inter-group relations of the following groups—African American, Asian/Pacific Islander American, Chicano/Latino American, European American, and Native American—will provide students with some of the strategies and help them gain competencies and sensibilities that will enable them to contribute to and thrive in a culturally diverse world. (It is understood that the above categories do not include the entirety of peoples comprising the United States of America. Moreover, it is recognized that a rich variety of cultures is also represented within these broad groups.)

Students will strengthen their knowledge and awareness of their own ethnic or cultural group. They will also develop their own creative and critical faculties, their own analytical and affective responses to various forms of cultural expression. This approach would, by definition, coax students to challenge the boundaries of ethnicity, culture, and academic discipline. In so doing, students will not only improve their intergroup communication skills, they will also become better able to see, appreciate, and respect the perspectives of others—factors that are essential to the creation of a more understanding and just society.

Goals of American Cultures Studies

Courses in American Cultures Studies are designed to:

- Provide strategies and enable competencies necessary to thrive in and contribute to a multi-ethnic and inter-cultural environment.
- Link theory and practice in the Jesuit-Marymount tradition.

American Cultures Studies Student Learning Outcomes

Students who have completed an AMCS course will:

- Know the histories, cultures, and politics of major ethno-racial groups in American society
- Know the role of race and ethnicity in shaping the American experience.

Students who have completed an AMCS course will be able to:

- Become more informed and effective participants in a culturally diverse world
- Evaluate the multiracial and multiethnic dimension of American life.

Students who have completed an AMCS course will value:

- Historical and contemporary efforts to build a more just and inclusive America
- Commitment to social justice and interculturalism.

All courses in this curriculum satisfy the AMCS component of the student's core requirement. Some of the courses are also cross-listed in other disciplines.

AMCS 100 Introduction to American Cultures 3 Semester Hours

Lower division introductory courses in American Cultures Studies explore the meaning and dynamics of such issues as race, ethnicity, gender, class, sexuality, and other factors that define members of our society. These issues are explored from the vantage point of at least three ethno-cultural groups. Courses may be taught from myriad disciplinary perspectives and emphasize the development of basic skills for understanding and interacting in today's multicultural society.

Asian and Pacific Studies

Director:

Robin Wang

Objectives:

Asian and Pacific Studies, an interdisciplinary area studies program, provides a general background to the traditions and cultures of Asia and the Pacific as well as an understanding of contemporary issues relating to that region. Furthermore, given the present shift of interest to the Pacific region, it aims to deepen the student's knowledge of Asia and the Pacific or of a country/area through a concentrated study in one academic discipline. This academic program, therefore, is intended to develop the student's personal interest in Asian and Pacific affairs and to prepare her or him for Asia-related career opportunities. All students are encouraged to spend some time in Asia through the various programs available to them.

Asian and Pacific Studies Student Learning Outcomes

- Students will come to understand the culture of the Asia Pacific region and its contributions to human civilization, with special attention to distinctively Asian culture and spiritual traditions that originated in this region;
- Students will enhance their competencies by doing original research on topics of concern in the Asia Pacific region, and communicate their findings in both written and oral presentations. Students will also acquire a basic knowledge and skill in an Asian language;
- Students will have the opportunity to develop self-awareness by exploring interactively the relationships between their own cultures and those of the Asian Pacific region.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements (18 units) including:

ASPA	201	Asian Civilizations
HIST	182	Modern Asia

Language Requirement:

Study of an Asian language (competence expected is the equivalent of a two-year study, i.e., 12 units). Native speakers of an Asian language may be exempted from the language requirement but will be strongly encouraged to study another language. At LMU, course credit may be obtained for CHIN 101, 102, 203, 204; CLAS 201, 202 (Sanskrit); FLPN 101, 102, 203, 204; JAPN 101, 102, 203, 204. At UCLA, credit may be obtained through the SOCCIS program for Arabic, Korean, and Mongolian.

Upper Division Requirements (24 units):

ASPA courses (9 units):

ASPA	301	Geography of Asia and the Pacific
ASPA	305	Economic and Political Issues in Contemporary Asia
ASPA	500	Senior Integrating Seminar

Electives (15 units):

Electives within the major may be chosen from a variety of disciplines, including: History, Religion and Philosophy, Arts and Literature, Political Science, Business and Economics.

Minor Requirements:

Students who elect to pursue the minor will, in consultation with the Director, plot an appropriate course of study. The minor requires 18 semester hours of course work: HIST 182 (3 units); one semester of Asian language (3 units); three electives (9 units), at least two of which must be from the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts; and ASPA 500 (3 units).

Asian and Pacific Studies Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as ASPA major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Asian Pacific American Studies

Director:

Edward Park

Objectives:

Asian Pacific American Studies (APAM) is a program that supports Loyola Marymount's commitment to multicultural education. APAM grew out of the Asian Pacific Studies Program (ASPA) in 1992. While ASPA focuses on the traditions and cultures of Asia and the Pacific, APAM is designed to enhance student understanding of the history and contemporary issues that impact the lives of Asian Pacific Americans in the United States. A minor in APAM is available at LMU.

People of all races and ethnicities are encouraged to enroll in APAM courses. Only through a critical understanding of our multicultural society can we begin to "live together, learn together, work together, and forge new ties that bind together."

Asian Pacific American Studies Student Learning Outcomes

- A greater understanding of the historical contributions of Asian Pacific Americans
- A more critical understanding of contemporary issues facing the Asian Pacific American communities
- A deeper appreciation of the ethnic, class, gender, and generation diversity of Asian Pacific Americans
- A greater appreciation of Asian Pacific American cultural, literary, and artistic expressions

Chicana/o Studies

Faculty:

Chairperson: Deena J. González
 Professor: Deena J. González
 Associate Professors: KarenMary Davalos,
 Fernando J. Guerra
 Assistant Professor: "Sonny" Richard E. Espinoza

Objectives:

The interdisciplinary Chicana/o Studies curriculum is designed to enhance the students' understanding of the unique influence of the Chicano/Latino community in the United States. It is the belief of the Department that a liberal arts education should expose students to as many cultures and perspectives as possible. This exposure emphasizes the following aspects of the goals of the University: the encouragement of learning, the education of the whole person, the service of faith, and the promotion of justice. The goals of Chicana/o Studies have a special meaning given the significant historical and contemporary presence of Mexican and Chicana/o peoples in Los Angeles. Chicana/o Studies courses attempt to prepare all students to live in and contribute to a society which is increasingly diverse.

Chicana/o Studies Student Learning Outcomes

At the end of a course of study, in the major or minor in Chicana/o Studies, students will be able to:

- Interpret, define, and evaluate historical and contemporary information about Mexican-origin people living in the U.S.;
- Use and apply humanistic, scientific, and/or social science methods to arrive at their understandings about Chicana/os;
- Compare and contrast recent theories, methodologies, ideas, and developments central to the discipline of Chicana/o Studies.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

CHST 116
 CHST 126
 CHST 206

Upper Division Requirements:

24 semester hours: 12 semester hours in upper division requirements (CHST 302, 332, 360, and 461) and 12 semester hours in Chicana/o Studies upper division electives.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours: CHST 116, 206, 302, 360, 461, and one Chicana/o Studies upper division elective.

Chicana/o Studies Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Classics and Archaeology

Faculty:

Chairperson: Matthew Dillon
 Professors: Matthew Dillon, William J. Fulco, S.J.,
 Robert B. Lawton, S.J.
 Associate Professor: Katerina Zacharia

Objectives:

The study of Greek and Latin language and literature, the foundation of the Western humanistic and scientific traditions, offers the student a well-rounded liberal arts education. It is also a practical study. The student receives an excellent preparation not only for the graduate study of Classics, Theology, or Comparative Literature but also for professional school in law, medicine, or business.

Classics and Archaeology Student Learning Outcomes

As a Classics major, the student will:

- Master the grammar and syntax of Classical Greek and Latin;
- Be able to read and analyze Classical authors in the original;
- Value the lasting influence of Greco-Roman literature from antiquity to the present.

As a Classical Civilizations major, the student will:

- Know numerous aspects of Ancient Mediterranean and Near Eastern culture, including language (optional, but recommended); literature, in the original or in translation; art; history; archaeology;
- Be able to express with elegant language ideas and arguments about these cultures;
- Value the lasting influence of these cultures from antiquity to the present.

As a Greek major, the student will:

- Master the grammar and syntax of Classical Greek;
- Be able to read and analyze Greek authors in the original;
- Value the lasting influence of Greek literature from antiquity to the present.

As a Latin major, the student will:

- Master the grammar and syntax of Classical Latin;
- Be able to read and analyze Latin authors in the original;
- Value the lasting influence of Roman literature from antiquity to the present.

Major Programs

The Department of Classics and Archaeology offers a variety of majors: Classics, Greek, Latin, and Classical Civilizations. The Classics major offers a traditional training in both Greek and Latin language and literature (in the original), although students may opt to major exclusively in Greek or Latin. The Classical Civilizations major allows the student to study the cultures of Greece, Rome, and the Near East from various cultural perspectives in conjunction with other departments; in this major, language study is encouraged but not required.

Classics Major: Requirements

Lower Division:

LATN 101, 102, and 201.

GREK 101, 102, and 201.

Note: These requirements may be waived if the student has received prior language training sufficient for entry into upper division courses.

HIST 100.

Upper Division Requirements (23 semester hours):

LATN 301, GREK 301, and
 21 semester hours in upper division Latin and Greek, not in translation.

The Chairperson of the Department may alter the sequence of courses in Latin and/or Greek. In certain circumstances, upper division Classical Civilization courses may be substituted for upper division Latin or Greek.

Classical Civilizations Major: Requirements

The Classical Civilizations major is an interdisciplinary program focusing on the classical civilizations of Greece, Rome, and the Near East through the study of literature, history, archaeology, art history, philosophy, theatre, and theology. Greek and/or Latin language study is encouraged but not required.

The Classical Civilizations major consists of 39 semester hours, at least 24 of which must be in upper division courses emphasizing Greek, Roman, or Near Eastern civilization. The actual distribution of courses is selected with the guidance of the Director of the major.

In addition to the courses listed under the Department of Classics and Archaeology, the following courses may also be taken as part of the Classical Civilizations major, with the approval of the Director of the major:

- HIST 100, 405, 406, 407, 408, 410, 411
- PHIL 381, 382
- THEA 331
- THST 320

Greek Major: Requirements

Lower Division:

- GREK 101, 102, 201;
- Note: These requirements may be waived if the student has received prior language training sufficient for entry into upper division courses.
- HIST 100.

Upper Division (22 semester hours):

- GREK 301 and
- 21 semester hours in upper division Greek, not in translation.

Latin Major: Requirements

Lower Division Requirements:

- LATN 101, 102, 201;
- Note: These requirements may be waived if the student has received prior language training sufficient for entry into upper division courses.
- HIST 100.

Upper Division Requirements (22 semester hours):

- LATN 301 and
- 21 semester hours in upper division Latin, not in translation.

Minor Programs

The Department of Classics and Archaeology offers a Minor in Classics, Classical Civilizations, Greek, Latin, and Archaeology.

Minor Requirements

All minors require 18 semester hours, with at least 9 semester hours at the 300 or 400 level. For the Classics, Latin, and/or Greek minors, all courses should be in Greek and/or Latin language and literature. The Classical Civilizations minor consists of any combination of Latin,

Greek, or Classical Civilizations (CLAS or ARCH) courses. The minor in Archaeology consists of ARCH 401 and 15 additional units, of which 6 may be in courses in an appropriate Mediterranean language (e.g., ancient or modern Greek, Latin, Hebrew, or Arabic, or a Romance language if it is relevant to a particular archaeological emphasis).

For the minor in Modern Greek Studies, see below.

Classics Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Greek Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Modern Greek

Objectives:

The Modern Greek Studies Program offers students the opportunity to study Modern Greece—its language, literature, history (from the Byzantine Empire to the present), its Christian Orthodox tradition, and its arts. Modern Greek Studies on the LMU campus may be supplemented by the Summer Study Abroad courses of The Odyssey Program.

Minor Program

The minor in Modern Greek Studies consists of 18 semester hours, of which at least 6 hours must be at the 300 or 400 level. The following distribution is recommended, with the approval of the Director of the minor:

9 semester hours of Modern Greek language instruction;

3-6 semester hours from MDGK 341, 354, 398, 399;

3-6 semester hours from the following: CLAS 200, 210, 220, 230, 402, 451, 452; DANC 390; HIST 410, 450; THST 322; or any course in Ancient Greek (GREK 101-415).

MDGK 100
Modern Greece
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to Modern Greek language, culture, and history.

MDGK 101
Elementary Modern Greek I
3 Semester Hours

An introductory course covering the fundamentals of grammar, syntax, reading skills, and oral expression.

MDGK 102
Elementary Modern Greek II
3 Semester Hours

Continuation of MDGK 101.

MDGK 198
Special Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MDGK 199
Independent Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MDGK 203
Intermediate Modern Greek I
3 Semester Hours

Completion of the study of grammar and syntax. This course is designed to help the student improve conversational skills through listening comprehension and class discussion.

MDGK 204
Intermediate Modern Greek II
3 Semester Hours

A course aimed at furthering proficiency through reading, listening comprehension, composition, and discussion.

MDGK 298
Special Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MDGK 299
Independent Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MDGK 305
Art and Architecture of the Ancient World
3 Semester Hours

A survey of Greek art from the Neolithic age through the Hellenistic period.

MDGK 321
Advanced Modern Greek
3 Semester Hours

A course designed to enable the students to refine their understanding of the language and enhance their verbal abilities. A reasonable command of Modern Greek is a prerequisite.

MDGK 325
Advanced Modern Greek Conversation
3 Semester Hours

Texts from prose and poetry serve as a basis for advanced discussion and composition.

MDGK 341
Introduction to Modern Greek Literature (in Translation)
3 Semester Hours

Study of the works of Kazantzakis, Cavafy, Seferis, Elytis, and Ritsos.

This course may be repeated for credit.

MDGK 354
Greek Cinema
3 Semester Hours

Study of the reworking of themes from Greek myth and literature in Greek cinema.

MDGK 398
Special Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MDGK 399
Independent Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MDGK 450
Modern Greek History and Society
3 Semester Hours

An examination of the crises and challenges that have shaped Modern Greek society, the transformations that have taken place, and the culture and literature it produced.

MDGK 498
Special Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MDGK 499
Independent Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

The Basil P. Caloyeras Center also sponsors the following courses with other departments:

- CLAS 305 Art and Architecture of the Ancient World
 - DANC 390 Dances of Greece
 - HIST 410 History of the Byzantine Empire
 - THST 322 Greek Orthodox Tradition

Economics

Faculty:

Chairperson: James Konow
 Professors: James Devine, James Konow, Seid Zekavat
 Associate Professors: Joseph E. Earley, Zaki Eusufzai,
 Kamal Shoukry, Robert Singleton, Renate Thimester

Objectives:

The study of economics illuminates both the limitations and successes of different systems of the production, distribution, and consumption of material wealth. Because of the economy's importance to the human condition, economic knowledge is useful to many other fields, such as political science, sociology, anthropology, law, and history. It, thus, is as central to a liberal arts education as it is to the business program.

The study of economics involves (1) the development of theories of economic behavior and their application to new problems; (2) the use of statistics and other evidence to test or add content to existing theories; (3) the development of perspective on economic institutions, economic history, and the development of economic philosophy. Students are encouraged to engage in independent research on all of these levels.

The goal of the program is to provide the student with the best preparation for employment in business, government, or secondary education, or for continuation to graduate studies in business, law, or economics, leading to careers in management, banking, finance, law, government, or academia.

Economics Student Learning Outcomes

- Students should demonstrate a solid understanding of modern microeconomics, macroeconomics, and statistics, including the dominant theories of decision-making, markets, and the macro-economy;
- Students should be able to think analytically using both the verbal and quantitative tools commonly employed in economics and to apply those tools to solve both theoretical as well as practical real world problems;
- Students should appreciate the importance of economics in human endeavors and the value of rigorous economic training for evaluating social phenomena; they should understand the ethical concerns that underlie economic policy, including efficiency and equity.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

Economics requirements comprise ECON 110, 120, 230. Mathematics requirements may be satisfied with Plan A: at least two courses from among MATH 120, 131, and 132, or Plan B: MATH 111 and 112. A grade of at least C (2.0) is required in ECON 110, 120, and 230. With the permission of the Department, ECON 100 may be accepted in lieu of 110 or 120. A student entering from high school with the equivalent of any of the above mentioned courses may challenge them by examination.

Upper Division Requirements:

A minimum of 24 hours of upper division courses. Students are permitted to take up to 30 upper division hours in economics. An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in economics courses. Two degrees, a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Science, are offered in economics with differing course requirements. Since graduate studies require special preparation, students considering the later pursuit of graduate degrees must consult the Graduate Advisor as soon as possible (preferably in their first few years). The Chairperson can direct these students to the Graduate Advisor, who will recommend how to structure their curriculum accordingly.

Bachelor of Arts (B.A. Economics)

At least eight upper division economics courses are needed for the B.A. degree in Economics, although students can take up to ten. Three of these courses are required: ECON 310, 320, and 410. ECON 310, 320, and 410 should be taken in the sophomore or junior year. Upper division economics courses must be taken in the LMU Economics Department, except by prior permission of the Chairperson. The B.A. degree is suitable for pre-law students, pre-M.B.A. students, business and economics double majors, or those interested in careers in general business, banking, government, urban planning, or secondary education.

Bachelor of Science (B.S. Economics)

At least eight upper division economics courses are needed for the B.S. degree in Economics, although students can take up to ten. Five of these courses are required: ECON 310, 320, 410, 530, and 532. ECON 310, 320, and 410 should be taken in the sophomore or junior year, and ECON 530 and 532 in the senior year. Upper division economics courses must be taken in the LMU Economics Department, except by prior permission of the Chairperson. The B.S. degree adds two courses (ECON 530 and 532) to the B.A. degree requirements. With the prior permission of the Economics Department, students may substitute certain Mathematics Department courses for these two. Students pursuing the B.S. degree are advised to take MATH 131, 132, 234, and possibly other mathematics courses, including MATH 248 and 250, under consultation with the Graduate Advisor. The B.S. sequence is suitable for three types of students:

1. those continuing to graduate school in economics or business (especially finance),
2. those interested in statistics or forecasting for business or government, and
3. those interested in any of the careers mentioned for the B.A. degree but who desire a somewhat more quantitative preparation.

Bachelor of Arts (B.A. Economics) with an International Emphasis

At least eight upper division economics courses are needed for the B.A. degree in Economics with an International emphasis, although students can take up to ten. Six of these courses are required: ECON 310, 320, 410, 470, 471, and 474. ECON 310 and 320 should be taken in the sophomore or junior year, and ECON 410, 470, 471, and 474 should be taken in the junior or senior year. Upper division economics courses must be taken in the LMU Economics Department, except by prior permission of the Chairperson. The B.A. degree with an International emphasis is suitable for students who intend to pursue careers in international agencies of government, NGO, and private corporations doing business in the international arena.

Business and Economics Double Major Requirements:

Students with majors in business may also pursue a major in economics by fulfilling the requirements of the B.A. or B.S. track described above. With prior permission of the Department, double majors in Business and Economics may select two upper division Business Administration courses as part of their economics electives.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours consisting of 3-6 lower division hours from the ECON 100-level series and 12-15 upper division hours selected in consultation with the advisor. An average grade of C (2.0) must be maintained in the minor.

Test of Economic Literacy:

Once a year, the Economics Department requires all majors who have completed basic principles courses (110 and 120 or 100) to take a nationally recognized proficiency test in Economics, the Test of Economic Literacy (TEL). The student who scores highest wins a cash prize: The Award for Economic Literacy. This prize is bestowed at the annual Department banquet near the end of the Spring semester.

Economics Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Prerequisite: ECON 120.

ECON 330
Regression Analysis
3 Semester Hours

Analysis of the linear regression model and its practical applications in economics, finance, marketing, and other areas of business. Material covered will be the two variable model, hypothesis testing, forecasting, functional forms of regression models, regression using dummy explanatory variables, multiple regression, autocorrelation, heteroscedasticity, and multicollinearity. Emphasis is placed on the application of the techniques covered in the course to the solution of real world problems.

Prerequisites: ECON 110, 120, and 230.

ECON 332
Introductory Computer Applications in Economics
3 Semester Hours

An introduction to the computer software used by economists to model economic and business problems. Designed for beginning users of computers.

Prerequisite: ECON 110 or 120. Recommended: ECON 230.

ECON 334Business Forecasting3 Semester Hours*

Analysis of a wide range of forecasting methods, including regression, smoothing, and arima models.

ECON 336Seminar in Guided Business and Economic Research3 Semester Hours*

Designed to teach students the skills necessary to perform actual quantitative research in a workshop setting. Involves the use of actual data and the application of appropriate research tools such as Box and Whisker Plot, Risk Analysis, Chi-square, analysis of Variance, Quality Control, Multiple Regression, Time Series Forecasting, and Linear Programming.

Prerequisite: ECON 230.

ECON 338Experimental Economics3 Semester Hours*

Experimental methods of research in economics. Basic experimental concepts, induced value theory, individual decisions, game theory, market experiments, auctions, bargaining, public choice.

Prerequisite: ECON 310.

English Department Mission:

Believing that literature is a profound expression of human experience, the English Department uses a range of critical methods to introduce students to literatures in English from a variety of cultural traditions. The course work reveals the art form's creative beauty, strategies for representing the human experience, and its power to shape the reader.

The English Department encourages an understanding of the critical and creative union of reading and writing as fundamental to the processes of developing the self. Through their imaginations, students who major or minor in English interact with language and literature, thereby encountering another equally open and attentive mind: that of the writer they are reading or of the reader who comes to the work they have created. As students of the literary arts, English majors and minors prepare for a lifetime of reading and writing, enlightenment and fulfillment, learning to do what Toni Morrison describes as a dance of two minds.

A Note on the Core: English majors and minors must take a course to satisfy the university's core literature requirement, and this course is separate from and in addition to the courses taken to fulfill the English major and minor requirements.

English Student Learning Outcomes

English majors know:

- The history of literatures in the English language;
- A variety of critical theories;
- The range of creative choices made by the literary artist.

English majors are able to:

- Read literary texts closely and carefully;
- Interpret analytically and innovatively using a variety of critical and theoretical approaches;
- Write creatively and effectively;
- Perceive and express the artistry, ideas, and social significance of language.

English majors value:

- The ways in which literature represents human experience;
- The affect of literature on the artist and reader;
- The artistry of precise and elegant expression.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

ENGL 201 and either ENGL 200 or 202; ENGL 203 and 204.

A grade of C (2.0) is required in each premajor course before qualifying for upper division status as an English major. Students transferring into the Department after their sophomore year may enroll in upper division courses in the major concurrently with the premajor courses. Students must complete all upper division courses in the major with a minimum grade of C (2.0) in order to maintain status as English majors. Failure to maintain this standard or failure to make sufficient progress toward completion of the major will result in probation or disqualification from the Department.

Upper Division Requirements:

There are two programs for the major in English:

I. The English Major: Literature Emphasis

A minimum of 27 semester hours in upper division courses. Up to six of these semester hours may be taken in writing classes.

Upper Division Requirements:

ENGL 321 or 322.

One course in English and/or American Literature prior to 1800, excluding Shakespeare.

One of the two survey courses in the History of American Literature (ENGL 371 or 372).

Two courses in English and/or American Literature after 1800.

One course in Theory (selected from ENGL 361, 422, 467, 559, 561, 562, 565, 566, 567, 569, 574, 575, 577, 579, 580, or 584).

One course in Comparative Literatures (includes any course in multi-ethnic literature, gender-based literature, world literature, or foreign language literature in translation. Check with your advisor to determine which courses may be used to fulfill this requirement.)

Total Units: Literature Emphasis

Lower Division Requirements:

12 Units (ENGL 201, 200 or 202, 203, 204)

Upper Division Requirements:

21 Units (see above)

Upper Division Electives:

6 Units

Total: 39 Units

A minimum grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course in the major.

II. The English Major: Writing Emphasis

A minimum of 27 semester hours in upper division courses.

Upper Division Requirements:

ENGL 321 or 322.

One of the two survey courses in the History of American Literature (ENGL 371 or 372).

One course in English or American Literature after 1800.

Two 400- or 500-level writing courses, excluding ENGL 402 and 569.

One course in Theory (selected from ENGL 361, 422, 467, 559, 561, 562, 565, 566, 567, 569, 574, 575, 577, 579, 580, or 584).

One course in Comparative Literatures/Writing (includes any multi-ethnic writing or literature course, gender-based writing or literature course, world writing or literature course, or any foreign language literature course in translation. Check with your advisor to determine which courses may be used to fulfill this requirement.)

Total Units: Writing Emphasis

Lower Division Requirements:

12 Units (ENGL 201, 200 or 202, 203, 204)

Upper Division Requirements:

21 Units (see above)

Upper Division Electives:

6 Units

Total: 39 Units

A minimum grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course in the major.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours exclusive of ENGL 110 or its equivalent and core literature courses. ENGL 200 or 201 or 202 and at least one "survey" course selected from ENGL 203, 204, 371, or 372 must be included. At least nine semester hours, exclusive of ENGL 371 or 372, must be at the 300-, 400-, or 500-level. Three of these nine hours (or at least one course) must be selected from pre-1800 literature courses. Students may select ENGL 203 or 371 to fulfill this pre-1800 course requirement, but then they must take a second course from ENGL 203, 204, 371, or 372 to fulfill the "survey" requirement.

A minimum grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course in the minor.

Pre-Journalism Curriculum

Although LMU doesn't offer a journalism major or minor, a large number of LMU graduates have gone on to successful careers or graduate work in journalism. These students, who have majored or minored in English or Communication Studies, have taken advantage of a number of exciting LMU courses. These courses comprise the LMU "Pre-Journalism Curriculum" and are particularly recommended for students who intend pursuing a Masters or Ph.D. in Journalism, or who plan to work as a journalist, freelance, or for a newspaper or magazine. No student need complete all of the courses listed below, but a healthy sampling will stand a future journalist in good stead and will assist in admission to most graduate programs in journalism across the country.

It is important to note that a working journalist often develops a specialization in a particular area, such as sports, entertainment, or the environment. Content courses in these areas would, of course, be useful. The Pre-Journalism Curriculum includes Political Science courses specifically, since local, state, and national politics have an impact on most news, and politics is considered an important working knowledge base for any journalist.

A pre-journalism certificate can be issued to the student who successfully completes 18 units of pre-journalism coursework. Students who seek a certificate will be advised on how to create a program that focuses on their area of interest: for example, political reporting, sports reporting, electronic media, etc.

Pre-Journalism courses are offered by a variety of departments and colleges across the University, making the Pre-Journalism Curriculum truly interdisciplinary.

Students interested in assembling a Pre-Journalism Curriculum should review each semester's course offerings across the colleges, paying particular attention to special studies courses focusing on journalistic issues, media topics, or related fields. Students may consult with Dr. Linda Bannister, Pre-Journalism Advisor, to determine which special or new courses may be appropriate.

There are a number of Pre-Journalism eligible courses offered by the College of Communication and Fine Arts, some of which may entail prerequisites and/or college permission. Please consult with Dr. Linda Bannister for more information about these courses.

Note: Although there is no set sequence for taking pre-journalism courses, some of the above listed courses may carry prerequisite courses that must be completed first. Students interested in journalism are also strongly advised to participate in LMU's award-winning student newspaper The Los Angeles Loyolan, the campus yearbook The Tower, and/or radio station KXLU.

A Pre-Journalism Curriculum Completion Certificate is available to those students who successfully complete (earning a C [2.0] or better in each course) 18 units of approved pre-journalism coursework. Bring transcript showing 18 units of accepted completed courses to Dr. Bannister at least two months prior to intended graduation.

Secondary Teaching

Students interested in obtaining a secondary teaching credential must fulfill all of the requirements for the major in English as well as some additional coursework specified by the State of California. These requirements are set forth in detail in the "Subject Matter Preparation Program in English" section of the Guide for English Majors. The Guide is available from the administrative assistant to the English Department or from Dr. Richard Kocher, who is the secondary credential advisor for English majors. Students interested in a secondary credential should see Dr. Kocher as soon as possible, and they should also coordinate their program with the School of Education.

English Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Ethics

Director:

Scott Cameron

Objectives:

In response to the need to address ethical issues in the various professions, the Philosophy Department, in conjunction with other departments in the different Colleges and Schools of the University, offers a minor in Ethics. Its main focus is the deepening and broadening of the students' grasp of the foundations and applications of ethics. It will complement and support the students' chosen major by providing them with the opportunity to pursue ethical inquiry of issues arising from their major study.

The objectives of this program are: 1) to heighten the students' attentiveness to the pervasive moral dimension of human experience; 2) to broaden and deepen their understanding of ethical theories and their foundations; and 3) to promote moral deliberation, evaluation, decision, and conduct in concrete human living—in the community; in the professions for which they are being trained; in economic, social, and political institutions; and in the unfolding course of human history.

Minor Requirements:

The minor in Ethics consists of 18 units, which include the two core philosophy courses:

PHIL 160 Philosophy of Human Nature
3 semester hours
PHIL 320 Ethics
3 semester hours

TWO Foundations Courses:

One course selected from these Philosophy courses:

PHIL 331 Political Philosophy
PHIL 332 Philosophy of Law
PHIL 333 Feminist Theory
PHIL 351 Philosophy of Culture
PHIL 352 Philosophy of the Arts
PHIL 353 Philosophy and Literature
PHIL 361 Philosophy of God
PHIL 362 Philosophy and Christianity
PHIL 363 Personalism
PHIL 364 Asian Philosophy
PHIL 365 Chinese Philosophy
PHIL 366 Philosophy of Religion
PHIL 367 African Philosophy

PHIL 421 American Pragmatism
PHIL 422 Analytic Tradition
PHIL 423 Phenomenology
PHIL 424 Existentialism
PHIL 425 Process Philosophy
PHIL 426 Postmodernism
PHIL 451 Major Thinkers
3 semester hours

One foundations course in ethics offered by departments in any of the Colleges or Schools in the University.

3 semester hours

TWO Applications Courses:

One course in Applied Ethics related to the student's College or School of origin chosen from PHIL 321-329.

3 semester hours

One elective course in Applied Ethics selected from the PHIL 321-330 options without regard for the student's College or School of origin.

3 semester hours

European Studies

Director:

Véronique Flambard-Weisbart

Faculty:

The faculty of the European Studies major are those professors in various departments of the University who regularly offer courses that are directly concerned with issues relating to Europe, or to specific countries or traditions of Europe, past and present.

Description:

The European Studies major is an integrated, interdisciplinary area-studies program. Students choose from a range of courses taught in different departments, selecting a focus that reflects their individual interests. Since the program provides the student with competence in a European language, sufficient background to grasp the complexity of European history and civilization as a whole, as well as a specialization in one field of study, it is a solid preparation for graduate school or a career in government or private enterprise. A semester of study in Europe is strongly recommended but is not mandatory.

Objectives:

- Intermediate proficiency in one European language (equivalent to level 2/3 on the scale of five levels developed by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Language). LMU offers French, German, Italian, and Spanish in the Department of Modern Languages and Literatures as well as Greek, Latin, and Modern Greek in the Department of Classics and Archaeology.
- Knowledge of the historical, intellectual, political, and religious contexts of Europe, past and present.
- Knowledge of the art and literary works of Europeans, past and present.

European Studies Student Learning Outcomes

Students should demonstrate:

- Linguistic proficiency in one European language (French, German, Italian, Spanish, Greek, Latin, and/or Modern Greek);
- Knowledge and understanding of:
 - the history of Europe (History)
 - the history of ideas in Europe (Philosophy)

- the politics of Europe (Political Science)
- the religious contexts of Europe (Theological Studies);
- Familiarity with cultural expressions of Europeans such as:
 - European literature (Classics, English, European Studies, Foreign Literature in Translation, French, German, Italian, Spanish)
 - European art history and creative arts (Art History, Film, Theatre Arts);
- Reflection on/assessment of:
 - reasons why the major in European Studies was chosen
 - cultural competency (what they have learned)
 - content of the courses selected for the European Studies major
 - development and evolution in the European Studies major
 - extra-curricular activities connected with the European Studies major (study abroad experiences, program-related activities, work experience/internships).

Student Learning Outcomes will be assessed through a Senior Capstone Project (EURO 500), which consists of a portfolio during the second semester of the senior year. The portfolio is a collection of multiple samples usually compiled over time accompanied by a personal reflection essay, which would show that the student has met the objectives of the European Studies Program.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements (18 hours):

HIST 100 and 101

Elementary I and II and Intermediate I and II, or the equivalent, of one European language: FREN, GRMN, ITAL, SPAN, GREK, LATN, or MDGK (i.e., 12 hours). EURO 181, 182, 283, 284 language courses are available in the LMU Study Abroad Programs in Europe; Study Abroad students must take the LMU Placement Exam upon return to fulfill lower division requirements.

Upper Division Requirements (25 hours):

At least 9 hours chosen from these courses examining the historical, intellectual, political, and religious contexts of Europe, past and present.

- THEA: 331, 336, 341, 346, 349

One hour: EURO 500

Alternatively, students may take a second or third European language for up to 6 hours, and up to the same number of hours will be waived from the total upper division requirement. Students must still meet the University degree requirement of 45 upper division hours.

European Studies majors are encouraged to select core classes with a European focus.

European Studies Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Objectives:

Since history takes all knowledge for its province, it forms a bridge between all disciplines. To arrive at a fuller awareness and understanding of the many vital problems of existence, the Loyola Marymount student requires history, for without a knowledge of man and his past, no one can claim to be an educated individual or can hope to establish perspective and meaning in a course of studies for life.

History also makes an invaluable contribution to an understanding of the learning process itself and to the achievement of "learning goals." In history, the student studies evidence, selects relevant materials, searches for causes and effects, and formulates conclusions. In studying the past, a person must analyze, synthesize, evaluate, and interpret evidence. With knowledge of the historical setting, one can understand and appreciate one's own heritage and culture and the cultural experience of others.

History Student Learning Outcomes

- History students develop an understanding of events, processes, and patterns in the human experience. History students should gain an understanding of how their lives relate to a larger historical process.
- Students should be able to analyze historical texts and to gain an understanding of the methods used in interpreting the past, such as criticism of sources, the definition of historical questions, comparative analysis, and the diverse perspectives of participants in history. They will employ evidence to craft arguments about historical change and analyze the factors that cause change on local, national, and global scales.

- Students should value the vast range of ways in which individuals and societies have responded to the problems confronting them. The insights they have gained through historical analysis will enrich their lives as citizens of an interconnected world.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

15 semester hours distributed as follows: HIST 100, 101, 161, 162, and one course selected from HIST 152, 172, 182, and 192. A student must accumulate a C (2.0) average in the prerequisite courses. In addition, the Department recommends the study of geography and foreign languages.

Upper Division Requirements:

24 semester hours in upper division courses.

All major programs must include a course in historical method (HIST 310 or 330) and at least one 500-level seminar. The remaining courses are to be chosen with the approval of the student's advisor, and not more than half of the total 24 semester hours may be taken from one of the following areas: 1) Europe, 2) United States, or 3) Africa, Asia, Latin America and modern Middle East. An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in the courses included in the major.

Minor Requirements:

21 semester hours. One course must be selected from HIST 100 or 101; one course from 161 or 162. At least 9 semester hours must be from upper division course offerings.

The history minor is a flexible program. Aside from the two lower division course requirements, students can select any history course as long as at least three of the remaining five courses are upper division history courses. However, students might want to consider selecting courses that relate to their major and belong to geographical or thematic units.

History Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as HIST major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Humanities

Director:

Katerina Zacharia

Objectives:

The Humanities major is designed to meet the needs of a student who has a broad interest in liberal arts but whose interest would not be served by a major program within a single department. The Humanities major is an interdisciplinary program. In the first two years the student acquires a broad background in the arts, history, and literature. Language study through the advanced level is also required. In the second two years, the student concentrates in a particular area of interest. The concentration consists of five (5) upper division courses taken from departmental offerings in Archaeology, Art History, Classics, Economics, English, French, German, Greek, History, Italian, Latin, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Spanish, or Theological Studies. The concentration is then supported by two (2) upper division history courses and two (2) upper division courses in one national literature selected in consultation with the Humanities advisor. Each student will prepare a portfolio outlining his/her initial proposal in beginning the major, including adaptations and refinements of the goals and a final essay which reflects on and synthesizes what has been achieved in the course work for the major. This integrated project (HMNT 497) is reviewed by the Director and given one unit of credit upon satisfactory completion.

The program is a fine preparation for students interested in professional courses in law, business, or education. Also, the program is designed to allow students to complete a major in a departmental area which would qualify them for graduate studies.

Humanities Student Learning Outcomes

By virtue of pursuing a major in Humanities,

Students should know:

- How knowledge has been pursued, established, and critically evaluated in the three different disciplines representing their concentration, their literature support, and their historical support
- The various ways in which artists have developed the fine arts to convey their sense of the world's surface and its depth
- A foreign language
- The content as well as analytical and communicative skills that the disciplines study of their concentration demands;

Students should be able to:

- Communicate insights clearly, effectively, and with nuance in both oral and written form
- Synthesize insights from a variety of disciplines
- Develop insights from one discipline for the enrichment of others;

Students should value:

- The variety of ways in which cognitive, moral, and aesthetic disciplines have enriched our sense of the human condition
- The further pursuit of those disciplines, as required by their deeper sense of the complexity of the human condition
- Their responsibility to serve the world as whole persons, with head, heart, and hand.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

15 semester hours distributed as follows:

6 semester hours from: ARHS 200, 201, 202.

3 semester hours in Studio Arts.

6 semester hours from one of the following language sequences:

CHIN 203, 204;

FREN 203, 204;

GREK 201, any upper division Greek;

GRMN 201, 202;

ITAL 203, 204;

JAPN 203, 204;

LATN 201, any upper division Latin;

MDGK 203, 204;

SPAN 203, 204.

Upper Division Requirements:

28 semester hours in upper division courses distributed as follows:

15 semester hours in concentration in a departmental major.

6 semester hours in one national literature which supports the concentration.

6 semester hours in history which supports the concentration.

1 semester hour for the Integrating Project (HMNT 497).

The choice of a concentration and of support courses must be formally approved by the Director.

Humanities Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Irish Studies

Director:

John Menaghan

Objectives:

Irish Studies is an interdisciplinary minor designed to complement a wide variety of majors by providing students with an understanding of the historical and cultural development of the Irish people and the significance of their intellectual, artistic, spiritual, and economic contribution to world civilization, including their experiences as both a post-colonial nation and an emigrant diaspora. Taken together, Ireland's historical evolution; its long experience of colonization and cultural oppression; its rich contribution to world literature, art, and music; the creative tension in contemporary Ireland between its ancient Celtic heritage and its modern Anglo-Irish/Hiberno-English identity; and its remarkable though often unacknowledged influence upon the countries—chiefly the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa—that make up the far-flung Irish diaspora constitute a fertile field for intellectual inquiry.

Focused simultaneously on a small nation on the edge of Europe and a far-flung diaspora and offered within the context of the most culturally diverse city in the world, the minor in Irish Studies is designed to be not merely interdisciplinary but intercultural. At a time when the nearly simultaneous phenomena of a European drive toward unification and an American emphasis on diversity both complicate and enrich our very notions of what constitutes a nation, culture, or people, students minoring in Irish Studies will have the flexibility to explore the richness of the Irish experience from a broad range of perspectives and the opportunity to assess its influence not only in Europe and America but on struggles against cultural and political oppression around the globe.

Irish Studies Student Learning Outcomes

Students minoring in Irish Studies are given opportunities to learn about:

- The general history of Ireland and the Irish diaspora
- The distinctive literary achievements of the Irish
- Irish achievements in cinema and dance
- Historical, religious, and moral issues in contemporary Irish politics
- The intersection/intermingling of Celtic and Christian worldviews

- The connection of Irish struggles for freedom and self-determination to similar struggles in the United States and around the world;

Students minoring in Irish Studies will be given opportunities to develop:

- Their ability to perform research into several distinct aspects of the Irish experience
- Their ability to compose well-written and thoughtful essays on Irish history, politics, religion, and culture
- Their ability to evaluate and appreciate Irish achievements in the arts
- Their ability to make connections across disciplines, countries, and cultures;

Students minoring in Irish Studies will be encouraged to value:

- The Irish struggle against cultural and political oppression and its relation and continuing relevance to similar struggles around the world
- The distinctive contributions of the Irish to European, American, and world civilization.

Study Abroad

Students can earn up to six credits toward the minor in Irish Studies in the LMU Summer in Ireland Program at Trinity College Dublin, one of the oldest and most renowned universities in the world. Students can also arrange to spend a semester or year abroad at an Irish university.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours, including at least one course in Irish literature and one in Irish history. At least 12 semester hours must be in upper division courses. An average grade of C (2.0) must be maintained in Irish Studies courses.

Students seeking such approval must arrange with the relevant instructor to complete a substantial paper/project on Ireland and/or the Irish diaspora and must submit a copy of same to the Director at the end of the course. No more than nine hours (3 such courses) may be applied toward the 18 total semester hours required to complete the Irish Studies minor. Such courses may also have departmental prerequisites; consult course descriptions for further details.

Liberal Arts

The following courses, offered by the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts, are designed to enrich the academic, career-related, and life skills of our students.

LIBA 101 Mastering Educational Technology 1 Semester Hour

A competence-based course designed to prepare first-year students to use the tools to conduct basic research, creative writing, and other academic work. Consideration of academic honesty and ethics will also be discussed.

Credit/No Credit grading.

LIBA 125 Foundations for Academic Achievement 1 Semester Hour

A course in acquiring study skills such as time management, note taking, reading comprehension, and test-taking strategies essential for academic success at the university level.

Credit/F grading.

LIBA 170 An Orientation to Learning I 1 Semester Hour

Information on coping with the technicalities of being a college student—registration, matriculation, library use, study skills, learning resources, career planning, college re-entry. Credit applicable for baccalaureate degree is determined by individual colleges.

Encore students only.

Credit/No Credit grading.

LIBA 171 An Orientation to Learning II 1 Semester Hour

Prerequisite: LIBA 170.

Encore students only.

Credit/No Credit grading.

LIBA 198 Special Studies 1-3 Semester Hours

LIBA 199 Independent Studies 1-3 Semester Hours

LIBA 250 Strategies for Career Development 2 Semester Hours

This course utilizes the popular models of career theory and traditional personality assessments to help students identify interests, skills, and values and describe how they relate to a career choice. The decision-making model is utilized to synthesize personal information, and research is conducted on employment trends. By the end of the course, students will be familiarized with the job search process including resume writing, interviewing skills, and job search strategies.

Credit/No Credit grading.

LIBA 251 Career Development Internship 1 Semester Hour

Engage in a mentoring/training type relationship with an employer in a career field of interest. Internships are established through the office of Career Development Services to aid in career decision-making, to make contacts with employers, and to evaluate employment opportunities firsthand.

Credit/No Credit grading.

LIBA 291 Intercultural Practicum I 1 Semester Hour

This course will teach students advanced human relations skills and provide them the occasion for integrating intercultural theory and practice in an increasingly diverse society.

Credit/No Credit grading.

LIBA 292 Intercultural Practicum II 2 Semester Hours

This course will teach students advanced skills in cross-cultural conflict management, intercultural leadership, strategies for organizational change in multiethnic settings, institutionalizing social change, and preparing personal action plans.

Prerequisite: LIBA 291.

Credit/No Credit grading.

Completion of LIBA 291 and 292 earns the Certificate for Intercultural Competence.

Liberal Studies

Director:

Sharon Locy

Objectives:

The Liberal Studies program enables the student to meet the teacher preparation standards mandated by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing. The Liberal Studies program curriculum likewise serves the Loyola Marymount University mission.

Liberal Studies Student Learning Outcomes

The Liberal Studies program student will master the content required of professional educators in the State of California, to include:

- Key concepts in the following academic fields: the social sciences and history, the arts and humanities, language studies, mathematics and science, health, physical education, human development, and in an approved academic concentration of the candidate's choice
- Candidates will demonstrate their mastery of the subject matter by successfully passing the CSET (California Subject Examination for Teachers) at the completion of their coursework;

The Liberal Studies program student will master the skills required of professional educators in the State of California:

- To synthesize subject content in the liberal arts, professional content related to classroom teaching, and educational policies; candidates will demonstrate this ability to synthesize and the other skills listed below in a Subject Mastery Portfolio compiled at the completion of their coursework
- To apply reading, writing, and research skills appropriate to the work of the academic disciplines being studied
- To apply academic concepts to practical teaching contexts
- To analyze, reflect on, and evaluate the relationships among academic theories, the practical and applied contexts of teaching, and the multiple and complex needs of students comprising a rich and diverse globe;

The Liberal Studies program student will value:

- Intellectual inquiry across a range of subjects
- A world view comprising faith, social justice, and a respect for diversity
- The individual's role as a future educator who will shape the lives of children, local communities, and larger national and global societies.

There are five components to the Liberal Studies major:

I. University Core Curriculum*50 Semester Hours*

Because the subject-matter requirements set by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing are very specific, many of the core requirements for Liberal Studies majors are specified and may differ from those of other majors within the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts. These core requirements are as follows:

- College Writing (3 units): ENGL 110;
 - Communication or Critical Thinking (3 units): choice of one of the following: CMST 100, 110, 140, or 206;
 - History (6 units): HIST 300 and 301;
 - Social Sciences (6 units): PSYC 100 and choice of one of the following: AFAM 115, APAM 117, or CHST 116;
 - American Cultures (3 units): HIST 161 (fulfills the U.S. Constitution requirement for credential candidates);
 - Literature (3 units): choice of one of the following drama-based courses: CLAS 210, 220; ENGL 150, 170; THEA 240, 245;
 - Mathematics (see major requirements)
 - Science and Technology (8 units): NTLS 270 and 271 (4 units each);
 - Fine Arts Critical (3 units): MUSC 104;
 - Fine Arts Creative (3 units): ART 250;
 - Philosophy (6 units): PHIL 160 and one course from PHIL 320-330;
 - Theological Studies (6 units): one course from the THST 100-level series and one course from the 300-level series.

II. Liberal Studies Major Requirements

25 Semester Hours

- DANC 384: Creative Dance for Children (3 units)
 DANC 385: Movement Arts for Children (3 units)
 ENGL 305: Advanced Composition for Credential Candidates (3 units)
 ENGL 346: Children's Literature (3 units)
 HIST 366: History of California (3 units)
 LIBA 400: Subject Mastery Portfolio (1 unit)
 MATH 106, 107: Mathematics for Elementary Teachers I, II (6 units) Liberal Studies majors must either pass out of or take MATH 101 as a prerequisite to MATH 106, 107.
 PSYC 352: Developmental Psychology (3 units)

III. Education Program Requirements

21 Semester Hours

- EDUC 400: Sociocultural Analysis of Education (3 units)
 EDUC 401: Educational Psychology for the Childhood and Adolescent Years (3 units)
 EDUC 409: Reading and Language Arts in the Elementary Curriculum (3 units)*
 EDUC 414: Theories of Second Language Acquisition (3 units)
 EDUC 425: Methods in English Language Development/Specially Designed Academic Instruction in English (3 units)*
 EDUC 434: Elementary Curriculum and Methods (3 units)*
 EDUC 440: Introduction to the Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Student with Exceptional Needs (3 units)

* Starred courses require a separate application to and acceptance into the Elementary Education program or the Mild/Moderate Specialist Credential program. Acceptance into either of these programs requires an LMU cumulative GPA of 2.8. See the Director of Liberal Studies for other application requirements.

IV. Concentration

12-18 Semester Hours

In addition, Liberal Studies majors also fulfill a concentration (generally, 12 upper division semester hours) in a subject commonly taught in elementary schools or closely related areas of study. Courses applying to the concentration may not be those required of all Liberal Studies majors (see above). With careful planning the concentration can constitute most, if not all, of an LMU minor. See the Director of Liberal Studies for qualifying concentrations and their specific requirements.

V. Electives

Remaining baccalaureate units are elective. They may include the 9 units of student teaching, after the Education program requirements have been completed.

Liberal Studies Model Four-Year Plan

This model is based on the student having a 12-unit concentration. Students with larger concentrations or required to take MATH 101 will need to work those courses into their schedules—overloading some semesters and/or taking summer courses. This model also includes some 0-unit Education requirements (TPAs: Teaching Performance Assessments which students fulfill once accepted into the Education program) which are not part of the Liberal Studies degree but are required for the teaching credential; they are represented on the model plan during the semesters in which the School of Education anticipates they would be fulfilled. In addition, before being granted the teaching credential, candidates must demonstrate basic computer skills and knowledge of health education in the schools; this may be accomplished through Continuing Education EDUX 841 and EDUX 842, short courses which students may arrange to take on their own at any time.

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Modern Languages and Chinese Literatures

Faculty:

Chairperson: Alicia Partnoy
 Professor: Áine O'Healy
 Associate Professors: Rebeca Acevedo,
 José Ignacio Badenes, S.J., Jennifer L. Eich,
 Véronique Flambard-Weisbart, Petra Liedke Konow,
 Marc Lony
 Assistant Professors: Gordon S. Gamlin, Alicia Partnoy,
 Antonia Petro

Objectives:

Imparting competence in a given language is the first concern of the Department of Modern Languages and Literatures. The Department's subsequent major objective is to introduce the student to a specific culture and civilization through a judicious selection of required courses and electives. These courses focus primarily on the periods and significant authors of the literature involved.

Courses Exempted from Challenge Examination:

Lower division language courses (100-200) may not be challenged by exam. Additionally, students with significant course credit in a language from high school or college will not be allowed to enroll in the 101 course of that language.

The 101, 102, 203, 204 series emphasizes speaking and understanding Mandarin while developing a command of Chinese characters for reading and writing. This series requires one hour weekly language lab.

CHIN 101 Elementary Chinese I 3 Semester Hours

This course enables students to speak and understand the basic linguistics of Mandarin and to read and write a limited number of Chinese characters. Importance is placed on mastery of the Pin-Yin system of pronunciation and tonal emphasis. Students develop a comprehensive speaking and listening vocabulary of approximately 450 words and a reading and writing knowledge of approximately 150 Chinese characters. Introduction to the fundamentals of Chinese grammar and selected topics on Chinese culture.

Fall semester only.

CHIN 102 Elementary Chinese II 3 Semester Hours

This course continues the study of Chinese grammar patterns; up to two-thirds of the fundamentals are taught. The primary emphasis is on speaking and understanding Mandarin. Four hundred fifty new words are introduced into the speaking and listening vocabulary and 250 new characters into the reading and writing vocabulary.

Spring semester only.

Prerequisite: CHIN 101 or equivalent, or consent of instructor.

CHIN 198 Special Studies 1-3 Semester Hours

CHIN 199 Independent Studies 1-3 Semester Hours

CHIN 203
Intermediate Chinese I
3 Semester Hours

Builds upon the fundamentals of Chinese grammar studied in CHIN 101 and 102 and introduces students to translation. Intensive practice in oral skills and the development of an increased command of reading and writing Chinese characters. Introduction of 450 new words into the speaking and listening vocabulary and 200 new characters into the reading and writing vocabulary.

Fall semester only.

Prerequisite: CHIN 102 or equivalent, or consent of instructor.

CHIN 204
Intermediate Chinese II
3 Semester Hours

Strengthens and improves Chinese language skills: speaking, listening, reading, and writing. This course emphasizes grammar, idiomatic expression, writing short paragraphs in Chinese, and translation skills. Introduction of 450 new words into the speaking and listening vocabulary and 250 characters into the reading and writing vocabulary.

Spring semester only.

Prerequisite: CHIN 203 or equivalent, or consent of instructor.

This course is for American Chinese learners who have reached an advanced level of Chinese language in the U.S. and are now learning Chinese in China. The content is based on the reality of the contemporary Chinese society and has a close relationship with foreign students' daily life and studies in China.

Taught in Beijing, China.

Prerequisite: CHIN 204 or equivalent, or consent of instructor.

CHIN 306
Advanced Chinese II
3 Semester Hours

This course is for American Chinese learners who have reached an advanced level of Chinese language in the U.S. and are now learning Chinese in China. The content is based on the reality of the contemporary Chinese society and has a close relationship with foreign students' daily life and studies in China.

Taught in Beijing, China.

Prerequisite: CHIN 305 or equivalent, or consent of instructor.

CHIN 342
Classical Chinese Literature
3 Semester Hours

This course is a survey of classical Chinese literature from ancient times to the beginning of the century.

Taught in Chinese in Beijing, China.

Prerequisite: CHIN 306 or equivalent, or consent of instructor.

CHIN 343
Modern Chinese Literature
3 Semester Hours

This course is a survey of modern Chinese literature from 1918 to the present. It will focus on the fiction, poetry, and essays during the three periods (1918-1949, 1949-1976, since 1976) in the 20th century.

Taught in Chinese in Beijing, China.

Prerequisite: CHIN 306 or equivalent, or consent of instructor.

Filipino

The courses are designed to develop student competency in Filipino/Tagalog focusing first on the sounds and rhythm of the language, vocabulary building, and sentence patterns. A functional-situational approach to language learning is utilized to develop an understanding and appreciation of Filipino culture and customs associated with the use of various linguistic forms. All levels will enhance and work toward increased proficiency in speaking, listening, reading, and writing through language games and exercises.

FLPN 101 Elementary Filipino I 3 Semester Hours

This course is designed for students who have little or no knowledge of the language. Students will learn how to construct the basic sentence patterns in Filipino/Tagalog and to use the actor focus verbs UM, MAG, and MA and the object focus Verb -IN, as well as the different sets of pronouns and their proper use: nominative, dative, and genitive.

FLPN 102 Elementary Filipino II 3 Semester Hours

This course is a continuation of FLPN 101. The course will also cover the object focus verbs -IN, I-, and -AN, the abilitative focus verbs MAKA- and MAKAPAG-, and the causative verb MAGPA-. There will be extensive role play and multimedia materials to assist students in learning the language.

Prerequisite: FLPN 101 or consent of instructor.

FLPN 203 Intermediate Filipino I 3 Semester Hours

This course is designed to strengthen listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills and to improve communicative competence by teaching social rules along with the linguistic rules. Students will be introduced to more complex sentence structures and the other verb focuses: locative, instrumental, and directional.

Prerequisite: FLPN 102 or consent of instructor.

FLPN 204 Intermediate Filipino II 3 Semester Hours

This course is a continuation of FLPN 203. Students will have extensive practice in narration (pagsasalaysay); description of people, places, objects, feelings (paglalarawan); defining and explaining a procedure (paglalahad); and argumentation (pangangatwiran). More complex grammatical structures and readings will be used to further the students' proficiency in the language.

Prerequisite: FLPN 203 or consent of instructor.

French/Francophone Studies

Objectives:

The French/Francophone Studies curriculum is designed to enhance students' understanding of the French/Francophone world by exposing them to French/Francophone cultures and perspectives. It also responds to the increasing demand for a more practical emphasis in language learning after the lower division level and allows students to tackle the professional world immediately beyond graduation. It may complement LMU's Summer Study Abroad Program in Paris, France.

French/Francophone Studies Student Learning Outcomes

Student Learning Outcomes will be assessed through a Senior Capstone Project (FREN 500) which consists of a portfolio during the second semester of the senior year. The portfolio is a collection of multiple samples usually compiled over time accompanied by a personal reflection essay which would show that the student has met the objectives of the French/Francophone Studies program.

Majors in French/Francophone Studies will know:

- The principal aspects of the French language
- The principal aspects of French/Francophone cultures and civilizations
- The principal aspects of cultural expressions such as literature, art, social practices, gender, and media of the French-speaking world;

Majors in French/Francophone Studies will be able to:

- Understand spoken French
- Speak and write French
- Read literary texts in French and discuss their content, technique, and social significance;

Majors in French/Francophone Studies will value:

- French/Francophone cultures and civilizations
- French cultural expressions
- Increasing intercultural awareness.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

FREN 101, 102, 203, 204.

These requirements may be waived or modified based upon proficiency demonstrated on the LMU French Placement Examination. For majors, a minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in all pre-major courses.

Upper Division Requirements:

25 semester hours in upper division courses: FREN 314, 321, 333, 334, 341, three courses in the 400-level series, and 500.

A minimum grade of C (2.0) must be maintained in all upper division courses.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours taken beyond FREN 203: FREN 204, 314, 321, 333 or 334, 341, and one (1) course in the 400-level series.

The FREN 101, 102, 203, and 204 series is recommended for those who seek basic proficiency in the language. This series requires attendance of a one hour weekly language lab.

French Placement Exam

Any student who has knowledge of or has had prior instruction in French in high school or at a college or university other than LMU must take the French Placement Exam. This exam is administered by the Learning Resource Center during summer Orientation sessions and at the beginning of the Fall and Spring terms.

This requirement includes students who have taken the AP French Exam in high school. Generally, a student who receives a score of 5 or 4 on the AP French Exam (Language or Literature) places in FREN 204. Final placement is conditional upon the instructor's consent. Course credit will be given for FREN 101, 102, and 203 once the student's official scores have been received from the College Board. It is the responsibility of each student to ensure that the official AP scores have been sent to Loyola Marymount University.

French/Francophone Studies Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

German

Objectives:

During the phase of early language acquisition, our German courses build language skills and intercultural awareness. While still perfecting their language skills, students in GRMN 204 and above are introduced to the literatures in German from a variety of cultural traditions. Literature courses range from a general survey of German literature over the centuries to the study of specific genres, such as drama, the novella, and the German fairy tale. In addition to literary studies, the German section also offers a course on German film and a course on German culture and civilization that provides an introduction to German history, society, politics, and the arts, while developing students' general intercultural awareness. For students interested in the language of business, the German section offers two business-related courses.

German Student Learning Outcomes

Students minoring in German will know:

- The principal aspects of the German language
- The principal aspects of the history of German literature and film
- The principal aspects of the history and culture of German-speaking countries;

Students minoring in German will be able to:

- Speak, understand, read, and write German in meaningful contexts
- Use the latest relevant applications in educational technology
- Read literary texts in German and discuss their content, techniques, and social significance;

Students minoring in German will value:

- German language, literature, and culture
- Expressing independent critical opinions
- Increasing intercultural awareness.

German courses at LMU foster communication and understanding others as essential aspects of the education of the whole person. Students thus embark on a road of lifelong learning that will take them into a richer future.

Minor Requirements:

The German minor consists of 18 semester hours above the 100 level: GRMN 203, 204, 301, and three courses from upper division offerings (300-400 level). Within this minor a professional German emphasis is possible, with GRMN 302 and 437 as upper division course options for the business-oriented student.

The GRMN 101, 102, 203 series is recommended for those who seek a basic speaking, writing, and reading knowledge of the language. This series requires one hour weekly in the department's language center. The conversation courses are designed to be taken concurrently with regular language courses.

Once per year, the German section offers a general proficiency test in German (ZD), which is internationally recognized and certifies the language skills of the student to prospective employers in the public and private sector.

Students of German may wish to take advantage of LMU's semester or full year New Europe Program in Bonn, Germany, to improve their language skills. Lower division elementary and intermediate German language courses in Bonn are listed as EURO 181 and 283 each semester. Upper division German courses are also available.

GRMN 101 Elementary German I 3 Semester Hours

A course intended for students who have not taken German before. Based on the communicative approach, the course emphasizes oral proficiency in basic German as well as reading and writing. Italian

Objectives:

The Italian minor introduces students to the rich, complex culture of Italy, first by providing them with basic linguistic skills in the Italian language, and subsequently by familiarizing them with important literary works produced in Italy over the centuries as well as with historically significant films.

Italian Student Learning Outcomes

Students learn to communicate successfully in Italian and develop an understanding of the practices and perspectives of Italian culture down through the centuries. They also acquire specific skills in textual analysis and research, gain a more complex understanding of the many forms of cultural expression, and sharpen their ability to think critically.

Minor Requirements:

The minor consists of 18 semester hours taken above the 100 level: ITAL 203, 204, and four courses taken from upper division offerings.

The ITAL 101, 102, 203 series is recommended for those who seek a basic speaking, writing, and reading knowledge of the language. This series requires one hour of independent study in the language lab each week.

ITAL 101
Elementary Italian I
 3 Semester Hours

An introduction to Italian language and culture, with emphasis on communicative skills. This course imparts basic skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing Italian, simultaneously providing some basic information on Italian culture and society. The grammatical material covered includes an introduction to definite and indefinite articles, pronouns, adjectives, prepositions, and regular and irregular verbs in past and present tenses. The acquisition of vocabulary is reinforced with regular oral and written assignments. Students who successfully complete the course are able to communicate in Italian, orally and in writing, on simple, everyday topics.

ITAL 102
Elementary Italian II
 3 Semester Hours

A continuation of ITAL 101. New grammatical material covered includes additional verb tenses, the imperatives, direct and indirect object pronouns, negative constructions, and demonstratives. The progressive acquisition of new vocabulary is reinforced through regular discussion of topics of Italian cultural interest. Students who successfully complete the course are able to communicate orally and in writing on everyday topics using a variety of tenses and vocabulary.

Prerequisite: ITAL 101 or equivalent.

ITAL 112
Beginning Conversational Italian
 3 Semester Hours

Prerequisite: ITAL 102 or concurrent enrollment.

ITAL 203
Intermediate Italian
 3 Semester Hours

A continuation of ITAL 102. New materials covered include the subjunctive and conditional modes, double pronouns, comparisons, and superlatives. Additional vocabulary on selected topics. The students learn to read Italian texts of moderate difficulty and study additional aspects of Italian culture and society. Students who successfully complete the course are able to communicate orally and in writing on everyday topics and on the specific cultural content of the course.

Prerequisite: ITAL 102 or equivalent.

ITAL 204
Advanced Italian
 3 Semester Hours

A review of the main elements of Italian grammar and introduction to more complex linguistic patterns. The course provides further practice in speaking, listening, and writing Italian through the study and discussion of authentic Italian texts multimedia resources. Students who successfully complete the course are able to communicate orally and in writing on a range of cultural topics.

Spanish

Spanish Major:

Objectives:

This major equips students with language proficiency in Spanish as it introduces them to the multicultural nature and historical evolution of Hispanic literary and cultural expressions in Europe and the Americas. It provides students with opportunities to comprehend, interpret, and practice advanced linguistic skills in Spanish through oral and written exercises and assignments. Survey and seminar classes familiarize them with representative literary works and cultural texts from Spain, Spanish America, and the U.S., and provide theoretical terminology and concepts essential for structural and conceptual analyses of these products. The major also requires the study of Spanish phonology, morphology, syntax, and dialectal varieties. Finally, it helps students to develop a sense of social justice through their consistent participation in intercultural events and service learning activities that involve both academic and culturally significant contexts.

Spanish Student Learning Outcomes

Spanish majors will know:

- The principal aspects of Spanish
- The variety and nature of linguistic practices, cultural texts, and perspectives in Spanish-speaking countries
- Representative literary works and cultural texts from Spain, Spanish America, and the U.S.
- Theoretical terminology and concepts essential for structural and conceptual analyses of these texts;

Spanish majors will be able to:

- Communicate creatively and effectively in written and oral forms in Spanish
- Understand spoken Spanish
- Read Spanish literature
- Apply acquired theoretical and critical skills in textual analyses and scholarly research
- Demonstrate an advanced command of how literary works, cultural expressions, and linguistic varieties of the Spanish-speaking world represent the multiplicity of human experience;

Spanish majors will value:

- The evolution and variety of perspectives in Hispanic cultures
- Social justice and intercultural awareness.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

SPAN 101, 102, 203, and 204 or 205.

The elementary and intermediate courses may be satisfied by Advanced Placement examination. A minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in all pre-major courses.

Upper Division Requirements:

Spanish Major: The major in Spanish requires 25 semester hours in upper division courses: SPAN 321, 322, 330, 331, 332; 9 hours in 400-level Spanish electives; and SPAN 500, a senior portfolio (1 semester hour). Students are permitted to take up to 30 upper division hours in Spanish.

Spanish Major Portfolio Requirement:

Spanish majors are required to register for a one-credit course (SPAN 500, Senior Capstone Project), in the Spring semester of their senior year. Each graduating student constructs a portfolio that includes a 6-8 page reflective essay written in Spanish that demonstrates how the student has met the goals of the Spanish program. These goals comprise language proficiency, cultural competency, mastery of literary and linguistic studies, development of a sense of social justice through intercultural understanding, and the prospect of using this knowledge after graduation. In addition, the portfolio contains a brief description of the student's involvement in extracurricular intercultural activities connected with the Spanish major. Finally, students must orally present their portfolio to their peers and the Spanish program faculty at a group meeting during the Spring semester of their senior year.

Guidelines for the collection of materials included in the portfolio as well as deadlines for the oral presentation of the material are available in the Department. This exit interview course is graded Credit/No Credit.

Single Subject Teaching Credential:

Students interested in obtaining a Single Subject teaching credential in Spanish must fulfill the requirements for the Spanish major and take SPAN 420 and 432 or their equivalent. Students must attend an orientation meeting at the School of Education and apply for admission to the Single Subject Teaching Program. To complete both programs in four years, students are encouraged to start this process early. Prospective teachers are also required to meet with a faculty member in the School of Education.

Spanish Minor:

The minor consists of 18 semester hours taken beyond SPAN 203: SPAN 204 or 205, 321, 322 or 330, to be followed by SPAN 331, 332, and one upper division 400-level Spanish elective.

Spanish Placement Exam:

Any student who has knowledge of or has had prior instruction in Spanish in high school or at a college or university other than LMU must take the LMU Spanish Placement Exam. This exam is administered by the Learning Resource Center during the summer Orientation sessions and at the beginning of the Fall and Spring terms.

This requirement includes students who have taken an AP Spanish Exam in high school. Generally, a student who receives a score of 5 or 4 on the AP Spanish Exam (Language or Literature) places in SPAN 204 (Intermediate Spanish II) or SPAN 205 (Intermediate Spanish II for Latino Students). Final placement is conditional upon the instructor’s consent. Course credit will be given for SPAN 101, 102, and 203 once the student’s official scores have been received from the College Board. It is the responsibility of each student to ensure that the official AP scores have been sent to Loyola Marymount University.

Study Abroad:

Students are strongly encouraged to go abroad for a semester either during their sophomore year (Spring semester) or junior year (Fall or Spring semester). Prior to departure, students must obtain transfer credit approval for any courses that they take, and no more than two Spanish courses will transfer for the major. Consult the Study Abroad Office for information about the Loyola Marymount University Summer program in Cuernavaca, Mexico, as well as for semeseter, year-long, or Summer study abroad programs offered by other universities that the Spanish program endorses.

Spanish Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Spanish Model Four-Year Plan

For students starting at an advanced level of proficiency

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Students may take no more than ten upper division courses in any one department, except for Philosophy, in which the maximum is thirteen.

Spanish Program Course Offerings*

* All courses are taught in Spanish unless otherwise indicated.

SPAN 101 Elementary Spanish I 3 Semester Hours

The course emphasizes reading, writing, aural, and oral proficiency in basic Spanish and reflects the diversity within Hispanic cultures. Instruction includes articles, pronouns, regular and irregular verbs (including reflexive verbs) in the present, and the preterite tenses of the indicative mood, adjectives, and basic vocabulary.

Prerequisite: Students with no prior study of Spanish or LMU Placement Exam.

SPAN 102 Elementary Spanish II 3 Semester Hours

A continuation of SPAN 101. New material studied includes an introduction to the present and present perfect subjunctive, the preterite vs. imperfect tense distinction, passive se, uses of por and para, direct and indirect object pronouns, past participle, formal commands, comparisons, and additional vocabulary and idioms.

Prerequisite: SPAN 101 or LMU Placement Exam.

SPAN 112 Conversational Spanish 1-3 Semester Hours

A course designed to permit students to learn and practice communicative strategies, increase their vocabulary, and to become acquainted with Spanish, Latin American, and U.S. Latino cultures. A final oral presentation is required.

Credit/No Credit only.

SPAN 203 Intermediate Spanish I 3 Semester Hours

After a review of SPAN 101 and 102 material, topics include the preterite vs. imperfect tense distinction, the pluperfect indicative tense, the present and present perfect subjunctive contrasted with the indicative mood, commands, and the ser vs. estar distinction. Coursework includes the discussion of short texts, oral exercises, and medium-length compositions.

Prerequisite: SPAN 102 or LMU Placement Exam.

SPAN 204 Intermediate Spanish II 3 Semester Hours

Course strengthens the students' receptive and productive skills in Spanish while developing an appreciation and deeper knowledge of diversity of Hispanic cultures. After a grammatical review, the course studies adverbial conjunctions, indirect speech, "SI" clauses, uses of the infinitive, relative pronouns, and the description of reciprocal actions. Students present oral and written reports in formal Spanish, to narrate and describe in paragraphs of connected discourse, and to establish automaticity in high-frequency linguistic structures.

Prerequisite: SPAN 203 or by LMU Placement Exam.

SPAN 205 Intermediate Spanish II for Latino Students 3 Semester Hours

This course, specially designed for students with a cultural Latino/Hispanic background, is the equivalent of SPAN 204. It strengthens the students' communicative skills in Spanish while developing an appreciation and deeper knowledge of their cultural background. Students are trained to present oral and written reports in formal Spanish, to narrate and describe in paragraphs of connected discourse, and to establish automaticity in high-frequency linguistic structures. They will acquire and demonstrate a solid knowledge of Spanish grammar.

Prerequisite: SPAN 203 or by LMU Placement Exam.

SPAN 211

Advanced Conversational Spanish

1-3 Semester Hours

A course designed to permit intermediate students of Spanish to learn and practice communicative strategies, increase their vocabulary, and become acquainted with Spanish, Latin American, and U.S. Latino cultures. Oral presentations are required.

Prerequisite: SPAN 203 or concurrent enrollment.

Credit/No Credit only.

SPAN 298

Special Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

SPAN 299

Independent Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

SPAN 311

Professional Spanish

3 Semester Hours

The aim of this class is to strengthen the student's communicative skills in Spanish. During the course we study two professions: 1) business and 2) another profession chosen by each student. The course builds the student's technical vocabulary, teaches certain discursive strategies, and enhances cultural knowledge of particular Spanish-speaking regions by examining various types of texts related to business (e.g., business letters, newspapers, job interviews, and advertisements, magazine articles, etc.).

Prerequisite: SPAN 204 or 205, or by LMU Placement Exam.

SPAN 321

Stylistics and Composition

3 Semester Hours

An introduction to writing and editing Spanish compositions. Course work emphasizes the writing process: developing thesis, structuring arguments, and generating a clear, cohesive style.

Prerequisite: SPAN 204 or 205, or by LMU Placement Exam.

SPAN 322

Introduction to Hispanic Literatures

3 Semester Hours

A study of theoretical terminology and concepts essential for structural and conceptual analysis of literary works written in Spanish. Students are introduced to literary periods and genres from Spanish and Spanish American authors.

Prerequisite: SPAN 321.

SPAN 330

Introduction to Spanish Linguistics

3 Semester Hours

A study of the Spanish sound systems, word formation, word order, vocabulary, and the history of the Spanish language. Includes class exposure to varieties of Spanish such as Caribbean Spanish, Mexican Spanish, Peninsular Spanish, and Spanish spoken in the U.S.

Prerequisite: SPAN 321 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 331

Survey of Peninsular Spanish Literature

3 Semester Hours

Analysis of some of the most celebrated masterpieces of Spanish literature from the Middle Ages to the present in their historical and cultural contexts.

Prerequisite: SPAN 322 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 332

Survey of Latin American Literature

3 Semester Hours

General survey of texts written by a representative body of Latin American authors from the pre-Columbian period to the present.

Prerequisite: SPAN 322 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 398

Special Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

SPAN 399

Independent Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

SPAN 420
Hispanic Cultural Studies
3 Semester Hours

General survey that may include Iberian, U.S. Latino, and/or pre-Columbian civilizations and the literature of Meso- and South America; the impact of the Encounter with Europe; the Conquest; the Colonial Period; the Independence Era; and modern literary, socio-historical, economic, and political events that have shaped present-day Spanish American cultures.

Prerequisite: SPAN 322 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 430
Spanish Applied Linguistics
3 Semester Hours

A study of current directions in both theoretical and practical aspects of the teaching of Spanish. The course reviews problematic areas such as “ser” and “estar,” Spanish past tenses, and subjunctive, among others.

Prerequisite: SPAN 330 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 431
Advanced Spanish Syntax
3 Semester Hours

A detailed examination of Spanish syntax. The following topics are covered: the verbal paradigm, analysis of verbal mood and tenses, the pronominal system, and sentence structure, coordination, and subordination.

Prerequisite: SPAN 330 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 432
Spanish of the Americas
3 Semester Hours

The course will begin with a review of changes in modern Spanish in America. It will provide a general introduction to the history and structure of the varieties of Spanish spoken in the New World. Topics to be treated will include the Peninsular origins of New World Spanish, the influence of American languages on Spanish, the features which characterize the different varieties of “New World” Spanish (including U.S. Spanish), and the grammatical and lexical features which distinguish European and American Spanish.

Prerequisite: SPAN 330 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 441
Latin American Novel
3 Semester Hours

A comparative study of representative narratives written by Latin American and/or Latino/a authors during the 19th, 20th, and 21st centuries.

Specific course content depends on the instructor.

Prerequisite: SPAN 322 or consent of instructor.

SPAN 442
Latin American Poetry
3 Semester Hours

Survey and comparative study of Spanish language poetry of the Americas from a variety of historical periods, national origins, and cultural and literary movements.

Specific course content depends on the instructor.

Exit portfolio (for majors only).

Credit/No Credit grading.

Peace Studies

Director:

Daniel L. Smith-Christopher

Objectives:

In order to accommodate the significant diversity in approaches to peace and justice, Loyola Marymount University's Peace Studies program is a contract-based minor that is arranged on an individual basis, working with the particular interests and study areas of each student. Students may choose from a variety of courses that relate to chosen fields of interest and emphasis, drawing from programs such as Political Science, History, Ethnic Studies, Theological Studies, Philosophy, Classics, English, Sociology, and any number of other departments. The proposed contract, with the suggested list of courses, must be accepted in writing by both the Director of the Program and the Dean of the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts before the minor is officially entered in the academic record of each student who wishes to enter the program.

Minor Requirements

Eighteen semester hours (6 courses) are required for the minor. There are no required courses, but it is strongly suggested that students take THST 304, War and Peace in the Bible, as a foundation course for the program. There is a limit of 2 courses (6 units) in lower division courses, and a single 400-level course is strongly encouraged. A Thesis/Independent Study option is available to fulfill this recommended course, to be arranged with the Director.

Required Proficiencies

In selecting the program, the student must keep in mind the essential goals of the Peace Studies minor include several proficiencies. Students may accomplish these proficiencies in a variety of ways, but typically it would involve the student selecting class projects or papers with the proficiencies in mind and then presenting a portfolio during the senior year to the Director of Peace Studies. This portfolio of class papers/assignments will establish the student's completion of these areas of expected proficiency:

- 1) Every Peace Studies minor will demonstrate their ability to differentiate the historical, political, and economic issues surrounding a selected conflict (e.g., the Middle East, Northern Ireland, Sri Lanka, or South Africa).

- 2) Every Peace Studies minor will analyze a historic conflict involving the United States (e.g., WWI, WWII, Korea, or Viet Nam) and its implications for the world in which we live today.
- 3) Every Peace Studies minor will compare the religious arguments that are a part of a specific conflict, or various religious traditions' approaches to war and peace generally.
- 4) Every Peace Studies minor will apply the concept of Nonviolence and Nonviolent Strategy as exemplified by such activists as Gandhi, King, or Abdul Ghaffer Khan (or others by agreement), and/or theorists of Nonviolence such as Gene Sharp, Elise Boulding, or Richard Taylor to their analysis of a selected conflict.

Please direct all questions to the Director of Peace Studies.

Special Events

In addition to the minor, the Peace Studies Program also sponsors speakers and major events during the academic year to promote discussion and awareness of issues related to peace and justice locally, nationally, and internationally. The first "Bellarmine Forum" on World Genocide in 2001 provided speakers on Native American issues, Middle East issues, and Religion and Nonviolence.

Philosophy

Faculty:

Chairperson: Timothy Shanahan

Professors: Jasper Blystone, James G. Hanink,
Mary Elizabeth Ingham, C.S.J., Mark D. Morelli,
Elizabeth Murray, Timothy Shanahan

Associate Professors: W. Scott Cameron,
Christopher Kaczor

Assistant Professors: Jason S. Baehr, Eric D. Perl,
Thomas Sherman, S.J., Brad Elliott Stone, Brian Treanor,
Robin Wang, Jeffrey Wilson

Adjunct Professor: Richard Morris

Objectives:

Philosophy is a reflective and critical discipline whose aim is to explore fundamental ideas which underlie and penetrate human existence and constitute the deep background of all human endeavors: ideas such as Meaning and Truth, Knowledge and Being, Objectivity and Bias, Good and Evil, Value and Disvalue. Philosophic inquiry into these and related notions is governed by the complementary ideals of analytic precision and comprehensive synthesis, and so it aims to raise these basic notions from their everyday obscurity, to articulate them with logical precision and rigor, and to bind them together into an overarching vision of the nature and purpose of human life.

Accordingly, the Department of Philosophy offers basic courses in Critical Thinking, Human Nature, Ethics, and Contemporary Moral Problems in the core curriculum and a wide variety of courses complementary to studies in a broad range of fields. For convenience, courses are grouped into eight content areas:

- I. Morality, Law, and Politics (320 through 334)
- II. Natural and Social Sciences (341, 342, 344)
- III. Arts and Literature (254, 351, 352, 353)
- IV. Religion and Theology (361 through 366)
- V. History of Philosophy (381, 382, 383, 385, 387)
- VI. Contemporary Movements (421 through 426)
- VII. Major Thinkers (451)
- VIII. Mind and Reality (461 through 464)

Philosophy Student Learning Outcomes

Philosophy students will understand:

- The history of philosophy from the pre-Socratics to modern European thinkers
- Contemporary philosophical movements, issues, and techniques
- Central themes in the primary texts of important philosophers;

Philosophy students will be able to:

- Demonstrate written competency in the analysis of philosophical issues
- Apply the tools of logic in the analysis and critical evaluation of philosophical texts
- Synthesize philosophical insights in relation to their own lived experience;

Philosophy students will value:

- The contributions of philosophers to civilization
- An understanding of the relationship of philosophy to a variety of areas of human experience such as faith, morality, and culture
- Rigorous philosophical inquiry and reflection in relation to their own self-development, their interactions with others, and the quest for a better world.

Major Requirements:

An overall GPA of C (2.0) is required for students wishing to declare a Philosophy major.

Required:

HIST 100 and PHIL 201.

The History of Philosophy sequence—PHIL 381, 383, 385, 387.

Five Philosophy electives (excluding the first course to be taken to fulfill the upper division core requirement, PHIL 320 through 330), at least three of which must be upper division courses taken at LMU.

Students are strongly encouraged to study a foreign language to enhance their philosophical studies. Programs should be planned in consultation with their faculty advisor.

An average grade of C+ (2.3) must be maintained in Philosophy courses by majors.

Majors may take up to 13 upper division courses in Philosophy.

Honors in Philosophy

To graduate with honors in Philosophy, a Philosophy major must have a minimum GPA in Philosophy of 3.3, enroll in the PHIL 500 Senior Project in place of one of the upper division electives, and receive at least a grade of B+ (3.3) on the project.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours in Philosophy, of which at least 12 are in upper division courses. Core requirements PHIL 160, 220, and 320 through 330 may be counted towards the minor. An average of C (2.0) must be attained in courses in the minor.

The Department of Philosophy also offers a minor in Ethics for students who wish to explore further the foundations of ethics and ethical issues as they arise in a range of theoretical and applied domains. Philosophy majors and minors may not minor in Ethics.

Philosophy Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as PHIL major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Political Science

Faculty:

Chairperson: Seth B. Thompson

Professors: Michael A. Genovese, Joseph G. Jabbra,
Seth B. Thompson

Associate Professors: Lance H. Blakesley,
Evan Gerstmann, Fernando J. Guerra,
Janie S. Steckenrider, Robert J. Welch, S.J.

Assistant Professors: Antonio Brown, Jodi Susan Finkel,
Matt Streb

Objectives:

The Department challenges and encourages students to:

- be perceptive observers of political life in all its variety and richness;
- seek a systematic understanding of the causes and consequences of political institutions, policies, and behavior;
- develop a moral and ethical perspective that allows them to critically evaluate actions, institutions, and policies; and
- prepare themselves for a life of active citizenship and involvement in creating a more just and humane world.

The Department challenges and encourages its faculty to:

- master the art of teaching,
- contribute to their profession as active scholars and researchers, and
- promote an atmosphere of care and concern for each student inside and outside the classroom.

Both faculty and students share a responsibility for creating a lively and diverse community of scholars marked by civility, mutual respect, and support.

Political Science Student Learning Outcomes

Political Science majors learn to describe:

- The dynamics and central institutions of American politics

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements: 9 semester hours

POLS 130, 150, 210.

An average grade of C (2.0) must be attained in these courses.

Upper Division Requirements: 27 semester hours, including

- 1) At least one course in two of these four groups: U.S. Politics, Public Administration and Policy Analysis, Comparative Politics, and Public Law;
- 2) POLS 321, Survey of Political Thought;
- 3) At least one course in International and World Politics. It is strongly recommended that POLS 360 be the first course taken in this group;
- 4) At least one 500-level seminar, preferably in the senior year.

An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in courses included in the major.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours in Political Science, including two of the lower division major required courses listed. The remaining 12 semester hours must be upper division and selected from two of the groups 2 through 7. Specific programs should be planned individually with the advice of a faculty advisor.

An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in the courses included in the minor.

Honors in Political Science:

Students who attain a GPA of 3.5 or higher, both overall and in the major, are eligible to enroll in the Honors Seminar (POLS 581) in the Fall of their senior year and to write an Honors Thesis (POLS 591) in the Spring of the senior year. The Honors Seminar is a prerequisite for the Honors Thesis. Students who attain a grade of A- or higher for the Honors Thesis will graduate with Honors in Political Science. Both the Honors Seminar and Honors Thesis count toward the 27 semester hours of upper division course work required of majors.

Political Science Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Mission:

The Psychology program shares the University's commitment to develop ethical leaders for a culturally diverse world, and contributes to the liberal education of students. Through a comprehensive education in the science of psychology, the Psychology Department seeks to educate the whole person, pursue academic excellence, advance scholarship, promote service and justice, and encourage life-long learning.

Description:

The Psychology Department provides a high quality curriculum emphasizing excellence in teaching and learning. Students majoring in psychology examine in depth many aspects of human and animal behavior, along with the biological, psychological, and sociocultural aspects of behavior. Students are provided the opportunity to apply these perspectives to a variety of individual, family, and community contexts. As students progress through the curriculum, they have opportunities to assist faculty with research and engage in their own research with faculty supervision. The program prepares students for graduate study in psychology and related fields or careers in other professions.

Goals and Objectives:

The goals of the Psychology curriculum focus on educating students in the methodology, content, and application of psychological science.

Goal 1: Theory and Methodology in Psychology

Students should:

- Understand the role of psychology as a discipline that uses an empirical approach to knowledge; and

- Use, respect, and value skeptical inquiry, critical thinking, and the scientific approach to understanding behavior.

Knowledge areas students will study/learn:

- Basic research methods and ethics
- History and systems and philosophy of science
- Data analysis and interpretation
- Scientific and critical thinking
- Scientific writing and communication.

Goal 2: Mastery of Content (Discipline Specific Knowledge)

Students should be familiar with:

- Core theoretical approaches and research findings that reflect a biopsychosocial understanding of behavior; and
- More in-depth theoretical approaches and research findings within at least one subject area in psychology.

Core knowledge areas students will study/learn:

- Biological foundations of behavior
- Psychological foundations of behavior
- Social and cultural foundations of behavior
- Biopsychosocial development across the lifespan.

Goal 3: Application of Knowledge and Scientific Method

Students should demonstrate the application of psychological theory, methodology, and findings to:

- An understanding of the whole person, as an individual and as a member of a larger community, society, and culture; and
- The promotion of social justice in these contexts.

Psychology Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the Psychology curriculum, students will demonstrate knowledge of the history, foundations, content, and analytical skills of psychology in their ability to:

- Value the importance of a scientific approach to understanding human behavior
- Apply critical thinking in their understanding of psychological principles
- Evaluate critically research both in the social sciences and as presented in the media
- Locate, understand, and critique relevant empirical research on a selected topic
- Identify ethical issues in research
- Apply ethical principles in their own research
- Formulate a hypothesis based on past research

- Design research to test a hypothesis
- Write complete manuscripts in APA style
- Demonstrate increased skills in their oral and written communication on psychological topics
- Analyze and critically evaluate the biopsychosocial components of behavior
- Apply psychological principles, including the consideration of ethics and social justice, in understanding and solving contemporary problems/issues

Major Requirements:

Pre-major Requirements:

Introduction to Psychology (PSYC 101)

Critical Thinking (PHIL 220)

Human Anatomy & Physiology (BIOL 150)

Elementary Statistics (MATH 104)

Note: A student must earn a grade of C (2.0) or higher in each of these courses. If a student earns a grade of C- (1.7) or lower, the student must repeat the course in the subsequent semester.

- A calculus course with a grade of C or higher may be substituted for MATH 104 after consultation with a departmental advisor.
- Another biology course with a grade of C or higher, containing information on anatomy, physiology, or human biology, may be substituted for BIOL 150 after consultation with a departmental advisor.

NOTE: Students must earn a grade of C (2.0) or higher in each of these courses before they can be eligible to declare or to remain a Psychology major. Students must retake pre-major requirements for which they earned a grade of C- (1.7) or lower and achieve a grade of C (2.0) or higher.

Lower Division Major Requirements:

1. Statistical Methods for Psychology (PSYC 241) and Lab (PSYC 243). Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: MATH 104, PSYC 100 or 101, 243 or concurrent enrollment.
2. Brain and Behavior (PSYC 251). Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: BIOL 150, PSYC 100 or 101, or consent of instructor.
3. Experimental Methods (PSYC 261). Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PHIL 220, PSYC 100 or 101, 241, 243.

4. Nonexperimental Methods (PSYC 265). Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PHIL 220, PSYC 100 or 101, 241, 243.

Upper Division Major Requirements:

1. Cognition (PSYC 401) or Learning (PSYC 402). Prerequisites: PSYC 251, 261, and 265 (grade of C [2.0] or higher in each).
2. Social (PSYC 410). Prerequisites: PSYC 251, 261, and 265 (grade of C [2.0] or higher in each).
3. Lifespan Development (PSYC 415). Prerequisites: PSYC 251, 261, and 265 (grade of C [2.0] or higher in each).

NOTE: Students must earn a grade of C (2.0) or higher in each course fulfilling these three requirements before they can (a) continue on in a Concentration in the major, and (b) take other 400- or 500-level PSYC courses. Students must retake any of these courses for which they earned a grade of C- (1.7) or lower and achieve a grade of C (2.0) or higher.

4. Concentration (12 semester hours). Students will declare one of the four concentrations listed below. In consultation with their academic advisor, students will select four upper division courses within their concentration. No more than 6 semester hours may be taken from the PSYC 300 series.

Concentrations:

General Psychology: This concentration provides the greatest flexibility. Students will select any four upper division courses. No more than two courses may be taken from the PSYC 300 series.

Biology and Behavior: This concentration emphasizes theory and research investigating the interrelation between biology and behavior. Students will select four of the following courses (no more than two courses may be taken from the PSYC 300 series): PSYC 310, 351, 430, 432, 443, 445, 452, 455, 456, 457, 458.

Individual/Family: This concentration emphasizes the application of psychological theory and research to individuals and families. Students will select four of the following courses (no more than two courses may be taken from the PSYC 300 series): PSYC 301, 310, 315, 320, 321, 325, 330, 362, 430, 432, 434/435, 436, 438, 442, 445, 452, 455, 456, 465.

Community/Organizational: This concentration emphasizes the application of psychological theory and research to communities and organizations. Students will select four of the following courses (no more than two courses may be taken from the PSYC 300 series): PSYC 301, 315, 320, 330, 362, 432, 433, 442, 445, 462.

5. Capstone Course: PSYC 510 or 515. Prerequisites: All required courses completed or currently in progress.
6. Senior Assessment: PSYC 595. Prerequisite: Concurrent enrollment in PSYC 510 or 515, or completed with a grade of C (2.0) or higher.

Students may take an additional 6 semester hours of upper division psychology courses and have them count as electives. Students may not take more than 30 semester hours of upper division psychology courses.

Honors in Psychology

To qualify for the Honors in Psychology program, a Psychology major must have senior status (completed 90 units or more), a minimum overall GPA of 3.5, and a Psychology GPA ranking in the top 10% of senior psychology majors. Eligible students enroll in the Honors Seminar (PSYC 540) in the Fall of their senior year and complete the Honors Research Thesis (PSYC 545) in the Spring of their senior year. The Honors Seminar is a prerequisite for the Honors Research Thesis. Both PSYC 540 and PSYC 545 are in addition to the 24 semester hours of upper division course work required of majors.

Senior Assessment

All senior students majoring in Psychology are required to register for and take the Senior Assessment (PSYC 595) prior to graduating. The assessment is offered each semester and summer.

A grade of C (2.0) or higher must be obtained in major courses. Psychology majors are prohibited from taking 400-level or higher psychology courses before completing all lower division Psychology major requirements. Exceptions to this policy may be made only with the prior consent of the Psychology Department Chairperson.

All courses fulfilling lower division pre-major and major requirements, PSYC 401 or 402, PSYC 410, and PSYC 415 must be taken at Loyola Marymount University. Transfer students are exempt from this requirement only for those courses they have completed prior to admission to Loyola Marymount University.

Students may not register for any Psychology course for a third time without the written permission of the Psychology Department Chairperson and the Dean of the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts.

Minor Requirements:

BIOL 150; MATH 104; PHIL 220; PSYC 100 or 101, 241, 243, 251, 261, 265; and at least two of the following upper division courses: PSYC 401, 402, 410, 415, or any 300-level PSYC course. Courses are selected in consultation with the Psychology Department Chairperson. A grade of C (2.0) or higher must be obtained in minor courses. All courses fulfilling minor requirements must be taken at Loyola Marymount University. Transfer students are exempt from this requirement only for those courses they have completed prior to admission to Loyola Marymount University.

Psychology Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

PSYC 100
General Psychology

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to psychology: historical origins; methods of investigation; topics such as sensation, perception, learning, cognition, motivation, and emotion; fields such as physiological, development, personality, social, abnormal, testing, applied psychology, and psychotherapy.

PSYC 101
Introduction to Psychology

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to the scientific study of behavior, including an overview of the history of psychology, biological basis of behavior, sensation/perception, consciousness, learning, memory, cognition, language, motivation, emotion, intelligence, development, personality, psychological disorders, therapy, social behavior, and psychological testing.

Majors/minors only.

PSYC 241
Statistical Methods for Psychology

3 Semester Hours

Statistical concepts and methods related to psychological testing and research, including measures of central tendency, variance, hypothesis testing, analysis of variance, correlation, regression, non-parametric tests, use of computer aids.

Lab Required.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: MATH 104, PSYC 100 or 101, 243 or concurrent enrollment.

PSYC 242
Research Methods

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to the fundamentals of psychological research including experimental, nonexperimental, and quasi-experimental designs; emphasis on critical analysis of research, interpretation of data (with use of computer aids), and scientific writing.

Lab Required.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 100 or 101, 241, 243, 244 or concurrent enrollment.

PSYC 243
Statistical Methods for Psychology Lab

1 Semester Hour

Companion lab course to PSYC 241. Data management and statistical analysis using SPSS.

Prerequisite: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 241 or concurrent enrollment.

PSYC 244
Research Methods Lab

1 Semester Hour

Companion lab course to PSYC 242. Provides students with hands-on exercises applying their theoretical knowledge of research design. Students gain practical experience with literature searches, experimental and non-experimental designs, and scientific writing in APA style.

Prerequisite: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 242 or concurrent enrollment.

PSYC 251
Brain and Behavior

3 Semester Hours

Biological basis of behavior; structure and function of the sensory and effector mechanisms, neural and endocrine systems, and their underlying physiological substrates.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: BIOL 150, PSYC 100 or 101, or consent of instructor.

PSYC 261
Experimental Methods

3 Semester Hours

Introduces the basic principles of experimental designs. Provides students with fundamental background for planning, conducting, and critiquing experimental research in psychology. Emphasizes scientific writing, including APA style; and data interpretation using inferential, descriptive, and relational statistics. Includes how to generate and test hypotheses, search the scientific literature, the nature of variables, types of measurement, types and assessment of reliability and validity, and ethical issues in empirical research.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PHIL 220; PSYC 100 or 101, 241, 243.

Nonexperimental Methods

3 Semester Hours

Introduces the basic principles of nonexperimental and quasi-experimental designs. Provides students with fundamental background for planning, conducting, and critiquing nonexperimental, quasi-experimental, and qualitative research in psychology. Emphasizes philosophy of science and scientific writing, including APA style. Methods and designs may include quasi-experimental, correlational, meta-analytic, survey, longitudinal, narrative, participatory action, ethnographic, focus groups, and mixed methodologies. Statistical procedures include those appropriate to these methods and designs.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PHIL 220; PSYC 100 or 101, 241, 243.

PSYC 298

Special Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

Prerequisite: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 299

Independent Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

Prerequisite: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 301

Introduction and Overview of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Other Drugs

3 Semester Hours

History of alcohol and other mood-altering drugs in the United States, the myths and stereotypes of alcohol use, the socio-cultural factors that contribute to drug use, and the patterns and progressions of alcoholism and other drug dependency.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 310

Psychology of Sex Differences

3 Semester Hours

Explores sex and sex differences from a biosocial or evolutionary psychology perspective. Examines evolution of sexual reproduction, the two sexes, sexually dimorphic morphology, behavior, and emotion. Identifies and examines different reproductive strategies employed by males and females (including nonhuman species) and resulting conflicts of interests between the sexes. Particular focus given to sex differences in sexuality, courtship, jealousy, mating systems, and parenting.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 315

Psychology of Women

3 Semester Hours

Women's biological, emotional, cognitive, and behavioral functioning will be reviewed. Topics of special concern to women (e.g., discrimination, sexual harassment, parenting, etc.) will also be discussed.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 319

African and Black Psychology

3 Semester Hours

A biopsychosocial/spiritual review of topics in psychology from an Africentric perspective. A survey course examining and contrasting basic theories, research, and concepts in African psychology and Black psychology. Selected features of the discipline of western psychology are critiqued from an African-centered perspective.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 320

Psychology of Race, Culture, and Ethnicity

3 Semester Hours

Theories and research on psychological, social, and cultural influences in prejudice, racism, ethnic identification, stereotyping, and racial conflict.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 321Psychology of Marriage3 Semester Hours*

Exploration of theories and research on psychological processes in interpersonal attraction; intimacy, marriage, and family relationships.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 325Applied Sport Psychology3 Semester Hours*

Explores the relationship of psychological factors to performance in sports. Emphasizes the application of psychological techniques to sport and exercise, including such topics as: personality, motivation, arousal, anxiety, competitiveness, and aggression. Examines psychosocial aspects of team versus individual sports, performance enhancement strategies, and injury avoidance and recovery. Self-assessment and activities facilitate growth and development in personal abilities to enhance performance in a sport and in a variety of non-sport settings.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 330Forensic Psychology3 Semester Hours*

Examines the interaction of psychology and law. Topics include basic assumptions of law and professional and academic psychology; psychological malpractice; role of mental health experts as expert witnesses, diagnosticians, treatment providers, and advisors in tort law, family law, mental health law, criminal law, and alternative dispute resolution including mediation. Covers fundamental legal procedures, roles of mental health professionals who interact with the legal system, psychological research on legal issues, and common ethical and legal issues related to psychological practices in these areas.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 332Psychological Disorders3 Semester Hours*

An introduction to the biological, psychological, and social determinants of psychopathology and maladaptive behaviors. Focus on the causes, diagnosis, and treatment of these disorders. This course is designed for students not majoring in Psychology.

Not open to majors in Psychology.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 351Comparative Animal Behavior3 Semester Hours*

An examination of the ecological and social determinants of the evolution of adaptive behavioral strategies for various classes of behavior across species, including foraging, courtship and reproduction, mating systems, aggression, territoriality, and parenting. Field trips to observe animals.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 352Developmental Psychology3 Semester Hours*

Research and theories of normal human development from conception through adult maturity, old age, and death. Focus on growth and change in biological, cognitive, and social processes in psychological development. This course is designed for students not majoring in Psychology.

Not open to majors in Psychology.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 362Psychology of Religion3 Semester Hours*

Examines the religious experience from a psychological perspective, including methods of developing spiritual awareness, classic writings in the field, and review of empirical research.

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 398

Special Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 399

Independent Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

Prerequisites: Junior standing. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 100 or 101.

PSYC 401

Cognition

3 Semester Hours

Contemporary theories and research regarding cognitive processes: perception, pattern recognition, attention, memory, representation of knowledge, mental imagery, psycholinguistics, concept formation, problem-solving, and reasoning. Explores the application of these theories to study skills, education, neuropsychology, psychopathology, cognitive development, intelligence, and computer models of cognition.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 100 or 101, 251, 261, 265.

PSYC 402

Learning

3 Semester Hours

Systematic theories of learning and problem solving in animals and humans, with a discussion of the relation of such theories to theories of psychopathology, education, and psychotherapy.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 100 or 101, 251, 261, 265.

PSYC 410

Social Psychology

3 Semester Hours

Contemporary theories and empirical research related to person perception, affiliation, interpersonal attraction, group structure and dynamics, social influence, attitude change, aggression, prosocial behavior, and prejudice.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 100 or 101, 251, 261, 265.

PSYC 415

Lifespan Development

3 Semester Hours

Research and theories of normal human development from conception through death, with emphasis on changes in physical, cognitive, and social-emotional processes with age.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 100 or 101, 251, 261, 265.

PSYC 430

Motivation and Emotion

3 Semester Hours

Animal and human research related to needs, desires, feelings, and purposes that arouse and direct behavior.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 432

Health Psychology

3 Semester Hours

Explores the relationship between behavioral principles/personality and physical health/illness.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 433

Community Psychology

4 Semester Hours

History and principles of human services delivery systems of community mental and physical health in settings affected by poverty, social discord, and dehumanizing factors in urban living.

Lab Required.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 434

Psychology of Death and Dying

3 Semester Hours

Theoretical and empirical research on the psychological nature of death and dying in the human life span process will be fully examined.

Lab Required.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415, 435 or concurrent enrollment.

PSYC 435Psychology of Death and Dying Lab1 Semester Hour*

Companion lab course to PSYC 434. Observation and data collection from various institutions and community settings related to concerns of illness, health maintenance, dying, death, and funerals.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in PSYC 434 or concurrent enrollment.

PSYC 436Personality3 Semester Hours*

A survey of the major contemporary theories of personality and relevant research and applications related to each theory.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 438Abnormal Psychology3 Semester Hours*

Causes, diagnosis, and treatment of various mental disorders: schizophrenia, mood disorders, anxiety disorders, personality disorders, childhood disorders, sexual dysfunctions, and other conditions covered in DSM IV.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 442Psychological Assessment3 Semester Hours*

Basic concepts of measurement theory including reliability, validity, and scaling; developing and standardizing tests, behavioral observation, unobtrusive measures, intelligence tests, personality assessment, including projectives and vocational tests.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 443Advanced Statistics3 Semester Hours*

Advanced statistical methods using computer statistical packages. Topics include factor analysis, multiple regression, and multivariate analysis of variance.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 445Research Practicum3 Semester Hours*

Students design and conduct an experiment or other empirical research in a specific area of psychology. Highly recommended for undergraduates considering graduate school.

Prerequisites: Grade of B (3.0) or higher in each: PSYC 241, 243, 261, 265. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415. Consent of instructor.

PSYC 452Evolutionary Psychology3 Semester Hours*

Examination of the biosocial development of adaptive behavioral strategies for various classes of behavior including altruism, intergenerational conflict, courtship, parenting, territoriality, sibling rivalry, aggression.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 455Neuropsychology3 Semester Hours*

Clinical neuropsychology: brain damage and organic syndromes, diagnosis, and biological therapies.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 456Psychopharmacology3 Semester Hours*

Study of psychopharmacological prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of mental disorders; secondary focus on psychopharmacodynamics and neurochemistry of drugs which derive their primary effect by acting on the central nervous system.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 457
Psycholinguistics Research
3 Semester Hours

Students participate in on-going studies in the areas of speech, language, and reading under the mentorship of the professor. Students study a current research topic in detail, formulate a research hypothesis, design an experiment, and collect and statistically analyze the data. The final product for the course is dissemination of the research report at a major conference and/or submission of the APA-style manuscript to a major journal.

Prerequisites: Grade of B (3.0) or higher in each: PSYC 241, 243, 261, 265. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415. Consent of instructor.

PSYC 458
Psychobiology Research
3 Semester Hours

Students participate in on-going laboratory research on the psychobiology of learning and memory. Emphasis is on theoretical and methodological issues, research design, data collection, analysis, and interpretation.

Prerequisites: Grade of B (3.0) or higher in each: PSYC 241, 243, 261, 265. Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415. Consent of instructor.

PSYC 462
Industrial/Organizational Psychology
3 Semester Hours

Human problems in industry and business: motivation, morale, efficiency, human relations, occupational fatigue and rest, accident proneness, human engineering, and leadership.

Prerequisites: Grade of C (2.0) or higher in each: PSYC 401 or 402, 410, 415.

PSYC 465
Couple and Family Systems
3 Semester Hours

Imparts an understanding of individuals in systems and introduces the practice of therapeutic intervention at the couple and family level. Some of the major approaches are critically reviewed, demonstrated, and practiced. Students explore themselves, their own backgrounds and biases, their ability to work therapeutically at the systemic level, and sensitivities relating to cultural and other difference in people from various backgrounds. Covers ethics and professional issues in working with people in systems. Requires participation in self-development exercises such as role-playing, as well as self, peer, and instructor critiques of one's performance.

Sociology

Faculty:

Chairperson: James Faught

Professors: James Faught, James Mathieu,
Loretta Morris

Associate Professors: John A. Davis, Peter Hoffman

Assistant Professors: Stacy Burns, Margaret L. Hunter,
Eric Magnuson, David Marple

Objectives:

As a department, our objectives are to foster the intellectual development of students and to promote lifetime learning experiences. We do this through teaching and applying the insights of sociological perspectives to achieve a critical understanding of social reality and the human condition.

Our curriculum is designed to explore relationships within society, the social and cultural influences on human behavior, dynamics of interaction, and social institutions and social change in a global context.

Sociology Student Learning Outcomes

Students majoring in Sociology should know:

- The processes and structures that establish the underlying regularities of social life
- The ways in which social life is continually reconstructed through opposition and deviance
- The significance of cultural differences in traditional and modern societies
- The origin and development of principal theoretical ideas that inform contemporary sociological inquiries
- The basic methodological and statistical strategies used in contemporary sociology;

Students majoring in Sociology should be able to:

- Recognize how social life is structured in ways that influence choices, opportunities, and action
- Demonstrate an ability to write and speak effectively about contemporary social issues
- Read, assess, and interpret the results of sociological research
- Successfully complete an independent research project that competently draws from current theoretical, methodological, and empirical research;

Students majoring in Sociology should value:

- A knowledge of the range of interests and goals expressed by groups and organizations in society
- The ways in which sociological research may be effectively employed by organizations and institutions
- The application of sociological knowledge in order to enhance the quality of life
- A reasoned participation in community life that is informed by grounded sociological knowledge.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

SOCL 100, 105, 109, 210, 211. A grade of at least C (2.0) will be required in all lower division courses.

Upper Division Requirements:

27 semester hours in upper division courses in sociology which must include SOCL 301, 401, and 495. An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in courses included in the major.

SOCL 495 should be taken in the senior year. The remaining 18 semester hours are to be chosen from the six theme areas into which upper division sociology courses are grouped: I. Deviance and Control; II. Social Inequality; III. Urban, Population, and Demographic Processes; IV. Social Structure, Culture, and Process; V. Family and Life Cycle; and VI. Globalization. Students must take at least one course from four of the theme areas. The remaining courses may be taken from any of the upper division offerings.

At least two 300- or 400-level sociology courses must be taken in the senior year.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours, including SOCL 100 or 105, 109, 301 or 401, and 9 semester hours in upper division courses. An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in courses included in the minor. At least one 300- or 400-level sociology course must be taken in the senior year.

Sociology Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Note that core areas are suggested to provide a distribution of various disciplines every semester. Please be flexible implementing these suggestions, given your own interests and course availability. In four years, this plan meets all common graduation requirements.

Theological Studies

Faculty:

Chairperson: Jeffrey S. Siker

Professors: Christopher Key Chapple,
John A. Coleman, S.J. (Casassa Chair),
John R. Connolly, James L. Fredericks,
Robert B. Lawton, S.J., Marie Anne Mayeski,
Thomas P. Rausch, S.J. (Chilton Chair),
Herbert J. Ryan, S.J., Jeffrey S. Siker,
Daniel L. Smith-Christopher,
James J. Walter (O'Malley Chair)

Associate Professors: Wilkie Au,
Douglas Burton-Christie, Michael P. Horan,
John R. Popiden

Assistant Professors: Anthea D. Butler, Roberto Dell'Oro,
Michelle A. Gonzalez, Kristin Heyer, Charlotte C. Radler,
Jeffrey VanderWilt

Objectives:

The Department of Theological Studies makes an essential contribution to the mission of Loyola Marymount University through its teaching of theology and its investigation of the broader area of religious experience. Areas of study include biblical, historical, systematic and moral theology, world religions/comparative theology, and pastoral studies, with special emphasis on the Roman Catholic theological tradition. The mission of the Department includes the education of undergraduate and graduate students at Loyola Marymount, participation in the scholarly community of academic theology through presentations and publications, and service to the church community.

Theological Studies Student Learning Outcomes

By virtue of their Theological Studies courses, students should know:

- The nature of religion and religious experience
- The beliefs and practices of Christianity, with emphasis on the Catholic Tradition
- The central contours of the Bible, Church History, Systematic Theology, Theological Ethics, and Comparative Theology
- How culture, race, gender, class, and ethnicity impact theological reflection
- The social implications of religious beliefs and practices;

By virtue of their Theological Studies courses, students should be able to:

- Conduct critical research and write intelligently and persuasively on theological and religious issues
- Critically interpret theological or religious texts
- Articulate the significance of theological and religious values for church, society, and culture;

By virtue of their Theological Studies courses, students should value:

- The Catholic theological tradition
- The beliefs and practices of the religions of the world
- Ecumenical and interfaith dialogue and cooperation
- The development of a spiritual life
- Living responsibly within a culturally diverse world
- Action in the promotion of justice and service of faith.

Major Requirements:

THST 100, 110. A grade of at least C (2.0) in each of these courses is required.

24 semester hours in upper division courses including:

- a) Biblical Theology:
One course (301, 302, 304, 305, 310, 311, 314, 316, 415).
- b) Historical Theology:
One course (320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 328, 420, 425, 427).
- c) Systematic Theology:
Two courses (330, 331, 341, 345, 346, 348, 350, 355, 356, 430, 431, 435, 440, 450, 451, 455).
- d) Moral Theology:
One course (360, 361, 363, 367, 368, 465, 470).
- e) World Religions:
One course (381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 480).
- f) Seminar:
Major Christian Thinkers (495).

Twelve of the 24 upper division semester hours must be at the 400 level.

An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in the courses included in the major.

We highly recommend that students wishing to pursue graduate study in Theology have a reading knowledge of two languages, either classical or modern.

We further recommend that additional philosophy courses be taken as early as possible. The specific courses are to be determined in conjunction with the student's Theological Studies advisor.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours with at least 12 semester hours from upper division courses, including six semester hours at the 400 level. The courses for the minor must be selected in conjunction with the Theological Studies advisor for minors.

Lay Ministry Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours with at least 15 semester hours from upper division courses, including six semester hours at the 400 level. The courses for the minor must be selected under the direction of the faculty advisor for the Lay Ministry Minor. The student must select at least one course from each of the following areas:

- a) Biblical Theology
- b) Systematic Theology
- c) Moral Theology
- d) Personal Growth and Spirituality
- e) Pastoral Aspects of Ministry

In addition, the student will be required to participate in 90 hours of active service in related fields of lay ministry. This will be under the direction of the faculty advisor and contracted through the Career Development office.

An average grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in the courses included in the minors.

Theology Society

The Theology Society is a co-curricular student group open to all Theological Studies undergraduate majors and minors, as well as non-majors/minors who are interested in theological issues and topics. The group convenes monthly, typically sharing lunch and discussion, often with a guest speaker. The group also organizes various outings as opportunities for students to socialize with one another and with Theological Studies faculty. The Theology Society hosts annual visits from admissions representatives from graduate theological programs around the country for interested students. The Theology Society's members also participate in an annual paper competition sponsored by the Department of Theological

Studies, in which the winning paper is presented to faculty and students each Spring.

Core Curriculum in Theological Studies:

One course from THST 100-199;

One course from THST 300-399 (Prerequisite: Junior standing).

Only courses in the 100 series and 300 series will fulfill the core curriculum requirements. All 400-level courses have a prerequisite of one 300-level course. The 400-level courses fulfill major or minor requirements. Except for those entering LMU as a transfer student, no student may take a 300-level course without successful prior completion of a 100-level course.

For students interested in the study of Catholicism in the core curriculum, the Theological Studies Department offers three courses, THST 120, 326, and 345, which are designed to study the Catholic tradition. For the non-majors who wish a core sequence in Catholic Theology, we recommend THST 120 and either 326 or 345.

Theological Studies Model Four-Year Plan

The normal course load is 15 units per semester (5 classes). By following the model below, a student will complete all lower division core requirements by the end of the sophomore year as well as most major prerequisites. Urban Studies

Director:

Peter R. Hoffman

Faculty:

Assistant Professor: Ayanna Yonemura

Objectives:

As an interdisciplinary program, Urban Studies encourages students to examine urbanization and the multitude of issues inherent in urban life from the perspectives of a wide range of disciplines and methodological traditions. The critical analysis of urban issues helps students evaluate the various political, socio-cultural, and economic strategies available to urban planners, local governments, law enforcement agencies, and others seeking to remedy the problems of contemporary cities.

The curriculum of the Urban Studies program, including its internship program, allows students to take advantage of one of LMU's greatest assets: the many linkages that connect LMU to the extraordinarily dynamic, multicultural metropolitan area surrounding the University. Los Angeles is both an educational resource and a laboratory for Urban Studies students.

Career options for Urban Studies majors may be found in local government, law enforcement, real estate development, and urban social services. The major is also appropriate preparation for students seeking careers or graduate education in urban planning, public administration, social welfare, policy analysis, or the law.

Urban Studies Student Learning Outcomes

By virtue of their Urban Studies Program courses, students should know:

- The general history of urbanization and its associated economic and demographic processes
- The structures and expressions of urbanization and urban life associated with modern and postmodern cities
- The structures and expressions of urbanization and urban life associated with cities of the developed realms/core and those associated with cities of the less developed realm/periphery
- The basic research questions and agendas associated with the various disciplines contributing to our understanding of urban issues
- The general expressions of urbanization and urban life associated with contemporary Los Angeles

- The common theories, practices, and methodologies employed in contemporary urban planning and policy analysis;

By virtue of their Urban Studies Program courses, students should be able to:

- Effectively employ contemporary social science methodology in the analysis of urban issues
- Demonstrate written and oral competencies in the analysis of urban issues and policy
- Identify and utilize appropriate primary data, including census materials, for the analysis of urban issues
- Apply their understanding of urban issues to the development and critical analysis of programs and policies appropriate to addressing contemporary social and economic problems
- Successfully pursue graduate education in such areas as urban planning, public administration, policy analysis, social welfare, and the law upon completion of their major;

By virtue of their Urban Studies Program courses, students should value:

- Diverse perspectives in the analysis and assessment of urban issues and policies
- Thoughtful analysis of the implications of urbanization and urban policy in the context of social justice and sound environmental practices
- Rigorous, scientific research that enlightens the experience of urban populations and contributes to the resolution of the social and environmental problems associated with urbanization
- Community-based participation in the development of programs and policies that contribute to the social, economic, political, and environmental improvement of their communities and cities.

Women's Studies

Faculty:

Chairperson: Nancy W. Jabbra (Spring 2005)
 Acting Chairperson: Áine O'Healy (Fall 2004)
 Professor: Nancy W. Jabbra

Objectives:

The mission of Women's Studies at Loyola Marymount University is to engage students in a critical understanding of the complex ways gender shapes the world around them, particularly in relation to race, sexuality, class, and other social factors. Women's Studies welcomes all students to participate in a vibrant interdisciplinary program of study that places women at the center of traditional disciplines in which they have been historically marginalized. It encourages the critical examination of academic fields such as the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, and the arts, together with the gendered assumptions that underwrite them. Further, Women's Studies proposes not only that we ask different questions of academic disciplines from the perspective of women, but also that we transform those fields and ways of knowing through the innovative theoretical tools and new methodologies that have been developed by feminist scholars and activists over the past thirty years. As a department committed to transformation through education, the mission of Women's Studies is to call attention to the androcentric nature of society, propose alternatives and strategies that honor women's human rights, and promote a vision of society where gender hierarchy, as well as other forms of social injustice, are eliminated. Grounded in feminist pedagogy, Women's Studies courses provide students with a broad understanding of the asymmetry of gender relations within diverse historical and cultural contexts. Our mission is to foster a vigorous intellectual environment where students can develop their analytical thinking skills and conceptual tools for social change.

Women's Studies Student Learning Outcomes

After completing their program in Women's Studies, students will have:

- Acquired a critical understanding of the complex ways gender shapes the world, particularly in relation to race, sexuality, class, and other social factors
- Acquired a strong commitment to social justice for women of all ethnicities
- Learned new methodologies and theoretical tools
- Learned to express themselves well both orally and in writing.

College of Business Administration

College of Business Administration

Administration

Dean: John T. Wholihan
Associate Dean: George L. Hess (Undergraduate)
Associate Dean: Rachelle Katz (Graduate)
Assistant Dean: William Lindsey (Center for Executive Learning)
Directors: John Daly, S.J. (Center for Asian Business);
Alan K. Hogenauer (Program in Travel and Tourism);
Thomas White (Center for Ethics and Business)

Organization

The College has four Departments, four Centers, and one Program, each led by a Chairperson or Director. The Areas of Concentration within these units are designated by four letter codes.

- Department of Accounting (ACCT)
- Department of Finance and Computer Information Systems (FNCE), (ISQM)
- Department of Management (MGMT), (INBA)
- Department of Marketing and Business Law (MRKT), (BLAW)
- Center for Asian Business
- Center for Entrepreneurship (courses are offered through the Departments)
- Center for Ethics and Business (courses and activities are offered through the Departments)
- Center for Executive Learning
- Program in Travel and Tourism (TOUR)

The College offers the Master of Business Administration in different formats. The traditional MBA (MBAA) addresses the educational demands of persons who recognize the need to continue to build their careers. The Executive MBA (EMBA) is for the experienced business leader who aspires to executive-level responsibility.

Baccalaureate Degree Program

The College offers two Baccalaureate Degrees: Bachelor of Business Administration (B.B.A.) and the Bachelor of Science in Accounting (B.S.A.).

The Vision and Mission of the College of Business Administration

The vision of the College is to be recognized as the leading College of Business Administration within a Catholic university in the Western United States through our commitment to learning, values, and research. The underlying theme is the development of ethical leaders for a diverse, technologically-driven, global economy. These statements confirm our commitment to the principles of continuous improvement.

The mission of the College is to continuously develop an environment in which all stakeholders learn and grow together and contribute to an understanding of:

- The global economy,
- The business theories and practices which explain its operations,
- The decision models and analytical frameworks for meeting ethical challenges,
- The importance and interdependence of people in the work environment,
- The technologies that stimulate change, and
- The skills and management tools needed to manage an enterprise successfully.

The primary focus is on excellence in instruction and learning.

The mission of the undergraduate programs is to:

- Help students of high potential experience personal growth in the acquisition of knowledge in a broad range of subjects based on the University core curriculum and an integrated business curriculum;

- Help students develop technical, analytical, and interpersonal skills and personal qualities and values to realize their potential as future leaders in a global economy; and

- Graduate students who are able to demonstrate a depth of understanding in their primary field of interest.

University Core Curriculum for the Baccalaureate Degree in the College of Business Administration

American Cultures

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

First- and second-year students choose from any lower division course (100s or 200s) listed. Third- and fourth-year students choose from any upper division course (300s or 400s) listed. A single course will generally not fulfill two core requirements. The only exception is a course that satisfies another core requirement, which is also cross-listed as AMCS (please see the Associate Dean's Office for details).

College Writing

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

ENGL 110 will fulfill the college writing requirement. ENGL 100 will not fulfill the college writing requirement but is required of certain students based on their performance in the essay written in all ENGL 110 sections during the first week of classes. A minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in ENGL 110. All students who receive a grade of C- or lower must retake ENGL 110 as soon as possible.

Choose: ENGL 110.

Communication

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Choose from CMST 100, 110, 130, or 140.

Critical and Creative Arts

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Critical Arts and one course from Creative Arts.

Critical Arts:

Choose from ANIM 100; ARHS 200, 201, 202, 321, 340, 345; DANC 281, 381; FILM 210, 314, 315; INDA 100; MUSC 102, 104, 303, 365; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, 430.

Creative Arts:

Choose from ANIM 120, 220; ART 150, 151, 153, 278, 280, 350; DANC 163; ENGL 205, 311 (Prerequisite 201), 312 (Prerequisite 202); FILM 260; MUSC 105, 106, 107; SCWR 220; THEA 110, 400.

History

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Western Civilization and one course from Contemporary Societies.

Western Civilization:

Choose from HIST 100 or 101.

Contemporary Societies:

Choose from HIST 152, 162, 172, 182, 192.

Literature

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Prerequisite: Successful completion of college writing requirement.

Choose from CLAS 200, 210, 220, 230; ENGL 130, 140, 150, 170; FNLT 180; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, 430.

Mathematics, Science and Technology

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Prerequisite: Success on the Mathematics Placement Examination or successful completion of MATH 101.

Students must complete MATH 112. MATH 101 and 111 are normally required as prerequisites but may be waived if the student has a high enough score on the Mathematics Placement Examination. All incoming College of Business Administration students must take the Mathematics Placement Examination unless they have already completed MATH 112 or its equivalent. If MATH 111 is waived, the student must complete a 3 semester hour non-business course for MATH 111.

Students must complete one 3 semester hour science and technology course. Courses ordinarily recommended to students majoring outside the College of Science and Engineering are those numbered 260-279 in each department within the College. Courses in this series are specifically designed for the non-major.

Choose from BIOL 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 271, 272, 275, 276; CHEM 260, 261, 262, 263, 264; ELEC 260, 265; MECH 260, 270, 275; NTLS 260, 270; PHYS 271, 272. Other Physical Science courses from the College of Science and Engineering may be used to satisfy this requirement with the approval of the Associate Dean's office of the College of Business Administration.

Philosophy

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Lower Division:

Choose PHIL 160. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempt from the lower division requirement. The College of Business Administration requires that PHIL 160 be replaced with a 3-unit non-business course.

Upper Division:

Choose one course from PHIL 320 through 330.

Social Sciences

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Choose ECON 120 and PSYC 100.

Theological Studies

6 Semester Hours

Lower Division:

Choose from the 100-level series of THST courses. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempt from the lower division requirement. The College of Business Administration requires 100-level series of THST courses be replaced with a 3-unit non-business course.

Upper Division:

Choose from the 300-level series of THST courses only.

Note: International/Global Studies

The current core curriculum includes many courses dealing with international and global studies. All students are required to complete HIST 100 or 101, which deal with European culture. In addition, it is recommended that students take additional core courses that include the study of European cultures such as: ARHS 200, 201, 202; CLAS 200, 210, 220; DANC 281; FILM 314; FNLT 180; MUSC 102; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341; THST 320, 322, 331.

To further augment the understanding of world cultures, it is recommended that students also choose at least one core course that includes the study of Africa, Asia, the Pacific, or Latin/Indigenous America. These core courses include: ARHS 321; DANC 381; HIST 172, 182; MUSC 303, 365; THEA 348; THST 180, 361, 382, 383, 384, 385.

All College of Business Administration students should be alert to the following policies:

Students on academic probation can enroll in a maximum of 15.0 semester hours and will need to have their Advisor Hold removed prior to registration by their academic advisors.

Certain courses must be taken in residence at LMU.

Upper division business courses may only be transferred from AACSB accredited institutions.

Transfer course approvals must be obtained from the Associate Dean's office prior to enrollment.

Three (3) semester hours of credit for approved internships may be counted as part of an Area of Concentration. Credits for approved internships beyond three hours will be counted as free electives.

A minimum of 50% of the business-related coursework must be completed at LMU.

Recommendations:

Students are encouraged to enrich their program of study with selected electives from the following areas. Consult the Bulletin for specific offerings.

Computer Skills

Students are expected to become proficient in computer skills. Courses or workshops may be taken to help students develop existing skills.

Foreign Language

Students are encouraged to study foreign languages to the intermediate level. LMU offers Chinese, Filipino, French, German, Greek (Modern and Classical), Italian, Japanese, Latin, and Spanish on a regular basis.

International/Global Studies

Students are encouraged to select elective courses that deal with international and/or global issues. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Senior Exam

All senior students of the College are required to take the Senior Exam, which is offered each semester.

Study Abroad

A semester of international study abroad is also recommended. Consult the Study Abroad Office.

Total Program

The B.B.A. degree program requires a minimum of 120 semester hours, and the B.S.A. degree program requires a minimum of 126 hours, including the prescribed business administration core courses and those listed above. A minimum of 45 semester hours must be from upper division course offerings.

Students should consult the Dean's office for specific policies applicable to the College of Business Administration.

All courses are 3 semester hours unless otherwise stated.

Business Administration

Curriculum

The courses within the two degree programs (Bachelor of Business Administration and Bachelor of Science in Accounting) are categorized in six groups:

	B.B.A.	B.S.A.
	S.H.	S.H.
A. University Core Curriculum	45	45
B. Business/Econ. Core Requirement	45	45
C. Math/Science Requirement	6	6
D. Business Concentration Courses and/or Accounting	9	24
E. Non-business electives	6	6
F. Free Electives	9
Total	120	126

The specific courses in the two curricula are as follows:

- A. University Core Curriculum
- B. Business/Economics Core Requirements:
 - ACCT 211 Financial Accounting
 - ACCT 212 Managerial Accounting
 - BLAW 205 Legal Environment of Business

- C. Math/Science Requirement
- D. Student Academic Plan: Students will develop an Academic Plan to identify the degree sought and the majors, minors, and areas of emphasis or concentration in their degree track program of study. Students working toward the Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) degree will select one or two of the following Areas of Emphasis:
 - Business Law
 - Finance
 - Computer Information Systems
 - International Business
 - Management
 - Marketing
 - Travel and Tourism

For each Area of Emphasis, the student will select three Advanced Business Electives. Students will also select minors and/or other majors as well as elective courses which may be taken as part of their Academic Plan. This Plan will be developed and implemented in consultation with the student's Academic Advisor and the Office of the Associate Dean.

Students pursuing the Bachelor of Science in Accounting (BSA) degree will develop an Academic Plan to include the required 24 hours in Accounting beyond the lower division ACCT 211 and 212 courses. Their Plan will also include minors and additional majors to be undertaken. Accounting majors are encouraged to include 150 semester hours of study in their Academic Plan, which are now required to practice accounting in most states outside of California.

E. Non-Business Electives: Six semester hours in this category are required for either the B.B.A. Degree or the B.S.A. Degree. These may include courses from any College within the University except Business Administration. Courses may be selected from the entire list of University offerings, but students must be sure they have met all prerequisites in each case.

Lower division courses are acceptable for students to take in their junior or senior years, provided, however, that they complete a minimum of 45 semester hours of upper division coursework.

Agreements are in place with a number of the departments in the University under which students may take all or most of their non-business and free electives in a single area. By using a planned sequence of recommended courses and, in some cases, by taking extra courses, it is possible for a student to complete a minor area of study and, in a few cases, even a second major. It is recommended that each student consider this possibility in terms of career and personal objectives.

F. Free Electives: Students in the B.B.A. program have 9 semester hours of electives that may be taken from any College within the University, including Business Administration.

Special Note:

The purpose of the above listing is simply to indicate the overall structure of the two programs in business. The order in which the courses must be taken is governed in all cases by the contribution of each course to the overall system. The suggested sequence of courses is shown in the following curriculum sections.

Transfer Credit

Lower division courses in business and economics that may be accepted include the equivalents of the following Loyola Marymount courses:

ACCT 211	Financial Accounting
ACCT 212	Managerial Accounting
BLAW 205	Legal Environment of Business
ECON 110	Introductory Microeconomics
ECON 120	Introductory Macroeconomics
ECON 230	Introductory Statistics
ISQM 275	Computers in Business

The following policies apply to all work transferred to the College of Business Administration at Loyola Marymount, whether from a two-year or a four-year school. The College can accept only those business and economics courses which are reasonably equivalent and at the same level of instruction as courses offered by Loyola Marymount. Thus, a course that Loyola Marymount offers at the junior level (courses numbered 300 and above) but that is taken by a transfer student at the sophomore level at a previous school cannot be accepted for credit. Such courses can be recognized only if the student takes the appropriate examinations after admission to the College (see Credit by Examination). Further, all transfer courses must be taken for a letter grade, and the student must receive a grade of C (2.0) or higher in order to obtain transfer credit.

Upper division business courses may only be transferred from a four-year, AACSB-accredited institution.

A student must have completed a course in Calculus or the equivalent of MATH 112 (Math Analysis for Business II) with a grade of C (2.0) or higher in order to transfer into the College of Business Administration.

Business Administration Minor Requirements

The minor in Business Administration is open to non-Business majors only. (Business Administration majors must take all courses required for the minor in order to complete the Business major.) Courses required for the Business minor include ACCT 211, ECON 110 (or 100), MRKT 365, and MGMT 355. Two additional courses must be taken at the upper division level (300s-400s). Upper division courses may only be transferred from AACSB-accredited institutions. A minimum cumulative GPA of C (2.0) must be earned in the minor area.

Hispanic Business Studies Minor

In recognition of the growing number of Spanish-speaking people in the United States and the world, as well as the potential business opportunities they represent, the College of Business Administration has implemented a minor in Hispanic Business Studies. This minor requires that three of the courses be in Spanish language and three in Hispanic culture. The courses in this minor are selected in consultation with the Associate Dean of Business Administration. This minor is available to Business Administration and Accounting majors only. A minimum cumulative GPA of C (2.0) must be earned in the minor area.

Travel and Tourism Management Minor

Selected courses in the Program in Travel and Tourism are available as a minor for non-business students only.

The Travel and Tourism Management minor includes one of the following two courses: ECON 100 or 110; each of the following four courses described previously: TOUR 280, 282, 382, and 383; three of the fourteen elective courses listed previously; and at least 2 internships (TOUR 381).

Bachelor of Science in Accounting Curriculum

The first two years of the program are identical to the Bachelor of Business Administration Curriculum. All 300- and 400-level accounting courses must be taken in residence at Loyola Marymount University.

Management

Faculty:

Chairperson: Edmund Gray
 Professors: Jeffrey Gale, Edmund Gray, George Hess,
 Fred Kiesner, David Mathison, Yongsun Paik,
 Peter Ring, H. Daniel Stage, Charles Vance,
 John Wholihan, Anatoly Zhuplev
 Associate Professors: Ellen Ensher, Cathleen McGrath
 Assistant Professors: Dong Chen, David Choi

Objectives:

Management is planning, organizing, leading, and controlling the functions necessary to successfully run an organization. In studying management, the student will focus on the practical skills, ethical issues, and management theory necessary to succeed in our diverse global economy. The Department offers, essentially, two types of courses: general knowledge courses and specialized courses. General knowledge courses are required of all business majors. The specialized courses, conversely, are elected by majors and minors who wish to gain specialized training in specific areas of management.

MGMT 101 Your Future in Business 1 Semester Hour

Examines the major business disciplines and exciting career opportunities in today's organizations—large and small, profit and non-profit, domestic and global. This course also provides a valuable introduction to important skills and campus resources that contribute to success, both now and in the future.

Open to all majors.

MGMT 335 Human Resource Management 3 Semester Hours

Examines critical issues and concepts for managing human resources in organizations, including planning, staffing, training, performance evaluation, compensation, discipline, labor relations, and employment law. Special attention is paid to career development.

MGMT 355 Principles of Management and Organizational Behavior

3 Semester Hours

Provides a foundation of important concepts and principles for managing organizations effectively by understanding how groups and individuals function within organizations. The critical functions of planning, organizing, directing, and controlling and basic concepts of organizational behavior will also be examined.

MGMT 381 Internship 1 Semester Hour

The objective of this one-semester-hour course is to help students achieve a worthwhile learning experience relevant to their major program of study or area of emphasis. The internship, conducted with an off-campus organization, will help the student gain insights relative to his/her strengths and weaknesses in the job environment.

MGMT 405 Business as an Institution in Society 3 Semester Hours

A practical course that focuses on the social, economic, and political implications of modern business in society. Social responsibilities and managerial ethics faced by practicing managers are stressed.

Must be taken in residence at LMU.

MGMT 409 Management Policy 3 Semester Hours

An integrating course dealing with the problems of general management, using cases, simulations, and field study for analysis and decision-making practice. Issues related to business and corporate-level strategies will be stressed.

Must be taken in residence at LMU with senior standing. Business Administration and Accounting majors only.

Prerequisites: FNCE 325, ISQM 377, MGMT 355, MRKT 365.

MGMT 412 Tax Law and Planning 3 Semester Hours

A practical guide for the professional manager and the entrepreneur to help them understand federal tax laws with emphasis on tax considerations in entrepreneurial and strategic planning.

MGMT 435Employee and Labor Relations3 Semester Hours*

Focuses on developing students' knowledge and skills in key areas such as managing employee performance, analyzing real-world cases, and balancing competing interests within union and non-union environments. Students will learn to write performance appraisals, lead a coaching and counseling discussion, practice collective bargaining negotiation techniques, and design an employee relations simulation.

Prerequisite: MGMT 335.

MGMT 436Training and Development3 Semester Hours*

Important concepts and skills for developing human performance in organizations through training needs assessment, design and development, and evaluation. Stresses current methods and approaches for effective employee training and management development.

Prerequisite: MGMT 335.

MGMT 437Professional Development Practicum3 Semester Hours*

An individual-directed course combining 100 hours of relevant work experience with career development tests, models, and exercises. Each student develops an experience-based career development plan.

MGMT 438Managing Compensation and Rewards3 Semester Hours*

This course examines various theories, strategies, and practices of employee compensation. A central focus throughout this course is on what forms or types of compensation practices and incentives motivate and stimulate employee performance and commitment in the workplace. This course will help students understand the complexities of compensation practices as future HR professionals, managers, or employees.

Prerequisite: MGMT 335.

MGMT 440International Management3 Semester Hours*

This course will examine various managerial issues facing multinational companies operating in international business environments. Building upon the comprehensive understanding of the global economy, students will study various factors that affect the success of global business. These include the extent of globalization strategy, organization structure, mode of entry and control, managing government intervention, human resource management practices, ethics, and social responsibility.

Prerequisites: INBA 340 and MGMT 355.

MGMT 441International Entrepreneurship3 Semester Hours*

Focuses on developing knowledge and skills in three key components of international entrepreneurship: initiating entrepreneurial ventures, managing international business transactions, and dealing with multicultural business environments. Includes a feasibility study of an international small business venture start up, case study, and experiential learning.

Prerequisites: INBA 340 and MGMT 355.

MGMT 449Doing Business with East Asia3 Semester Hours*

This course introduces students to the vital business environments of East Asia. Students study the political, economic, and socio-cultural influences on business and the historical background of the region.

Prerequisite: INBA 340.

MGMT 451Business Practices in a Global Context3 Semester Hours*

This course, through an extensive program of speakers and site visits in a foreign setting, provides a broad exposure to several important environments affecting international business markets and practices, including technical, political, social, and economic environments. Taught on site as part of the Study Abroad Programs.

MGMT 456

3 Semester Hours

This course will examine marketing principles and planning factors and techniques applied in a global environment. Students will develop an appreciation for the external forces which shape the international marketer's decisions and will learn about strategies used by international firms as they successfully enter and adapt to new cultures and nations.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 461
E-Commerce Marketing
3 Semester Hours

This course introduces the student to e-Marketing, which refers to the use of the Internet and related technologies to adapt traditional marketing activities to suit the creation, offer, and exchange of products and services online. The focus will be on the use of emerging technologies and related ideas to enhance marketing outcomes.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 462
Perspectives on Consumption
3 Semester Hours

This course examines the roles individuals play in society and the economy through the acts of shopping, consuming, discussing, displaying, and disposing of goods and services. In addition, the processes by which organizations conceptualize, reinforce, and exploit these roles in the marketing of goods and services will be examined.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 463
Entertainment Marketing
3 Semester Hours

Marketing is an essential element in the commercial success of entertainment products in the world today. Los Angeles is the center of the world's entertainment industry. This course looks at product development, market research, distribution, and promotional methods used in the marketing of films, music, television, and new media products.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 464
International Supply Chain Management
3 Semester Hours

A look at the front-end functions of marketing planning, logistical planning, business relationships, networking, and the marketing benefits of business collaboration inherent in the dynamic channels of distribution used in a global business environment. Note that this is the same course previously named "International Logistics."

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 465
Marketing Promotional Strategy
3 Semester Hours

The new term, Integrated Marketing Communications (IMC), is a recognition of the need for firms to coordinate their various promotional activities and expenditures. This course will cover advertising, public relations, sales promotions, and direct marketing techniques, and will allow students to develop overall promotional programs using elements of each of these vehicles as appropriate.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 466
Sports Marketing
3 Semester Hours

A thorough examination of the expanding field of sports marketing, including team, event, personality, and facility marketing, sponsorship, and merchandising. Some prior familiarity with sport is highly recommended.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 467
Marketing Research
3 Semester Hours

The application of both qualitative and quantitative research methodology to the solution of marketing questions. Students will study the role of marketing research and will be involved in the design, execution, analysis, and implementation of a complete research project.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 469
Consumer Behavior
3 Semester Hours

This course is designed to refocus the student on the consumer as the object of marketing programs. Social science concepts (from psychology, sociology, anthropology, and economics) are used to examine influences on consumer behavior, as well as to study the consumer decision process itself. Emphasis will be put on how marketers use this knowledge to develop their overall strategies.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 471
Retail Management
3 Semester Hours

This course examines various aspects of retailing. The focus is on analyzing situations faced by a variety of managers in the effective distribution of goods and services.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 472
Sales Management
3 Semester Hours

An examination of the sales function, encompassing both personal selling and sales management principles. This course emphasizes development of professional sales techniques as well as creation of sales objectives and strategies, selection, training, compensation and motivation of the sales force, and the use of technology in the contemporary sales function.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 473
Marketing Law
3 Semester Hours

Focuses on the various legal constraints, problems, and ramifications which should be recognized and addressed by marketers during decision-making processes. This will explore the legal interaction of the marketer and the customer in the development of product, promotion, pricing, and distribution plans.

Prerequisites: BLAW 205 and MRKT 365.

MRKT 474
Competitive Strategy
3 Semester Hours

This course provides an in-depth analysis of competition and competitive strategy from both theoretical and applied perspectives. Competitive models, strategic metaphors, game-theory, product positioning, and competitive pricing strategy are explored in detail.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 475

Marketing Planning

3 Semester Hours

Even the most experienced marketer would run into difficulties without a plan. A comprehensive marketing plan is essential for obtaining funding of an enterprise as well as for coordinating marketing efforts for that organization. This course encompasses a study of all of the elements of a successful marketing plan and entails the development of a finished plan by the students.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 476

Entrepreneurial and Small Business Marketing

3 Semester Hours

Whereas traditional marketing courses often assume that marketers are operating in a predictable environment with generous budgets, this course examines shoestring methods to be used under conditions of considerable uncertainty.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

MRKT 477

Brand Management

3 Semester Hours

The objective of this course is to learn the decision-making processes used by product or brand managers with primary responsibility for the market success of the company's products and services, including environmental scanning and coordination of marketing activities for the firm's offerings.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

Travel and Tourism

Faculty:

Director: Alan K. Hogenauer

Associate Professor: Alan K. Hogenauer

Objectives:

Tourism is considered to be the largest industry in the world. It is also one of the fastest growing industries when all of its related business are included. Employment within this industry in the United States is estimated at over eighteen million people.

The mission of the Travel and Tourism program in the College of Business Administration is to:

- Prepare graduates for leadership and professional positions in the tourism-travel industry;

- Provide service to the global economy by providing well-qualified, ethically sensitive graduates; and

- Generate new knowledge in the industry through research.

The courses are designed to build on the Business core curriculum, with advanced courses covering specific industry technologies, business practices, and operations. Students will be advised to consider related courses in the social sciences and modern languages to complement their studies in this area. The Travel and Tourism Management concentration comprises 18 semester hours, including two approved internships.

TOUR 280

Introduction to Travel and Tourism

2 Semester Hours

Provides a comprehensive overview of the global travel and tourism industry. Examines transportation (air, rail, cruise, and road), accommodations, attractions, and intermediaries (tour packagers, travel agencies, visitor bureaus, government tourist offices, travel literature and media) and their interaction. Briefly discusses destinations in the context of the above.

TOUR 282

Global Tourism Destinations

2 Semester Hours

Provides a comprehensive overview of world tourism destinations, focusing on their respective attractions, target markets, marketing techniques, and prospects. Course covers all seven continents.

TOUR 381

Travel and Tourism Internship

1 Semester Hour (at least 2 internships required)

Provides a valuable learning experience relevant to the student's desired emphasis within the industry. Offered as a tri-partite arrangement that involves the student, a faculty mentor, and the course instructor, the internship provides unique, real-world work experience and networking opportunities.

TOUR 382

Marketing and Selling Travel and Tourism

3 Semester Hours

Provides an in-depth examination of travel and tourism marketing from both the supplier and destination perspectives. Case studies are extensively utilized to discuss product development, pricing management, sales strategies, service practices, promotion methods, and distribution channels, both personal and electronic.

Prerequisite: MRKT 365.

TOUR 383

Legal Foundations of Travel and Tourism

3 Semester Hours

Encompasses a comprehensive review of legal and regulatory issues in travel and tourism, including government regulation, the deregulation trend, unilateral/bilateral/multilateral agreements, and the legal liability of suppliers and intermediaries.

Prerequisite: BLAW 205.

TOUR 384

Financial Management in Travel and Tourism

3 Semester Hours

Examines in detail financial planning for selected segments of the industry. Covers both capital and operating aspects, including pricing, yield management, bidding, rebates, service fees, commissions, public and private capital programs, and short- and long-term investment strategies.

Prerequisite: FNCE 325.

TOUR 481Strategic Management Seminar in Travel and Tourism
3 Semester Hours

This capstone course integrates all previous course work through the development of a comprehensive travel and tourism marketing or business plan on a topic of the student's choice, subject to instructor approval.

As an optional focus for the Strategic Management Seminar, students may substitute three of the following fourteen elective courses (TOUR 482-499, 1 semester hour each) offered in sequences of three four-week modules per semester, depending on enrollment.

TOUR 482Air Transportation in Travel and Tourism
1 Semester Hour

Examines domestic and international air passenger transportation in greater detail, using case studies from all six populated continents.

TOUR 483The Cruise Industry
1 Semester Hour

Examines the cruise industry in greater detail, using case studies in the Caribbean, Mediterranean, Alaska, Panama Canal, and elsewhere.

TOUR 484Eco-Tourism

1 Semester Hour

Examines the concept of eco-tourism, its historic foundations, and its present implementation in both developed and developing tourist economies, using case studies in the U.S., Costa Rica, Europe, Africa, Australia, Antarctica, and elsewhere.

TOUR 485Field Experience/Familiarization Trips

1 Semester Hour

Guided local and regional field trips to tourist attractions in both the U.S. and Mexico will serve as the basis for further understanding of the tourism industry.

TOUR 486Gaming Industry Management

1 Semester Hour

Examines the gaming industry worldwide, with focus on both established (Las Vegas, Monte Carlo, etc.) and emerging (Native American reservations, riverboats, etc.) destinations.

TOUR 487Hospitality Management
1 Semester Hour

Examines the nature of the hospitality industry in greater detail, focusing on both accommodations and food services.

TOUR 488Human Resources in Travel and Tourism

1 Semester Hour

Explores the role of human resources in the travel and tourism industry, including transnational employment, labor relations, and case studies of both successful and unsuccessful employment practices.

TOUR 492Meeting and Convention Management

1 Semester Hour

Examines in greater detail the nature of the meeting and convention components of the travel and tourism industry, focusing on the development of convention centers, the role of the meeting planner, and the role of convention and visitor bureaus.

TOUR 493Road and Rail Transportation in Travel and Tourism

1 Semester Hour

Examines in greater detail the role of surface transportation in travel and tourism, including highway networks, bus and rental car transportation, and both scheduled and seasonal tourist rail transportation.

TOUR 494Services Enterprise Management

1 Semester Hour

Explores in greater detail the management of the services enterprise, focusing on product planning, product implementation, financial analysis, and customer satisfaction measurement.

TOUR 495Tourism and Travel Packaging and Management

1 Semester Hour

Examines in greater detail the operation of the packager intermediary in travel and tourism, focusing on product design, competition, and sales strategies.

TOUR 496

Requires approval of the director.

College of Communication and Fine Arts

College of Communication and Fine Arts

Administration:

Dean: Barbara J. Busse
Associate Dean: Suzanne Frentz

Objectives:

Based on a thorough background in the Liberal Arts, Loyola Marymount's College of Communication and Fine Arts offers majors in Art History, Communication Arts, Dance, Music, Studio Arts, and Theatre Arts. Disciplines are concerned with exploring the place of the creative process within humanism. Many programs are professionally oriented with the Departments seeking to produce individuals who are practitioners of the arts they profess.

Application of General University Requirements

The University requirements for admission, graduation, and all general rules and regulations of the University as set forth in this Bulletin are applicable to and binding upon all students enrolled in the College of Communication and Fine Arts.

College Curriculum

The curriculum of each department in the College of Communication and Fine Arts incorporates required courses in general education, major sequences, and elective courses which complement and enhance the student's major field of concentration.

Core Curriculum for the Baccalaureate Degree in the College of Communication and Fine Arts

American Cultures

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

First- and second-year students choose from any lower division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. Third- and fourth-year students choose from any upper division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. A single course will generally not fulfill two core requirements. The only exception is a course that satisfies another core requirement which is also cross-listed as AMCS.

College Writing

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

ENGL 110 will fulfill the college writing requirement. ENGL 100 will not fulfill the college writing requirement but is required of certain students based on their performance in the essay written in all ENGL 110 sections during the first week of classes. A minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in ENGL 110. All students who receive a grade of C- or lower must retake ENGL 110 as soon as possible.

Choose: ENGL 110.

Communication or Critical Thinking

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection:

Communication: Choose from CMST 100, 110, 130, or 140.

OR

Critical Thinking: Choose from CMST 206, PHIL 220.

Communication Studies majors must choose CMST 100 or 206.

Critical and Creative Arts

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection:

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Critical Arts and one course from Creative Arts.

Critical Arts: Choose from ANIM 100; ARHS 200, 201, 202, 321, 340, 345; DANC 281, 381; FILM 210, 314, 315; INDA 100; MUSC 102, 104, 303, 365; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, or 430.

Creative Arts: Choose from ANIM 120; ART 150, 151, 153, 278, 280, 350; DANC 163; ENGL 205, 311 (Prerequisite 201), 312 (Prerequisite 202); FILM 260; MUSC 105, 106, 107; SCWR 220; THEA 110, 400.

Students may not select courses in the department of their major.

History*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Western Civilization and one course from Contemporary Societies.

Western Civilization: Choose from HIST 100 or 101.

Contemporary Societies: Choose from HIST 152, 162, 172, 182, or 192.

Literature*3 Semester Hours*

Course Selection

Prerequisite: Successful completion of college writing requirement.

Choose from CLAS 200, 210, 220, 230; ENGL 130, 140, 150, 170; FNLT 180; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, or 430.

Mathematics, Science and Technology*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection

All students take MATH 102, 103, and one other course in Science and Engineering. The MATH 102 course is designed to allow students to attain a level of mathematical literacy which will enable them to deal with the types of mathematical questions that they will encounter on a regular basis after they graduate.

Prerequisite: Demonstration of proficiency in mathematics by success in MATH 102 or a grade of C or better in MATH 111, 112, 120, 122, 131, or 306. The Mathematics Placement Examination is required before taking any of these courses.

The course in science and engineering introduces the student to the methodology used in that field of science or engineering. These courses include laboratories and/or demonstrations providing the student with hands-on experience.

Courses ordinarily recommended to students majoring outside the College of Science and Engineering are those numbered 260-279 in each department within the College. Courses in this series are specifically designed for the non-major.

Choose from BIOL 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 271, 272, 275, 276; CHEM 260, 261, 262, 263, 264; CMSI 261; ELEC 260, 265; MECH 260, 270, 275; NTLS 260, 270; PHYS 271, 272. All other lower division courses (at least 3 semester hours) in the College of Science and Engineering also satisfy this requirement.

Only one mathematics course will be credited toward the Mathematics, Science and Technology component of the Core.

Philosophy*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection

Lower Division:

Choose PHIL 160. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempted from the lower division requirement.

Upper Division:

Choose one PHIL course from 320 through 330.

Social Sciences*6 Semester Hours*

Students must select one of the following options:

1. Two courses from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105. Courses must be from different departments.
2. One course from: AFAM 115, APAM 117, CHST 116, or WNST 100; and one course from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105.
3. Two courses from the same department. The first is selected from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105. The second course in the same department is selected from upper division courses that the student is qualified to take.

Theological Studies*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection

Lower Division:

Choose from the 100-level series of THST courses. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempted from the lower division requirement.

Upper Division:

Choose from the 300-level series of THST courses only.

Note: International/Global Studies

The current core curriculum includes many courses

dealing with international and global studies. All students are required to complete HIST 100 or 101, which deal with European culture. In addition, it is recommended that students take additional core courses which include the study of European cultures such as: ARHS 200, 201, 202; CLAS 200, 210, 220; DANC 281; FILM 314; FNLT 180; MUSC 102; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341; THST 320, 322, 331. To further augment the understanding of world cultures, it is recommended that students also choose at least one core course that includes the study of Africa, Asia, the Pacific, or Latin/Indigenous America. These core courses include: ARHS 321; DANC 381; HIST 172, 182; MUSC 303, 365; POLS 155; SOCL 105; THEA 348; THST 180, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385.

Recommendations:

Students are encouraged to enrich their program of study with selected electives from the following areas. Consult the Bulletin for specific offerings.

Business

Students are encouraged to take a course in the issues of business. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Computer Skills

Students are expected to become proficient in computer skills. Courses or workshops may be taken to help students develop existing skills.

Foreign Language

Students are encouraged to study foreign languages to the intermediate level. LMU offers Chinese, Filipino, French, German, Greek (Modern and Classical), Italian, Japanese, Latin, and Spanish on a regular basis.

International/Global Studies

Students are encouraged to select elective courses that deal with international and/or global issues. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Study Abroad

A semester of international study abroad is also recommended. Consult the Study Abroad office.

Total Program

120 semester hours are required for graduation with the following distribution:

- a) a maximum of 36 upper division semester hours in any one department will be accepted toward the 120 semester hours requirement; and
- b) at least 45 semester hours are required from upper division offerings.

Students should consult the Dean's Office for specific policies applicable to the College of Communication and Fine Arts.

Individualized Study Program

Admission to the Individualized Study Program in Communication and Fine Arts requires:

1. a B (3.0) grade point average.
2. the submission of an Individualized Study Program form delineating courses and signed by the student's advisor and the chairperson of the advisor's department.
3. the submission by the advisor of a complete curriculum from an accredited college or university.
4. the signature of the Dean of the College.

All subsequent changes in the Individualized Study Program require points 2, 3, and 4 above.

Students registering for an Individualized Study Program are advised that their diploma and transcript will read "Individualized Study" and not the specific major they elect within that program.

Art and Art History

Faculty:

Chairperson: Rev. Michael Tang
 Professors: Michael Brodsky, Rudolf Fleck,
 Teresa Muñoz, Susan Barnes Robinson,
 Rev. Michael Tang
 Associate Professors: Jane Brucker, Carm Goode,
 Katherine Harper
 Assistant Professors: Soo Jin Kim, Garland Kirkpatrick

Objectives:

The philosophy of the Department rests on the premise that its students should receive a broad education which combines creativity and scholarly study. Two majors are offered, Studio Arts and Art History. The foremost objective is to prepare the student intellectually and professionally for careers in studio arts and art history.

Courses offered to undergraduate majors and non-majors stress the cultural value of the visual arts.

The Department is a fully accredited member of the National Association of Schools of Art and Design.

Semester Hours:

For studio classes, a semester hour of credit, one unit, represents three hours of work each week. In lecture and seminar courses, an hour of credit represents one hour each week in class and two hours of work outside of class.

Following the customary procedure of most colleges and universities, the Department of Art and Art History reserves the right to retain for a period of three years any work which a student has completed for course credit.

Art History Major

The major in Art History is designed to increase the student's understanding of the meaning and purpose of the arts, their historical development, their formal and expressive means, their role in society, and their relationship to other humanistic disciplines.

The Department of Art and Art History reserves the right to retain, display, use, and reproduce any student course work, including original work, a student has rendered or created for course credit; this material will be used solely for educational and University purposes, including without limitation for recruitment, display, and republication in University media and publications.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

12 semester hours of lower division courses:
 ARHS 200, 201, 202; ART 150 or 151.

Upper Division Requirements:

30 semester hours of upper division courses,
 including ARHS 449.

Recommended: Knowledge of at least one foreign language.

A minimum grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course included in the major requirements.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours:

ARHS 200, 201, 202; and 9 semester hours in upper division courses selected under the direction of an advisor in the department. Studio Arts majors who elect an Art History minor are required to take an additional 3 semester hours of upper division work for the total of 21 hours in the minor.

Recommended: ARHS 449.

Studio Arts Major

This program of study provides a broad foundation in fundamental techniques and concepts and permits each individual to experience the possibilities of creative expression and to develop an understanding of art as a key to cultural awareness. Students in Studio Arts are expected to engage in studio work in addition to scheduled class time. Studios are open to enrolled students outside of class time on a twenty-four hour basis. At the junior level students are required to declare a Fine Arts, Graphic Arts, or Multimedia Arts Emphasis. Students declaring the Art Education Emphasis are required to meet with the Art Education Coordinator and the Coordinator of Secondary Education in the School of Education as freshmen and should declare the emphasis no later than the beginning of the junior year. Students are urged to take additional upper division Art History classes as electives.

A minimum grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course included in the major requirements.

Communication Studies

Faculty:

Chairperson: Patricia Oliver
 Professor: Dean Scheibel
 Associate Professors: Barbara J. Busse, Jay B. Busse,
 Steven Combs, Patricia Oliver
 Assistant Professors: Paige Pettyjohn Edley,
 Michele Hammers, Annika Hylm , Jonghwa Lee,
 Kyra Pearson, Nina M. Reich

Objectives:

We study communication as a practical and theoretical art form, one that is integral to understanding and contributing to the social world. Our major emphasizes the construction and critical analysis of a variety of communication forms.

Communication Studies courses focus on the history, theory, and criticism of all forms of human communication, concentrating on people as symbol users. Coursework promotes the study and application of communication theory and practice. The major program provides an emphasis in rhetoric and public address and organizational communication, with additional coursework in interpersonal communication and social influence.

Communication Studies majors learn advanced oral and written communication skills and acquire internship opportunities that provide them with valuable experiences in their future careers. Students are prepared to work in the business world, in nonprofit organizations, and in fields such as education, government, and media. They also are prepared for further study in graduate and professional programs in communication, law, and business.

Major Requirements: (42 semester hours)

Lower Division Requirements:

12 semester hours of lower division: CMST 130, 170, and 203 and 204 (both completed with a grade of C [2.0] or better). CMST 100 or 206 must be taken to fulfill the communication skills requirement in the University core.

Upper Division Requirements:

30 semester hours of upper division: Satisfactory completion of CMST 351, 352, 451, 452 (all four completed with a grade of C [2.0] or better), and 495. Five courses of "communication applications" selected from CMST 330, 335, 336, 375, 376, 385, 386, 387, 393, or 490.

Minor Requirements: (18 semester hours)

Lower Division Requirements:

6 semester hours of lower division: CMST 203 and 204 (both completed with a grade of C [2.0] or better).

Upper Division Requirements:

12 semester hours of upper division: CMST 351 or 352 (completed with a grade of C [2.0] or better), and three courses selected from CMST 330, 335, 336, 375, 376, 385, 386, 387, or 393.

This schedule is typical. The sequence and choices of courses must be decided in consultation with an advisor.

CMST 100
Introduction to Public Speaking
3 Semester Hours

Designed to assist the student in developing the skills necessary to communicate effectively to others and to listen effectively to communication from others. Development of proficiency in speaking results from the practice and criticism of informative speeches, persuasive speeches, and discussion.

CMST 101
Introduction to Communication Studies
3 Semester Hours

Designed to assist in developing basic skills and knowledge for future classes. Topics include: history of the discipline, the rhetorical tradition, introduction to communication theory, and research methods. Development of library skills and writing for the social sciences.

CMST 110
Interpersonal Communication
3 Semester Hours

Examination of students' communication strengths and weaknesses in order to develop proficiency in interpersonal communication. A variety of practice speaking contexts is provided, including public speaking, group discussion and problem solving, and informal and formal one-to-one communication.

CMST 130
Argumentation and Debate
3 Semester Hours

The principles of reasoning, evidence, and organization of argumentation for debate and related forms of competitive speech; practical application in debate and other forensic speech.

CMST 131
Argumentation Practicum
3 Semester Hours

Forensics competition in various debate formats requiring intramural and intercollegiate debate competition.

Prerequisite: CMST 130 and consent of instructor.

CMST 140
Business and Professional Communication
3 Semester Hours

A study of the principles and methods involved in improving oral communication in business and the professions. Emphasis on interviewing, conference speaking, selling and persuading, problem-solving discussions, and interpersonal relations.

CMST 160
Small Group Processes
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to small group processes and theory; practice in small group discussion. Special emphasis on problem solving processes.

CMST 170
Interpersonal and Small Group Communication
3 Semester Hours

This course is designed to introduce the students to interpersonal and small group communication theories, processes, and skills. The course challenges students to examine their own communication behaviors and focus on their strengths and weaknesses as a way to develop and apply new communication skills and proficiencies. The course includes a variety of oral and written presentations at both the individual and group levels.

CMST 201Rhetorical Theory3 Semester Hours*

This course provides a chronological survey of major rhetorical themes and theories drawn from Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, Quintilian, St. Augustine, Kenneth Burke, Stephen Toulmin, critical theorists, feminist rhetoric, and non-Western approaches to rhetoric.

Prerequisite: CMST 101 with a grade of C (2.0) or better.

CMST 202Organizational Communication3 Semester Hours*

A study of the role of the individual communicator in an organization and the pattern of communication observed in different organizational structures.

Prerequisite: CMST 101 with a grade of C (2.0) or better.

CMST 203Foundations of Communication Theory3 Semester Hours*

This course introduces students to the field of communication studies and its major areas of inquiry. It begins with an overview of the history of the discipline, tracing its humanistic roots, social scientific orientations, and approaches which combine these two traditions. The course then examines communication studies from the standpoint of four perspectives that can be used to organize major movements in the field: mechanistic, psycho-symbolic, pragmatic, and critical. These perspectives are used to organize the variety of communication theories examined in the course.

This course may be taken concurrently with CMST 204.

CMST 204Introduction to Research in Communication Studies3 Semester Hours*

This course introduces students to scholarship conducted in communication studies. It overviews the research process, including generating research questions, constructing bibliographies, gathering and assessing information, and developing scholarly arguments. Students will learn research techniques, including location and retrieval of information sources (i.e., newspapers, journals, books, electronic databases, and Internet sources). They will apply critical thinking skills to the evaluation of information sources and data/arguments in qualitative and quantitative research. Students will also be introduced to basic aspects of writing for the discipline, as well as expectations for scholarly ethics and proper citation of courses.

This course may be taken concurrently with CMST 203.

CMST 206Critical Thinking and Communication3 Semester Hours*

A study of the techniques of critical thinking as applied to communication and rhetoric.

CMST 298Special Studies1-3 Semester HoursCMST 299*Independent Studies1-3 Semester HoursCMST 301*Theories of Human Communication3 Semester Hours*

Theories which describe the complexities of human messages and the relationships of persons who communicate are studied to develop approaches to more effective communication.

Prerequisite: CMST 101 with a grade of C (2.0) or better.

CMST 303Research in Communication Studies3 Semester Hours*

Study of qualitative methods in communication. Development of senior thesis literature review and research questions. Includes data collection, analysis, and interpretation of observations and interview data.

Prerequisite: CMST 101.

CMST 330Advanced Forensics3 Semester Hours*

A study of advanced principles of debate with emphasis on interdisciplinary research on current national collegiate debate topic.

Prerequisite: CMST 130 or consent of instructor.

CMST 331Argumentation Practicum3 Semester Hours*

Forensics competition in various debate formats requiring intramural and intercollegiate debate competition.

Prerequisite: CMST 130 and consent of instructor.

CMST 335
Gender Communication
 3 Semester Hours

Course surveys gender similarities and differences in verbal and nonverbal communication. Emphasis is also placed on how males and females perceive the world and how these perceptions affect the human communication process.

CMST 336
Intercultural Communication
 3 Semester Hours

A study of the principles and theories of human communication related to cross cultural encounters. Emphasis is placed on cultural relativity, culture shock, verbal and nonverbal interaction, and value differences among diverse cultures.

CMST 351
Contemporary Rhetorical Theory
 3 Semester Hours

This course provides a survey of major rhetorical themes and theories, including classical, symbolic, argumentation, critical, feminist, and non-Western approaches to rhetoric. Students will explore the relationship between rhetorical theory and practice, the contributions of rhetorical theory to the social world, and the potential for rhetorical studies to inform issues of democratic governance, marginalized groups, social justice, and technology in society.

Prerequisites: CMST 203 and 204 with a grade of C (2.0) or better.

CMST 352
Theories of Organizational Communication
 3 Semester Hours

This course is designed to introduce the students to the field of organizational communication and the relationship between organization and communication. The course is designed to allow students to examine a range of organizational communication perspectives, theories, issues, and constructs. At the same time, students are encouraged to explore the ways these perspectives shape, expand, and limit our understanding of communicating and organizing. Significantly, the course encourages critical and analytical thinking by using the course content as a basis for critique.

Prerequisites: CMST 203 and 204 with a grade of C (2.0) or better.

CMST 375
Organizational Communication Advanced Topical Seminar
 3 Semester Hours

Advanced topical studies in organizational communication.

May be repeated once for degree credit with a different topic.

CMST 376
Communication and Consulting
 3 Semester Hours

Course surveys methods of designing, conducting, and evaluating organizational communication change strategies. Emphasis is on various methods of conducting organizational communication needs analysis, designing training programs, implementing organizational development strategies, and evaluating change efforts.

CMST 385
Political Communication
 3 Semester Hours

Course analyzes the rhetorical dimensions of political campaigns and methods of carrying out various political objectives.

CMST 386
Rhetoric of Social Movements
 3 Semester Hours

This course is a survey of the historical events and rhetorical documents of major American movements for social change. Movements may include: abolitionist (anti-slavery), labor, socialist, women's rights, environmental justice, civil rights (Black, Chicana/o, and Native American), gay and lesbian, and student movements. Emphasis will be placed on rhetorical strategies and tactics relating to effects of movements on systems and structures conceived as dominant; analyses of how social movement actors construct meaning and identity in their discourses is also stressed.

CMST 387
Communication and Legal Practice
 3 Semester Hours

This course brings the legal trial to the classroom, providing students an opportunity to incorporate an array of communication principles and skills with the experience of trial practice. Students are introduced progressively to key aspects of communication and litigation and participate in exercises that culminate in mock trials before a jury.

Dance—Department of Theatre Arts and Dance

Faculty:

Co-chairperson: Judith Scalin
 Professors: Scott Heinzerling, Judith Scalin
 Assistant Professors: Teresa Heiland, Patrick Damon Rago

Objectives:

The Dance major curriculum builds upon the foundation of dance as a humanistic experience. The study of dance as an art form serves as the heart of the course of study. Studio and theory coursework are designed to integrate practical dance experience with more formal academic study so that the student is educated as a dancer who can perform, write, and speak about the art of dance and dancing. Dance majors earn a B.A. degree and are prepared for advanced study in graduate school as well as careers in performing, teaching, and related work in the fields of business and health care.

The Dance program is housed in the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance. It offers coursework for the Dance major, the Dance minor and the general student. The program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Dance.

Music

Faculty:

Chairperson: Mary Breden
 Professors: Mary Breden, Virginia Saya
 Associate Professor: Paul W. Humphreys, Mark Saya
 Assistant Professor: Michael Miranda

Objectives:

The purpose of the Department of Music is to provide quality music instruction both for students who wish to pursue music as a career and for students who wish to enrich their lives through non-career oriented study and performance. Students and faculty work together to foster aesthetic involvement and creative and scholarly inquiry that support a vital community of music learning. Instruction emphasizes a personal approach. Through the presentation of diverse musical programs, the department also sustains and enriches the cultural vitality of the University and its surrounding communities. The work of the department further supports the goals of Jesuit and Marymount education by strengthening the socializing influence of music both within the University and the world at large.

The Department of Music offers the Bachelor of Arts in Music degree, the requirements of which can serve as an excellent foundation for students undertaking advanced studies in preparation for such careers as musicology, composition, ethnomusicology, music librarianship, and pedagogy-oriented teaching. In addition to meeting all general University admissions requirements, students who wish either to major or minor in Music must meet specific Department of Music entrance requirements.

Loyola Marymount University and the Department of Music are accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music.

Admission to the Major and Minor:

An audition in the applied emphasis (Instrument or Voice) is required before admission to the major or minor. Audition requirements appropriate to each instrumental and voice emphasis are available from the Secretary of the Department of Music.

A grade of C (2.0) or better is required in:

MUSC 122 (Music Theory & Form II)

A grade of B (3.0) or better is required in:

MUSC 181, 280, 281 (Applied Lessons)

Foreign Language Requirement:

Two semesters of foreign language(s) through selection of one of the following options:

ITAL 101, 102 or
 GRMN 101, 102 or
 FREN 101, 102 or
 ITAL 101, GRMN 101 or
 ITAL 101, FREN 101 or

Theatre Arts— Department of Theatre Arts and Dance

Faculty:

Co-chairperson: Katharine B. Free
 Professors: Katharine B. Free, Judith Royer, C.S.J.
 Associate Professors: Diane Benedict, Charles E. Erven,
 Ron Marasco
 Assistant Professors: Clifford A. Reed, Dan Weingarten

Objectives:

The Theatre Arts curriculum is planned to provide a broad education in the humanities and to develop in the student an appreciation of self and the universality of the human experience. Participation in the performing arts experience is central to this work. All students pursue a general theatre program. Some students may elect to emphasize work in the areas of acting, directing, playwriting, history/literature/criticism, or design/technical theatre. The Theatre Arts program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Theatre.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

24 semester hours: THEA 111, 120, 220, 240, 245, 250 (2 semesters), and 7 hours of lower division Theatre coursework planned in consultation with departmental advisor.

Upper Division Requirements:

30 semester hours: 9 hours of Theatre history/literature/criticism courses from the THEA 330s, 340s, 430s; THEA 370, THEA 450 (3 semesters), THEA 490, and 12 hours of upper division Theatre electives.

A minimum grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course included in the major requirements.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours divided into 6 semester hours of lower division work, 12 semester hours of upper division theatre offerings, and participation in Departmentally-sponsored events.

Minor programs must be planned in consultation with a departmental advisor. A minimum grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course included in the minor program.

Prerequisite: THEA 222 or consent of instructor.

THEA 331Classical Spirit in Drama3 Semester Hours*

An exploration of the classical drama throughout major periods.

THEA 336Romantic Spirit in Drama3 Semester Hours*

An exploration of the romantic drama throughout major periods.

THEA 341Realistic Spirit in Drama3 Semester Hours*

An exploration of the realistic drama throughout major periods.

THEA 346

Avant-Garde Spirit in Drama

3 Semester Hours

An exploration of the avant-garde drama throughout major periods.

THEA 347

African Spirit in Drama

3 Semester Hours

An exploration of African theatre and theatre of the African diaspora in the United States, the Caribbean, and elsewhere.

THEA 348

Asian Spirit in Drama

3 Semester Hours

An exploration of the Asian drama throughout major periods.

THEA 349

Hispanic Spirit in Drama

3 Semester Hours

An exploration of theatre of the Spanish language in the Western Hemisphere and in Europe, as well as theatre of the Latin traditions in the United States.

THEA 362

Performance Training I

3 Semester Hours

A pre-professional training program, teaching the composite skills of acting in an integrated and concentrated manner and covering such topics as textual analysis for performance, voice, and movement for the stage; styles in acting; and audition and cold reading. (Fall)

Prerequisites: Theatre Arts majors/minors only, consent of instructor.

THEA 364

Performance Training II

3 Semester Hours

See THEA 362. (Spring)

Prerequisite: Theatre Arts majors/minors only, consent of instructor.

THEA 366

Acting for the Camera

3 Semester Hours

This course explores the elements of acting for camera work in television and film.

Prerequisites: Theatre Arts majors/minors only, consent of chair and instructor.

THEA 370

Directing for the Theatre I

3 Semester Hours

An introduction to directing as the synthesizing art of the theatre. The director is considered an artist and craftsman (Fall).

Prerequisites: Theatre Arts majors/minors only, consent of chair and instructor.

THEA 375

Directing for the Theatre II

3 Semester Hours

Continuation of THEA 370, with emphasis on advanced theory and practicum.

Prerequisites: THEA 370, Theatre Arts majors/minors only, consent of chair and instructor.

THEA 398

Special Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

THEA 399

Independent Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

THEA 400

Playwriting

3 Semester Hours

An introduction to the techniques of writing one-act plays for the theatre.

THEA 422

Advanced Costume Design

3 Semester Hours

Advanced study in theatre costume construction including pattern-making, advanced sewing techniques, and millinery.

Prerequisite: THEA 322 or consent of instructor.

THEA 425Scene Painting3 Semester Hours*

This course is a guide to the tools and techniques used in modern scene painting.

Prerequisite: THEA 221 or consent of instructor.

THEA 426Advanced Scene and Lighting Design3 Semester Hours*

This course is an advanced study of scene design and lighting design for the theatre with emphasis on their roles as creative members of a collaborative team.

Prerequisites: THEA 320 and 321.

THEA 430Special Author/Genre Seminar3 Semester Hours*

Study of Shakespeare or other topics in selected authors and/or dramatic genres. May be repeated only when a different genre and/or author is studied.

THEA 435Special Period Seminar3 Semester Hours*

Study of 20th Century American Drama, American Drama through the 19th Century, Modern British Playwrights, 17th and 18th Century Comedy, or other topics in theatre history. May be repeated only when a different topic and/or period is studied.

THEA 450Theatre Practicum: Crew1-3 Semester Hours*

Participation in production in Theatre and Dance presentations. May be repeated for credit up to 9 semester hours.

Prerequisites: THEA 250, Theatre Arts majors/minors only.

THEA 451Theatre Practicum: Performance1-3 Semester Hours*

Participation in performance in Theatre presentations. May be repeated for credit up to 9 semester hours.

Prerequisite: By audition.

THEA 452Advanced Workshop: Playwrights and Actors1-3 Semester Hours*

The development of new scripts through several possible stages of interaction between actors and writers, leading to staged readings and/or workshop productions. May be repeated for credit up to 9 semester hours.

Prerequisites: Theatre Arts majors/minors only, consent of instructor.

THEA 462Performance Training III3 Semester Hours*

A pre-professional training program, teaching the composite skills of acting in an integrated and concentrated manner and covering such topics as textual analysis for performance, voice and movement for the stage; styles in acting; and audition and cold reading. (Fall)

Prerequisites: Theatre Arts majors/minors only, consent of instructor.

THEA 464Performance Training IV3 Semester Hours*

See THEA 462. (Spring)

Prerequisites: Theatre Arts majors/minors only, consent of instructor.

THEA 490Senior Thesis: Project3 Semester Hours*

Preparation and presentation of performance or research thesis.

Prerequisite: Theatre Arts majors only, consent of instructor.

College Mission Statement

The mission of the College is to provide students with the best possible education in science, engineering, and mathematics in a nurturing environment of individual attention and concern with particular emphasis on self-learning, service to society, and ethical behavior.

College Goals

Particularly applicable to the College are these goals: (1) to develop in the student the understanding that education is a self-discipline, and to place a greater responsibility for learning on the individual, (2) to integrate ethics into the curriculum in order to develop personal and professional integrity, (3) to help the student to become cognizant of the changing needs of humankind while interpreting and implementing the ever-increasing body of knowledge, (4) to encourage the student to recognize the wide applicability of scientific, engineering, and mathematical methods and to become skillful in their use, (5) to prepare the student for a world of accelerating scientific and technological change, (6) to impress upon the student that education must be a continuous process throughout one's professional career, and (7) to enable the Loyola Marymount graduate, through theological and philosophical studies, to make absolute and genuinely intellectual decisions and commitments about truth as it exists in the world and about one's own nature as a human being.

Programs

The College offers degree programs in Applied Mathematics, Athletic Training, Biochemistry, Biology, Chemistry, Civil Engineering, Computer Science, Electrical Engineering, Engineering and Production Management, Engineering Physics, Environmental Science, Individualized Studies, Mathematics, Mechanical Engineering, Natural Science, and Physics. College of Science and Engineering faculty also teach the math, science and technology component of the University core curriculum.

Courses numbered from 260-279 are designed specifically to meet the University core requirements in math, science and technology for students not majoring within the College. With the exception of MATH 101, other lower-division courses in the College may also satisfy University core requirements. Check with your Dean's office.

Application of General University Requirements

The University requirements for admission and graduation and all general rules and regulations of the University as set forth in this Bulletin are applicable to and binding upon all students enrolled in the Frank R. Seaver College of Science and Engineering.

Degrees Offered

Bachelor of Arts in: Biology and Mathematics

Bachelor of Science in Engineering in: Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering.

Bachelor of Science in: Applied Mathematics, Athletic Training, Biochemistry, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Engineering Physics, Individualized Studies, Mathematics, Natural Science, and Physics.

Master of Arts in Teaching in: Mathematics.

Master of Science in Engineering in: Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering.

Master of Science in: Computer Science, Environmental Science, Engineering and Production Management, and Systems Engineering.

Teacher Preparation Programs

The College offers subject matter preparation programs in mathematics and in science specifically designed to meet State of California subject matter requirements for a secondary teaching credential. Both the Bachelor of Arts degree in Mathematics (see the Mathematics section) and the Bachelor of Science degree in Natural Science following the secondary science emphasis in either Biology or Chemistry (see the Natural Science section) are designed to allow completion of the California Preliminary Single Subject (Secondary) credential in four years. These programs are offered in conjunction with the School of Education. The College also offers courses in mathematics and science to support the multiple subject credential program for teaching elementary school (see the Liberal Studies section in the Liberal Arts part of the Bulletin).

All students interested in teaching mathematics or science at the secondary level should inform their departmental advisors as soon as possible and should also contact the School of Education for help in coordinating their programs.

Core Curriculum

Students in the Frank R. Seaver College of Science and Engineering will follow core curriculum A, B, or C below, depending on degree plan.

Note: Engineering and Engineering Physics students should follow Core Curriculum B.

A. Core Curriculum for the Bachelor of Science Degree

American Cultures

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

First- and second-year students choose from any lower division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. Third- and fourth-year students choose from any upper division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. A single course will generally not fulfill two core requirements. The only exception is a course that satisfies another core requirement which is also cross-listed as AMCS.

College Writing

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

ENGL 110 will fulfill the college writing requirement. ENGL 100 will not fulfill the college writing requirement but is required of certain students based on their performance in the essay administered in all ENGL 110 sections during the first week of classes. A minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in ENGL 110. All students who receive a grade of C- or lower must retake ENGL 110 as soon as possible.

Choose: ENGL 110.

Communication or Critical Thinking

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Communication:

Choose from CMST 100, 110, 130, or 140.

OR Critical Thinking:

Choose from CMST 206 or PHIL 220.

Critical/Creative Arts

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Choose from ANIM 120; ART 150, 250, 350; DANC 163; MUSC 105, 106; THEA 110, 400.

History

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Western Civilization.

Western Civilization:

Choose from HIST 100 or 101.

Literature

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Choose from CLAS 200, 210, 220, 230; ENGL 130, 140, 150, 170; FNLT 180; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, or 430.

Prerequisite: Successful completion of college writing requirement.

Mathematics, Science and Technology

18 Semester Hours

Course Selection

This requirement is met by the curriculum of the major.

Philosophy

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Lower Division:

Choose PHIL 160. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempted from the lower division requirement.

Upper Division:

Choose one course from PHIL 320 through 330.

Social Sciences*6 Semester Hours*

Student must select one of the following options:

1. Select two courses from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105. Courses must be from different departments.

2. Select one course from: AFAM 115, APAM 117, CHST 116, or WNST 100; and one course from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105.

3. Select two courses from the same department. The first is selected from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105. The second course in the same department is selected from upper division courses that the student is qualified to take.

Theological Studies*6 Semester Hours*

Course Selection

Lower Division:

Choose from the 100-level series of THST courses. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempted from the lower division requirement.

Upper Division:

Choose from the 300-level series of THST courses only.

Note: International/Global Studies

The current core curriculum includes many courses dealing with international and global studies. All students are required to complete History 100 or 101 which deal with European culture. In addition, it is recommended that students take additional core courses which include the study of European cultures such as: CLAS 200, 210, 220; FNLT 180; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341; THST 320, 322, 331.

To further augment the understanding of world cultures, it is recommended that students also choose at least one core course that includes the study of Africa, Asia, the Pacific, or Latin/Indigenous America. These core courses include: GEOG 100; POLS 155; SOCL 105; THEA 348; THST 180, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385.

Recommendations:

Students are encouraged to enrich their program of study with selected electives from the following areas. Consult the Bulletin for specific offerings.

Business

Students are encouraged to take a course in the issues of business. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Computer Skills

Students are expected to become proficient in computer skills. Courses or workshops may be taken to help students develop existing skills.

Foreign Language

Students are encouraged to study foreign languages to the intermediate level. LMU offers Chinese, Filipino, French, German, Greek (Modern and Classical), Italian, Japanese, Latin, and Spanish on a regular basis.

International/Global Studies

Students are encouraged to select elective courses that deal with international and/or global issues. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Study Abroad

A semester of international study abroad is also recommended. Consult the Study Abroad Office.

Assistant Professors: Wendy J. Binder,
Jennifer R. Gillette, Carl R. Urbinati

The mission of the Biology Department is to promote an appreciation for and understanding of the science of biology in our students. The particular objectives of the Biology Department are to: (1) provide students with a broad background in the biological sciences; (2) enable students to master the essential concepts of biology; (3) develop students' ability to think critically about scientific information and solve scientific problems; (4) enable students to articulate ideas and present information in both written and oral forms in a clear, organized fashion; (5) teach students the skills of both field and laboratory biology, and enable them to participate directly in the scientific discovery process; (6) facilitate students' independent exploration of career opportunities; and (7) participate in the University's effort to educate non-science majors in the areas of science and technology.

The B.S. in Biology

The B.S. in Biology degree prepares students for a variety of careers following graduation. Substantial numbers of students go on to health professional schools to study medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, optometry, podiatric medicine, and veterinary medicine. Other students go on to various graduate programs in the basic biological sciences (e.g., physiology, genetics, molecular biology, immunology, microbiology, marine biology, ecology, etc.), college teaching, and positions in industry and in research and development.

The B.S. in Biology program provides for the opportunity to double major in Biology-Chemistry, Biology-Physics, Biology-Mathematics, Biology-Engineering, and Biology-Psychology. A special option is available in Marine Biology.

Major Requirements, Lower Division: for the B.S. in Biology

BIOL 101*, 102*, 111*, 112*, 201*, 202*; CHEM 110*, 111*, 112*, 113*, 220*, 221*, 222, 223; MATH 122*, 123 (MATH 131, 132 may be substituted for MATH 122, 123); PHYS 253, 254, 255, 256.

* A student must complete with a C (2.0) average the lower division requirements indicated by asterisks, including a C (2.0) average in BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112, 201, and 202, prior to becoming eligible to take any upper division biology course.

The B.A. in Biology

The B.A. in Biology degree is a general liberal arts program. The core curriculum for the B.A. in Biology is identical to that for the Bellarmine College of Liberal Arts except that additional Mathematics, Science and Technology courses are required by the major. The B.A. will allow for a double major with other liberal arts programs. Preprofessional students should select the program leading to the B.S. degree.

Major Requirements, Lower Division: for the B.A. in Biology

BIOL 101*, 102*, 111*, 112*, 201*, 202*; CHEM 110*, 111*, 112*, 113*, 220*, 6 semester hours of mathematics to include MATH 122*, plus 3.0 additional semester hours in science to be approved by the Department Chairperson.

* A student must complete with a C (2.0) average the courses indicated with an asterisk, including a C (2.0) average in BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112, 201, 202, prior to becoming eligible to take any upper division biology course.

Major Requirements, Upper Division: (both B.S. and B.A. in Biology)

27 (B.S.) or 24 (B.A.) upper division semester hours in Biology, to be selected from the groups listed below, and to include at least 4 laboratory courses.

- (a) One course in Cell/Organism Function, to be selected from BIOL 351, 353, 356, 357, 371.
- (b) One course in Molecular Biology, to be selected from BIOL 330, 437, 439, 443.
- (c) One course in Organismal Diversity, to be selected from BIOL 312, 328, 329, 333, 334, 335, 361, 421, 422.

- (d) One course in Populations, to be selected from BIOL 315, 316, 318, 328, 329, 422, 423, 475, 477.

Note: BIOL 328, 329, or 422 can satisfy only (c) or (d).

- (e) One 2 semester hour seminar or research course from the 500 series.
- (f) 3 (B.S.) or 2 (B.A.) additional upper division biology courses.
- (g) The above requirements must also include one plant biology course to be selected from BIOL 312, 315, 353, 371, 437, and one field biology course to be selected from BIOL 312, 318 plus 319, 328, 329, 333, 421, 422, 423 (BIOL 312 can satisfy only one of these two categories).

In addition to the 27 or 24 required semester hours, upper division biology courses may be taken as electives. Students preparing for specific graduate careers should discuss appropriate courses with their advisors.

To graduate as a biology major, a student must accumulate a C (2.0) average in all major requirements and pass the Biology Proficiency Exam.

Secondary Teaching Credential

See the appropriate biology faculty advisor.

Minor Requirements:

BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112, 201, and 202; CHEM 110 and 112; plus 7 semester hours in upper division BIOL courses. The upper division courses for the minor must be selected under the direction of the Chairperson of the Department.

An average grade of C (2.0) must be accumulated in all lower division requirements prior to taking upper division courses. An average grade of C (2.0) must also be accumulated in all upper division courses included in the minor.

* The course sequence in Mathematics depends on the results of the Mathematics Placement Exam.

Students who have completed MATH 123 or 132 may begin the physics sequence in the Fall semester of either the sophomore or junior year.

The sequence of the University Core courses should be discussed with the student's advisor.

* The course sequence in Mathematics depends on the results of the Mathematics Placement Exam.

The sequence of the University Core courses should be discussed with the student's advisor.

BIOL 101General Biology I

3 Semester Hours

Unifying principles of biology; introduction to cell structure and function, histology, genetics, control systems, organ systems, and taxonomy.

College of Science and Engineering majors only.

Lecture, 3 hours.

BIOL 102General Biology II

3 Semester Hours

The mechanism of evolution; major patterns of biotic evolution; principles of ecology.

College of Science and Engineering majors only.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101 and 111.

BIOL 111General Biology I Laboratory

2 Semester Hours

A survey of the five kingdoms.

College of Science and Engineering majors only.

Lecture, 1 hour; Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: BIOL 101 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 112General Biology II Laboratory

2 Semester Hours

An experimental approach to biology with emphasis on design, execution, and analysis to answer biological questions.

College of Science and Engineering majors only.

Lecture, 1 hour; Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: BIOL 101 or BIOL 102, or concurrent enrollment, plus CHEM 112 and 113 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 150Human Anatomy and Physiology

3 Semester Hours

The development, structure, and function of the human body with emphasis on integration and homeostasis.

For majors in liberal studies and psychology only.

BIOL 194Introduction to Research1 Semester Hour*

An introduction to scientific research methodology: information gathering, data analysis, laboratory research practice. Attendance at departmental seminars is required.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

BIOL 198Special Studies1-4 Semester HoursBIOL 199*Independent Studies1-4 Semester HoursBIOL 201*Cell Function3 Semester Hours*

Cellular and sub-cellular structures and functions including: DNA and RNA structure and function, protein synthesis and structure, enzyme function, metabolic pathways, membrane function.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, CHEM 112, or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 202Genetics3 Semester Hours*

A study of Mendelian and molecular genetics.

Prerequisite: BIOL 201.

BIOL 260Human Biology3 Semester Hours*

The discussion of general biological principles with a human emphasis. Topics include: cells, heredity and reproduction, animal behavior, organ systems, drugs, disease, ecology, and evolution.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 261Evolutionary Thought3 Semester Hours*

The development of the idea of evolution, beginning with the introduction of Greek ideas into the medieval European culture, to the present day.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 262Human Health3 Semester Hours*

A study of important diseases.

Not open for credit for students who have completed the Community College Health Education Requirement.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 263Natural History of Southern California3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to the geography, climate, plant communities, and common animals of Southern California; animals will be covered in regard to behavior, taxonomy, and ecology.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 264The Marine Environment3 Semester Hours*

An introduction to marine biology, including its history, different communities and the animals and plants that occur in marine ecosystems, and their economic importance.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 265Biology of African Wildlife3 Semester Hours*

Study of ecological, behavioral, and life history characteristics of selected African animals. Includes a two-week study trip to eastern or southern Africa (Biology majors should take BIOL 332). Offered alternate years.

Summers only—Study Abroad Program.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 266Sacred and Medicinal Plant Use3 Semester Hours*

The sacred and medicinal use of plants and hallucinogenic fungi by traditional and modern cultures, including the biological basis for their use.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 271
Human Reproduction and Development
3 Semester Hours

The biological aspects of human reproduction, including the basic reproductive system, genetics, fetal development, nutrition, pregnancy, birth, and neonatal development.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 272
Human Drug Use
3 Semester Hours

The physiological, psychological, and social effects of the use of alcohol, tobacco, and other therapeutic and recreational drugs.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 275
Human Genetics
3 Semester Hours

Basic Mendelian genetics and the application to individual risk assessments. Population genetics and the implications of artificial selection. Modern molecular genetics and medical applications.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 276
Human Exercise
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to basic biological responses and adaptations of the body to exercise. Particular attention is given to physical fitness, health, and athletics; how biomedical research is conducted; and how the lay person can decipher research findings.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 277
Plants and Society
3 Semester Hours

An introduction to the natural evolution of plant species and the associated cultural evolution of man's relationship to plants. A multidisciplinary approach to studying the relationship between plants and people. An exploration of plants as sources of food and medicine, commercial products, and the role of plants in preserving and restoring the environment.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

BIOL 278
Tropical Marine Ecology
3 Semester Hours

Field studies of the tropical marine habitats in Isla Roatán, Honduras. This includes the examination of the ecology and biology of coral reefs, mangroves, seagrass beds, and intertidal communities.

Summer only—Study Abroad Program.

Prerequisites: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher. Open water SCUBA certification highly recommended.

BIOL 294
Independent Research
1-4 Semester Hours

Prerequisite: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 295
Biology Internship
1 Semester Hour

Work experience involving research, industry-, or community-based projects. May be taken only once for credit.

CR/NC only.

BIOL 298
Special Studies
*1-4 Semester HoursBIOL 299
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

BIOL 312Field Botany4 Semester Hours*

The identification, distribution, evolution, and ecological relationships of the native plants of Southern California.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours; 4 weekend field trips.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 111; CHEM 110, 111; MATH 122 or 131.

BIOL 315World Vegetation Ecology3 Semester Hours*

Characteristics and distribution of the major vegetation types of the world, emphasizing environmental conditions, plant adaptations, and ecosystem processes.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 111; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 316Island Biology3 Semester Hours*

Island biogeography and evolution, dispersal, adaptive radiation, gigantism/dwarfism, flightlessness, reproductive biology, endemism, and relictualism.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101 and 102.

BIOL 318Principles of Ecology3 Semester Hours*

Study of interactions between organisms and their physical environment, population ecology, biotic communities and ecosystems.

Lecture, 3 hours; 2 weekend field trips.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 111; CHEM 110, 112; MATH 122 or 131.

BIOL 319Ecology Laboratory1 Semester Hour*

Laboratory and field investigation of ecological relationships.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: BIOL 318 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 328Tropical Marine Ecology3 Semester Hours*

Field studies of the tropical marine habitats on Isla Roatán, Honduras. This includes the examination of physical, chemical, and ecological aspects as applied to coral reefs, mangroves, seagrass beds, and intertidal communities.

Summer only—Study Abroad Program.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102; CHEM 110, 112. Open water SCUBA certification highly recommended.

BIOL 329Marine Ecology of Baja, California3 Semester Hours*

Field studies of subtropical, intertidal, and subtidal habitats along the coasts of Baja, California peninsula. Emphasis on community structure.

Summer only. Entire course held at the LMU Baja, California Biological Station.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 111; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 330Embryology and Development4 Semester Hours*

The development of chordates with emphasis on experimental embryology and underlying molecular mechanisms.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202; CHEM 222, 223.

BIOL 332Biology of African Wildlife3 Semester Hours*

Study of ecological, behavioral, and life history characteristics of selected African animals. Includes a two week study trip to eastern or southern Africa.

Summer only—Study Abroad program. Offered alternate years.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 333
Biology of Mammals
4 Semester Hours

Examination of physical, physiological, and ecological characteristics of mammals, including taxonomic relationships, feeding and reproductive strategies, and local and world distribution of mammalian orders and families.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours; Weekend field trips.

For majors only.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 334
Invertebrate Zoology
4 Semester Hours

A study of the anatomy, physiology, behavior, and ecology of invertebrates and the evolutionary relationships within and among the invertebrate phyla.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 335
Comparative Anatomy
4 Semester Hours

A comparative study of the vertebrate structures and their significance in terms of their evolution and function.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 351
General Physiology
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to physiological principles and concepts with emphasis on organ systems.

Prerequisite: BIOL 201.

BIOL 352
Physiology Laboratory
1 Semester Hour

Laboratory experiments in physiology.

Laboratory, 4 hours; Data analysis, 1 hour.

Prerequisite: BIOL 351 or 356 or 357, or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 353
Plant Physiology
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to plant function, including photosynthesis, mineral nutrition, water relations, metabolism, and growth processes.

Prerequisites: BIOL 201; CHEM 220, 221; MATH 122 or 131.

BIOL 354
Plant Physiology Laboratory
1 Semester Hour

Laboratory experiments in plant physiology.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: BIOL 353 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 356
Cell Biology
3 Semester Hours

A detailed study of subcellular organelles, including their origin, function, and regulation within the cell.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202; CHEM 222, 223.

BIOL 357
Comparative Animal Physiology
3 Semester Hours

A study of the different strategies utilized by various organisms to deal with problems of oxygen supply, temperature, water, salt balance, etc. Emphasis is on the vertebrates.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 201; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 361
General Microbiology
3 Semester Hours

Properties and ecology of viruses, bacteria, and protists; principles of genetics and physiology of bacteria; pathogenesis of bacteria and viruses; microbes as tools for molecular biology.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202; CHEM 220.

BIOL 362
General Microbiology Laboratory
1 Semester Hour

Laboratory experiments in general microbiology.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: BIOL 361 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 371
Plant Biochemistry
3 Semester Hours

Primary and secondary biosynthesis of plants; photosynthesis; nutrient acquisition and transport; plant pathogen/predator defense mechanism. Integration of these processes into an overall biochemical strategy.

Prerequisites: BIOL 201; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 376
Genetics Laboratory
1 Semester Hour

Laboratory experiments in genetics.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 380
Tropical Marine Ecology Laboratory
1 Semester Hour

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 381
Baja Marine Ecology Laboratory
1 Semester Hour

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 382
Africa Biology Laboratory
1 Semester Hour

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 394
Independent Research
1-4 Semester Hours

Prerequisite: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 398
Special Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

BIOL 399
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

BIOL 421
Vertebrate Field Biology
4 Semester Hours

Survey of the ecology, adaptive physiology, behavior, and taxonomy of vertebrates. Emphasis on species of Southern California.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours; 4 weekend field trips.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 111; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 422
Marine Biology
4 Semester Hours

Study of the marine environment, including physical, chemical, and biological aspects as applied to littoral, deep sea, and pelagic organisms.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 112; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 423
Intertidal Ecology
4 Semester Hours

Study of the biotic and abiotic relationships of intertidal organisms, including zonation, diversity, competition, predation, and symbiosis.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 111; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 433
Histology
3 Semester Hours

The structure and function of human tissue types including basic histological techniques.

Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 112; CHEM 110, 112.

BIOL 437
Plant Development
3 Semester Hours

Biochemical, molecular, and genetic approaches to the study of pattern and tissue formation, embryogenesis, germination, flowering, photosynthesis, and plant-microbe interaction.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202; CHEM 222, 223 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 438Plant Development Laboratory1 Semester Hour*

Laboratory experiments in plant developmental biology.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: BIOL 437 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 439Molecular Biology Applications4 Semester Hours*

The application of the techniques employed in molecular biology to the study of inherited diseases, genetic engineering, infectious diseases, cancer, and gene therapy.

Lecture, 2 hours; Laboratory, 6 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202 and CHEM 220.

BIOL 443Molecular Biology3 Semester Hours*

Study of properties, synthesis, and interactions of macromolecules; genetic engineering.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202 and CHEM 220.

BIOL 445Endocrinology3 Semester Hours*

The study of the production, functions, and interactions of hormones and other chemical messengers involved in the integration of the living organism.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202 and CHEM 220.

BIOL 449Immunology3 Semester Hours*

The study of the immune response mechanisms in the vertebrate organism, with special reference to humans.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202 and CHEM 220.

BIOL 461Microbial Genetics3 Semester Hours*

Mechanisms of inheritance and the regulation of gene expression in bacteria and viruses. Viral interactions with higher eukaryotes.

Prerequisites: BIOL 202; CHEM 222, 223 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 475Evolution3 Semester Hours*

Study of the pattern and process of evolution. Topics include the development of theories of evolutionary change; the mechanisms of evolutionary change at the population (micro) level; and evolution at the macro level, focusing on speciation, phylogenetic analysis, historical biogeography, and extinctions.

Lecture, 3 hours; laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102, 112, 201, 202.

BIOL 476Evolution Laboratory1 Semester Hour*

Companion laboratory to BIOL 475.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: BIOL 475 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 477Conservation Genetics4 Semester Hours*

Survey of the major topics in conservation genetics. Basic models of population genetics and topics relevant to conservation genetics, such as population structure, inbreeding, genetic load, genetic variation, reserve design, and the ethical, moral, and political aspects of species conservation.

Lecture, 3 hours; laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102, 202.

BIOL 490Biological Teaching1-2 Semester Hours*

Guided teaching of undergraduate laboratories.

May be repeated for credit.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 494Independent Research1-4 Semester Hours*

Prerequisite: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 498Special Studies1-4 Semester Hours*

BIOL 499
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

All 500-level courses require consent of instructor.

BIOL 524
Malacology Research
2 Semester Hours

Studies on the functional morphology, ecology, and phylogeny of marine prosobranch gastropods.

Requires consent of instructor.

Prerequisite: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 525
Subtidal Ecology Seminar
2 Semester Hours

An introduction to the ecology of subtidal systems including coral reefs, kelp forests, hard and soft bottoms, deep sea and pelagic communities.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 526
Marine Pollution Seminar
2 Semester Hours

Study of the types of pollutants and their effect on marine organisms.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 527
Benthic Ecology Research
2 Semester Hours

An introduction to underwater research techniques and studies of soft and hard bottom communities.

Requires consent of instructor.

Prerequisites: Basic open water SCUBA certification.

BIOL 528
Invertebrate Conservation Research
2 Semester Hours

Participation in research on topics in invertebrate conservation biology. Research may include ecological and/or genetic approaches and methodologies.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 531
Developmental Genetics Research
2 Semester Hours

Investigation through original literature and laboratory experience of the ways in which genes direct development.

Requires consent of instructor.

Prerequisites: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment; BIOL 394, 494, or 594.

BIOL 532
Drosophila Genetics Research
2 Semester Hours

An introduction to the use of drosophila as a research tool in classical and molecular genetics.

Requires consent of instructor.

Prerequisites: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment; CHEM 220.

BIOL 535
Salamander Behavioral Ecology Research
2 Semester Hours

Participation in original research investigating behavioral ecology of amphibians. Research may focus on sexual selection and territoriality in salamanders.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 542
Natural Products Seminar
2 Semester Hours

Direct experience in the preparation of food products made through microbiological action and characterization of biological parameters during the process.

Requires consent of instructor.

Prerequisite: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 546
Physiology of Drugs Seminar
2 Semester Hours

An introduction into the pharmacology of certain drugs, their absorption, metabolism, use, misuse, abuse.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 563
Molecular Genetics Research
2 Semester Hours

Laboratory work in gene mapping and gene isolation.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 565
Plant Developmental Biology Research
2 Semester Hours

Laboratory work in molecular and genetic analysis of plant development.

Requires consent of instructor.

Prerequisite: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 569
Ethnobotany Seminar
2 Semester Hours

An introduction to the mutual relationships between plants and traditional peoples with an emphasis on phyto medicines and sustainability.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 571
Conservation Biology Seminar
2 Semester Hours

A survey of topics relating to the conservation of animals and plants, including extinction, genetic aspects, demography, insularization, threats to biodiversity, economics and politics, religious and ethical perspectives, and practical applications.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 577
Tetrahymena Genetics Research
2 Semester Hours

An introduction to the production and analysis of genetic variants of the ciliated protozoan tetrahymena.

Requires consent of instructor.

Prerequisite: BIOL 194 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 583
Quantitative Biology Seminar
2 Semester Hours

Mathematical and computer tools used in biology.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 585
Issues in Biotechnology Seminar
2 Semester Hours

An interdisciplinary seminar series bringing together faculty from different disciplines to present and discuss topics in biotechnology. Examples include sustainable agriculture, advances in medicine and biotechnology, legal and ethical considerations and biotechnology, the environment and biotechnology, the manipulation of biological machinery (proteins), the fusion of engineering and biotechnology (nanotechnology), the business of biotechnology.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 587
Molecular Mechanisms in Development Seminar
2 Semester Hours

An exploration of current research utilizing molecular/genetic techniques to study developmental biology.

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 594
Independent Research
1-4 Semester Hours

BIOL 598
Special Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

Requires consent of instructor.

BIOL 599
Independent Studies

Chemistry and Biochemistry

Faculty:

Chairperson: James A. Roe
 Professors: William F. Cain, S.J., Rebecca D. Crawford,
 James M. Landry, James A. Roe
 Associate Professors: S.W. Tina Choe, Thomas J. Reilly
 Assistant Professor: Lambert A. Doezema

Chemistry and biochemistry are empirical sciences. In addition to intellectual mastery of the disciplines, the major programs also develop practical experimental skills. The LMU student obtains "hands on" experience, both in traditional synthetic and analytic bench chemistry, and with all the major contemporary methods and techniques, taking advantage of the department's complete instrumentation. This equipment includes preparative, separative, thermal analysis, and spectroscopic instruments. Besides ordinary laboratory apparatus, the student will work with a spinning band column, a high speed centrifuge, HPLC, GC, GC-MS, DSC, FT-IR, UV-Vis, flame and furnace AA, AES-ICP, and FT-NMR.

Because of the complex and sensitive nature of the equipment and techniques of chemistry and biochemistry, continued participation in the programs is contingent on appropriate development of the ability to work maturely and responsibly in the laboratory.

Chemistry

Objectives:

The Bachelor of Science degree program, approved by the Committee on Professional Training of the American Chemical Society, is designed to prepare the student not only for immediate entry into the profession of chemistry at the Bachelor's level but also for graduate study toward advanced degrees. It is also an excellent preparation for entry into medical, dental, and other health professional schools.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements: Chemistry

CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113, 220, 221, 222, 223. A grade of at least C (2.0) is required in each of these. CHEM 190; MATH 131 and 132; PHYS 101, 103, 201, and 203. With approval of the Chairperson, MATH 122 and 123; PHYS 253, 254, 255, and 256 may be substituted, as a complete package, for MATH 131 and 132; PHYS 101, 103, 201, and 203. Recommended elective: MATH 234.

Upper Division Requirements: Chemistry

34 upper division semester hours of chemistry, which will include CHEM 330, 340, 341, 342, 343, 360, 361, 370 or 470, 390, 391, 430, 431, 460, 461, 490, 491, and 560, but not 495.

Except for CHEM 390 and 490, a grade of at least C (2.0) must be obtained in each course included in the upper division requirements of the major.

Strongly recommended for those intending graduate study: CHEM 499 or 599; German, Japanese, Russian, or other appropriate modern language.

A maximum of 12 semester hours of Chemistry/Biochemistry Co-op and/or Directed Research (CHEM 393, 493, 499, 599) may be included toward the 124-hour baccalaureate requirement.

Minor Requirements: Chemistry

CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113, 220, 221, 222, 223; plus a minimum of 7 upper division semester hours of CHEM courses including one upper division laboratory course. These must be selected under the direction of the Chairperson of the Department.

A grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course included in the minor.

No chemistry minor is available in conjunction with a biochemistry major. It is suggested that the student interested in in-depth study of both subjects should major in chemistry and minor in biochemistry.

Variances:

Petitions for waivers of departmental requirements or prerequisites should be addressed to the Chairperson of the Department.

Biochemistry

Objectives:

The Bachelor of Science in Biochemistry degree program is designed to prepare the student for a career in the intensively active biochemistry or chemical biology fields, seeking to understand the functions and intricate interactions of those molecules that give rise to the phenomenon of life. There are many opportunities either for immediate entry into the field or for further study at the graduate level. In addition, for qualified students, biochemistry is one of the best preparations for entry into health professional schools.

The American Chemical Society is reviewing a proposal to certify the BS in Biochemistry as an approved "Chemistry with Biochemistry emphasis" degree.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements: Biochemistry

CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113, 220, 221, 222, and 223. A grade of at least C (2.0) is required in each of these. BIOL 101, 111, 112, 201, and 202; CHEM 190; MATH 131 and 132; PHYS 101, 103, 201, and 203. With approval of the chairperson, MATH 122 and 123; PHYS 253, 254, 255, and 256 may be substituted, as a complete package, for MATH 131 and 132; PHYS 101, 103, 201, and 203.

Upper Division Requirements: Biochemistry

30 upper division semester hours of chemistry and biochemistry, which will include CHEM 340, 341, 346, 360, 361, 390, 391, 470, 471, 472, 473, 490, 491, and 537, 570, 580, or other advanced biochemical elective, but not CHEM 495. Three upper division courses in biology which will include BIOL 356 and two others selected from BIOL 330, 351, 353, 361, 371, 437, 439, 443, 445, or 449. It is

Minor Requirements: Biochemistry

BIOL 101, 111, 201; CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113, 220, 221, 222, 223, 370, or 470; and 4 additional upper division semester hours selected from CHEM 471, 472, 473, or 580 or other advanced biochemical elective including one upper division laboratory course. These must be selected under the direction of the Chairperson of the Department.

A grade of C (2.0) must be obtained in each course included in the minor.

1 Semester Hour

Techniques of simple, fractional, and steam distillation; crystallization and extraction; some synthesis.

Lecture and laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: CHEM 220 or concurrent enrollment.

CHEM 222
Organic Chemistry II
3 Semester Hours

Spectroscopy. Chemistry of alcohols and carbonyl compounds. Amines, amino acids, carbohydrates, and proteins. Glycolysis, the citric acid cycle, and oxidative phosphorylation.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 220 and 221.

CHEM 223
Organic Chemistry II Lab
1 Semester Hour

Reactions of aldehydes and ketones. Syntheses using the Grignard and Sandmeyer reactions. Preparation of an ester, an azo dye, and a ketone.

Lecture and laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: CHEM 222 or concurrent enrollment.

CHEM 260
Energy
3 Semester Hours

The concepts of energy and power; the basic principles of thermodynamics; techniques and systems for converting natural energy resources into useful forms; alternate energy resources; short- and long-term aspects of energy supply.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

CHEM 261
The Science in Science Fiction
3 Semester Hours

The physics, chemistry, and biology found in science fiction literature, examined for accuracy and probability. Topics include the physics of space and space habitats, the chemistry and biology of life arising under non-earthlike conditions, and the ecology of imagined worlds. "Engineering" new worlds on the basis of sound scientific theory will be expected. Understanding of physical implications of simple algebraic expressions is required.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

CHEM 262
The Chemical Environment
3 Semester Hours

The important chemical processes of the world in which we live; air, water, agriculture, food additives, household chemicals, cosmetics, chemotherapy, sports, toxic waste management.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

CHEM 263
Consumer Chemistry
3 Semester Hours

The chemistry of everyday consumer products and how the products work will be examined. Product examples discussed will include foods, shampoo, selected drugs, clothing, and others.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

CHEM 265
The Chemistry of Food
3 Semester Hours

The chemistry involved in food preparation and development. Examples include flavorings, food additives, what happens when it is cooked, then eaten; nutritional aspects of foods, food supplements, preservation, food fads.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

CHEM 267Modern Scientific Discovery3 Semester Hours*

The revolution in molecular biology in the second half of the twentieth century. Topics covered will range from the discovery of the structure of DNA to the design of modern pharmaceuticals.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

CHEM 278Special Studies: Chemistry Topics1-3 Semester Hours*

For majors from outside the College of Science and Engineering

Study of preparations, properties, and reactions of main group and some transition metal elements and their compounds.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 112 and 113.

CHEM 340Physical Chemistry I3 Semester Hours*

Properties of gases, ideal and real, chemical thermodynamics, phase rule, solutions, chemical equilibria, colligative properties, activity concept, electrochemistry.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 222, 223; MATH 123 or 132; PHYS 201 or 254.

CHEM 341Physical Chemistry I Lab1 Semester Hour*

Physical measurements, calorimetry, physical equilibria, phase behavior, activity coefficients, chemical equilibria.

Lecture and laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 340 or concurrent enrollment, CHEM 360.

CHEM 342Physical Chemistry II3 Semester Hours*

Chemical kinetics, quantum mechanics, atomic and molecular spectroscopy, statistical mechanics.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 340 and 341.

CHEM 343Physical Chemistry II Lab1 Semester Hour*

Kinetics, colligative properties, atomic and molecular spectroscopy.

Lecture and laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 342 or concurrent enrollment, CHEM 360.

CHEM 346Physical Biochemistry3 Semester Hours*

Chemical and enzyme kinetics, solutions of macromolecules, chemical equilibria, transport processes, sedimentation, transport in electric fields, physical methods in biochemistry, scattering.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 340 and 341.

CHEM 350Geochemistry3 Semester Hours*

Chemical composition and reactions of the atmosphere, hydrosphere, and lithosphere. Natural and anthropogenic variations in composition. Analytical methods.

Lecture, 3 hours.

CHEM 430
Advanced Inorganic Chemistry I
3 Semester Hours

Chemical bonding treated from the viewpoints of valence bond, ligand field, and molecular orbital theories. Applied thermodynamics, kinetics, and acid-base concepts.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 342 and 343.

CHEM 431
Advanced Inorganic Chemistry I Lab
1 Semester Hour

Inorganic synthesis using special methods such as furnace, dry box, high vacuum, and electric discharge. Resolution of stereoisomers, and determination of magnetic susceptibility.

Lecture and laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 360, CHEM 430 or concurrent enrollment, CHEM 360.

CHEM 460
Instrumental Analysis
3 Semester Hours

Analytical methods using instrumental techniques, including gas and liquid chromatography, atomic, molecular, nuclear magnetic resonance, and mass spectroscopy.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 340 and 341 or concurrent enrollment.

CHEM 461
Instrumental Analysis Lab
1 Semester Hour

Laboratory in selected methods of modern instrumental analysis, including gas and liquid chromatography, UV-visible spectroscopy, atomic absorption and plasma emission spectroscopy, Fourier-transform infrared spectroscopy, gas chromatography-mass spectrometry, nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopy, laboratory computers.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 360, CHEM 460 or concurrent enrollment.

CHEM 470
Biochemistry I
3 Semester Hours

Macromolecular structure and function; enzymology; bioenergetics and kinetics; major metabolic pathways.

Biochemistry and chemistry majors. Not available for credit with CHEM 370.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 222 and 223.

CHEM 471
Biochemistry I Lab
1 Semester Hour

Techniques of protein purification, enzyme assay, and kinetics.

Lecture and laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: CHEM 370 or 470 or concurrent enrollment.

CHEM 472
Biochemistry II
3 Semester Hours

Metabolic regulation; macromolecular structure, function, and synthesis; membrane transport. DNA and RNA metabolism and control. Biochemistry of vitamins and other nutrients. Protein biosynthesis.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CHEM 470.

CHEM 473
Biochemistry II Lab
1 Semester Hour

Techniques in lipid and carbohydrate analysis; enzyme regulation; enzymes as diagnostic tools, restriction enzymes.

Lecture and laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 471 and 472 or concurrent enrollment.

CHEM 530Advanced Inorganic Chemistry II3 Semester Hours*

Organometallic chemistry, boron hydrides and carboranes, inorganic polymers and complex chemistry of transition elements.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CHEM 430.

CHEM 537Bioinorganic Chemistry3 Semester Hours*

The study of the function and structure of metal ions in biology: the properties and spectroscopy of metal ions; metalloproteins; the interaction between metal ions and DNA or RNA; introduction of metal ions into biological systems as probes and as drugs.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CHEM 370, CHEM 470, or by consent of instructor.

CHEM 540Physical Methods in Chemistry3 Semester Hours*

Development of physical methods of analysis incorporating elements of group theory and molecular orbital theory. Molecular spectroscopy; nuclear magnetic, electron paramagnetic, and nuclear quadrupole resonance spectroscopy; magnetism; Mossbauer spectroscopy; and X-ray spectroscopy.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 342 and 460.

CHEM 560Advanced Organic Techniques4 Semester Hours*

Modern synthetic reactions. Qualitative and preparative chromatographic methods. Determination of molecular structure by nuclear magnetic resonance and infrared spectroscopy.

Civil Engineering and Environmental Science

Faculty:

Chairperson: William J. Trott
 Professors: Michael E. Mulvihill,
 Joseph C. Reichenberger, William J. Trott
 Associate Professor: Michael E. Manoogian
 Assistant Professors: Rachel G. Adams, Jose A. Saez
 Adjunct Professor: Joseph Haworth

Description:

The civil engineer applies scientific and economic principles to plan, design, and oversee a wide variety of public and private projects which improve the quality of life, protect the environment, and facilitate economic growth. These projects include roads and highways, railroads, mass transit systems, airports, bridges, buildings, structures, harbors, flood control and drainage works, water supply, treatment and distribution systems, wastewater treatment and reuse systems, irrigation systems, pipelines, and power plants.

The civil engineering curriculum emphasizes practicality and design, supported by a strong background in scientific and mathematical concepts. The program provides a broad background in all aspects of civil engineering, providing our graduates with the flexibility to practice in any of the specialties or to pursue an advanced degree. The program provides an opportunity to get hands-on experience with classes in surveying as well as laboratories in fluid mechanics, hydraulics, soil mechanics, mechanics of materials, structures, steel, and reinforced concrete design. Engineering design experiences are integrated throughout the curriculum beginning with the freshman engineering courses and extending through the last semester of the senior year. Design courses provide working experience with computer software used in the profession. Group and team projects prepare the student for real world engineering experiences.

The civil engineering student can select courses and electives that emphasize environmental engineering as described below.

Accreditation:

The Civil Engineering program is accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, 111 Market Place, Suite 1050, Baltimore, MD 21202-4012; telephone: (410) 347-7700.

Objectives:

The Civil Engineering program has established the following program educational objectives that are consistent with the mission of the University and that describe the expected accomplishments of graduates during the first several years following graduation. Civil Engineering program graduates will:

- 1) Be productive in the civil engineering profession or other professional fields;
- 2) Further develop their professional and technical skills through graduate studies and continuing education;
- 3) Be involved with civil engineering professional organizations;
- 4) Uphold the code of ethics of the profession and be cognizant of social justice issues in the practice of civil engineering; and
- 5) Exhibit leadership in the practice of civil engineering.

To accomplish these program educational objectives, analysis and design courses in the fields of environmental, geotechnical, hydraulic, structural, and water resources engineering are offered in addition to preparatory courses in oral and written communications, mathematics, sciences, and basic mechanics. A broad base of theory and design is provided along with discussion of current issues and practices of the profession. Through class assignments, students will become proficient in the use of computers and pertinent software, spreadsheets, presentations, drawing, and geographical information system (GIS) programs. Integrated with these courses is the University core curriculum.

Design in Civil Engineering:

The civil engineering student participates in design projects throughout the curriculum both as an individual and as a member of a design team. The design experience varies in complexity as the student progresses through the program ending with the senior capstone design experience. Engineering design is the process of devising a system, component, or process to meet a specified need in an optimal manner. While the resulting design must stay within the appropriate specifications and constraints, consideration must also be given to economic, social, and environmental impacts and constructability. Accomplishing these varied goals requires creativity and involves considerable decision making. Many design projects are performed while part of a project team.

Environmental Engineering Emphasis within the Civil Engineering Major

(132 S.H.)

The civil engineering student may choose to take courses and electives emphasizing environmental engineering. Opportunities exist to take classes in aquatic chemistry; microbiology; air pollution control; and solid, hazardous, and industrial waste management.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

CHEM 110, 111; CIVL 200, 210, 220; ENGR 100, 140, 200, 240; MATH 131, 132, 234, 245; MECH 251; PHYS 101, 103, 201, 203.

Upper Division Requirements:

CIVL 302, 310, 315, 340, 395, 400, 406, 410, 450, 460; ENGR 300, 400; ELEC 313; ENVS 300, 320, 510; Civil Engineering or Environmental Science Electives (8 semester hours).

Civil Engineering

CIVL 200
Mechanics of Materials
3 Semester Hours

Development of relationships between loads applied to an elastic body to stresses and deformations produced in the body, the relation between stresses and strains, approaches for finding necessary dimensions of a member with respect to material capabilities and design constraints, and a design project.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ENGR 200.

CIVL 210
Surveying
3 Semester Hours

Study of basic surveying instruments and related computations for topographic surveys, horizontal and vertical curves, land surveying. Introduction to total station survey systems, computer applications, and design of highways.

Lecture, 2 hours; Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: Sophomore standing.

CIVL 220
Autocad and GIS
3 Semester Hours

Computer aided drafting, design, and geographic information systems. The use of autocad as applied to civil engineering designs. Basic fundamentals of GIS using software packages such as Arcview and ARCAD.

Lecture, 2 hours; Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ENGR 140.

CIVL 302
Seismic Design of Structures
3 Semester Hours

Free and forced vibration of discrete single and multiple degree of freedom systems, continuous systems, design for earthquake loading, application of the Uniform Building Code to the seismic design of structures.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CIVL 200.

CIVL 305
Structural Theory
4 Semester Hours

Analysis of determinate and indeterminate deformable structures using classical methods and an introduction to computer methods of analysis.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CIVL 200.

CIVL 310
Fluid Mechanics I
3 Semester Hours

Properties of fluids, fluid statics, kinematics, energy, hydrodynamics, momentum and dynamic forces, steady flow of compressible and incompressible fluids.

Lecture, 3 hours.

CIVL 315
Fluid Mechanics II
3 Semester Hours

A continuation of CIVL 310. Similarity and dimensional analysis, laboratory experiments with fluid flow phenomena, fluid measurements, pipe and open channel flow, forces on immersed bodies.

Lecture, 2 hours; Laboratory, 3 hours.

CIVL 340
Analytical Methods in Civil Engineering I
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to probability and statistics with an emphasis on techniques and applications useful in engineering.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 234.

CIVL 395
Engineering Economics and Decision Theory
3 Semester Hours

The economic evaluation of engineering alternatives. Topics include: time value of money relationships, nominal and effective interest rates, present worth method, annual worth method, rate of return and incremental analysis, depreciation and income taxes, replacement analysis and benefit/cost analysis.

Lecture, 3 hours.

CIVL 400
Fundamentals of Water and Waste-Water Treatment
3 Semester Hours

Basic concepts of water quality management. Review of the chemical and biological basis for water and wastewater treatment and disposal.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CIVL 310.

CIVL 406
Water Resources Planning and Design
3 Semester Hours

Flood control hydrology including rainfall, unit hydrographs, flood frequency analysis, and flood routing. Development of surface and groundwater supplies, reservoir yield and operation, determination of water requirements, analysis of water supply and distribution systems, including reservoirs and pump stations.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CIVL 315.

CIVL 410
Soil Mechanics
4 Semester Hours

Physical and mechanical properties of soil, consolidation, settlement of structures, shear strength, analysis of earth pressures, bearing capacity, slope stability, flow through porous media, and open ended design problems.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CIVL 200 and 310.

CIVL 411
Design of Foundations and Earth Structures
2 Semester Hours

Design methods for foundations and earth structures. Design of footings and piles including stability and settlement, slopes, and retaining structures.

Prerequisite: CIVL 410.

CIVL 415
Reinforced Concrete Design
4 Semester Hours

Theory and design of reinforced concrete columns, beams, retaining walls, footings, and slabs. Introduction to prestressed concrete design, application to design projects.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CIVL 200.

CIVL 450
Analytical Methods in Civil Engineering II
3 Semester Hours

Specific application of mathematical techniques to a variety of civil engineering problems, with an emphasis on the mathematical formulation and subsequent computer solution of practical problems utilizing ordinary and partial differential equations; linear regression analysis; optimization techniques.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CIVL 310, 340; MATH 245.

CIVL 460
Civil Engineering Design
4 Semester Hours

An integrated senior design experience which utilizes knowledge from the civil engineering curriculum. In addition to the technical aspects, the designs consider costs, economics, and environmental factors. Class lectures include discussion of the design process, environmental impact, engineering and professional ethics, the engineering profession, professional practice issues, the role of the engineer in the construction process, and procurement of engineering work. Student presentations are required.

Lecture, 2 hours; Design Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: Senior standing and CIVL 210, 395, 400, 410.

Corequisites: CIVL 406 and ENGR 400.

CIVL 493
Civil Engineer Design Internship
2-4 Semester Hours

Students work in teams to perform specific design projects for local public agencies and engineering consulting firms in the area of storm water and municipal waste water.

Requires consent of instructor.

CIVL 498
Special Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

CIVL 499
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

CIVL 504
Applied Fluid Mechanics
2 Semester Hours

Fundamentals of fluid mechanics and review of the underlying mathematical principles, viscosity, fluid statics, conservation of mass, energy equation, momentum principle, fluid flow in pipes, hydraulic machinery.

Open to science majors interested in a Master's degree in Environmental Science.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Requires consent of instructor.

CIVL 510
Open Channel Hydraulics
4 Semester Hours

Steady uniform and non-uniform flow in open channels; design of channels, transitions, confluences, and culverts. Study of the elements of the hydrologic cycle related to open channel systems and computer-aided design of an open channel system.

Lecture, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: CIVL 315.

CIVL 511
Hydraulic Analysis and Design
2 Semester Hours

Design and analysis of hydraulic structures and pump stations; rainfall-runoff models; determination of reservoir storage; unsteady flow and water hammer; flood routing techniques; sediment transport.

Lecture, 2 hours.

CIVL 512
Air Pollution Analysis
2 Semester Hours

Detailed analysis of emission sources, emission calculation methods, and air pollution controls. The dispersion of air pollutants in the atmosphere (fates and lifetimes, dispersion modeling methods). In-depth techniques of conducting risk assessments due to exposure to air pollutants.

Lecture, 2 hours.

CIVL 514
Groundwater Hydrology
2 Semester Hours

Theory of the movement and occurrence of water in a porous medium; steady and unsteady flow in confined and unconfined aquifers; Darcy's law; equilibrium and non-equilibrium hydraulics of wells; computer applications.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisite: CIVL 315.

CIVL 515
Industrial Waste Management
2 Semester Hours

Principles and methods of treatment and disposal of industrial wastes that may adversely affect the environment, including general characterization of wastes from industries of major significance and typical treatment processes involved. Regulatory constraints.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisites: CIVL 400 and ENVS 510.

CIVL 548
Hazardous Substances Management
2 Semester Hours

The study of regulation and management strategies for environmental programs (hazardous substances) including hazardous waste, asbestos, underground tanks, air pollution, and the California Environmental Quality Act.

Lecture, 2 hours.

CIVL 549
Hazardous Waste Remediation
2 Semester Hours

This course provides an overview of the regulatory framework, site assessment and sampling techniques, and remediation technologies for hazardous waste sites. Emphasis is placed on cost-effective remediation technologies, regulatory agency coordination, and new emerging technologies for hazardous waste site clean-up projects.

Lecture, 2 hours.

CIVL 550
Fundamentals of Environmental Health Risk Assessment
2 Semester Hours

The fundamental technical aspects and non-technical policy aspects of environmental health risk assessments. Basics of environmental chemistry partitioning fate and transport of pollutants in the atmosphere and water; human exposure scenarios; fundamentals of toxicology and epidemiology.

Lecture, 2 hours.

CIVL 595
Structural Steel Design
3 Semester Hours

Theory and design of steel structures, component members, and connections using codes and specifications. Design projects.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CIVL 200.

CIVL 598
Special Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

CIVL 599
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

Environmental Science

ENVS 300
Engineering Geology
3 Semester Hours

Atmospheric, aqueous, and igneous agencies; river and marine deposits, glaciers, earth movements, volcanos, earthquakes. Emphasis placed on factors affecting engineering projects; field trips.

Lecture, 3 hours.

ENVS 320
Introduction to Environmental Engineering
2 Semester Hours

Introduction to elements of water treatment, water pollution control, solid and hazardous waste disposal, and air pollution control. The interrelationships of the movement of pollutants between the land, air, and water media are discussed.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisites: Sophomore standing. College of Science and Engineering majors only.

ENVS 420
Environmental Systems Laboratory
1 Semester Hour

Chemical and microbiological tests and demonstrations for environmental systems.

Laboratory, 3 hours.

ENVS 498
Special Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

ENVS 499
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

ENVS 510
Chemistry for Environmental Engineers
2 Semester Hours

Review of inorganic chemistry with particular emphasis on solution equilibria and gas-solution interaction.

Lecture, 2 hours.

ENVS 513
Solid Wastes Engineering
2 Semester Hours

An application of current technology in the control, disposal, and recovery of value from solid wastes.

Lecture, 2 hours.

ENVS 515
Environmental Impact Reports
2 Semester Hours

An engineering perspective of managing projects through the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) process.

Lecture, 2 hours.

ENVS 518
Applied Oceanography
2 Semester Hours

A study of the physical, chemical, and biological characteristics of the oceans which must be considered in the design of wastewater outfalls, marine structures, etc.

Lecture, 2 hours.

ENVS 525
Inland Waters
2 Semester Hours

The structure and movement of water in lakes, rivers, and estuaries; cyclical and progressive changes of the physical, chemical, and biological composition of aquatic systems are discussed along with an explanation of lake remediation techniques.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisites: ENVS 510 and 544.

ENVS 533
Aquatic Chemistry
2 Semester Hours

Kinetics, equilibrium, and solubility concepts applied to natural water systems. Oxidation-reduction in the aquatic environment.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisite: ENVS 510.

ENVS 544

Applied Microbiology

2 Semester Hours

Emphasis on physical and biochemical aspects of bacterial metabolism and behavior as applied to environmental engineering; kinetics and energetics of microbial growth.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisites: CIVL 400 and ENVS 510.

ENVS 598

Special Studies

Electrical Engineering

Description:

The electrical engineering curriculum consists of classroom and laboratory experiences related to the following topics: engineering design, electrical and electronic circuits and models, control systems, communication systems and properties of electromagnetic waves, design of analog and digital systems, theory and design of computer systems, and organization and design of microprocessor-based computer systems.

The electrical engineering curriculum leads to the B.S.E. degree. Department criteria for graduation include completion of all courses in one of the two emphases, with a minimum grade-point average of C (2.0) in the Upper Division Requirements listed below.

A minor field program in electrical engineering is also supported. Course work includes 18 semester hours to be determined in consultation with the Department Chairperson. All minor field programs require the approval of the student's major field faculty advisor and the Department Chairperson in the student's major field.

Accreditation:

The electrical engineering program is accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, 111 Market Place, Suite 1050, Baltimore, MD 21202-4012; telephone: (410) 347-7700.

Objectives:

The electrical engineering program has established the following program educational objectives that are consistent with the mission of the University and the Frank R. Seaver College of Science and Engineering. The objectives describe the expected accomplishments of graduates during the first several years following graduation. The electrical engineering program graduates will:

- 1) Perform effectively as practicing engineers and/or successfully undertake graduate study in electrical engineering or related fields;
- 2) Meet the challenges of the future through continuing professional growth; and
- 3) Exhibit concern for service and justice through leadership within their profession, as well as the community as a whole.

These program educational objectives are met by providing a curriculum which has both breadth and depth. Engineering science and design, mathematics and basic sciences are significant components of the electrical engineering program. In addition to these traditional technical courses, and in keeping with the Jesuit tradition of educating the whole person, the curriculum includes core requirements in the humanities, communications, and the fine arts.

Opportunities for involvement in professional societies, student design competitions, and University co-curricular activities are plentiful and help to accomplish these objectives.

Design in Electrical Engineering

Design is interwoven throughout the electrical engineering curriculum, culminating in a formal senior design project course. Freshman and sophomore engineering courses provide an introduction to design. The two junior and first semester senior laboratory courses extend this design experience to the integration of material from the upper division electrical engineering courses. Finally, the senior design project experience builds on the analytical and theoretical background developed throughout the curriculum as well as topics covered in the University's core curriculum.

Computer Science

Description:

The computer science curriculum consists of classroom and laboratory experiences related to the following topics: algorithms and data structures, theory and design of computer programming systems, operating systems, compilers, computer graphics, distributed systems, interactive multimedia, object technologies, network programming, and organization and design of microprocessor-based computer systems.

The B.S. degree is awarded upon successful completion of the computer science curriculum. Department criteria for graduation include completion of all courses in the curriculum with a minimum grade point average of C (2.0) in the Upper Division Requirements listed below.

Two minor field programs in computer science are also offered. Students may select from:

One program which emphasizes algorithms and data structures (CMSI 185, 186, 281, 284, plus two upper-division CMSI electives), or

One which emphasizes interactive multimedia (CMSI 252, 361, 461, 462, plus ART 260 and 366).

Objectives:

The program educational objectives for graduates are: 1) preparation for professional practice; 2) preparation for advanced study; 3) promotion of the ideas of life-long learning; 4) development of self-fulfillment through professional activity; and 5) development of ethical values and personal responsibility.

The program educational objectives are met by providing a curriculum which follows contemporary guidelines for computer science. Mathematics and digital hardware courses are important components of the curriculum. In addition to these traditional technical courses, and in keeping with the Jesuit tradition of educating the whole person, the curriculum includes core requirements in the humanities, communications, social sciences, and the fine arts.

Opportunities for involvement in professional societies, student design competitions, and University co-curricular activities are plentiful and help to accomplish these objectives.

Electrical EngineeringELEC 232*Circuits

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to techniques in electrical circuit analysis, including branch, node, and mesh methods; Thevenin and Norton theorems; step and sinusoidal responses of RLC circuits; operational amplifier circuits; single phase power; mutual inductance, transformers, resonance.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CMSI 185 or ENGR 240; MATH 132; PHYS 201 recommended.

ELEC 260Introduction to Electricity and Applications

3 Semester Hours

Presentation of a brief history of electricity and electrical devices. Introduction to basic concepts of circuit and system analysis, electronic instruments, devices, and modern electric equipment. Demonstrations of concepts and devices are included.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

ELEC 281Logic Design

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to computer systems, number systems. Boolean algebra, combinational and sequential logic design, minimization and analysis techniques. Concepts of programmable logic devices.

Lecture, 3 hours.

ELEC 301Junior Lab I

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to the use of contemporary lab equipment and techniques of measurement and experimentation; introduction to technical report writing; class is used to provide a laboratory experience related to junior level courses.

Laboratory, 3 hours; Lecture, 1 hour.

Prerequisites: ELEC 281 and concurrent enrollment in ELEC 333 and 353 or permission of the instructor.

ELEC 302

Junior Lab II

3 Semester Hours

Continuation of ELEC 301 with emphasis on design; introduction to use of CAD tools and FPGA-based system design.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: ELEC 301 and 383; concurrent enrollment in ELEC 354.

ELEC 311

Electronics and Instrumentation

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to circuit principles, amplifiers, op-amps, digital components and systems, system analysis, and instrumentation techniques.

For mechanical engineering or science majors.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Corequisite: ELEC 312.

ELEC 312

Electronics and Instrumentation Lab

0 Semester Hours

Concurrent laboratory for ELEC 311.

Laboratory, 2 hours.

Corequisite: ELEC 311.

ELEC 313

Electronics and Instrumentation

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to circuit principles, amplifiers, op-amps, digital components and systems, power and machines, and instrumentation techniques.

For civil engineering or science majors.

Lecture, 3 hours.

ELEC 333

Circuit Applications

3 Semester Hours

Laplace transform applications, network functions, frequency response, analog filters, two-ports, three phase power.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: ELEC 232 and MATH 245.

ELEC 353

Electronics I

3 Semester Hours

Fundamentals of semiconductor devices and the physics of their operation. Applications of semiconductor devices in electronic circuits and device modeling. Introduction to CAD tools. Design of single stage amplifiers.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: ELEC 232 and MATH 132.

ELEC 354

Electronics II

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to engineering design methods utilized in the synthesis of contemporary analog electronic circuits including extensive use of CAD tools. Topics include multi-transistor circuits, large signal limitations, feedback techniques, amplifier stability and oscillators.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ELEC 353.

ELEC 361

Electromagnetics

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to Maxwell's equations, wave propagation, transmission line theory, and the solution of static and time varying field problems.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: MATH 355 and PHYS 201.

ELEC 371

Linear Systems

3 Semester Hours

Time and frequency domain analysis of continuous and discrete linear systems including simulation diagrams, state variable analysis, Fourier and Z transforms.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: ELEC 333 and MATH 355 or concurrent enrollment in MATH 355.

ELEC 383Introduction to Microprocessors (ELEC)3 Semester Hours*

Basic concepts in design and organization of microprocessors and microcomputers. Assembly language programming design for incorporating peripheral devices in solving application designs. Not open to CMSI majors.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ELEC 281.

ELEC 384Introduction to Microprocessors (CMSI)3 Semester Hours*

Basic concepts in design and organization of microprocessor-based systems. Assembly language programming of microprocessors and the use of peripheral devices in solving application designs.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CMSI 284 and ELEC 281.

ELEC 385Computer System Design3 Semester Hours*

Formal description of digital systems. Design of functional subsystems. Organization and design of general purpose digital computers and of special purpose digital systems.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ELEC 383 or 384.

ELEC 398Special Studies1-4 Semester HoursELEC 399*Independent Studies1-4 Semester HoursELEC 400*Design Methodology2 Semester Hours*

A study of design methodology and development of professional project-oriented skills including communication, team management, creative problem solving, interpersonal management, and leadership skills. Case studies are used to describe the application of project-oriented skills to the solution of design problems.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisite: Concurrent enrollment in ELEC 401.

ELEC 401Senior Lab I3 Semester Hours*

Course is intended to provide a laboratory experience related to other senior level courses; emphasis is on design and technical report writing and oral presentation.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: ELEC 302, 354, 383, concurrent enrollment in ELEC 400.

ELEC 402Senior Project3 Semester Hours*

A study of design methodology and development of professional project-oriented skills including communication, team management, creative problem solving, interpersonal management, and leadership skills. Team project activities are used to apply project-oriented skills to solution of design problems. Periodic design reports and design reviews are presented to and critiqued by the faculty and the design team.

Lecture, 1 hour; Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: ELEC 354, 400, 401, 423.

Corequisite: ENGR 400.

ELEC 423Communications I3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to signals, spectra, Fourier Transforms, AM, FM, and digital communication systems.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ELEC 371.

ELEC 424Communications II3 Semester Hours*

Probability and random processes, correlation and power spectral density, noise and signal detection, analysis of communication links will be discussed.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ELEC 423 or permission of the instructor.

ELEC 453Digital Integrated Electronics3 Semester Hours*

Extensive coverage of digital integrated circuit design, including TTL, NMOS, CMOS and BiCMOS digital logic circuits, Read Only Memory (ROM), and Random Access Memory (RAM).

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: ELEC 281 and 354.

ELEC 462Microwave and Optical Communications3 Semester Hours*

Applications of electromagnetic theory. Topics include transmission lines, waveguides, impedance transformations and matching, passive devices, scatter parameters and their applications in circuits, antennas and wave propagation, fiber optics, and other communication links.

Lecture, 2 hours; Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ELEC 361.

ELEC 472Control Systems3 Semester Hours*

Analysis and design of feedback systems using root locus, Bode, Nyquist, and state variable techniques; introduction to discrete feedback control system analysis.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: ELEC 371.

ELEC 481Introduction to Computer Networks3 Semester Hours*

This course provides a basic introduction to computer networking. The topics covered include: types and uses of computer networks, data transmission, protocols and protocol layering, packets, message transactions, layered architecture, and a client-server introduction.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: Senior standing and permission of instructor.

ELEC 498Special Studies1-4 Semester HoursELEC 499*Independent Studies1-4 Semester Hours*

ELEC 521Introduction to Communication Systems3 Semester Hours*

The concept of signal formulation, modulation, transmission and reception, and demodulation of signals in noise will be discussed.

Prerequisites: ELEC 423 and 532, or equivalents.

ELEC 525Digital Signal Processing3 Semester Hours*

The representation, analysis, and processing of discrete signals are discussed. Topics include sampling, quantization, Z-transform of signal, discrete Fourier and fast Fourier transforms, analysis and design of digital filters, and spectral estimation of random digital signals.

Prerequisite: ELEC 371.

ELEC 532Probability and Random Processes3 Semester Hours*

A study of the concepts of probability, random variables, and stochastic processes. The topics of correlation, power spectral density, and linear mean-square estimation are included.

Prerequisite: Senior or graduate standing.

ELEC 561IC Fabrication Processes3 Semester Hours*

Overview of processes in manufacture of integrated circuits. Topics include: single crystal growth, oxide growth, photolithographic processes, ion implantation and impurity diffusion, metal deposition, and passivation and packaging of chips. Use is made of Unix workstations for modeling and simulation.

Prerequisite: ELEC 353 or equivalent.

ELEC 562Digital System Design with VHDL3 Semester Hours*

Computer aided design of digital VLSI (Very Large Scale Integrated) systems using Very High Speed Integrated Circuits (VHSIC) Hardware Description Language (VHDL).

Prerequisites: ELEC 281 and 383.

ELEC 563ASIC Design3 Semester Hours*

Topics include programmable logic devices and gate array architectures, programmability of PLDs and gate arrays, field programmable gate arrays (FPGAs), and applications of FPGAs in digital system design. Course includes laboratory experiments and extensive use of Computer Aided Design tools.

Prerequisite: ELEC 383 or permission of instructor.

ELEC 567Introduction to Digital VLSI Design3 Semester Hours*

Custom and semi-custom design of VLSI circuits using standard cells, design methodologies of advanced complementary metal-oxide-semiconductor (CMOS) circuits, and simulation of designed circuits will be emphasized. At the end of the semester, circuits designed by the students will be sent for fabrication through MOSIS and later tested by the students for functionality.

Prerequisite: ELEC 383 or permission of instructor.

ELEC 583Finite State Machines3 Semester Hours*

An introduction to the theory and design of finite state automata and sequential machines.

Prerequisite: ELEC 281 or equivalent.

ELEC 584Introduction to Microprocessors II3 Semester Hours*

Design and applications of 32-bit microprocessors. Topics include: basic concepts, software, architecture, programming, interfacing, and system design. (Not open to students with credit in ELEC 384.)

Prerequisite: ELEC 383 or equivalent.

ELEC 585Computer Organization and Architecture3 Semester Hours*

System structure of minicomputers and main frame computers. Structured memory based systems; parallel and multiunit processors; introduction to input/output processing.

Prerequisite: ELEC 385 or equivalent.

Computer ScienceCMSI 182*Introduction to Computer Science3 Semester Hours*

Great ideas in computer science, including some programming using a contemporary programming language.

Lecture, 3 hours.

CMSI 185Computer Programming3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to algorithms and computer programming using Java.

Enrollment is limited to CMSI, ELEC, MATH, and PHYS majors and CMSI minors.

Lecture, 3 hours.

CMSI 186Programming Laboratory3 Semester Hours*

Workshop in Java programming, treating one medium-sized application every two weeks in a laboratory setting. Typical projects: discrete simulation, randomized estimation, maze solving, dynamic programming, large-number arithmetic, numerical methods, GUIs.

For majors and minors only.

Prerequisite: A grade of C (2.0) or better in CMSI 185.

CMSI 252Multimedia Authoring Languages3 Semester Hours*

Creation of programs (scripts) for interactive multimedia using languages like Icon Author and Director; construction of user interfaces; integration and editing of still images, audio, and video; building computer-based training and entertainment applications, languages for the entertainment industry.

Lecture, 3 hours.

CMSI 261

Epistemological Foundations of Computer Science

3 Semester Hours

A study of the philosophical and epistemological roots of computer science. Topics include: language, thought, cognition, logic, computation, the Church-Turing thesis, computer programming, and artificial intelligence.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

CMSI 264

Cryptography throughout the Ages

3 Semester Hours

Descriptions of mathematical systems that have been used for enciphering and deciphering information, and a study of the context in which these systems arose. In particular, systems used in warfare, especially World War II, and modern systems including public key cryptography.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

CMSI 281

Data Structures and Algorithms I

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to data types, information structures, and algorithms. Topics include: collection classes and interfaces for sets, lists, stacks, queues, and dictionaries; implementation techniques such as arrays, linked lists, and efficient tree structures; introduction to computational complexity; elementary sorting; hashing.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: A grade of C (2.0) or better in CMSI 185.

CMSI 282

Data Structures and Algorithms II

3 Semester Hours

Algorithm paradigms, including greedy methods, dynamic programming, divide-and-conquer, randomization, modern heuristics. String matching. Order statistics. Combinatorial objects. Cake-cutting. Graph algorithms. Computational geometry.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CMSI 281.

CMSI 284

Computer System Organization

3 Semester Hours

Topics include: data representations, instructions and instruction formats, assemblers and assembly languages, linking and loading, process execution, interrupt and device-handling, file management, and mixed-language programming.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CMSI 281.

CMSI 298

Special Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

CMSI 299

Independent Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

CMSI 342

Object Technologies

3 Semester Hours

Software design and implementation using object-oriented and component technologies. Topics include: object-oriented principles such as classes, interfaces, inheritance, polymorphism and message passing, object-oriented languages, componentware, software architecture, design patterns, UML, COM, and CORBA.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CMSI 281.

CMSI 361

Internet Technologies

3 Semester Hours

History of the internet and basics of its operation. Topics include: protocols, XML, XHTML, CSS, Perl, Java, SMIL, building web applications, multimedia content, databases, JSP, RDF, security, current trends, and future directions.

Lecture, 3 hours.

CMSI 365Enterprise Production Practicum1-3 Semester Hours*

The design, construction, and management of an online information system. Experience will be gained producing an in-use online system with emphasis on stability and usability for the target audience.

Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

This course may be repeated for up to 3 semester hours of credit.

CMSI 371Computer Graphics3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to interactive computer graphics, emphasizing raster-scan techniques. Topics include the design and use of graphics packages and standards, graphics engines, animation, the user-system interface, three dimensional modeling, ray tracing, and fractal geometry.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CMSI 281.

CMSI 385Introduction to the Theory of Computation3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to the formal theory of computation. Topics include: finite automata and regular sets; context-free grammars and pushdown automata; Turing machines and computability; intractability and NP-completeness.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CMSI 281 and MATH 248.

CMSI 386Programming Languages3 Semester Hours*

A comparative study of the rationale, concepts, design, and features of several major programming languages. Topics include the role of bindings, control flow, types, subroutines, modules, objects, and concurrency. Major attention is given to C++, Java, ML, Perl, Ada, and XSLT.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CMSI 284.

CMSI 387Operating Systems3 Semester Hours*

Concepts in the design of operating systems, including: processes, process management, mutual exclusion, synchronization and message-passing, primary memory management, multiprogramming, paged allocation and paging policies, resource and I/O management, file systems, and security. Major emphasis is placed on UNIX and NT architectures and C-language system programming.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CMSI 284 or ELEC 383.

CMSI 398Special Studies1-4 Semester HoursCMSI 399*Independent Studies1-4 Semester HoursCMSI 401*Software Engineering Lab3 Semester Hours*

Design and implementation of large programs in a group setting, using principles of modularization, abstraction, and information hiding.

Lecture and Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

CMSI 402Senior Project Lab4 Semester Hours*

Analysis, design, implementation, and presentation of a large-scale, individual project, demonstrating mastery of the computer science curriculum.

Lecture and Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

CMSI 461
Multimedia Design
3 Semester Hours

Multimedia program development, including project concept, audience analysis, needs analysis, creative and visual treatments, CD-ROM and World Wide Web technical issues, interface design, media formats, authoring languages, and multimedia project management. A project requires that students design a multimedia program leading to a proof-of-concept prototype.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

CMSI 462
Multimedia Production
3 Semester Hours

Production of medium to large-scale multimedia programs including usability analysis, detailed design, script writing, media production, audio production, graphics production, authoring, program engine development, media integration, packaging, marketing, and duplication. A project requires that students produce a multimedia program leading to a web site and CD-ROM distribution.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CMSI 461.

CMSI 475
Computational Complexity
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to the study of computational complexity, including efficient algorithms for matrix multiplication and fast Fourier transforms, the classes P and NP, approximation algorithms, randomized algorithms and RP, parallel algorithms and NC.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CMSI 282 and 385.

CMSI 485
Artificial Intelligence
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to the theory and applications of artificial intelligence. Topics include heuristic search theory, knowledge representation and symbolic reasoning and machine learning.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CMSI 385 and 386.

CMSI 486
Introduction to Database Systems
3 Semester Hours

Theory and design of database systems, with emphasis on relational and object-oriented models. Topics include semantic data modeling, database languages, data integrity, physical database design, indexing, query processing, transaction management, and concurrency control.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CMSI 386 and 387.

CMSI 488
Compiler Construction
4 Semester Hours

Introduction to the theory and design of translators for high-level computer programming languages. Topics include programming language specification, scanner construction, parser construction, intermediate representations, code generation, and optimization. Coursework includes implementation of a compiler.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CMSI 385 and 386.

CMSI 498
Special Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

CMSI 499
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

CMSI 583
Theory of Computation
3 Semester Hours

Finite automata, regular sets; context-free grammars, pushdown automata; context-free languages; Turing machines, decidable and undecidable problems; complexity, intractability, and NP-completeness.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: CMSI 281.

CMSI 585Programming Languages3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to the principles of programming language design and implementation via a comparative study of several major languages. Topics include syntactic and semantic specification, bindings, control flow, types, subroutines, modules, objects, and concurrency. Major attention is given to C++, Java, ML, Perl, and Ada.

Prerequisites: CMSI 284 and 386.

CMSI 587Operating Systems3 Semester Hours*

Topics in the design of operating systems with emphasis on large-scale multiprocessing, multiprogramming, and distributed environments. Topics include process scheduling, interprocess communication, I/O management, virtual memory management, file systems, and network, distributed, and real-time operating systems.

Prerequisite: CMSI 284.

CMSI 588Compiler Construction3 Semester Hours*

Topics in the theory and design of compilers and interpreters for high-level programming languages, including scanners and scanner-generators, context-free grammars and pushdown automata, parser construction, code generation, syntax-directed translation, error analysis and recovery, and optimization and data-flow analysis.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CMSI 583 and 585.

General Engineering

A General Engineering curriculum is offered during the first three semesters in which all requirements are nearly identical regardless of major. This provides maximum flexibility since students can switch to any major at any time during their first three semesters without losing any time or credit. During this period, students can be classified as “Undecided Engineering” or can opt for one of the engineering majors—civil, electrical, or mechanical engineering. The principles and concepts that students learn during the General Engineering curriculum provide the foundation necessary for more advanced study in all engineering disciplines.

The freshman engineering advisor advises all engineering students during the first three semesters. Students must consult each semester with the freshman advisor and register for the appropriate courses listed under the General Engineering curriculum. Any variation from the recommended paradigm must be approved by the freshman advisor.

Unless unusual circumstances suggest otherwise, a commitment to a particular major should be made before the second semester of the sophomore year. Students will then be assigned to a faculty advisor within their major. The Office of the Registrar must be informed whenever a student changes or declares a major.

* Students following the Computer Engineering emphasis take CMSI 185, Computer Programming, in place of ENGR 240 (see Electrical Engineering).

ENGR 100

Introduction to Engineering Analysis and Problem Solving

3 Semester Hours

This course is designed to excite an interest in the engineering profession, establish a foundation of proper study skills, encourage creativity, stimulate cooperative learning, enhance communication skills, improve problem solving skills, introduce the design process, and develop a working knowledge of spreadsheets and word processing.

Lecture, 2 hours; Workshop, 2 hours.

ENGR 140
Engineering Graphics and Design
3 Semester Hours

Visualization, sketching and drawing of 2- and 3-dimensional objects using perspective, isometric, oblique and orthographic projection techniques. Traditional (manual) drafting and computer-aided drafting using AutoCAD are both emphasized. Layout, detail, and assembly drawings for product design and fabrication are completed. Engineering design projects.

Lecture, 2 hours; Laboratory, 2 hours.

Prerequisite: ENGR 100.

ENGR 200
Statics
3 Semester Hours

Resultants of force systems, free-body diagrams, equations of equilibrium and their applications, analysis of trusses, centroids and moments of inertia, shear and moment diagrams.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: PHYS 101.

Co-requisite: MATH 132.

ENGR 240
Algorithms and Applications
3 Semester Hours

The development of algorithms for the computer solution of engineering problems and the implementation of the algorithms using spreadsheets and programming languages.

Lecture, 3 hours.

ENGR 300
Fundamentals of Engineering (FE) Examination
0 Semester Hours

A review of topics in mathematics, science, and engineering in preparation for the Fundamentals of Engineering (FE) Examination. Students must register for and take the Fundamentals of Engineering (FE) Examination.

Prerequisite: Junior standing.

ENGR 400
Senior Seminar
0 Semester Hours

Presentations emphasizing ethics; economics; societal, political, and global issues; lifelong learning; and contemporary engineering issues.

Lecture, 1 hour.

Prerequisite: Senior standing.

Mathematics

Faculty:

Chairperson: Michael D. Grady

Professors: Lev Abolnikov, Michael Berg,
Jacqueline M. Dewar, Ben F. Fitzpatrick,

Michael D. Grady, Suzanne Larson,
Herbert A. Medina, David M. Smith,

Connie J. Weeks, Warren S. Wright, Dennis G. Zill

Associate Professors: Curtis D. Bennett,

Patrick D. Shanahan, Thomas Zachariah

Assistant Professors: Erika T. Camacho,

Alissa S. Crans, Lily S. Khadjavi, Blake Mellor, Edward
C. Mosteig

Adjunct Professor: Robert Vangor

Objectives:

Mathematics, as an intellectual activity, is both an art and a powerful tool for problem solving and for understanding the physical universe. A mathematics major explores the different facets of the discipline through a broad spectrum of courses in applied, computational, and pure mathematics. In addition to exploring mathematics, a student majoring in mathematics takes classes from other fields (e.g., science and education) that help her/him prepare for her/his chosen career. The Department's programs allow a student to focus on different aspects of the discipline and lead to one of three undergraduate degrees:

- Bachelor of Arts with a major in Mathematics
- Bachelor of Science with a major in Mathematics
- Bachelor of Science with a major in Applied Mathematics

The Department offers minors in Pure Mathematics, Applied Mathematics, and Secondary Education Mathematics. These minors are designed for students majoring in another field (e.g., engineering, physics, business, economics, computer science, or Liberal Studies) who wish to develop an undergraduate background in mathematics that goes beyond the requirements of their degree program.

In addition to its major and minor degree programs, the Mathematics Department serves every department in LMU's four Colleges, the School of Film and Television, and the School of Education through the core curriculum and by providing students in other majors courses designed to serve the intellectual needs of their fields of study.

Mathematics Placement Examination:

The purpose of this examination is to determine the level of preparation of the student and to place him/her in the appropriate mathematics course. Any student with three years of high school mathematics including two years of algebra and one year of geometry should be adequately prepared to take this examination. However, students may wish to review these areas.

All first-year students who are majoring in the Frank R. Seaver College of Science and Engineering or the College of Business Administration, or who are Economics majors or Liberal Studies majors, must take the mathematics placement examination. Psychology majors are required to take MATH 104. All other majors are required to take MATH 102 or higher (see the section on Proficiency in Mathematics).

All students transferring into the Frank R. Seaver College of Science and Engineering or the College of Business Administration, or who are Economics majors or Liberal Studies majors, must take the mathematics placement examination unless they have transferred a college algebra or higher level college mathematics class approved by the Mathematics Department before entering LMU.

Any student, no matter his or her major, planning to take MATH 106, 111, 112, 120, 122, or 131 and who has not transferred a college algebra or higher level college mathematics class is required first to take the mathematics placement examination.

General Major Requirements:

Students must complete the corresponding Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science University Core requirements as defined by the Frank R. Seaver College of Science and Engineering; students will choose the proper sequence of University Core courses in consultation with their advisor.

Mathematics majors and minors are not permitted to enroll in any mathematics course without a minimum grade of C (2.0) in that course's prerequisite. A minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in each course in the lower division major requirements. A minimum cumulative grade point average of C (2.0) is required in the upper division major requirements for graduation.

Lower Division Major Requirements:

MATH 131, 132, 190, 191, 234, 245, 248, 250, 282; one science course chosen from PHYS 101, 201; and CMSI 185, 281. The Bachelor of Science in Mathematics and the Bachelor of Science in Applied Mathematics degrees require an additional science course chosen from the PHYS and CMSI courses listed above; a second CMSI or PHYS course also may be counted towards the Bachelor of Arts degree in Mathematics (please see upper division requirements below).

Bachelor of Arts with a Major in Mathematics:

This major is designed for students who are interested in pursuing a career in teaching mathematics at the secondary (i.e., high school) level. With the help of her/his advisor, the student may design a schedule carefully so that s/he can complete the California Preliminary Single Subject (Secondary) CLAD Teaching Credential during her/his four years at LMU. Furthermore, a program may be designed that allows a student to complete the mathematics degree, credential, and a Master of Arts in Teaching Mathematics at LMU in five years including two summer sessions.

Upper Division Requirements (11 courses):

MATH 321, 331, 357, 360, 490, 493 or 497, 550, and one additional 3-unit upper division MATH elective (excluding MATH 301, 302, 308, and 309) chosen in consultation with his/her advisor; EDUC 488; and two 3-unit EDUC courses chosen from the list of requirements for the preliminary single subject secondary credential or one such EDUC course and one course from BIOL 101, 102, 201, 202; CHEM 110, 112, 220; CMSI 185, 281, 282; or PHYS 101, 201.

Bachelor of Science with a Major in Mathematics:

This degree program is designed for students who want a broad foundation in pure mathematics. It is especially suited for students who expect to pursue a graduate degree in mathematics.

Upper Division Requirements (10 courses):

MATH 321, 322, 331, 332 or 350, 357, 360, 471 or 473, 491 or 497, and two additional 3-unit upper division MATH electives (excluding MATH 301, 302, 308, and 309) chosen in consultation with his/her advisor.

Bachelor of Science with a Major in Applied Mathematics:

This degree program is designed for students who want a broad foundation in applied and computational mathematics. It is especially suited for students who intend to work in a mathematics-related field in industry or who wish to pursue a graduate degree in applied mathematics or science.

Upper Division Requirements (10 courses):

MATH 321, 322 or 357, 331 or 350, 355, 360, 495 or 497, 560, one of 561, 562, or 582; and two additional 3-unit courses chosen in consultation with his/her advisor from the following list: upper division mathematics classes numbered MATH 321 or higher; CIVL 310, 315; CMSI 282, 371, 385, 583; ELEC 232, 333, 361; PHYS 212, 301, 302, 321, 322.

Biomathematics:

Under the direction of an advisor, the student selects courses from the fields of biology, chemistry, computer science, and mathematics and obtains a Bachelor of Science degree in biomathematics through the Individualized Studies Program.

Any deviation from the above programs requires formal approval of the student's advisor and the Department Chairperson.

Minor in Applied Mathematics Requirements:

At least 24 semester hours including MATH 131, 132, 234, 245; MATH 355, 360 or 366; MATH 321 (MATH 248 is a prerequisite for MATH 321, so the MATH 321 option requires 27 semester hours), 357, 560, or 562; and one additional 3 semester-hour upper division MATH course chosen in consultation with the applied mathematics minor advisor or MATH 248 and 250 (this option requires 27 semester hours). A cumulative grade point average of C (2.0) or better is required in the courses included in the minor.

Minor in Pure Mathematics Requirements:

At least 23 semester hours including MATH 131, 132, 248; MATH 234 or 250; MATH 321, 357, or 471; MATH 331 or 350; and one additional 3 semester-hour upper division MATH course chosen in consultation with the pure mathematics minor advisor. A minimum cumulative grade point average of C (2.0) is required in the courses included in the minor.

Minor in Secondary Education Mathematics Requirements:

At least 24 semester hours including MATH 131, 132, 234, 248, 360, 490, and 550. A cumulative grade point average of C (2.0) or better is required in the courses included in the minor.

Corequisite: MATH 102.

MATH 104

Elementary Statistics

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to methods of inferential statistics, histograms, elementary probability, and random variables and distributions.

MATH 106Mathematics for Elementary Teachers I3 Semester Hours*

Foundations of arithmetic from an advanced standpoint: sets, numeration systems, the structure of number systems, and problem solving strategies.

Prerequisite: MATH 101 with a minimum grade of C (2.0) or Mathematics Placement Examination.

MATH 107Mathematics for Elementary Teachers II3 Semester Hours*

Geometry, metric system, and introduction to probability and statistics.

Prerequisite: MATH 106.

MATH 111Mathematical Analysis for Business I3 Semester Hours*

Systems of equations and inequalities, exponential and logarithmic functions, math of finance, linear programming.

Prerequisite: MATH 101 or Mathematics Placement Examination.

MATH 112Mathematical Analysis for Business II3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to the differential and integral calculus of elementary functions. Applications of the methods of calculus to business and economics problems.

Prerequisite: MATH 111 or 120 or Mathematics Placement Examination.

MATH 120Precalculus Mathematics3 Semester Hours*

Functions; polynomial, rational, trigonometry, exponential and logarithmic functions.

Prerequisite: MATH 101 or Mathematics Placement Examination.

MATH 122Calculus for the Life Sciences I3 Semester Hours*

An introduction to calculus. Derivatives and integrals of the elementary functions, including computational techniques and applications.

Prerequisite: MATH 120 or Mathematics Placement Examination.

MATH 123Calculus for the Life Sciences II3 Semester Hours*

Integration methods with applications, differential equations and modeling, and introduction to multivariate calculus.

Prerequisite: MATH 122 or equivalent.

MATH 131Calculus I4 Semester Hours*

Limits, continuity, derivatives of algebraic and transcendental functions, applications of the derivative, antiderivatives, introduction to the definite integral, Fundamental Theorem of Calculus.

Prerequisite: MATH 120 or Mathematics Placement Examination.

MATH 132Calculus II4 Semester Hours*

Techniques of integration, numerical methods of integration with error analysis, applications of the integral, improper integrals, infinite series, an introduction to parametric equations and polar coordinates.

Prerequisite: MATH 131 or equivalent.

MATH 190Workshop in Mathematics I2 Semester Hours*

Study skills, analytical and problem solving skills, technical writing, recent fields of study, and advances in mathematics, mathematical career opportunities.

MATH 191Workshop in Mathematics II2 Semester Hours*

A continuation of MATH 190.

MATH 198Special Studies1-4 Semester Hours*

MATH 199Independent Studies1-4 Semester Hours*

MATH 234Calculus III4 Semester Hours*

Partial derivatives, multiple integrals, three-dimensional space, vectors in two- and three- dimensional space, line integrals, Green's theorem.

Prerequisite: MATH 132 or equivalent.

MATH 245Ordinary Differential Equations3 Semester Hours*

Differential equations as mathematical models; analytical, qualitative, and numerical approaches to differential equations and systems of differential equations; and Laplace transform techniques.

Prerequisite: MATH 132 or equivalent.

MATH 248Introduction to Methods of Proof3 Semester Hours*

Number theory, sets, functions, equivalence relations, cardinality, methods of proof, induction, contradiction, contraposition.

Prerequisite: MATH 132 or equivalent.

MATH 250Linear Algebra3 Semester Hours*

Systems of linear equations, Gauss and Gauss-Jordan elimination, matrices and matrix algebra, determinants. Linear transformations of Euclidean space. General vector spaces, linear independence, inner product spaces, orthogonality. Eigenvalues and eigenvectors, diagonalization. General linear transformations.

Prerequisite: MATH 248 or consent of instructor.

MATH 261Mathematics: Contributions by Women3 Semester Hours*

A study of the biographies and mathematics of women mathematicians from the 1st through the 20th centuries. Topics include prime numbers, conic sections, cycloid curve, functions, sequences, series, polyhedra, and group theory.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

MATH 264Cryptography throughout the Ages3 Semester Hours*

A study of mathematical systems used for enciphering and deciphering information and the context in which these systems arose; in particular, encryption/decryption used during World War II and modern systems, including public key cryptography. Policy issues related to cryptography also will be studied.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

MATH 282Elementary Numerical Methods3 Semester Hours*

Computer solutions of applied mathematical problems using Fortran and Mathematica. Nonlinear equations, differentiation, integration.

Prerequisite: MATH 131 or equivalent.

MATH 285Discrete Mathematics for Engineering3 Semester Hours*

An introduction to basic counting; permutations; combinations; probability; the binomial distribution; set theory; generating functions; recurrence relations; with C programming.

Prerequisite: MATH 132 or equivalent.

MATH 293Mathematics Teaching Field Experience0 Semester Hours*

Planned observation, instruction or tutoring experiences appropriate for future secondary or middle school mathematics teachers; related professional reading and reflections.

MATH 298Special Studies1-4 Semester HoursMATH 299*Independent Studies1-4 Semester Hours*

MATH 301Mathematical Ideas for Future Teachers I3 Semester Hours*

A selection of topics from number theory, algebra, game theory, probability, and statistics of interest to future teachers. The emphasis is on deepening students' understanding of the methods and philosophy of mathematics. Students will actively engage in exploring mathematics through student investigations and presentations.

Prerequisites: MATH 107 and MATH 111 or 112 or 120 or 122 or 131.

MATH 302Mathematical Ideas for Future Teachers II3 Semester Hours*

A selection of topics from geometry and topology of interest to future teachers. The emphasis is on deepening students' understanding of the methods and philosophy of mathematics. Students will actively engage in exploring mathematics through student investigations and presentations.

Prerequisites: MATH 107 and MATH 111 or 112 or 120 or 122 or 131.

MATH 308Mathematics for Elementary Teachers Workshop I1 Semester Hour*

Hands-on use of math manipulatives related to the elementary school concepts of sets, systems of numeration, whole numbers, integers, fractions, and decimals.

Prerequisite: MATH 106 or concurrent enrollment or consent of instructor.

MATH 309Mathematics for Elementary Teachers Workshop II1 Semester Hour*

Hands-on use of math manipulatives related to geometry, probability, and statistics appropriate to the elementary school mathematics curriculum.

Prerequisite: MATH 107 or concurrent enrollment or consent of instructor.

MATH 321Real Variables I3 Semester Hours*

The real number system, least upper bound, sequences, Cauchy sequences, functions, limits of functions, continuity, derivatives, and Riemann integration.

Prerequisite: MATH 248.

MATH 322Real Variables II3 Semester Hours*

Infinite series, uniform convergence, power series, and improper integrals.

Prerequisite: MATH 321.

MATH 331Elements of Group Theory3 Semester Hours*

Group theory. Binary operations, subgroups, cyclic groups, factor groups, isomorphism, homomorphism, and Cayley's theorem.

Prerequisite: MATH 248.

MATH 332Elements of the Theory of Rings and Fields3 Semester Hours*

Rings, integral domains, fields, ideals, factor rings, polynomial rings, and unique factorization domains.

Prerequisite: MATH 331.

MATH 350Advanced Linear Algebra3 Semester Hours*

Vector spaces over an arbitrary field, dual spaces, Cayley-Hamilton theorem, invariant subspaces, canonical forms for matrices, inner product spaces over \mathbb{C} , the spectral theorem.

Prerequisite: MATH 250.

MATH 355Methods of Applied Mathematics3 Semester Hours*

Series solutions and special functions. Orthogonal functions and Fourier series, partial differential equations and boundary value problems.

Prerequisites: MATH 234 and 245.

MATH 357Complex Variables3 Semester Hours*

Complex variables; analytic functions, Laurent expansions and residues; evaluation of real integrals by residues; integral transforms.

Prerequisite: MATH 234.

MATH 360
Introduction to Probability and Statistics
3 Semester Hours

Descriptive statistics, probability, discrete and continuous random variables, limit theorems, sampling distributions, estimations of parameters, nonparametric methods, hypothesis testing, linear regression.

Prerequisite: MATH 123 or 132.

MATH 366
Discrete Methods
3 Semester Hours

An introduction to graph theory; trees; coloring; Eulerian circuits. Combinatorics; permutations and combinations; recurrence relations.

Prerequisites: MATH 248 and Junior standing.

MATH 393
Mathematics Internship
1-3 Semester Hours

Research or applied mathematical work conducted in an industrial, business, or government setting on a project designed jointly by an on-site supervisor and a departmental faculty member. Enrollment is subject to available opportunities and approval of the Department Chairperson. Suitable opportunities in an educational setting are also acceptable.

MATH 398
Special Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

MATH 399
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

MATH 471
Topology
3 Semester Hours

An introduction to metric and topological spaces; continuity and homeomorphism; separation properties; connectivity and compactness; examples and applications.

Prerequisite: MATH 321.

MATH 473
Differential Geometry
3 Semester Hours

Curves, parametrizations, and arc length; surfaces, differentiable functions, and the first fundamental form (area); the Gauss map; isometries, Gauss' Theorema Egregium, geodesics, and the Gauss-Bonnet theorem.

Prerequisites: MATH 234 and 250.

MATH 490
History of Mathematics
3 Semester Hours

The development of mathematics from historical and cultural viewpoints, including both European and non-European roots of mathematics as well as contributions by women.

Prerequisite: MATH 248.

MATH 491
Senior Mathematics Seminar
3 Semester Hours

MATH 493
Senior Seminar for Future Mathematics Educators
3 Semester Hours

Topics in high school mathematics are examined from an advanced standpoint by developing and exploring extensions and generalizations of typical high school problems, by making explicit connections between these problems and upper division mathematics courses, and by providing historical context. Current issues in secondary mathematics education will be investigated. Written and oral presentations are required.

Prerequisite: Senior standing or consent of instructor.

MATH 495
Mathematical Modeling
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to various modeling techniques, design and implementation of algorithms, organization and presentation of results, introduction to problem solving using computer algebra systems.

Prerequisite: Senior standing or consent of instructor.

MATH 497Senior Thesis3 Semester Hours*

This course is intended to provide the student with an opportunity to complete a substantive research project under the guidance of a faculty member. The student will prepare a written report and an oral presentation on the project at the end of the semester.

Prerequisite: Senior standing and the consent of both the Chairperson and a faculty thesis advisor.

MATH 498Special Studies1-3 Semester HoursMATH 499*Independent Studies1-3 Semester HoursMATH 550*Fundamental Concepts of Geometry3 Semester Hours*

Euclidean and non-Euclidean planar geometries, axiomatic systems, synthetic and analytic representations, relationships with algebra, and selected topics and applications.

Prerequisites: MATH 248 and 250.

MATH 560Advanced Topics in Probability and Statistics3 Semester Hours*

Material to be covered will be determined by the instructor. Consult with the instructor for the specific topics in probability and statistics that will be covered in any given semester.

Prerequisites: MATH 234 and 360.

MATH 561Computational Methods in Linear Algebra3 Semester Hours*

Numerical solutions of linear systems of equations, Gauss elimination and iterative methods, eigenvalues and eigenvectors.

Prerequisites: CMSI 185 or MATH 282, and MATH 250 or consent of instructor.

MATH 562Numerical Analysis3 Semester Hours*

Numerical solutions of non-linear equations, interpolation, numerical differentiation, integration, and solution of differential equations.

Prerequisites: CMSI 185 or MATH 282, and MATH 245 or consent of instructor.

MATH 568Mathematical Methods of Operations Research3 Semester Hours*

Linear and dynamic programming, network analysis, inventory control.

Prerequisite: MATH 360.

MATH 575Introduction to Orbit Determination3 Semester Hours*

A brief introduction to Banach and Hilbert spaces, the Projection Theorem, linear minimum variance estimates, the Kalman filter, variational equations and orbit determination examples. The final exam is a computer problem that involves tracking a spacecraft orbiting an asteroid by means of Doppler measurements.

Prerequisites: MATH 245, 250, and consent of instructor.

MATH 582Analysis of Algorithms3 Semester Hours*

Design, comparison, and analysis of mathematical algorithms, including implementation and testing using Fortran.

Prerequisite: CMSI 185 or MATH 282 or consent of instructor.

Mechanical Engineering

Faculty:

Chairperson: Nader Saniei
 Professors: Omar S. Es-Said, Gerald S. Jakubowski,
 Mel I. Mendelson, Rafiqul I. Noorani,
 Bohdan W. Oppenheim, Nader Saniei
 Assistant Professor: Matthew T. Siniawski

Description:

Mechanical Engineering is very broad in scope and is pertinent to a variety of engineering activities and products including vehicles for ground, sea, air, and space transportation, power plants, machines, manufacturing systems, structures, and process plants. The Mechanical Engineering program provides a solid foundation for work in all of these fields. Engineering design is a major emphasis of the curriculum and is supported by modern, well-equipped laboratories. Laboratories include the computer-aided design, engineering and manufacturing laboratory, the materials processing and structures laboratory, the thermal/fluids laboratory, the Engineering Design Center and the video/multimedia laboratory. The curriculum covers contemporary technology as well as the fundamentals for future technologies. It is designed to prepare students for graduate school as well as for employment in industry.

Students can participate in national competitions designing and building projects such as Formula SAE, human-powered vehicles, and Mini Baja ("off road") vehicles. Students can also participate in the work of the U.S. Department of Energy Industrial Assessment Center located on the LMU campus. THE DOE/IAC affords LMU engineering students the opportunity to gain income, academic credit, and professional experience as they perform on-site energy, pollution, and productivity audits for small- and medium-sized manufacturing firms.

The undergraduate program is augmented by graduate programs in Mechanical Engineering and in Engineering and Production Management. Undergraduate students can take 500-level graduate courses as electives. Part-time faculty of the graduate programs include individuals with worldwide reputations in their fields.

Accreditation:

The Mechanical Engineering program is accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, 111 Market Place, Suite 1050, Baltimore, MD 21202-4012; telephone: (410) 347-7700.

Mission:

The mission of the Mechanical Engineering Department is to provide a high quality, practice-oriented, design-focused curriculum that prepares students for both graduate studies and leadership roles in industry.

Objectives:

The Mechanical Engineering program has established the following program educational objectives that are consistent with the University's mission and the department's program outcomes. They are supported through major requirements, core curriculum, research activities, national engineering programs, design competitions, internships, professional society involvement, and extra-curricular activities. During the first 3-5 years after graduation, Mechanical Engineering graduates will:

1. Advance in their professional careers and pursue graduate studies and continuous learning in areas relevant to their long-term goals;
2. Demonstrate leadership in professional activities such as research, experimental studies, and industrial projects;
3. Be capable of working effectively in cross-functional teams, communicating effectively, and participating in the practice of mechanical engineering design; and
4. Contribute to professional societies and demonstrate ethical conduct.

These program educational objectives are accomplished through the major requirements, the core curriculum, design competitions, internships, professional society involvement, and extracurricular activities.

Design in Mechanical Engineering:

Engineering design is the key task of the engineer. It is the process of creatively conceiving a system, component, or process to meet a specified societal need in an optimal manner. While the resulting design must satisfy the appropriate specifications and constraints, consideration must also be given to economics, social impact, marketability, manufacturability, product support, environmental impact, safety, and final disposition. The Mechanical Engineering faculty have adopted a methodology of design which guides the student through the design process. The steps of this methodology are studied and practiced in the Mechanical Engineering curriculum. The course descriptions which follow reflect how the design methodology is integrated throughout the curriculum.

MECH 231

Dynamics I

3 Semester Hours

Kinematics and kinetics of particles and rigid bodies, Newton's Laws, application of principles of work and energy, impulse and momentum, and vector approach.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: ENGR 200 and MATH 234.

MECH 240

Engineering Systems I

2 Semester Hours

Introduction to computer-aided design techniques and applications to design and manufacturing problems. Topics include: computer graphics for geometric design, design of curves and shapes, numerical methods for CAD and optimization. Practice and use of solid modeling software package.

Lecture and Lab, 2 hours.

MECH 251

Thermodynamics

3 Semester Hours

The fundamental concepts of classical thermodynamics including properties, work and heat; first and second laws; entropy; irreversible processes, gas mixtures and combustion; and thermodynamic analysis of engine, refrigeration, and propulsion systems. Design project required.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: Sophomore standing in engineering.

MECH 270

Materials

3 Semester Hours

Introduction to the chemistry and physics of different materials. Types of materials (metals, ceramics, polymers, and composites) and the relation between their structure and properties. Selection of materials in different applications.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

MECH 275

Energy and the Environment

3 Semester Hours

The basic concepts of temperature, heat, and energy conversion; various methods of energy conversion including stationary electric power plants, nuclear energy, solar heating and cooling, wind energy, geothermal energy, and ocean thermal energy; the effects of energy conversion on the environment.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

MECH 298

Special Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

MECH 299

Independent Studies

1-3 Semester Hours

MECH 300
Professional Seminar
1 Semester Hour

Preparation for professional work and graduate studies. Resume and cover letter. Mock interviews. Career options: small, medium, and large firms; consulting; government service. US and foreign graduate schools, patent, trademark, and copyright law. Code of ethics for engineers. Professional societies. Total quality management.

Lecture, 1 hour.

MECH 312
Materials Science
3 Semester Hours

A study of metallic, polymeric, and ceramic materials, emphasizing dependence of mechanical and electrical properties on solid-state bonding forces and microstructure. Introductory design considerations.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CHEM 110 and 111.

Corequisite: MECH 341.

MECH 315
Metallurgical and Materials Engineering
3 Semester Hours

A concise introduction to the relationship of the microstructures and processing of metallic, ceramic, polymer, and composite materials and their relation to the properties required in engineering design.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CIVL 200 and MECH 312.

Corequisite: MECH 342.

MECH 334
Dynamics II
3 Semester Hours

Rigid body dynamics, rotating frame. Graphical methods for kinematics. Kinematics and elements of dynamics of planar linkages and gears. Synthesis of simple mechanisms. Rotor balancing. Computer simulations.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MECH 231.

MECH 340
Engineering Systems II
3 Semester Hours

Process dynamics, instrumentation, and feedback applied to automatic process control.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 245.

MECH 341
Mechanical Engineering Lab I
2 Semester Hours

Students, working in teams, implement experimental projects in the disciplines of material science, mechanics of materials, fluid mechanics, and thermodynamics. Lab safety, instrumentation, test planning, data analysis, and report writing are emphasized.

Lecture/Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Junior standing.

MECH 342
Mechanical Engineering Lab II
2 Semester Hours

A continuation of MECH 341 with projects in the disciplines of metallurgy and heat transfer. Lab safety, statistical data analysis, and report writing are emphasized.

Lecture/Laboratory, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MECH 341.

Corequisites: MECH 315 and 353.

MECH 353
Heat Transfer
3 Semester Hours

The fundamentals of conduction, convection, and radiation heat transfer. Thermal analysis and design of components and devices. Numerical analysis of heat conduction problem.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Junior standing in Engineering Physics or Mechanical Engineering.

MECH 398
Special Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MECH 399
Independent Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MECH 441
Mechanical Engineering Lab III
2 Semester Hours

Laboratory applications of vibrations and data acquisition; elasticity, buckling, material testing; compressible flow and jet engine testing; and computer-aided manufacturing such as NC machining, rapid prototyping, investment casting, and robotics.

Lecture/Laboratory, 3 hours.

Corequisite: MECH 550.

MECH 445
Probability and Statistics
2 Semester Hours

Fundamentals of probability and statistics. Conditional probability, independence, random variables, distributions, densities. Experimental error analysis. Statistical confidence. Sampling. Statistical process control, X-R charts. Quality assurance.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisite: Junior standing in Mechanical Engineering.

MECH 483
Elements of Design
3 Semester Hours

The philosophy of design. Development of the methods of design. Application of the analysis of mechanical systems for stress, deflection, buckling, fatigue, and general reliability to the design of components such as springs, power screws, fasteners, bearings, and gears.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CIVL 200 and MECH 334.

MECH 484
Mechanical Engineering Design
3 Semester Hours

Design projects. The philosophy and methodology of design is applied to the design of mechanical engineering systems. Steps include project definition, feasibility study, generation of candidate solutions, analysis, synthesis, decision making, and component selection. Project record book, design drawings, design reviews, oral presentations, and a final report are required.

Prerequisite: MECH 483.

Corequisite: ENGR 400.

MECH 493
Mechanical Engineering Internship
1-3 Semester Hours

Engineering analysis, testing, design, and/or production work conducted by the student in an industrial setting. The work will be supervised jointly by an engineer with the industrial firm and by a LMU Mechanical Engineering faculty member. The project must be approved by the Departmental faculty. Senior standing is required.

MECH 498
Special Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MECH 499
Independent Studies
1-3 Semester Hours

MECH 500
Quality
3 Semester Hours

History. Philosophy: customer satisfaction, communications, variability reduction, robustness, QA methods, 5 S's, Deming profound Knowledge, EQ factor, concurrent engineering and IPT optimization. Continuous Improvement: suggestions, PDCA, Kaizen, Six Sigma, Theory of Constraint. Quantitative Methods: charts, Design of Experiments, SPC. Project.

Lecture, 3 hours.

MECH 516
Materials Selection in Design
3 Semester Hours

Application of principles of materials engineering to selection of materials for optimized engineering design, case studies in failure analysis.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Senior standing in Mechanical Engineering.

MECH 525
Advanced Mechanics of Materials
3 Semester Hours

Application of bending, combined bending and axial loads, curved bars, energy methods, buckling and elastic stability, inelastic and plastic deformations to the design of mechanical components.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Senior standing in Mechanical Engineering.

MECH 527
Finite Elements Methods
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to finite elements, theory, and applications. Derivations of single elements, matrix application meshing loads, and computer exercises and applications of design.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Senior standing in Mechanical Engineering.

MECH 536
Shock and Vibration Engineering
3 Semester Hours

Design of single and multidegree of freedom elastic mechanical systems, transient vibration analysis, shock spectra, matrix methods, numerical analysis techniques, discrete and continuous systems, and random vibrations.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: CIVL 200, MATH 245, and Senior standing in Mechanical Engineering.

MECH 550
Computer-Aided Manufacturing
2 Semester Hours

A comprehensive study of manufacturing with a focus on automation, flexible automation, group technology, process planning, and design for manufacturability. Principles and applications of computer numerical control (CNC) and NC programming, rapid prototyping, robotics, and investment casting are introduced through lecture and laboratory work.

Lecture, 2 hours.

Prerequisites: CIVL 200 and MECH 312.

Corequisite: MECH 441.

MECH 558
Propulsion Systems
3 Semester Hours

Fluid mechanical and thermodynamic analysis and design of propulsion systems and components: gas turbines, turbojets, turbofans, ramjets, and rockets. Computer-aided analysis utilized.

Lecture, 3 hours.

MECH 560
Turbomachinery
3 Semester Hours

Analysis and design of compressors, pumps, and fans.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Senior standing in Mechanical Engineering.

MECH 571
Design of Fluid-Thermal Systems
3 Semester Hours

The disciplines of thermodynamics, fluid mechanics, and heat transfer are reviewed and their principles applied to the design, selection, and analysis of pumps, pipes, heat exchangers, and power plants. Other topics include availability analysis, optimization, and design projects.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: Senior/Graduate standing.

MECH 595
Senior Research
1-3 Semester Hours

Research project consisting of experimental and/or theoretical studies under the direction of a faculty advisor.

Prerequisites: Senior standing and approval of Department Chairperson.

MECH 596
Design Project
1-3 Semester Hours

Competition: Formal registration and active participation in any of the Mechanical Engineering team design competitions including: Formula SAE, SAE Mini-Baja, ASME Human-Powered Vehicle, SAE Aero Design, or other competitions approved by the Department.

MECH 598

Natural Science

Bachelor of Science in Natural Science
General Science Emphasis
Pre-Physical/Occupational Therapy Emphasis
Environmental Science Emphasis
Secondary Science Education Emphases

Bachelor of Science in Athletic Training

Faculty:

Chairperson: James M. Landry
 Professor: James M. Landry
 Assistant Professors: John H. Dorsey,
 David A. Ramirez, Carolyn M. Viviano

Traditionally the University has offered degree programs in the sciences and mathematics. Although these programs provide for a broad overall education, the major curricula requirements are by necessity somewhat restricted and limiting. The Natural Science Department offers programs of study applying basic scientific knowledge to either multidisciplinary fields of study or specialties not easily accommodated through the traditional science disciplines. The Department offers two majors: the Natural Science major, with emphases in General Science, Pre-Physical/Occupational Therapy, Environmental Science, and Secondary Science Education; and the Athletic Training major. All students in Natural Science are required to complete an Independent Studies course. This can be accomplished by carrying out a research project under the guidance of a faculty member or through an internship in the emphasis of interest.

Bachelor of Science in Natural Science

The Natural Science major fills a need within the University for a more flexible general undergraduate degree program with an emphasis on natural sciences. In addition, specialized programs within Natural Science provide prerequisite training for graduate programs in physical and occupational therapies (and other allied health professions), training for careers and graduate programs in environmental science, and content preparation for a high school teaching credential.

General Science Emphasis

Objectives:

The Natural Science major General Science emphasis is designed to serve those students interested in a broad education combining general science, engineering science, and liberal arts.

The program prepares students interested in the areas of law, business, elementary education, studio and graphic arts, journalism, and other professions for work where a science background could be an asset.

Major Requirements:

66 semester hours are to be taken from course offerings in the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, Natural Science, Physics, and Engineering.

Lower Division Requirements:

NTLS 190 and one additional course must be taken in Natural Science. At least two courses numbered 100-259 must be taken from the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics. MATH 112, 122, or 131 must be included. In order to be eligible to take an upper division science course, a student must have a C (2.0) average in the lower division science courses.

Upper Division Requirements:

27 semester hours must be taken in upper division offerings in the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, Natural Science, or Physics. This includes an upper division NTLS course with lab and two additional upper division laboratory courses. Up to 6 semester hours of internship courses, undergraduate research courses, and natural science teaching courses can be counted toward the upper division science requirement.

This requirement includes completion of 3 semester hours of Independent Studies at the senior level to enhance development of the student's science program.

A student must have a C (2.0) average in upper division science courses.

Minor Requirements:

Two courses must be taken in Natural Science. At least one course numbered 100-259 must be taken from the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. For one of these disciplines, two courses numbered 100-259 must be taken. 6 semester hours from upper division offerings in science departments must be completed.

This minor is not available to students within the College of Science and Engineering.

The proper sequence of the University Core courses should be discussed with the student's advisor. The course sequence in Mathematics depends on the results of the mathematics placement examination.

Pre-Physical/Occupational Therapy Emphasis

Objectives:

This emphasis provides the student with the required courses in science, mathematics, psychology, and liberal arts needed to apply to either physical therapy or occupational therapy graduate programs. In addition, students are required to do internship work in a physical therapy or occupational therapy setting. This internship experience helps satisfy the volunteer hours required by the physical therapy or occupational therapy graduate programs.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112; CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113; MATH 104, 122; NTLS 151, 152, 153, 154, 190; PHYS 253, 254, 255, 256; PSYC 100.

In order to be eligible to take an upper division science course, a student must have a C (2.0) average in the lower division science courses.

Upper Division Requirements:

27 semester hours must be taken in upper division offerings in the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, Natural Science, or Physics and must include: NTLS 355, 356, 480, 485, and 495 or 496. Two additional upper division laboratory courses must be taken. Up to 6 semester hours of internship courses, undergraduate research courses, and natural science teaching courses can be counted toward the upper division science requirement.

Environmental Science Emphasis

Objectives:

This program of study is excellent preparation for a wide range of opportunities within the field of environmental science. This is due to the strong background obtained in Biology, Chemistry, and Engineering. It is also excellent preparation for graduate studies in environmental science programs.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112, and 201; CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113, 220, 221, and 222; MATH 104, 131, 132 (or MATH 122, 123); NTLS 101 and 190; PHYS 101, 103, 201, and 203 (or PHYS 253, 254, 255, and 256).

In order to be eligible to take an upper division science course, a student must have a C (2.0) average in the lower division science courses.

Upper Division Requirements:

39 upper division hours which will include: BIOL 318, 319, 361, and 362; CHEM 360 and 361; ENVS 300; and NTLS 301, 302, 330, 332, 375, 401, 512, and 531. In addition, an upper division elective course in chemistry and an upper division science elective are required.

Secondary Science Education Emphases

Objectives:

These programs of study provide a good grounding in basic scientific and mathematical principles appropriate for those interested in pursuing teaching careers at the secondary level. The programs consist of: a breadth of knowledge requirement specifying courses in Biology, Chemistry, Geosciences, and Physics, a concentration requirement which allows for in-depth study in Biology or Chemistry, and an education requirement. The secondary school programs are designed to meet the State Teacher Credential requirements for subject matter preparation in science and are currently under review.

Bachelor of Science in Athletic Training

Director: David A. Ramirez

The Athletic Training major is designed for students interested in pursuing a career as a certified athletic trainer. The profession of Athletic Training is recognized by the American Medical Association as an allied health profession. Certified Athletic Trainers (ATC) are members of the National Athletic Trainers' Association (NATA) and are medical experts in preventing, assessing, managing, and rehabilitating injuries that result from physical activity. ATCs function as integral members of the health care team in professional sports organizations, colleges and universities, secondary schools, military branches, sports medicine clinics, industrial settings, and other health care venues.

Accreditation:

The Athletic Training major curriculum, referred to as the Athletic Training Education Program (ATEP), is seeking accreditation through the Commission on the Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP). Currently, ATEP is in candidacy. Accreditation will follow pending completion of a minimum of two years of candidacy, submission of a self-study, and a site visit review by the Joint Review Committee on Educational Programs in Athletic Training.

Objectives:

The athletic training student who successfully completes the ATEP curriculum will qualify to take the National Athletic Trainers' Association—Board of Certification national exam. Upon successful completion of the exam, the student will become a Certified Athletic Trainer.

Also, the athletic training program provides the prerequisites needed to apply to graduate programs in a number of allied health careers. These include, but are not limited to, athletic training, physical therapy, occupational therapy, exercise science, and nutrition.

Athletic Training Education Program (ATEP):

As well as the general LMU entrance requirements, there are additional standards for continuation and completion of the ATEP. Each student will be reviewed in five areas: 1) collegiate academic performance, 2) personal and professional recommendations, 3) written communications, 4) oral communications, and 5) practical experiences. Each student in the ATEP will commit to a minimum of four semesters of clinical experiences. Those in the ATEP will be progressively rotated through a variety of clinical settings to learn and perfect the needed knowledge and skills.

Those students interested in the Athletic Training Education Program should meet as soon as possible with the Director to plan their academic program.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112; CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113; MATH 104 and 122; NTLS 151, 152, 153, 154, 160, 162, 190, 255; PHYS 253, 254, 255, 256; PSYC 100.

In order to be eligible to take an upper division science course, a student must have a C (2.0) average in the lower division science courses.

Upper Division Requirements:

37 semester hours must be taken in upper division natural science courses which include: NTLS 355, 356, 360, 362, 368, 369, 397, 460, 462, 464, 468, 469, 480, 485, and 497.

A student must have a C (2.0) average in upper division science courses.

One upper division psychology course is required: PSYC 332 or 352.

The proper sequence of the University Core courses should be discussed with the student's advisor. The course sequence in Mathematics depends on the results of the mathematics placement examination.

NTLS 101
Introduction to Environmental Science
3 Semester Hours

Introduction to the study of environmental science. Examination of issues and problems associated with the environment including examples from air, water, and soil pollution and some remediation strategies.

NTLS 151
Human Anatomy and Physiology I
3 Semester Hours

Comprehensive coverage of anatomy and physiology for the pre-health professions major. Topics include homeostasis and integumentary, skeletal, muscular, nervous, and endocrine systems.

Lecture, 3 hours.

NTLS 152
Human Anatomy and Physiology I Lab
1 Semester Hour

Companion lab course to NTLS 151.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: NTLS 151 or concurrent enrollment.

NTLS 153
Human Anatomy and Physiology II
3 Semester Hours

Continuation of comprehensive coverage of anatomy and physiology for the pre-health professions major. Topics include blood, cardiovascular, lymphatic, immune, respiratory, digestive, urinary, and reproductive systems.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: NTLS 151 and 152.

NTLS 154Human Anatomy and Physiology II Lab1 Semester Hour*

Companion lab course to NTLS 153.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: NTLS 153 or concurrent enrollment.

NTLS 160Principles of Athletic Training3 Semester Hours*

Provides knowledge in basic athletic training skills. Instruction and experience in prevention and care of athletic injuries. Recognition of athletic injuries and methods of taping, bracing, and therapy will be addressed. Standard nomenclature of athletic injuries will be introduced.

Lecture, 3 hours.

NTLS 162First Aid and Emergency Response2 Semester Hours*

An advanced first aid course addressing responses to life-threatening emergencies. Injuries examined include those to the head, spine, and abdominal/thorax, while illnesses discussed include heat illness, shock, asthma, and diabetes.

Lecture, 2 hours.

NTLS 190Exploring the Natural Sciences1 Semester Hour*

Introduction to the areas of study and career opportunities within the natural sciences.

CR/NC grading only.

College of Science and Engineering majors only.

NTLS 198Special Studies1-4 Semester HoursNTLS 199*Independent Studies1-4 Semester HoursNTLS 250*Introduction to Earth Science3 Semester Hours*

The study of the internal and external structure of the earth. This includes study of rock materials, plate tectonics, geomorphic processes, natural/environmental hazards, natural mineral resources, and dating methods for rocks, minerals, and organic materials.

NTLS 255Nutrition3 Semester Hours*

Nutrition as it relates to the physical well-being and behavior of people and how it affects athletic performance. Topics addressed will include carbohydrates, fats, proteins, vitamins and minerals, dietary supplements, weight gain/weight loss, and water.

Lecture, 3 hours.

NTLS 261The Science in Science Fiction3 Semester Hours*

The physics, chemistry, and biology found in science fiction literature are examined for accuracy and probability. Topics include the physics of space and space habitats, the chemistry and biology of life arising under non-earthlike conditions, and the ecology of imagined worlds. "Engineering" new worlds on the basis of sound scientific theory will be expected. Understanding of physical implications of simple algebraic expressions is required.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 263Surfin' Science3 Semester Hours*

Various basic principles of oceanography, meteorology, and marine biology are explored as applied to the art of surfing. Topics include the genesis, propagation, and dynamics of waves; marine weather systems and surf prediction; marine organisms; and marine pollution issues of concern to surfers.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 264

Survey of Marine Pollution

3 Semester Hours

Information and discussion about marine pollution problems in Southern California. Issues of safe swimming, safe consumption of fish, and protection of marine environment will be examined.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 265

Women in Science and Mathematics: Breaking the Stereotype

3 Semester Hours

A study of the work of prominent women scientists and mathematicians. The course will also examine their lives and how they succeeded in traditionally male disciplines.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 267

The Science and Life of Galileo

3 Semester Hours

A study of the scientific works of Galileo and how they influenced changes in our world view during the 17th century.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 270

Experimenting in Science I

4 Semester Hours

Combination lecture and laboratory course designed to acquaint student with how science is done. Emphasis on active learning strategies such as performing experiments, demonstrations, group discussions. The study of general science principles, such as those typically introduced in K-8 education, in the areas of physical and earth science.

Lecture, 3 hours; Lab, 2 hours.

Liberal Studies majors only.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 271

Experimenting in Science II

4 Semester Hours

Combination lecture and laboratory course designed to acquaint student with how science is done. Emphasis on active learning strategies such as performing experiments, demonstrations, group discussions. The study of general science principles, such as those typically introduced in K-8 education, in the areas of earth science and life science.

Lecture, 3 hours; Lab, 2 hours.

Liberal Studies majors only.

Prerequisite: NTLS 270.

NTLS 272

Technology and the Environment

3 Semester Hours

Scientific principles applied to Environmental Management and Public Health. The historical perspective. Pollution control and planning in the area of water resources, solid and liquid waste management. Radiation and thermonuclear power production, fundamentals of energy.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 273

Earthquakes and Landslides

3 Semester Hours

Examination of the processes that control the genesis and distribution of earthquakes, and review of methods of measuring and predicting earth movements.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 274

Volcanoes—Origins and Processes

3 Semester Hours

Examination of volcanoes, their etiology, world-wide distribution, and evaluation of their impact on local and global ecologies.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 276
Atmospheric Science
3 Semester Hours

The study of general phenomena of weather, including storms, atmospheric disturbances, and possible effects of pollution. This course involves weather forecasting using real-time meteorological data.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 298
Special Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

NTLS 299
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

NTLS 301
Environmental Science
3 Semester Hours

Study of environmental science problems stressing an interdisciplinary approach. Analysis of problem and formulation of remediation strategies considering appropriate principles from biology, chemistry, physics, earth science, and engineering.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101 and 102; CHEM 110 and 112.

NTLS 302
Environmental Science Lab I
1 Semester Hour

Use of standard tests in environmental science to determine chemical and biological species of interest in air, water, and soil systems.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: NTLS 301 or concurrent enrollment.

NTLS 310
Oceanography
3 Semester Hours

The basic concepts of physical and biological oceanography will be presented.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112; CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113.

NTLS 320
Science, Theology, and the Future
3 Semester Hours

A look at scientific discoveries, advances, and knowledge will be presented. The implications of the findings in science on theological questions and our world view will be explored.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102, 111, 112; CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113.

NTLS 330
Environmental Chemistry
3 Semester Hours

A study of environmental chemistry. Topics include stratospheric chemistry, the chemistry of ground-level air and air pollution, toxic organic chemicals, the chemistry of natural waters, soil chemistry and heavy metals, energy production and the environment.

Prerequisites: CHEM 112 and 113.

NTLS 332
Environmental Science Lab II
1 Semester Hour

Use of standard methods of analysis to determine pollutants found in air, water, and soil systems. Emphasis will be on the use of instrumental methods and techniques.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: BIOL 101 and 102; CHEM 110 and 112.

NTLS 355
Exercise Physiology
3 Semester Hours

In-depth examination of the biochemical, cellular, and organ system functions and adaptations associated with physical fitness and athletic conditioning.

Prerequisites: NTLS 153 and 154.

NTLS 356
Exercise Physiology Lab
1 Semester Hour

Companion lab course to NTLS 355.

Laboratory, 4 hours.

Prerequisite: NTLS 355 or concurrent enrollment.

NTLS 360

Upper Extremity Evaluation

3 Semester Hours

In-depth instruction on anatomy and functional abilities of the upper extremity. Emphasis on the assessment techniques for recognizing and evaluating athletic-related injuries. Additional concentration on the cervical region and postural issues of the spine will be addressed.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: NTLS 151 and 152 or concurrent enrollment.

NTLS 362

Lower Extremity Evaluation

3 Semester Hours

In-depth instruction on anatomy and functional abilities of the lower extremity. Emphasis on the assessment techniques for recognizing and evaluating athletic-related injuries. Additional concentration on the thoracic, lumbar, and sacral regions of the spine and gait analysis will be addressed.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: NTLS 153 and 154 or concurrent enrollment.

NTLS 367

The Science and Life of Galileo

3 Semester Hours

A study of the scientific works of Galileo and how they influenced changes in our world view during the 17th century.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

NTLS 368

Athletic Training Practicum I

1 Semester Hour

Supervised experience in an athletic training environment. Additional study required with an emphasis on athletic training techniques and athletic injury management. An athletic training environment consists of any of the following sites: LMU athletic training room; local high school, college or university athletic training room; physical therapy clinic; or related health care facility.

Prerequisite: NTLS 160 or 360.

NTLS 369

Athletic Training Practicum II

1 Semester Hour

Supervised experience in an athletic training environment. Additional study required with an emphasis on athletic training techniques and athletic injury management. An athletic training environment consists of any of the following sites: LMU athletic training room; local high school, college or university athletic training room; physical therapy clinic; or related health care facility.

Prerequisite: NTLS 368.

NTLS 375

Genetics

3 Semester Hours

A study of Mendelian and molecular genetics.

Prerequisite: BIOL 201.

NTLS 391

Science Education Internship

1-4 Semester Hours

Work on a project in science education either in the elementary school or secondary school setting or at another appropriate location.

NTLS 393

Environmental Science Internship

1-4 Semester Hours

Work experience in the field of environmental science on a research, industry, or community-based project.

NTLS 395

Physical Therapy Internship

1-4 Semester Hours

Work experience in physical therapy at a private facility, hospital, or athletic training facility.

NTLS 396

Occupational Therapy Internship

1-4 Semester Hours

Work experience in occupational therapy at a private facility or hospital.

NTLS 397Athletic Training Internship I4 Semester Hours*

Supervised experience in an athletic training environment. Additional study required with an emphasis on athletic training techniques and athletic injury management. Emphasis on sport assignment and the daily working experience and duties associated with each respective team. An athletic training environment consists of any of the following sites: LMU athletic training room; local high school, college or university athletic training room; physical therapy clinic; or related health care facility.

Prerequisite: NTLS 468.

NTLS 398Special Studies1-4 Semester HoursNTLS 399*Independent Studies1-4 Semester HoursNTLS 401*Senior Seminar/Project3 Semester Hours*

Research work on a project within the field of environmental science including presentation of a seminar over work.

NTLS 460Therapeutic Modalities in Sports Medicine3 Semester Hours*

Provides information regarding the physics and physiological effects of athletic training modalities. Gain understanding of the inflammatory process and pain management in relation to athletic injuries. Includes the physiological reactions, contraindications, and indications to such modalities as heat, cold, electricity, ultrasound, water, and massage. Instruction on proper use and application of specific modalities.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: NTLS 153 and 154.

NTLS 462Therapeutic Rehabilitation in Sports Medicine3 Semester Hours*

Instruction on how to design, implement, and supervise rehabilitation programs for sports-related injuries and conditions. Theoretical and clinical bases for the use of therapeutic exercises, basic biomechanics, indications, contraindications, and proper application of exercises in therapeutic rehabilitation.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: NTLS 153 and 154.

NTLS 464Administration in Sports Medicine3 Semester Hours*

Addresses organization and administration of athletic training programs both in athletic training rooms and clinical sites. Areas such as building a facility, legal issues, staffing, budgeting, insurance, computer use, record keeping, emergency care planning, and public relations will be discussed. Pharmacological issues as they pertain to athletic performance will be addressed.

Lecture, 3 hours.

NTLS 468Athletic Training Practicum III1 Semester Hour*

Supervised experience in an athletic training environment. Additional study required with an emphasis on athletic training techniques and athletic injury management. An athletic training environment consists of any of the following sites: LMU athletic training room; local high school, college or university athletic training room; physical therapy clinic; or related health care facility.

Prerequisite: NTLS 369.

NTLS 469Senior Seminar in Athletic Training1 Semester Hour*

Preparation for the National Athletic Trainers' Association Board of Certification Exam. Attention will be focused on a review of the NATA Athletic Training Educational Competencies.

Lecture, 1 hour.

Prerequisite: NTLS 397.

Corequisite: NTLS 497.

NTLS 480

Kinesiology

3 Semester Hours

Analysis of the physics, anatomy, physiology, and psychology of movement mechanics and behavior.

Prerequisites: NTLS 153 and 154.

NTLS 485

Biomechanics

3 Semester Hours

Identification of muscle action as related to the body's mechanics. Understanding basic mechanical principles as they apply to human movement.

Prerequisite: NTLS 480.

NTLS 490

Natural Science Teaching

1-2 Semester Hours

Guided teaching of undergraduate laboratories.

May be repeated for credit.

Requires consent of Director.

NTLS 491

Science Education Internship

1-4 Semester Hours

Work on a project in science education either in the elementary school or secondary school setting or at another appropriate location.

NTLS 493

Environmental Science Internship

1-4 Semester Hours

Work experience in the field of environmental science in a research, industry, or municipal setting.

NTLS 495

Physical Therapy Internship

1-4 Semester Hours

Work experience in physical therapy at a private facility, hospital, or athletic training facility.

NTLS 496

Occupational Therapy Internship

1-4 Semester Hours

Work experience in occupational therapy at a private facility or hospital.

NTLS 497

Athletic Training Internship II

4 Semester Hours

Supervised experience in an athletic training environment. Additional study required with an emphasis on athletic training techniques and athletic injury management. Emphasis on sport assignment and the daily working experience and duties associated with each respective team. An athletic training environment consists of any of the following sites: LMU athletic training room; local high school, college or university athletic training room; physical therapy clinic; or related health care facility.

Prerequisite: NTLS 397.

NTLS 498

Special Studies

1-4 Semester Hours

NTLS 499

Independent Studies

1-4 Semester Hours

NTLS 510

Chemistry for Environmental Engineers

2 Semester Hours

Review of inorganic chemistry with particular emphasis on solution equilibrium and gas-solid solution interaction.

Prerequisite: CHEM 110.

NTLS 512

Air Pollution Analysis

2 Semester Hours

Detailed analysis of emission sources, emission calculation methods, and air pollution controls. The dispersion of air pollutants in the atmosphere (fates and lifetimes, dispersion modeling methods). In-depth techniques of conducting risk assessments due to exposure to air pollutants.

NTLS 513

Solid Wastes Engineering

2 Semester Hours

An application of current technology in the control, disposal, and recovery of value from solid wastes.

NTLS 531Principles of Water Quality2 Semester Hours*

Review of basic parameters used to describe water quality. Fundamentals of aquatic interaction in natural systems and fate of pollutants in the natural environments. Basic water and wastewater treatment systems.

Prerequisite: Consent of Director.

NTLS 534Groundwater Management2 Semester Hours*

Management of groundwater basins for optimum yield, quality, and environmental consideration, artificial recharge, methods of exploration, groundwater models, water rights, and conjunctive use of surface and groundwater.

NTLS 548Hazardous Substances Management2 Semester Hours*

The study of regulation and management strategies for environment programs (hazardous substances), including hazardous waste, asbestos, underground tanks, air pollution, and the California Environmental Quality Act.

NTLS 591Science Education Internship1-4 Semester Hours*

Work on a project in science education either in the elementary school or secondary school setting or at another appropriate location.

NTLS 593Environmental Science Internship Workshop1-4 Semester Hours*

Advanced work experience in the field of environmental science in a research, industry, or municipal setting.

Adjunct Professors: James McCarthy, A. Saleh-Jahromi

Physics

Objectives:

The B.S. Physics degree provides a solid foundation in classical and modern physics. This program is well suited for the student who wishes to continue the study of physics at the graduate level, leading to a career in research and/or university teaching. With a proper choice of electives, the physics degree is also suitable for a variety of other careers requiring graduate education. Physics graduates can pursue advanced studies in fields such as optics, biophysics, geophysics and space science, nuclear engineering, business management, or law. Some physics majors choose electives that prepare them for medical school. Physics graduates can also select immediate employment in a number of areas, including high school teaching and various areas of industrial science and technology. Because of the flexibility of the physics major, with its numerous electives, it is possible to double major in physics and some other discipline. Examples of double degrees that can be completed in four years are physics and math, or physics and chemistry. Each of these double majors is very powerful, in that it develops the ability to solve problems that require a knowledge of two separate disciplines.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

CHEM 110, 111, 112, 113; CMSI 185; MATH 131, 132, 234, 245; PHYS 101, 103, 190, 201, 203, 202, 204, 212. Each course in MATH and PHYS listed above must be passed with a grade of C (2.0) or better.

Upper Division Requirements:

MATH 355 and one from MATH 350, 357 or 360; PHYS 301, 302, 321, 322, 411, 412, 421, 441, 451. To graduate, a student must have at least a 2.0 average in all upper division physics courses.

Minor Requirements:

21 semester hours with at least 6 semester hours in upper division courses. These shall include PHYS 101, 103, 201, 202, 203, 204, or PHYS 253, 254, 255, 256.

A grade of C (2.0) is required for every course included in the minor.

Engineering Physics

Objectives:

The B.S. Engineering Physics degree provides extensive education in engineering as well as physics. The curriculum combines the strengths of a physics curriculum (with emphasis on understanding basic principles) and an engineering curriculum (with emphasis on applications). Graduates are especially well prepared for either graduate work in engineering or applied physics or for immediate employment by companies with an engineering research orientation. With the right electives, the curriculum provides excellent preparation for graduate work in biomedical engineering.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division:

CHEM 110, 111; ELEC 232, 281; ENGR 100, 140, 200, 240; MATH 131, 132, 234, 245; PHYS 101, 103, 190, 201, 202, 203, 204, 212.

Each course in MATH and PHYS listed above must be passed with a grade of C (2.0) or better.

Upper Division:

ELEC 301, 353, 354; MATH 355; PHYS 301, 302, 321, 322, 412, 421, 441. Students must also take a two-course sequence in a technical area. Among the options are: ELEC 302 and ELEC 383; MECH 353 and PHYS 451; ELEC 371 and ELEC 423. To graduate, a student must have at least a 2.0 average in all upper division physics courses.

PHYS 101
Introduction to Mechanics
4 Semester Hours

Vectors, Newton's laws of motion, work and energy, impulse and momentum, rotation, angular momentum, static equilibrium, harmonic motion.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Corequisites: MATH 131 and PHYS 103.

PHYS 103
Introduction to Mechanics Lab
0 Semester Hours

Laboratory experiments pertaining to mechanics. Measurement, estimation, and uncertainty. Projectile motion, Newton's laws, friction, torque.

Laboratory, 2 hours.

Corequisite: PHYS 101.

PHYS 150
Fundamental Ideas of Physics
4 Semester Hours

Discussions and experiments on selected topics such as motion, electricity and magnetism, heat, sound, and light.

Liberal Studies majors only.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 1 hour.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

PHYS 151
Physical Science
4 Semester Hours

An introduction to the physical sciences, including physics, chemistry, astronomy, and geology, with an emphasis on conceptual understanding.

Lecture, 3 hours; Laboratory, 2 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

PHYS 190
Workshop in Physics
1 Semester Hour

Problem-solving skills. Fields of study and recent advances in physics. Career opportunities in physics.

Lecture, 1 hour.

PHYS 198

1-4 Semester Hours

PHYS 199
Independent Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

PHYS 201
Introduction to Electricity and Magnetism
4 Semester Hours

Electrostatics. Current, resistance, and D.C. circuits. Magnetism. Induced electromotive force. Electric and magnetic properties of matter. Maxwell's equations.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: PHYS 101 and 103.

Corequisites: MATH 132 and PHYS 203.

PHYS 202
Introduction to Thermodynamics and Optics
4 Semester Hours

Elastic waves. The laws of thermodynamics, kinetic theory of gases. Electromagnetic waves. Geometrical and wave optics. Special Relativity.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: PHYS 101 and 103.

Corequisites: MATH 132 and PHYS 204.

PHYS 203

Introduction to Electricity and Magnetism Laboratory
0 Semester Hours

Laboratory experiments pertaining to electricity and magnetism. Coulomb's Law, static electricity, electric field plotting, circuits, charge/mass ratio for electron.

Laboratory, 2 hours.

Corequisite: PHYS 201.

PHYS 204

Thermodynamics and Optics Laboratory
0 Semester Hours

Laboratory experiments pertaining to thermodynamics and optics. Thermal expansion of solids, specific heat, mechanical equivalent of heat, ray tracing, spherical mirrors, thin lenses, optical model of the human eye, diffraction.

Laboratory, 2 hours.

Corequisite: PHYS 202.

PHYS 212

Intermediate Mechanics
3 Semester Hours

Kinematics and dynamics of single and multiparticle systems. Rigid bodies. Accelerating coordinate systems. Continuous media. Small vibrations.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: PHYS 101 and 103.

Corequisite: MATH 245.

PHYS 253

General Physics I
5 Semester Hours

Vectors. Kinematics. Newton's laws of motion, energy, momentum, rotational motion, and harmonic motion. Fluid mechanics. Heat and thermodynamics.

Lecture, 4 hours.

Corequisites: MATH 122 or 131 and PHYS 255.

PHYS 254

General Physics II
5 Semester Hours

Electrostatics. Magnetism. Current, D.C. circuits. Electromagnetic waves. Geometrical and wave optics. Relativity. Nuclear physics.

Lecture, 4 hours.

Prerequisites: PHYS 253 and 255.

Corequisite: PHYS 256.

NOTE: The PHYS 253-256 series is suitable for biology and chemistry majors and others desiring a college-level experience in physics. This series is not acceptable for credit in the physics or engineering programs.

PHYS 255

General Physics I Laboratory

Laboratory experiments pertaining to mechanics, thermodynamics, and fluid mechanics.

Laboratory, 2 hours.

Corequisite: PHYS 253.

PHYS 256

General Physics II Laboratory
0 Semester Hours

Laboratory experiments pertaining to electricity, magnetism, and optics.

Laboratory, 2 hours.

Corequisite: PHYS 254.

PHYS 271

Astronomy
3 Semester Hours

Understanding the universe. Topics include: history of astronomy, solar system, stars, galaxies, evolution of the universe.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

PHYS 272Physics3 Semester Hours*

An introduction to basic principles of physics. History of the development of physical theories, and the effects of science and technology on the world.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

PHYS 278Physics for Poets3 Semester Hours*

Principles of physics with an emphasis on conceptual understanding. Physics as a human activity.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: MATH 101, 102, or 104, or placement into MATH 106 or higher.

PHYS 298Special Studies1-4 Semester HoursPHYS 299*Independent Studies1-4 Semester Hours*

PHYS 301Electromagnetic Fields3 Semester Hours*

Electric and magnetic fields. Dielectric materials. Poisson's equation. Boundary value problems. Field energy. Vector potential.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: PHYS 201 and 203.

Corequisite: MATH 355.

PHYS 302Electromagnetic Waves3 Semester Hours*

Faraday's law. Maxwell's equations. Plane waves in dielectrics and conductors. Sources of radiation, Lienard-Wiechert potentials. Special Relativity.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: PHYS 301.

PHYS 321Quantum Physics I3 Semester Hours*

Historical foundation for quantum theory. Schrodinger equation and solutions. Operators. Angular momentum. Hydrogen atom.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: PHYS 202 and 204.

Corequisite: MATH 355.

PHYS 322Quantum Physics II3 Semester Hours*

Perturbation theory. Electron spin. Multi-electron atoms and their spectra.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: PHYS 321.

PHYS 361Astrophysics3 Semester Hours*

Orbital mechanics, the solar system, electromagnetic radiation and matter, stellar properties, Milky Way Galaxy, cosmology.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisites: PHYS 101, 201, and 202; or PHYS 253 and 254 and MATH 123 or 132.

PHYS 371Biophysics3 Semester Hours*

Application of physical laws to biological structure and function: biomechanics, circulatory system, hearing and vision, radiation.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: PHYS 201 or 254.

PHYS 398Special Studies1-4 Semester Hours*

PHYS 399Independent Studies1-4 Semester Hours*

PHYS 411
Modern Physics Lab I
2 Semester Hours

Project experiments in physical optics, optical spectroscopy, and experiments using digital imaging arrays. Theoretical interpretation and statistical analysis are emphasized.

Lecture, 1 hour; Laboratory, 3 hours.

Corequisite: PHYS 321.

PHYS 412
Modern Physics Lab II
2 Semester Hours

Project experiments in various areas of modern physics, including measurement of electron charge, spin, Hall effect, Rutherford scattering, and T_c of a superconductor. Theoretical interpretation and statistical analysis are emphasized.

Lecture, 1 hour; Laboratory, 3 hours.

Corequisites: PHYS 322 and 441.

PHYS 421
Solid State Physics
3 Semester Hours

Crystal structure, elastic properties of solids. Free electron Fermi gas. Energy band structure. Semiconductors, superconductivity.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: PHYS 321.

PHYS 441
Modern Optics
3 Semester Hours

Review of electromagnetic theory. Applied geometrical optics. Fourier analysis, polarization, interference and diffraction, coherence theory, lasers, and holography.

Lecture, 3 hours; occasional laboratory work.

Corequisite: PHYS 302.

PHYS 451
Thermodynamics and Statistical Mechanics
3 Semester Hours

Classical thermodynamics, applications to simple systems. Kinetic theory and the approach to equilibrium. Classical statistical mechanics. Quantum statistics.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: PHYS 322.

PHYS 461
Elementary Particles
3 Semester Hours

Historical introduction. Symmetries and conservation laws. Feynman diagrams and rules. Quantum electrodynamics. The parton model. Quantum chromodynamics. Weak interactions and electroweak unification. Gauge theories and the Standard Model.

Lecture, 3 hours.

Prerequisite: PHYS 322.

PHYS 490
Physics Teaching
1-2 Semester Hours

Guided teaching of introductory physics.

May be repeated for credit.

Requires consent of instructor.

PHYS 493
Physics/Engineering Physics Internship
1-3 Semester Hours

Research/development work conducted in a local government or industrial laboratory. The project may be theoretical or experimental and is jointly supervised by on-site staff and LMU faculty.

PHYS 498
Special Studies
1-4 Semester Hours

PHYS 499
Independent Studies

Mission Statement

In accordance with the Mission of Loyola Marymount University, the faculty, staff, and students of the School of Education understand and declare our purpose to be the encouragement of life-long learning and academic excellence, the education of the whole person, and the promotion of service and justice for all. We commit ourselves to serving public and private education by fostering excellence inspired by the Marymount and Jesuit traditions of Catholic education.

Goal Statement

The faculty, staff, and students of the School of Education strive to work collaboratively in a student-centered environment to be professionals who act to:

- Value and respect all individuals
We believe in the worth of each individual. We affirm the inherent dignity and value of each person as a child of God. Therefore, we believe that all individuals have the potential to be successful learners with unique characteristics and experiences that bring positive value and meaning to the learning experience.
- Promote social justice
We recognize the existence of social inequity, marginalization, and the different faces of oppression, and we commit ourselves to work actively for the establishment of a just and equitable society. While it is important to understand critically the structures, practices, and discourses that cause and perpetuate injustice, we also aim to nurture transformative structures, practices, and discourses that actively promote greater equity. This commitment challenges us to think with a global perspective, to embrace the notion of a preferential option for the poor, and to act with a conviction of equity.

- Promote cultural responsiveness
We recognize diversity as a strength, and we commit ourselves personally and professionally to serve culturally and linguistically diverse populations. These populations include those who represent cultural diversity broadly defined, including race, ethnicity, socio-economic status, gender, religion, sexual orientation, ability, and age. Among other valuable theories and approaches, we utilize sociocultural and constructivist perspectives in teaching and learning. We value these and other perspectives that promote active participation in learning as well as meaningful and authentic instruction and assessment and emphasize students' cultural and linguistic background experiences.
 - Integrate theory and practice
We strive to unite theory and practice in a reciprocal relationship that mutually informs each other. We are a community of reflective practitioners, guided by critical inquiry and social responsibility. We actively engage in educational research, including faculty/student collaboration. We affirm the use of technology in education as authentic, meaningful, and accessible to all learners.
 - Develop moral, intellectual, responsible, and caring leaders
We are committed to the preparation of educators who will be leaders in the field and who reflect high standards of ethics and values. We seek to be, and to encourage others to be, women and men who have the intellectual skills to critically evaluate educational issues, have the moral conviction to respond as agents of change, and exhibit an ethic of care in the service of others.

- Collaborate and share leadership across communities

We believe in the value of working collaboratively with the districts, schools, parents, and students of the communities we serve to successfully educate all learners. We recognize, support, and promote the gifts and talents of community members and encourage their participation in decision-making processes.

Statement of Professional Dispositions

The National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) requires the LMU School of Education to assess the professional dispositions of education credential and degree candidates. According to NCATE, professional dispositions are “The values, commitments, and professional ethics that influence behavior toward students, families, colleagues, and communities and affect student learning, motivation, and development as the educator’s own professional growth. Dispositions are guided by beliefs and attitudes related to values such as caring, fairness, honesty, responsibility, and social justice.” Throughout a candidate’s program, the faculty will assess the School of Education Unit and Program Professional Dispositions, and failure to meet professional expectations may result in a remediation process for the candidate. In extreme cases, failure to meet professional expectations could warrant dismissal from an education program. The School of Education holds four Unit Dispositions that shape the professional expectations for all candidates: “We strive to be, and to educate professionals to be, educators who: Respect and value all individuals and communities; Educate by integrating theory and practice; Advocate for access to a socially just education; and Lead in order to facilitate transformation.”

Teacher Education Division

THE NEW 2042 MULTIPLE AND SINGLE SUBJECT CREDENTIAL: The California Commission on Teacher Credentialing created new standards that govern the issuance of multiple and single subject credentials based on California Senate Bill 2042. This new credential is referred to as the “2042 Credential.” In January 2003, Loyola Marymount University received approval to prepare candidates for the new 2042 credential. The program described in this section is the new preliminary 2042 credential. All students admitted to Loyola Marymount University (as either first year students or transfer students) and enrolled in classes for the 2003-2004 academic year who would like to be recommended for a multiple or single subject credential will have to meet the requirements of the 2042 credential. Since sophomore status is a requirement for taking Education courses, the School of Education will offer the new 2042 courses for undergraduate students starting in the 2004-2005 academic year.

Students enrolled in classes at Loyola Marymount University prior to the 2003 Summer term (even if they have not been admitted to the School of Education) are still governed by the standards of the Crosscultural Language and Academic Development (CLAD) or Bilingual (BCLAD Spanish) credential. However, all candidates in the CLAD program or pre-2042 BCLAD program must COMPLETE ALL program requirements AND APPLY for a teaching credential by December 1, 2008. For more information or clarification, students in the CLAD or pre-2042 BCLAD program should refer to the Bulletin of the year they were accepted into LMU or consult with the appropriate faculty member in the School of Education.

EDUCATION SPECIALIST AND BILINGUAL (SPANISH) CREDENTIAL: In addition to the new multiple and single subject 2042 credential, the Teacher Education Division offers the education specialist credential: Mild/Moderate Disabilities Level I and Level II. The Bilingual Crosscultural Language and Academic Development (BCLAD) credential (Spanish emphasis) is also available.

Teaching credential requirements are governed by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing and are subject to change.

Elementary Education:

The 2042 Multiple Subject Preliminary Credential program is designed for students who are seeking teaching positions in grades K-5 or any self-contained classrooms in grades 6-8.

Coordinator: Irene Oliver

Assistant Coordinator: Candace Poindexter

Acceptance into the undergraduate 2042 multiple subject (elementary) teaching credential program is accomplished by completing and submitting the following to the School of Education:

1. MANDATORY INFORMATION MEETING: Informational meetings are held monthly at the University. Attendance at one of these meetings is required to obtain appropriate forms, instructions, and further information. Further assistance in filing paperwork may also be obtained from the School of Education office. Students should apply for admission into the School of Education during the semester that they are completing the last prerequisite course.
 2. APPLICATION FORM: All students must complete an application form. This form is available in the School of Education.
 3. MINIMUM GPA OF 2.8: A minimum GPA of 2.8 is required for admission to a teaching credential program. Students who do not meet this requirement may be admitted on probation after they have applied to the Exceptions Committee. Students must submit official transcripts from all colleges/universities attended outside of Loyola Marymount University. At the conclusion of the program, all students must request an official Loyola Marymount University transcript.
 4. PREREQUISITE COURSES: Complete prerequisite courses with a grade "B" or better. Students who do not meet this requirement may be admitted on probation upon review by the admissions committee. Students will not be allowed to take other courses beyond the prerequisites without formal admission into the School of Education. Prerequisite courses are available only to sophomores (30 semester hours earned) or higher.
 5. CBEST SCORE REPORT: The California Basic Educational Skills Test (CBEST) must be passed prior to admission. An original score report must be submitted to the School of Education. Registration booklets are available in the School of Education.
 6. SUBJECT MATTER COMPETENCY: Students must demonstrate mastery of the required subject matter by passing the appropriate subject matter exam (CSET). Results of subject matter examinations are valid for only five years. A student must apply for a teaching credential prior to the expiration of the results of the subject matter examinations.
 7. OBSERVATION/VOLUNTEER HOURS: All students must present acceptable evidence of at least 60 hours experience with culturally diverse youth groups at the 4-13 year age level.
 8. RECOMMENDATION FORMS: Four recommendation forms (one of which must be from the student's major advisor) must be submitted. These forms are included in the application packet.
 9. CERTIFICATE OF CLEARANCE AND VIOLATION AFFIDAVIT: An application for fingerprint clearance must be submitted prior to acceptance into the program. Fingerprint applications are available in the School of Education, and there are additional fees associated with the application that are submitted to the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing. Clear instructions are provided in the application packet. After receiving the Certificate of Clearance, all students will be asked to complete a Violation Affidavit prior to enrolling in student teaching.
 10. TUBERCULIN TEST: California regulations require all students to submit an original copy of results of a tuberculin skin test given within the last year.
 11. U.S. CONSTITUTION REQUIREMENT: All students must demonstrate knowledge of the United States Constitution by completing an approved course or passing an approved examination. At Loyola Marymount University, approved U.S. Constitution courses are HIST 161, 162; POLS 130, 135. Students who may have taken an approved course from another institution should ask the admissions office of the School of Education to evaluate the course for equivalency.
 12. BASIC COMPUTER SKILLS: All students must be able to show evidence of knowledge of basic computer skills. Students may take EDUX 841 (a one-unit course) through LMU Extension or an equivalent course at another institution. Students can also provide documentation of knowledge of basic computer skills by having an employer or professor complete a verification form. Students may also pass a test (additional fee required) administered by the School of Education. More information on this requirement is available in the School of Education.

13. HEALTH EDUCATION FOR EDUCATORS: All students must take a course on Health Education appropriate for future teachers. The course must meet the 2042 credential standards. At Loyola Marymount University, students may take EDUX 842 through LMU Extension. If a student fulfills this requirement at another institution, it is strongly recommended that the student obtain approval from the School of Education prior to taking the class. Official transcripts should be provided as evidence of completion of the course.
14. INTERVIEW WITH A FACULTY ADVISOR: When all application materials have been completed, students must interview with a faculty advisor of the Elementary Education Program.

REVIEW BY ADMISSION COMMITTEE: After all the steps outlined above have been completed, the candidate's file will be submitted to the Teacher Admission and Advisory Committee (TAAC) for review. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all items have been received. The committee may accept, defer, or deny admission. Students will be notified of the committee's decision in writing.

APPLICATION DEADLINES: Application deadlines are as follows: July 15 for the Fall semester, November 15 for the Spring semester, and March 15 for the Summer Session.

All documents become the property of the University and will not be released to any person or institution.

Requirements for the Preliminary 2042 Multiple Subject (Elementary) CLAD or BCLAD Teaching Credential:

- I. BASIC SKILLS TEST: All students must pass the California Basic Educational Skills Test (completed during the admission process).
- II. CERTIFICATE OF CLEARANCE AND VIOLATION AFFIDAVIT: All students must obtain a Certificate of Clearance issued by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (application submitted during the admission process).
- III. U.S. CONSTITUTION REQUIREMENT: All students must demonstrate knowledge of the United States Constitution by completing an approved course or passing an approved examination (completed during the admission process).

IV. BASIC COMPUTER SKILLS FOR EDUCATORS: All students must be able to show evidence of knowledge of basic computer skills (completed during the admission process).

V. HEALTH EDUCATION COURSE: All students must take a course on Health Education appropriate for future teachers (completed during the admission process).

VI. PREREQUISITE COURSES:

EDUC 400	Sociocultural Analysis of Education
EDUC 401	Educational Psychology for the Childhood and Adolescent Years
EDUC 414	Theories of Second Language Acquisition
EDUC 440	Education of Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Students with Exceptional Needs

Initial Assessment: Upon completion of initial coursework, each candidate will be assessed in terms of performance in classes, fieldwork, standards, required testing, and professional dispositions. The Teacher Admission and Advisory Committee (TAAC) will conduct the review.

VII. PROFESSIONAL COURSEWORK: (Suggested Sequence)

EDUC 409	Literacy in the Curriculum
EDUC 425	ELD Methods and SDAIE
EDUC 434	Elementary Curriculum and Methods

Pre-fieldwork Assessment: Before student teaching or the final assessment course, each candidate will be assessed in terms of performance in classes, fieldwork, standards, required testing, readiness for final fieldwork, and professional dispositions. The Teacher Admission and Advisory Committee (TAAC) will conduct the review.

VIII. TEACHING PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENT: All students must complete and pass the four tasks of the Teaching Performance Assessment. Each course listed below is 0 units and must be completed at specific times during the program. Please consult your program advisor for more information on the Teaching Performance Assessment.

EDUC 461	Teaching Performance Assessment Task 1
EDUC 462	Teaching Performance Assessment Task 2
EDUC 463	Teaching Performance Assessment Task 3
EDUC 464	Teaching Performance Assessment Task 4

- IX. STUDENT TEACHING: Students can only be admitted to student teaching after all admission and course requirements are completed. Students are not allowed to enroll in student teaching if they have a grade of "I" (Incomplete) in any courses.

EDUC 410 Elementary Directed Teaching (9 Semester Hours)

- X. BACHELOR'S DEGREE: Students must submit an official transcript from Loyola Marymount University once the degree is posted.
- XI. READING INSTRUCTION COMPETENCE ASSESSMENT (RICA): All candidates for the multiple subjects program are required to pass the RICA. Students must NOT attempt to take this test until after they have completed EDUC 409 (Literacy in the Curriculum).
- XII. APPLICATION FOR A CREDENTIAL: When all requirements have been completed, a student must complete an application for a credential through the School of Education to the Commission on Teacher Credentialing, State of California (additional fee required).

2042 Professional Clear Multiple Subject Teaching Credential:

A student has five years after obtaining the preliminary credential to complete the requirements for the professional clear credential. Under the 2042 standards, candidates must complete an approved INDUCTION program through a school district or university.

Secondary Education:

The Single Subject Credential program is designed for students who are seeking teaching positions in grades 9-12, or in 6-8 school settings that require teachers to teach in settings that are departmentalized. The program leads towards the 2042 Preliminary Teaching Credential granted by the State of California Commission on Teacher Credentialing.

Coordinator: Edmundo F. Litton

Acceptance into the 2042 preliminary single subject (secondary) teaching credential program is accomplished by completing and submitting the following items to the School of Education:

1. MANDATORY INFORMATION MEETING: Informational meetings are held monthly at the University. Attendance at one of these meetings is required to obtain appropriate forms, instructions, and further information. Further assistance in filing paperwork may also be obtained from the School of Education office. Students should apply for admission into the School of Education during the semester that they are completing the last prerequisite course.
 2. APPLICATION FORM: All students must complete an application form. This form is available in the School of Education.
 3. MINIMUM GPA OF 2.8: A minimum GPA of 2.8 is required for admission to a teaching credential program. Students who do not meet this requirement may be admitted on probation after they have applied to the Exceptions Committee. Students must submit official transcripts from all colleges/universities attended outside of Loyola Marymount University. At the conclusion of the program, all students must request an official Loyola Marymount University transcript.
 4. PREREQUISITE COURSES: Complete prerequisite courses with a grade "B" or better. Students who do not meet this requirement may be admitted on probation upon review by the admissions committee. Students will not be allowed to take other courses beyond the prerequisites without formal admission into the School of Education. Prerequisite courses are available only to sophomores (30 semester hours earned) or higher.
 5. CBEST SCORE REPORT: The California Basic Educational Skills Test (CBEST) must be passed prior to admission. An original score report must be submitted to the School of Education. Registration booklets are available in the School of Education.

6. SUBJECT MATTER COMPETENCY: Students must present evidence for a plan for demonstrating mastery of the required subject matter. Students may either submit evidence of registration for the approved subject matter examination or a letter from the program coordinator of an approved subject matter program. At the time of this publication, Loyola Marymount University has approved subject matter programs for single subject candidates in Math, English, Art, and Spanish. Students should consult the Coordinator for Secondary Education for more information on other approved subject matter programs. Results of subject matter examinations are valid for only five years. A student must apply for a teaching credential prior to the expiration of the results of the subject matter examinations.
 7. OBSERVATION/VOLUNTEER HOURS: All students must present acceptable evidence of at least 60 hours experience with culturally diverse youth groups at the middle or high school level.

 9. CERTIFICATE OF CLEARANCE AND VIOLATION AFFIDAVIT: An application for fingerprint clearance must be submitted prior to acceptance into the program. Fingerprint applications are available in the School of Education, and there is an additional fee submitted to the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing. Clear instructions are provided in the application packet. After receiving the Certificate of Clearance, all students will be asked to complete a Violation Affidavit prior to enrolling in student teaching.
 10. TUBERCULIN TEST: California regulations require all students to submit an original copy of results of a tuberculin skin test given within the last year.
 11. U.S. CONSTITUTION REQUIREMENT: All students must demonstrate knowledge of the United States Constitution by completing an approved course or passing an approved examination. At Loyola Marymount University, approved U.S. Constitution courses are HIST 161, HIST 162, POLS 130, and POLS 135. Students who may have taken an approved course from another institution should ask the School of Education to evaluate the course for equivalency.
 12. BASIC COMPUTER SKILLS: All students must be able to show evidence of knowledge of basic computer skills. Students may take EDUX 841 (a one-unit course) through LMU Extension or an equivalent course at another institution. Students can also provide documentation of knowledge of basic computer skills by having an employer or professor complete a verification form. Students may also pass a test (additional fee required) administered by the School of Education. More information on this requirement is available in the School of Education.
 13. HEALTH EDUCATION FOR EDUCATORS: All students must take a course on Health Education appropriate for future teachers. The course must meet the 2042 credential standards. At Loyola Marymount University, students may take EDUX 842 through LMU Extension. If a student fulfills this requirement at another institution, it is strongly recommended that the student obtain approval from the School of Education prior to taking the class. Official transcripts should be provided as evidence of completion of the course.
 14. INTERVIEW WITH A FACULTY ADVISOR: When all application materials have been completed, students must interview with a faculty advisor of the Secondary Education Program.
- REVIEW BY ADMISSION COMMITTEE: After all the steps outlined above have been completed, the candidate's file will be submitted to the Teacher Admission and Advisory Committee (TAAC) for review. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all items have been received. The committee may accept, defer, or deny admission. Students will be notified of the committee's decision in writing.
- APPLICATION DEADLINES: Application deadlines are as follows: July 15 for the Fall semester, November 15 for the Spring semester, and March 15 for the Summer Session.
- All documents become the property of the University and will not be released to any person or institution.

2042 Professional Clear Single Subject Teaching Credential:

A student has five years after obtaining the preliminary credential in which to complete the requirements for the professional clear credential. Under the 2042 standards, candidates must complete an approved INDUCTION program through a school district or university. At the moment, Loyola Marymount University is creating an induction program, and the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing will review the program in the near future.

Bilingual Education:

Coordinator: Edmundo F. Litton

The Bilingual teaching credential (BCLAD Spanish) emphasis is designed for future teachers who want to conduct classroom instruction in both Spanish and English. The BCLAD component can be added to either a multiple (elementary) or single (secondary) subject teaching credential.

Acceptance into the BCLAD teaching credential program is accomplished by completing and submitting the following items to the School of Education:

1. ALL PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MULTIPLE OR SINGLE SUBJECT CREDENTIAL: BCLAD candidates must complete all the admission requirements outlined in either the Multiple or Single Subject credential program as described in previous sections.
2. MINIMUM LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT: All students must demonstrate minimum communicative competency in Spanish prior to starting the BCLAD program. BCLAD candidates can meet this language requirement by providing an official transcript showing completion of a Spanish major or minor, passing an approved language examination (such as the one offered by LMU's Department of Modern Languages and Literatures), transcript showing extensive schooling in a Spanish-speaking country, or appropriate Peace Corps experience in a Spanish-speaking country.

REVIEW BY ADMISSION COMMITTEE: After all the steps outlined above have been completed, the candidate's file will be submitted to the Teacher Admission and Advisory Committee (TAAC) for review. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all items have been received. The committee may accept, defer, or deny admission. Students will be notified of the committee's decision in writing.

APPLICATION DEADLINES: Application deadlines are as follows: July 15 for the Fall semester, November 15 for the Spring semester, and March 15 for the Summer Session.

All documents become the property of the University and will not be released to any person or institution.

Requirements for the Bilingual (BCLAD Spanish) Teaching Credential (Multiple and Single Subject):

Candidates for the BCLAD credential must complete all the requirements for either the Multiple or Single Subject credential and the following additional requirements:

I. ADDITIONAL BCLAD COURSEWORK:

- | | |
|----------|--|
| EDUC 416 | Methodology for Primary Language Instruction in Bilingual Settings |
| EDUC 420 | Chicano/Latino Cultures: An Interdisciplinary Perspective |

II. BCLAD TEST 6: BCLAD candidates must pass test 6 (Spanish language) of the BCLAD exam prior to enrolling in student teaching. Candidates who are completing or have completed a degree with a Spanish major are exempt from this requirement.Special Education:

Coordinator: Victoria Graf

The Special Education program allows students from a variety of academic backgrounds to pursue a minor in Special Education or the Education Specialist Credential: Mild/Moderate Disabilities. These programs include preparation in the education of culturally and linguistically diverse students with exceptional needs. The Education Specialist Credential: Mild/Moderate Disabilities authorizes candidates to teach students with specific learning disabilities, mental retardation, emotional disturbance, or other health impairments.

Admission Requirements for Mild/Moderate Specialist Credential:

Application for admission into the Mild/Moderate specialist credential, elementary or secondary school-age emphasis, is accomplished by completing and submitting the following to the School of Education:

- 1. MANDATORY INFORMATION MEETING: Informational meetings are held monthly at the University. Attendance at one of these meetings is required to obtain appropriate forms, instructions, and further information. Further assistance in filing paperwork may also be obtained from the School of Education office. Students should apply for admission into the School of Education during the semester that they are completing the last prerequisite course.
 - 2. APPLICATION FORM: All students must complete a Special Education Program application form. This form is available in the School of Education.
 - 3. MINIMUM GPA OF 2.8: A minimum GPA of 2.8 is required for admission to a teaching credential program. Students who do not meet this requirement may be admitted on probation after they have applied to the Exceptions Committee. Students must submit official transcripts from all colleges/universities attended outside of Loyola Marymount University. At the conclusion of the program, all students must request an official Loyola Marymount University transcript.
 - 4. PREREQUISITE COURSES: Complete prerequisite courses with a grade "B" or better. Students who do not meet this requirement may be admitted on probation upon review by the admissions committee. Students will not be allowed to take other courses beyond the

6. SUBJECT MATTER COMPETENCY: Students must demonstrate mastery of the required subject matter by passing the appropriate subject matter exam, or they provide documentation that states that they are completing an approved single subject matter preparation program. Results of subject matter examinations are valid for only five years. A student must apply for a teaching credential prior to the expiration of the results of the subject matter examinations.

Elementary Education Emphasis: Students may either submit evidence of registration for the approved Multiple Subject assessment examination (CSET).

OR

Secondary Education Emphasis: Students may either submit evidence of registration for the approved subject matter examination or a letter from the program coordinator of an approved subject matter program. At the time of this publication, Loyola Marymount University has approved subject matter programs for single subject candidates in Math, English, Art, and Spanish. Students should consult the School of Education for more information on other approved programs.

7. OBSERVATION/VOLUNTEER HOURS: All students must present acceptable evidence of at least 60 hours experience with culturally and linguistically diverse youth groups between the ages of 4-22.
8. RECOMMENDATION FORMS: Four recommendation forms (one of which must be from the student's major advisor) must be submitted. These forms are included in the application packet. Letters of recommendation should indicate the applicant's promise as a teacher in special education programs, particularly with culturally and linguistically diverse students with exceptional needs. All recommendations should be on appropriate school or business letterhead.

9. TUBERCULIN TEST: California regulations require all students to submit an original copy of results of a tuberculin skin test given within the last year.

10. CERTIFICATE OF CLEARANCE AND VIOLATION AFFIDAVIT: An application for fingerprint clearance must be submitted prior to acceptance into the program. Fingerprint applications are available in the School of Education, and there are additional fees associated with the application that are submitted to the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing. Clear instructions are provided in the application packet. After receiving the Certificate of Clearance, all students will be asked to complete a Violation Affidavit prior to enrolling in student teaching.

11. U.S. CONSTITUTION REQUIREMENT: All students must demonstrate knowledge of the United States Constitution by completing an approved course or passing an approved examination. At Loyola Marymount University, approved U.S. Constitution courses are HIST 161, HIST 162, POLS 130, and POLS 135. Students who may have taken an approved course from another institution should ask the School of Education to evaluate the course for equivalency.

12. BASIC COMPUTER SKILLS: All students must be able to show evidence of knowledge of basic computer skills. Students may take EDUX 841 (a one-unit course) through LMU Extension or take an equivalent course at another institution. Students can also provide documentation of knowledge of basic computer skills by having an employer or professor complete a verification form. Students may also pass a test (additional fee required) administered by the School of Education. More information on this requirement is available in the School of Education.

13. INTERVIEW WITH A FACULTY COORDINATOR: When all application materials have been submitted, students must interview with the Coordinator of the Special Education Program.

REVIEW BY ADMISSION COMMITTEE: After all the steps outlined above have been completed, the candidate's file will be submitted to the Teacher Admission and Advisory Committee (TAAC) for review. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all items have been received. The committee may accept, defer, or deny admission. Students will be notified of the committee's decision in writing.

APPLICATION DEADLINES: Application deadlines are as follows: July 15 for the Fall semester, November 15 for the Spring semester, and March 15 for the Summer Session.

All documents become the property of the University and will not be released to any person or institution.

Course Requirements for the Education Specialist Credential: Mild/Moderate Disabilities—Level I

(Elementary School-Age Emphasis)

This credential program should be started during the student's sophomore year. Students in this program generally major in Liberal Studies (see admission requirement #6). This course focuses on the governmental, political, financial, legal, and historical perspectives of education in the United States. Students are given opportunities to integrate course topics and relate policy initiatives to the welfare of all students in responsible and ethical ways. School governance and management of human and fiscal resources in culturally diverse settings are stressed.

EDUC 436
Creating Collaborative Partnerships
2-3 Semester Hours

This course is designed to prepare candidates to be able to collaborate and communicate effectively with individuals with disabilities and their parents, other family members and primary care givers, school administrators, general and special education teachers, specialists, paraprofessionals, and community agency and related service personnel. The candidate will learn how to work in partnership to be able to design, implement, and evaluate integrated services that reflect transitional stages across life span for all learners.

EDUC 440

Introduction to the Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Student with Exceptional Needs

3 Semester Hours

General survey of exceptionalities affecting normal child development. Causation, diagnosis, treatment, programs, and resources are included. Implications of recent legislation for the disabled will be emphasized.

EDUC 441

Basic Computer Skills for Educators

1 Semester Hour

Learn basic computer skills to increase your productivity and succeed in your teacher preparation program. This is a hands-on introduction to using essential computer programs utilized in teaching and learning. This course will cover operating systems, word processing, e-mail, Internet, electronic databases, spreadsheets, and multimedia presentations. Enrollment is limited to candidates admitted to a degree or credential program in the School of Education.

EDUC 443

Informal Assessment and Individual Education Program (IEP) Development for Students with Exceptional Needs

3 Semester Hours

A survey of strategies for assessing and teaching FEP and LEP students in all areas of exceptionality.

Prerequisite: EDUC 409.

EDUC 444

Observation and Participation in General and Special Education Programs

2-3 Semester Hours

Direct contact experience observing and working with FEP and LEP students in all areas of exceptionality. A minimum of 100 clock hours must be spent with three exceptionalities. Credit/No Credit.

EDUC 452

Psychological and Educational Assessment

3 Semester Hours

Basic concepts of psychological testing, measurement, and evaluation applicable to the rationale, construction, evaluation, use, and interpretation of tests, rating scales, etc.; essential statistics. Practice required.

Prerequisite: Senior class standing.

EDUC 456

Directed Teaching with Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Students with Mild/Moderate Disabilities

9 Semester Hours

Actual teaching experience with culturally and linguistically diverse students with mild/moderate disabilities. Must have completed prerequisite and professional coursework in Special Education and be approved by the Coordinator of Special Education the semester prior to enrolling. Credit/No Credit.

Admission by consent of Coordinator.

EDUC 461

Teaching Performance Assessment 1

0 Semester Hours

Students enrolled in the course will complete Task 1 of the Teaching Performance Assessment.

Admission by consent of Coordinator.

EDUC 462

Teaching Performance Assessment 2

0 Semester Hours

Students enrolled in the course will complete Task 2 of the Teaching Performance Assessment.

Admission by consent of Coordinator.

EDUC 463

Teaching Performance Assessment 3

0 Semester Hours

Students enrolled in the course will complete Task 3 of the Teaching Performance Assessment.

Prerequisites: EDUC 461 and 462.

Concurrent enrollment with EDUC 410 or 412 required.

EDUC 464

Teaching Performance Assessment 4

0 Semester Hours

Students enrolled in the course will complete Task 4 of the Teaching Performance Assessment.

Prerequisites: EDUC 461 and 462.

Concurrent enrollment with EDUC 410 or 412 required.

EDUC 475Teaching and Assessing Students with Mild/Moderate Disabilities3-4 Semester Hours*

Principles and techniques for diagnosing learning and behavioral strengths and weaknesses in children and youth with specific learning disability, mental retardation, other health impairments, or serious emotional disturbance. Additional emphasis is placed on effective techniques and methods in working with culturally and linguistically diverse youth. Development of teaching strategies, goals, and objectives suitable for direct intervention, implementation of individual instructional programs, and evaluation of program approaches and effectiveness.

EDUC 476Policies and Issues in Education for Diverse Learners with Disabilities3 Semester Hours*

Survey of current issues and trends in the psychology and education of students with learning handicaps, e.g., theoretical instructional systems, use of research findings in program implementation, counseling, career guidance, and program evaluation with emphasis on history and practices of bilingual education, including organizational models and instructional strategies.

EDUC 484General Methods Teaching Languages Other Than English3 Semester Hours*

This class will address the communicative approach to instruction in languages other than English. Major themes to include: proficiency-based instruction, the competency-based classroom/curriculum, critical issues in the reception and the production stages of second language acquisition, strategies to support and achieve these goals.

Prerequisite: Admission to program.

EDUC 485Teaching Social Studies in the Secondary Schools3 Semester Hours*

This course is designed to provide opportunities for prospective teachers to observe, develop, and practice a variety of methods to create positive learning environments, effective discipline, and traditional and alternative assessments. Emphasis is placed on strategies to include and challenge students with widely ranging linguistic and academic abilities, diverse learning styles, and varying cultural backgrounds. Methods and content are closely tied to the new California State Framework for grades 6-12.

Prerequisite: Admission to program.

EDUC 486Trends in Teaching English in the Secondary Schools3 Semester Hours*

This course addresses the concerns and needs of future English teachers. Major areas covered include developing a multicultural curriculum for all students, creating lesson plans, examining meaning making strategies for reading, instructing the writing process, teaching grammar in context, looking at methods of authentic classroom assessment, and building classroom portfolios.

Prerequisite: Admission to program.

EDUC 487Trends in the Teaching of Secondary Science3 Semester Hours*

This course covers programs, guidelines, and practices in the individualization of instruction with emphasis on culturally and linguistically diverse student needs in relation to science and uses of technology; continuous progress curriculum in science; and uses of individualized science labs.

Prerequisite: Admission to program.

EDUC 488Trends in the Teaching of Secondary Math3 Semester Hours*

This course covers programs, guidelines, and practices in the individualization of instruction with emphasis on culturally and linguistically diverse student needs in relation to mathematics; uses of technology and continuous progress curriculum.

Prerequisite: Admission to program.

EDUC 489
Leadership Seminar I
1 Semester Hour

This course is designed to develop student leaders' understanding of the basic concepts of personal and group leadership development. Participants will define an issue facing student leaders and identify a theoretical framework to address the issue. The class integrates readings, written reflection, in-class exercises, and a group project.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor and concurrent leadership position in a student organization.

EDUC 490
Leadership Seminar II
1 Semester Hour

This course develops student leaders' understanding of the basic concepts of personal and group leadership development. Participants will apply a theoretical framework to an issue facing student leaders, create an implementation plan, and develop an evaluation process. The class integrates readings, written reflection, in-class exercises, and a group project.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor and concurrent leadership position in a student organization.

EDUC 491
Leadership Seminar III
1 Semester Hour

A capstone leadership experience for advanced student leaders, this class combines readings, in-class activities, and experiential involvement as a peer educator with research and creation of a comprehensive leadership portfolio.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, successful completion of EDUC 489 or 490, and concurrent leadership position in a student organization.

EDUC 492
Behavior and Classroom Management Techniques for Teachers
3 Semester Hours

Explores current, alternative approaches to classroom discipline, management, and organization. Focuses on how teacher behavior, the learning task, and the classroom environment affect student behavior.

School of Film and Television

School of Film and Television

Administration:

Dean: Teri Schwartz
Associate Dean: Roy Eric Xavier

Faculty:

Professors: Marilyn Beker, Mladen Milicevic,
Art Nomura, John Stewart, Donald J. Zirpola
Associate Professors: Susan Torrey Barber,
Rob Burchfield, Patrick Connolly, S.J., Steve Duncan,
Glenn Gebhard, Richard Hadley, Howard Lavick
Assistant Professors: Kathy Baur, Jeffrey Davis,
Jose Garcia-Moreno, Sylvia Morales, Rodger Pardee,
Luis Proença, S.J., Susan Scheibler,
Mark Evan Schwartz, Slobodan Sijan,
Charles Swanson, Kennedy Wheatley

Objectives:

All School of Film and Television courses, whether they be humanistic inquiries into the nature of the media or professionally-oriented exercises in writing and producing film and television, animation or writing for film or television, are aimed at developing critical discernment and equipping the student with the technical, theoretical, and aesthetic means to communicate these insights effectively to an audience.

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

The School of Film and Television offers five majors: Animation, Film Production, Recording Arts, Screenwriting, and Television Production.

The 12-18 units (depending upon program) of requirement must be completed by all students, including transfer students, before upper division classes are attempted.

Upper Division Requirements:

The requirements are between 24-36 semester hours chosen from the 300-500 level School of Film and Television courses under the direction of the appropriate school program advisor. All majors must complete a senior thesis project accomplished through ANIM 495 and 496; FILM 460 or 461; RECA 450; SCWR 420; TVPD 440 or 441.

Change of Program

Admission into one program in the School does not guarantee acceptance into any other program in the School. There is a formal application procedure for students wishing to transfer from one SFTV program to another SFTV program. This procedure is thoroughly explained in the SFTV Change of Program Application forms available from the School.

Change of Major

There is a formal application procedure for students who wish to be accepted into the School of Film and Television. The procedure is explained in the Change of Major application forms available from the School.

Applications are typically due on the last working day in September for the Fall semester and on the last working day in February for the Spring semester.

Application of General University Requirements

The University requirements for admission, graduation, and all general rules and regulations of the University as set forth in this Bulletin are applicable to and binding upon all students enrolled in the School of Film and Television.

School Curriculum

The curriculum of the School of Film and Television incorporates required courses in general education, major sequences, and elective courses which complement and enhance the student's major field of concentration.

Core Curriculum for the Baccalaureate Degree in the School of Film and Television:

American Cultures

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

First- and second-year students choose from any lower division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. Third- and fourth-year students choose from any upper division course listed or cross-listed as AMCS. A single course will generally not fulfill two core requirements. The only exception is a course that satisfies another core requirement which is also cross-listed as AMCS.

College Writing

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

ENGL 110 will fulfill the college writing requirement. ENGL 100 will not fulfill the college writing requirement but is required of certain students based on their performance in the essay written in all ENGL 110 sections during the first week of classes. A minimum grade of C (2.0) is required in ENGL 110. All students who receive a grade of C- or lower must retake ENGL 110 as soon as possible.

Choose: ENGL 110.

Communication or Critical Thinking

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection:

Communication: Choose from CMST 100, 110, 130, or 140.

OR

Critical Thinking: Choose from CMST 206, PHIL 220.

Communication Studies majors must choose CMST 100 or 206.

Critical and Creative Arts

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection:

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Critical Arts and one course from Creative Arts.

Critical Arts: Choose from ANIM 100; ARHS 200, 201, 202, 321, 340, 345; DANC 281, 381; FILM 210, 314, 315; INDA 100; MUSC 102, 104, 303, 365; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, 430.

Creative Arts: Choose from ANIM 120, ART 150, 151, 153, 278, 280, 350; DANC 163; ENGL 205, 311 (Prerequisite 201), 312 (Prerequisite 202); FILM 260; MUSC 105, 106, 107; SCWR 220; THEA 110, 400.

Students may not select courses which are requirements for their major.

History

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

This requirement is satisfied by taking one course from Western Civilization and one course from Contemporary Societies.

Western Civilization: Choose from HIST 100 or 101.

Contemporary Societies: Choose from HIST 152, 162, 172, 182, or 192.

Literature

3 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Prerequisite: Successful completion of college writing requirement.

Choose from CLAS 200, 210, 220, 230; ENGL 130, 140, 150, 170; FNLT 180; THEA 240, 245, 331, 336, 341, 346, 347, 348, 349, or 430.

Mathematics, Science and Technology

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

All students take MATH 102 and 103 and one other course in Science and Engineering. The MATH 102 course is designed to allow students to attain a level of mathematical literacy which will enable them to deal with the types of mathematical questions that they will encounter on a regular basis after they graduate.

Prerequisite: Demonstration of proficiency in mathematics by success in MATH 102 or a grade of C or better in MATH 111, 112, 120, 122, 131, or 306. The Mathematics Placement Examination is required before taking any of these courses.

The course in science and engineering introduces the student to the methodology used in that field of science or engineering. These courses include laboratories and/or demonstrations providing the student with hands-on experience.

Courses ordinarily recommended to students majoring outside the College of Science and Engineering are those numbered 260-279 in each department within the College. Courses in this series are specifically designed for the non-major.

Choose from BIOL 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 271, 272, 275, 276; CHEM 260, 261, 262, 263, 264; CMSI 261; ELEC 260, 265; MECH 260, 270, 275; NTLS 260, 270; PHYS 271, 272. All other lower division courses (at least 3 semester hours) in the College of Science and Engineering also satisfy this requirement.

Only one mathematics course will be credited toward the Mathematics, Science and Technology component of the Core.

Philosophy

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Lower Division:

Choose PHIL 160. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempted from the lower division requirement.

Upper Division:

Choose one PHIL course from 320 through 330.

Social Sciences

6 Semester Hours

Student must select one of the following options:

1. Select two courses from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105. Courses must be from different departments.
2. Select one course from: AFAM 115, APAM 117, CHST 116, or WNST 100; and one course from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105.
3. Select two courses from the same department. The first is selected from ECON 100, 110, 120; GEOG 100; POLS 135, 155; PSYC 100; SOCL 100 or 105. The second course in the same department is selected from upper division courses that the student is qualified to take.

Theological Studies

6 Semester Hours

Course Selection

Lower Division:

Choose from the 100-level series of THST courses. Transfer students who enter LMU with a minimum of sixty (60) accepted transfer hours are exempted from the lower division requirement.

Upper Division:

Choose from the 300-level series of THST courses only.

European Satellite Program

This program is located in Dusseldorf, Germany, and focuses on film in the European context—the Avante Garde, independent film making, and other experimental media. This is designed as a semester program with Fall semester offerings focusing on Film and TVPD majors, and with the Spring semester focusing on Media Studies for all students. Taught by LMU faculty and European film and television experts in the Loyola Marymount University tradition, the courses are offered in the form of master workshops, providing students with an exclusive learning experience. The close interaction with faculty that is afforded by this format makes the program unique. Students receive 15 units of credit by taking workshops and a German language and culture course.

The semester in Dusseldorf includes excursions and educational field trips to give students a deeper insight into film and TV production in Europe. Depending on the semester and opportunity, students will attend film festivals, visit production sites, go to film museums, and meet and talk with directors, producers, and others in the media field. A week excursion to Berlin and Prague, two centers of film production, will bring to life the theories learned in the classroom and will help to inform and stimulate students in their own artistic productions. Each student will produce a 10-15 minute video documentary. Staff and teaching assistants in film will assist with the technical and creative needs, if necessary.

Students with a minimum GPA of 2.8, who are in good standing at any university or college and, for the Fall semester, have completed the FILM and TVPD prerequisites, are invited to apply. The program cost is comparable to full-time residency at LMU and includes tuition, housing, breakfast and dinner, excursions, and public transportation within Dusseldorf. Applications are available through the Study Abroad Office in University Hall, Suite 1840.

Recommendations:

Students are encouraged to enrich their program of study with selected electives from the following areas.

Business

Students are encouraged to take a course in the issues of business. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Computer Skills

Students are expected to become proficient in computer skills. Courses or workshops may be taken to help students develop existing skills.

Foreign Language

Students are encouraged to study foreign languages to the intermediate level. LMU offers Chinese, Filipino, French, German, Greek (Modern and Classical), Italian, Japanese, Latin, and Spanish on a regular basis.

International/Global Studies

Students are encouraged to select elective courses that deal with international and/or global issues. Consult the Bulletin listings.

Study Abroad

A semester of international study abroad is also recommended. Consult the Study Abroad office.

Total Program

120 semester hours are required for graduation with the following distribution:

- a) a maximum of 36 upper division semester hours in any one department will be accepted toward the 120 semester hours requirement; and
- b) at least 45 semester hours are required from upper division offerings.

Students should consult the Dean's Office for specific policies applicable to the School of Film and Television.

Animation

Major Requirements:

Lower Division Requirements:

26 semester hours of lower division courses distributed as follows:

ANIM 100, 120 (completed with a grade of B [3.0] or better), 210, 220; ART 153, 154, 260; either TVPD 241, RECA 250, or FILM 260; and 2 semester hours of Drawing for Animation (ART 200, 201).

Starting in the Fall semester of the sophomore year, Animation majors are required to complete a minimum of 6 semester hours of drawing lab taken each semester until graduation for 1 semester hour (ART 200, 201, 300, 301, 400, 401).

Note: ART 153 and ART 154 are prerequisites for all Figure Drawing Workshops.

Required fine arts core courses:

Critical Arts: ARHS 200, 201, or 202
Creative Arts: ART 153

Upper Division Requirements:

25 semester hours from ANIM 310, 331 or 333, 340, 420, 430 or 431, 440, 490, 495, 496, 4 semester hours of Drawing for Animation, and one upper division Animation elective.

Minor Requirements:

18 semester hours divided into 9 semester hours of lower division work from:

ANIM 100, 210, and 220;

and 9 semester hours of upper division work from:

ANIM 320, 331 or 420, 333, 340, or 440 selected under the direction of the program advisor.

Suggested Additional Electives—Animation Program

Acting: Especially helpful for those interested in character animation, where the animator is the actor or actress.

Cinematography and Lighting: Useful for 3D computer animation/stop motion.

Computer Programming: Useful for interactive media and new technology.

Dance: Also useful for those interested in character animation. These classes will foster an additional understanding of movement, meter, and rhythm.

Design: 2D, 3D, and multimedia.

Directing

Drawing: Any drawing courses in addition to those required are recommended, especially for those interested in character animation. When appropriate (and pending approval of specific instructors), students are encouraged to attend additional sections of the life drawing labs. Other drawing courses may be taken at the Union school, ASIFA, and any number of other art academies in the Los Angeles area.

Editing: Recommended especially for those without any previous film background.

Music: As a source and as a partner.

Mythology, Literature: For understanding storytelling.

Painting: Also highly recommended for those persons who are interested in environmental animation, storyboarding, and background painting.

Perspective and Color Theory

Screenwriting: Useful for understanding the format of visual storytelling.

Sound Design: Useful for engineering, mixing, and using sound creatively.

ANIM 100
History of Animation
3 Semester Hours

Survey of historical developments, styles, techniques, theory, and criticism of animation as an art form. History and use of creative arts used in animation to form effective communication in film and video.

ANIM 110Writing for Animation3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to research and practice in creating and planning animated films and videos.

ANIM 120Beginning Animation Workshop3 Semester Hours*

An introduction to animation process: organization and integration of various creative arts used in animation; possibilities in style, media, technique, and equipment.

ANIM 198Special Studies1-3 Semester HoursANIM 199*Independent Studies1-3 Semester HoursANIM 220*Intermediate Animation Workshop3 Semester Hours*

Intermediate workshop in the art of traditional animated film production. Topics of study include digital sound production, motion and articulation strategies, camera and post-production techniques.

Prerequisite: ANIM 120.

ANIM 230Introduction to Three-Dimensional Computer Animation3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to 3D digital film production. Topics of study include: modeling techniques, image processing and manipulation strategies, motion and articulation solutions, digital production techniques, texture, lighting and rendering methods, compression technology, and systems for computer-created animation.

Prerequisite: ANIM 220.

ANIM 231Introduction to Two-Dimensional Computer Animation3 Semester Hours*

Introduction to 2D digital film production. Topics of study include: image processing and manipulation, motion and articulation strategies, digital production techniques, rendering, and compression techniques.

Prerequisite: ANIM 220.

Professional experience in animation. Animation internship. Portfolio and demo reel development. Vocational strategies.

Prerequisite: Senior standing.

ANIM 495
Senior Project in Animation/Pre-Production
3 Semester Hours

Practical experience in animation pre-production. This course centers on the animation thesis project. Development, direction, production of a sophisticated, well-produced film or project. Students are free to determine style, format, and genre of project.

The student must provide a professional copy of all senior thesis-level projects to the School of Film and Television in partial fulfillment of degree requirements.

Prerequisite: ANIM 440.

ANIM 496
Senior Project in Animation/Production
3 Semester Hours

Continuation of practical experience in animation production. Completion of animation thesis project.

The student must provide a professional copy of all senior thesis-level projects to the School of Film and Television in partial fulfillment of degree requirements.

Department of Aerospace Studies

Aerospace Studies

All University Colleges

Faculty:

Frances Dennewitz, Jonathan Jehn

General Military Course:

The first two years of Aerospace Studies (AERO 100, 200) are designated the General Military Course (GMC) for students enrolled in AFROTC. There are no prerequisites for these courses, and all University students may participate. These courses focus on developing individual communications skills, understanding the environment of the Air Force officer, and comprehending the historical development of the United States Air Force in the national security structure. AERO 100 and 200 may be taken concurrently to allow late entry into the program by sophomores or second-semester freshmen.

Professional Officer Course:

The last two years of AFROTC (AERO 300, 400) are designated the Professional Officer Course (POC) for students enrolled in AFROTC. They are designed to prepare cadets for duty as officers in the United States Air Force and provide the student with a working knowledge of advanced leadership and management theories and applications, as well as an understanding of the United States national security systems and processes. The POC includes academics, interaction with military and national security professionals, and the practice of leadership and management in a large group environment. Students not currently enrolled in AFROTC who desire to enroll as a cadet in the POC should contact the Department early in their sophomore year. This does not preclude normal enrollment in the class by students who are not cadets.

Special Notes:

All courses in Aerospace Studies may or may not count toward graduation, depending upon the student's major. Students should consult their Dean and Department Chairperson for allowable courses. Leadership laboratories are mandatory for members of the cadet corps but optional for students taking the academic courses as electives.

Scholarship cadets incur a military obligation upon entry into their sophomore year on the start date of AERO 200.

Non-scholarship cadets do not incur a military obligation until as late as the end of the first semester of the Professional Officer Course (AERO 300).

Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps Program

The Air Force ROTC program at Loyola Marymount University is conducted by active duty Air Force Officers assigned to the Department of Aerospace Studies. The program is designed to prepare qualified men and women for careers as commissioned officers in the United States Air Force. Textbooks, uniforms, and all other equipment used in this program are furnished by the Air Force at no expense to the student.

Air Force ROTC offers one-, two-, three-, and four-year scholarships. Additionally, Loyola Marymount University supplements some Air Force ROTC scholarships which do not cover total tuition. The scholarship recipient must successfully complete one course in English composition and one in mathematical reasoning.

The four-year program consists of two years of the General Military Course, followed by two years of the Professional Officer Course. Admission into the Professional Officer Course is limited to those students who successfully pass required written, oral, and physical examinations. During the summer between the sophomore and junior year, cadets are required to attend four weeks of field training at an Air Force Base to familiarize them with Air Force life. The Air Force furnishes all uniforms, equipment, and transportation. Students also receive pay and allowances authorized by current directives at the time of field training attendance. After successfully completing field training, qualified cadets enter the Professional Officer Course and receive $350-400 per month, tax-free, during the final two years of AFROTC.

An accelerated two-year program is also available. It consists of a longer field training at an Air Force base and the two-year professional officer course. Interested students should contact the AFROTC Department early in their sophomore year for application procedures.

AFROTC offers students expanded access to management theories and practice, exposure to industry and military leaders, and opportunities to comprehend the world political and security environment. All of this is in a small campus environment but includes extensive interaction with students from other local universities and colleges who participate in the program. Besides a commission upon graduation, completed cadets qualify for training as pilots, navigators, space and missile operators, business administrators, engineers, health professionals, intelligence, and many other management positions.
